HOME MISSIONS.

One Hundred and Second Annual Report.

The Board of Home Missions herewith respectfully submits its Annual Report to the General Assembly, the one hundred and second Report since the organization of home mission work under the care of the Assembly.

We mourn the loss of the following men who have been called from their labors in the Church below and have joined the blessed company in the Church on high:

Rev. SAMUEL H. WELLER, D.D
Rev. ERWIN D. WALKER, D.DSt. Louis, Mo.
Rev. John C. Sloan
Rev. WILLIAM WEBB PERCIVAL, Ph. D
Rev. WILLIAM T. FINDLEY (Indian Mission) Winnebago, Neb.
Rev. WILLIAM SCHILLER (Bohemian Church) Hopkins, Minn.

The Board records its grateful appreciation of the service these servants of Christ were permitted to perform for His Kingdom, and extends its respectful sympathy to their families and kindred in their sore bereavement.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

The last General Assembly took action directing the Board "to designate an officer to have oversight of mission work among the foreign-speaking peoples in this country in all the synods directly connected with the Board." In accordance with this direction the Board appointed the Rev. John Dixon, D.D., to give special attention to this work along with the other duties assigned to him.

The Board was also instructed "to co-operate with Synodical and Presbyterial Committees of Home Missions when such judicatories have their own home mission work." In order to secure such co-operation the Board invited the synods carrying on their own home mission work to send representatives to a conference to be held in New York. Such conference was held on October twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth. The following action was unanimously taken:

- "I. That all the self-supporting synods should establish missions and carry on the work of evangelization among the foreigners.
- "II. That if any synod has not the funds to carry on such work and cannot secure them, the Board of Home Missions should co-operate with that synod upon its invitation and in accordance with its plan.
- "III. That the Board should present to the General Assembly for itself and the self-supporting synods a full report of all the work carried on among foreigners by both the Board and the synods.
- "IV. That it is the sense of this Conference that the Home Mission Board should secure suitable persons of the various nationalities to visit, investigate and report upon this work in the different parts of the country; and also to organize such work, when requested by the proper ecclesiastical body.
- "V. That a committee which represents the Board of Home Missions and the self-supporting synods be appointed whose duty it shall be to prepare statements with reference to this Conference and to the need of work among the foreign population, and to circulate them for the fuller information of the Church.
- "VI. That the Board of Home Missions is requested to send out sufficient information concerning the needs of foreigners in this country; and to make known the fact that the Board is ready to co-operate with the synods in the work among the foreigners, and is open to invitation for co-operation in this work.
- "VII. That this Conference urges the Theological Seminaries of our Church to arrange for the training of young men of foreign nationalities as lay workers among their own people.
- "VIII. That the attention of pastors be called to the duty of seeking out young men of foreign parentage who may be put in training for the work of the gospel ministry, or as lay workers among their own people.

"IX. That the Conference commends the work now being done among the foreign-speaking peoples by the Woman's Board, and urges the enlargement of that work as rapidly as possible."

As by far the larger number of foreigners is to be found within the bounds of the self-supporting synods, there is comparatively little for the Board to do until called upon by synods unable to secure funds for their entire work.

We copy from the twelfth census the following table. setting forth the foreign-born population, classified by principal countries of birth:

Since the preparation of the above table nearly 4,000,000 foreigners have landed on our shores. The increase has been largely from Austria-Hungary, Italy and Russia, as appears from the last (at this writing) monthly bulletin published by the Government. This shows that of the 33,917 persons entering the United States as immigrants in February, 1904, 6,820 were from Austria-Hungary, 9,435 from Italy, and 7,009 from the Russian Empire, -more than sixtyeight per cent. of the entire immigration.

The following statement sets forth the work now being done by our Church among the foreign-speaking peoples in our country, not including the Philippines or the Hawaiian Islands:

While we are warranted in rejoicing over what our Church has done for the stranger within our gates, yet it is all too plainly manifest that we have not with sufficient seriousness addressed ourselves to this important work. Much as money is needed, it is by no means the greatest difficulty which your Board encounters in endeavoring to respond to the calls made upon it. The supreme need is fully trained ministers. The German theological seminaries can care for the German work, but apart from these institutions there is no proper provision made to train men and women to minister wisely and acceptably among their coun-The Board rejoices to be able to announce to the General Assembly that Wooster University is ready to give to young people of foreign birth instruction fitting them to be lay evangelists. Such persons, commissioned by the Board, could do a preparatory and most important work in advance of the coming of ordained ministers. To the Woman's Board might be commended an enlargement of their work with special reference to selecting and directing into missionary service young people of foreign parentage who show special qualifications for it. To all our pastors in communities where foreigners are found might be commended the rare privilege, as well as the supreme duty, of missions—home and foreign in one—and of leading their people to open mission Sunday-schools.

A year ago the Board called attention to a new departure. The Rev. Charles Stelzle, of the Markham Memorial Church of St. Louis, was appointed to a special mission for workingmen. We are now able to report encouraging progress.

Mr. Stelzle has held conferences with churches and workingmen's associations and delivered addresses on the relations of the workingman to the Church, in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Des Moines, Missouri Valley Junction, Denver, Cripple Creek, Joliet, Duluth and Chicago. He has remained in each city from a few days to several weeks. He has had the sympathetic interest of the churches he has addressed and of the workingmen in the associations where he has spoken.

It is believed that already the workingman has come to a better understanding of the attitude of the Church of Christ toward him, and the Church has been aroused to some deeper interest in seeking the salvation of the sons of toil and their co-operation in building up the Kingdom of the Car-

One of the good results is that in several of these cities the ministers' associations have appointed representatives to be members of the union labor organizations of workingmen and to participate in their councils. It is proposed to extend this work in various parts of the country during the coming year.

Our campaign of education and inspiration among contributing churches has been a feature of each of the last three winters. From their duties at the front and full of that conviction of need which is back of all eloquence, three home missionaries came last autumn to tell of results of past home mission service and of urgent opportunities waiting only for men and money.

Notwithstanding the storms and exceeding severity of the winter the itineraries of these speakers were followed with interest, large audiences under trying conditions often testifying to the Church's loyalty to its mission work at home. In less than seven weeks one missionary made about forty addresses. In scarcely more than the same time another made over fifty; while the third has met appointments through the entire winter.

With the approval of the home mission committees in the presbyteries of Westminster, Chester, Lackawanna, Rochester and Chemung, a comprehensive campaign has been carried on within their bounds. In addition to these, with the cordial co-operation of the pastors, other appointments have been met in cities as well as in country communities in the synods of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Largely as a result of this effort the home mission offering of many churches has increased. Forty-three churches have this year been linked to the firing-line by their "own" fifty missionaries, reaching probably twice as many distinct home mission stations, and two individuals have each undertaken the support of a missionary.

SYNOD OF NEW YORK.

The Board of Home Missions for a number of years has been carrying on work within the bounds of two presbyteries in the synod of New York. One of these is the Presbutery of Boston. Vigorous effort has been made, extending over a third of a century, to provide for the spiritual need of the comparatively large number of English-speaking Presbyterians who have come into New England from Canada and abroad. A good degree of success has been reached in these efforts. During the past few years the Board has been making grants to the presbytery of Boston in decreasing amounts, for the churches have steadily made progress towards selfsupport. During the coming year a considerable reduction is made in the estimate of the presbytery. Much of the credit for this progress is due to the untiring effort of the presbyterial missionary, the Rev. James Todd, D.D. Through his labors not only have evangelistic services been held, but there have been considerable accessions to membership, and the churches are encouraged.

Within the Presbytery of Buffalo is to be found the remnant of Iroquois Indians. During the past year a remarkable work of grace has been in progress amongst them. After many weary years of patient and prayerful sowing of the good seed of the Word a harvest has been garnered which fills the hearts of the missionaries with deepest joy.

The Rev. M. F. Trippe writes: "With gratitude to God your missionary is enabled to report that, of the twenty-three years spent in Christian service for these Indians, this year is the best of them all.

"There have been two memorable revivals, the one on the Cornplanter reservation beginning February sixteenth. Here are the descendants of the Chief Cornplanter, famous in frontier life during the dark days of the Revolutionary War. For several years the religious interest has been declining. We went there to begin special meetings in circumstances of deepest gloom. One of the elders had gone away saying there was no hope for a revival. The remaining elders were soon hopelessly sick. They had nothing but green wood, and the church building was so fearfully cold that one had to preach in an overcoat, and then the smoke drove the people out of doors.

"The people, however, wanted God's help and He gave it to them. The Spirit came to every home and touched every heart. The backsliders were reclaimed and sinners converted. Twelve were received into the church. The Sunday-school was reorganized, and twenty-five young people were brought to Christian duty and to a new life."

In the Cattaraugus reservation similar results followed the meetings. The Holy Spirit healed feuds and brought backsliders to duty and converted sinners.

The Rev. J. E Fisher speaks thus of the work of grace: "'We have a new reservation,' said one of the converts to me Monday—a man of influence. I have no time to tell you in detail, but it was wonderful and marvelous in our eyes. Some of the most influential men and women on the reservation were the subjects of God's redeeming grace. It was a glorious sight, those twenty-seven standing together across the church in front of the pulpit. Brother Trippe was with me. Twenty-two received baptism, and after the communion fourteen children were baptized. Nearly a dozen backsliders were reclaimed. Men were broken into sobs and cryings from convictions of sin,—oh, how they prayed!"

Within the bounds of this same presbytery is to be found a large number of Magyars of the Reformed faith. At the request of presbytery the Board has commissioned Mr. Bela Csekes, who has begun work among his countrymen in Buffalo, Tonawanda, and other places. We have great hope that the success of this movement will be both immediate and marked.

SYNOD OF ATLANTIC.

PRESBYTERIES OF EAST AND SOUTH FLORIDA. 1. Total number of churches. 37 2. Number of churches aided by the Board of Home Missions. 25 3. Number of missionaries. 16 4. Number of churches organized. — 5. Number of churches reaching self-support. 1 6. Number of churches asking less than last year. 4

Our home mission work in Florida is conducted in two presbyteries, the Presbytery of East Florida, extending principally along the eastern portion of the State; and the Presbytery of South Florida, embracing the remainder of central and south Florida. It is composed of twenty ministers, thirty-seven churches (including three colored) and a membership of twelve hundred.

The Southern Presbyterians have double the number of churches, and, with the advantage of location in the largest towns in the State, have four times as many members as our Church. Fraternal relations of the most delightful character have always existed between the two bodies.

In the healthful and beautiful town of Eustis the presbytery of South Florida, in connection with the presbytery of St. John's (Southern), is beginning a Presbyterian academy, which we hope may add to the ranks of our native ministry. The church of Eustis has already done nobly in this respect, having already furnished the Church four young ministers.

Our church work has suffered during the past year from a dearth of ministers. Eight fields have been vacant except as they have been supplied by the synodical missionary; but just now the coming of eight new men to occupy these fields gives promise of a forward movement during the coming year. Precious revivals have been enjoyed at Crystal River, Glenwood and Candler, adding to the numbers and spiritual uplift of those churches.

Conditions in Kentucky are changing each year. In the central parts of the State we are doing little more than holding our own. In the eastern and northeastern parts we are making decided progress. In the mountain communities population and capital are coming in rapidly. Large tracts of land are bought, new towns springing up, new railroads coming in, and the coal, coke, oil, clay and timber interests are concentrating the attention of capitalists in eastern Kentucky.

Dr. McDonald says: "During the year we have had on hand eight new buildings, costing $20,700. We spent about $10,000 on the field and our net increase in membership was eleven per cent. as against four per cent. in the older portions of the State. What we need above everything in our synod is a baptism of intensity that will transform each minister and teacher into one 'who watches for souls,' and that will put into our treasury at least five thousand dollars additional, every cent of which would go for new work."

In addition to what is done by the Board in Kentucky, the Synod carries on an independent work and in some instances supplements the grants of the Board,

This has been a building year in the synod of Tennessee, fourteen houses having been erected and some repaired or enlarged. Among these are schoolhouses, teachers' homes, churches and manses.

There has been a large ingathering of souls from meetings conducted by the Rev. W. J. Trimble, under commission by the General Assembly's Evangelistic Committee and by others.

The most prosperous of our home mission churches will ask less from the Board and will do more for themselves. Three churches have reached self-support—New Decatur, Alabama, Harriman First, and Bell Avenue, of Knoxville. Dr. Duncan says: "More men for rural districts are

Dr. Duncan says: "More men for rural districts are needed to occupy very important fields full of young people and where, after we have done our best, the salaries are small. For the development of the little mountain churches that have grown out of our day-schools we need to inculcate the absolute obligation, by the authority of the Scriptures, to support the gospel. The place to plant Biblical truth on the subject of giving and systematic beneficence, with best prospect of fruitage, is in the hearts of our more than three thousand youths in the day-schools of the Church; to do this we need a suitable text-book, carefully prepared for this purpose, with lessons for study in these schools."

SYNOD OF MINNESOTA.

3. Number of missionaries		104
4. Number of churches organized		11

The outlook in Minnesota is very bright, notwithstanding the fact that the demands for Christian effort were never greater. Our present number of missionaries is absolutely inadequate to meet them. We must be reinforced in every presbytery if we are to keep pace with commercial and railroad activities in almost every section of the State.

This synod has three great cities rapidly increasing in population. It has scores of mining towns and lumber camps demanding our attention, as well as a farming country that cannot be surpassed, the lands of which are rapidly being taken up. Homeseekers are coming with a rush. This is true especially in the northern part of the State. Preaching stations can be multiplied far beyond our ability to serve with our present force. Our work in the lumber camps is very encouraging. The Rev. Frank Higgins, supported by the Assembly's Evangelistic Committee, has been simply overburdened with work, having supplied as best he could, and with much success, twenty lumber camps.

The greatest drawback to our work in Minnesota is migration and immigration. Many of our best people are moving to homes further west, and foreigners are taking their places. It can readily be seen how this serves to disable our churches in reducing not only their numerical but financial strength.

Dr. Adams says: "It is not expected that the average condition, financial and otherwise, of the one hundred and ninety aid-receiving churches in the synod of Minnesota will show any remarkable change within the brief period of a single year. There are, however, in the past year visible results that show that our two hundred and ten ordained ministers, local evangelists and licentiates in active service, have not labored in vain.

"We had a larger working force in our mission field last year than in any previous year in our history. There were one hundred and four missionaries commissioned by the Board, three more than in the previous year and twelve more than were employed in any other dependent synod.

"There were added to our roll of churches eleven new organizations, with an aggregate membership of one hundred and seventy-five. This increase in our church roll is easily mentioned, but to describe the labor, the sacrifice, the discouragements, the long, fatiguing journeys through mud, rain and cold, the anxious days and sleepless nights involved in this advance would require more time than I have at my command. An army in the line of battle in the face of an enemy advances by first advancing its skirmish line, and, when the new position is secured, outposts are planted and Then the main lines move forward to partially fortified. the new position to thoroughly establish, strengthen and fortify it, while the skirmish line manœuvres and fights for still further advance. Thus it is that the Church advances. These eleven new outposts have not been gained without a struggle nor can they be held and developed unless the main forces of the Church are advanced."

SYNOD OF NORTH DAKOTA.

The year just closing has been one of advance in all departments of our work. Dr. Brown says: "Two churches have come to self-support, nineteen ministers have come to the State and thirty-two students have been employed, most of them only for summer work. We have organized twenty-eight churches, erected eighteen church buildings, improved, enlarged and beautified as many more, built and improved manses, and, best of all, there has been a good spiritual result in the work as a whole.

"Within three years we may be said to have added fifty churches to the roll and brought as many new ministers to the State and brought eighteen fields to self-support. It can readily be seen that at such a rate of growth, if the Church will give us liberal financial support, it will not be long before we shall have a strong self-supporting synod in this new land.

"Our work thus far has been entirely among those whom we call Americans, but my heart goes out with yearning to the Scandinavians who till so much of our soil. In our State are more Scandinavians than any other foreign people, and their children Americanize quickly and thoroughly and ought to be better cared for by English-speaking churches. We find by some experience that these people are ready to receive evangelical doctrine evangelistically proclaimed, and that by use of the right means strong spiritual churches can be gathered. As the Lutherans make little provision for English-speaking services, and the mass of the people have respect for the followers of Calvin, it would seem that there was an exceptionally wide open door to reach the children of these people, save them from drifting to the world and spiritualize them while they are being Americanized.

"For the coming year we need twenty-five or thirty new ministers, and appropriations from the Board to possess the land taken by the students last summer. In the new agricultural country the early settlers are mostly without money and are building homes and struggling hard for an existence. So we need liberal appropriations for the first few years if the ground is to be held and efficiently worked. If we had a Presbyterian institution of learning in our State we could soon add to the ranks of the ministry a list of splendid recruits, and much strengthen the cause by holding the young people who are being educated away from us."

The synod of South Dakota has continued to make progress despite the usual difficulties,—continued absorbing interest in material things to the neglect of the spiritual welfare; the less interest of the newer element of the population in evangelization; and continued considerable change of ministerial force, though to the latter there have been some very helpful additions.

Dr. Carson says: "Though our churches have not engaged in quite so many special evangelistic meetings, the numbers added to the churches by profession exceed that of last year, and the spirit of prayer is deepening along with increased sense of the duty devolving upon both ministers and members to be more intent upon winning souls. An increased sense of the need of a genuine revival, and concern to realize it, is apparent.

"We have had a slightly increased number within our borders and a very prosperous year in material things. The outlook is for increased immigration during the present year, many having filed on government land west of the Missouri River and others purchased farms of it.

"We need this spring no less than twenty-three more ministers who are consecrated, capable and adaptable, and willing to endure hardness as good soldiers of the Cross that they may win souls to Christ.

"During the year past the church of Ardmore, in the Black Hills presbytery, was organized with seven members, the only church in the small railroad town and the outgrowth of Sabbath-school missionary work done by the Rev. J. R. Currens, synodical Sunday-school missionary for Nebraska, but formerly a worker within our bounds. Ardmore has already in hand or promised enough money to assure a house of worship as soon as they can arrange to build it.

"We made some gain in the aggregate contributed to beneficence, and more gain in what we spent for congregational purposes, but still the gain was by no means proportionate to the gain in our ability, as per the reports of our committees on systematic beneficence, home missions, foreign missions, and so forth.

"Aberdeen presbytery, though having the largest number of non-contributing churches, was yet the only presbytery that made advance in the amount contributed to home missions; its increase was nearly eight per cent., while each one of the other presbyteries contributed less, from two to twenty-four per cent."

Dr. Sexton, our synodical missionary, writes:

"The work has been going forward in Nebraska with the usual energy and fidelity. Our Church has been holding its own in the face of all such difficulties as must be encountered. We have made encouraging progress along the line of securing ministers and having them installed as pastors. A very small number of our self-sustaining churches are now deprived of regular sanctuary services. Much attention has been given to special evangelistic effort, the effects of which are seen more in renewed spiritual life of Christians than in the conversion of unbelievers, yet a number of our churches have received encouraging accessions to their membership on confession of faith. The endeavors in this direction are being continued, and with hopeful prospects. Some advance has been made in the erection of new houses of worship, and in the purchase or building of manses.

"One of the urgent needs for the coming year is more ministers who are willing to endure hardness in the Master's service without demanding a large salary, because some of our churches have not reached the point where they can afford to supply their ministers with more than the common comforts of this life. The number of ministers in Nebraska is not at all equal to the demand.

"The work foreshadowed a year ago soon developed to such an extent that six new organizations have been the result, namely: May 11, 1903, Gothenburg, in Kearney presbytery, with eight members; May 17, 1903, Buda, in Kearney presbytery, with six members; August 9, 1903, Crow Butte, in Box Butte presbytery, with eight members; September 6, 1903, Spalding, in Kearney presbytery, with twenty members; September 27, 1903, Colon, in Omaha presbytery, with thirty members; October 18, 1903, Anoka, in Niobrara presbytery. Gothenburg has called a pastor. Buda is grouped with Gibbon, and is supplied by the minister recently called to that field. Spalding is under the care of our pastor at Clontibret, and will soon erect a house of worship."

The synod of Missouri has appointed the Rev. John B. Hill; D.D., son of the late Timothy Hill, D.D., of blessed memory, its synodical missionary. Dr. Hill takes up this work with zeal and affectionate devotion. We are confident that every home missionary and every home mission church within the bounds of the synod will have in him the warmest and truest friend.

Perhaps more than any other synod Missouri is interested from a practical and home mission standpoint in the outcome of the negotiations pending with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Should union be consummated it would practically so revolutionize home mission work within the synod as to bring quite a number of our churches to self-support, and regrouping would help others. It would also increase the home mission field of the synod very materially.

The synod of Missouri has had under consideration the matter of self-support. Favorable action was taken upon the subject at the last meeting of the synod and their final decision is to be given next fall. The Board of Home Missions is happy to encourage all such movements on the part of the synods throughout the country, believing that real progress is made when by more work and greater zeal a synod can be lifted out of a dependent condition into one providing for its own needs, and extend a helping hand to other synods less fortunate. The Board is not at all solicitous lest its field of usefulness should be thereby lessened. The country grows faster than synods can be brought to self-support.

We have had a good year on the whole in Kansas. While definite returns have not yet been made the main results have been gratifying. The evangelistic work has been pushed with vigor and there has been growth. Concentration of population in the larger towns and the consequent depletion of many of the weaker fields have crippled village and country churches very much, while it has strengthened larger fields in the towns.

Dr. Fleming says: "We are coming up out of the wilderness. Thanks to God and the great Church for the help of the past. Stand by us in caring for the waste places, and we believe that Kansas will soon be able to more than take care of herself.

"Throughout the synod, while this has been a very difficult year to secure available men for the weaker fields, the review shows that a little more than ninety per cent. of our churches have had preaching the whole or most of the year. The somewhat formidable array of churches marked 'vacant' in the Minutes of the General Assembly is not now true to fact.

"Five churches have been organized — Ramona, Dwight, Uniondale, Muncie and Bluff Township. The first three are in villages with a good country constituency and the last is a country point. Committees are appointed to organize three others if the way be clear. One of these is in Wichita and the other two are country points, clearly indicating that the great obligation in this synod is to push the work in the rural districts."

For several years the Indian and Oklahoma Territories have been amongst our most attractive home mission fields; the probability is that they will continue to be so for years to come. They are the most beautiful and fertile part of the southwestern country and exceedingly attractive to immigrants. Those in charge of our mission stations within the bounds of the synod have been diligent and energetic in endeavoring to supply the needs of the various fields where work has been begun and to enter the new places which spring up so quickly and grow so rapidly. The call for new work during the coming year seems to be greater than ever, and the Church should do its utmost to meet the important demands which are made upon the Board.

In the report of Mr. Hawley, the synodical missionary, occurs this interesting statement: "The banner church in the synod last year, in average gifts for all purposes, was Tishomingo, one of our youngest born, giving an average of $175 per member. Pond Creek next with an average of $60, and South McAlester with an average of $45."

If the average of the Tishomingo church had been maintained throughout the whole denomination, the receipts of the year, instead of being $17,561,377, as tabulated by the Stated Clerk of the General Assembly, would have been $186,808,475. Was the Tishomingo church in Indian Territory so much richer than all other churches, or was more grace given? However the question may be answered, it is an interesting inquiry what would have been accomplished if the receipts of the Boards and of the churches had been multiplied more than tenfold.

Mr. Hawley further says: "The past year has been a good one. It was unusually hard to supply our churches. We had at times as many as fifteen or twenty vacancies, and could not find men for them, but now most of our fields are supplied. We cover a section of country four hundred miles east and west, two hundred miles north and south. We have seven presbyteries; our territory is all new. Railroads are building, new towns are springing up, country places are calling for preaching. Many of our ministers now have two or three churches. Those with single churches have all they can do at home.

"Our presbyterial committees ask large things this year, but we feel justified in doing so when we consider that statehood is almost upon us and that there is bound to be a great flow of population into these two Territories for the next five years.

Ten years ago the Cherokee Strip in northern Oklahoma was opened to settlement with a great rush. Kay County was settled that day; two home mission churches were shortly started at Newkirk and Ponca City. Since then those two churches, or rather their pastors, organized the Blackwell Church, working this field together. Then the Newkirk pastor organized Middleton, a country point; then recently Gray Norte was organized by him, ten miles northeast of Newkirk. He will soon organize about eight miles east of The presbyterial missionary organized at Kaw Newkirk. City. The Blackwell pastor organized recently a church at Tonkawa. The Ponca City pastor organized a church ten miles east of his home. Aside from this, one Newkirk pastor three years ago organized a self-supporting academy, which now has a good building, about one hundred students, and a great future. So after ten years of missionary work in Kay County our two home mission churches have grown to seven,—three of them self-supporting,—and a self-supporting academy. This is the banner Presbyterian county in the synod, but others are following after. This shows something of the possibilities of this growing country. Oklahoma is not yet fifteen years old, but has --- selfsupporting churches, and Indian Territory, without even a territorial form of government, has ---.

"Most of our work, especially among the Indians and in the scattered country districts, is of such a nature that it does not make much showing numerically or financially; but great good is being accomplished by the Presbyterian Church in these out-of-the-way places. Only eternity will reveal the harvest. Earnest, faithful seed-sowing is going on."

Texas is the one State of almost limitless boundaries and greatest possibilities. Our work has been carried on there amid difficulties and discouragements which have sorely tried the hearts of the brave men who have been standing in their lot. The proposed union with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church greatly interests them. It would not only very considerably enlarge our field within that synod, but would make the united Church numerically stronger, and so put upon it increased responsibility. As in Missouri, so here. Should the union be consummated it would practically revolutionize home mission work.

Dr. Little says: "We have grown in Texas. The El Paso Church, so lately out of the hands of home missions, made a net growth of fifty last year. That means vastly more than fifty received, as people are there for their health and come and go. We entered our beautiful new church in Denison on the second Sunday of January and already thirty-three have been received into membership.

"There has been special growth in our possibilities. The talk of Cumberland union has brought us into close touch with several of their churches. Instance Lampasas; we had too many to abandon there and too few to regularly supply.

"The railway from Brownwood has been extended into McCullock County, and there have been wonderful developments. Farms have been created out of ranches, towns have grown up, hundreds of people have come in.

"We are burning a candle at both ends at Fort Davis.

Mr. Bloys is traveling in a buggy three hundred and fifty miles a month, and is doing two men's work where there ought to be three. But he asks for one and indeed must have him. He has a field nearly two hundred miles in diameter.

"Then the Bohemian work has reached a point where there ought to be a pastor-at-large to visit and organize Bohemian churches, together with German churches. This man must be fenced by rules, for a foreigner does not understand American methods. But he must be largely free to go and come where he thinks best. If Bohemian work is to be done in Texas this is essential."

SYNOD OF NEW MEXICO.

During the past year there has been a marked material progress in different parts of the synod, which includes the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona.

New mining projects have been opened up and developed. Large tracts of country, used in the past only for pasturage for the herds of cattle and flocks of sheep, have been settled by homesteaders, and artesian water is being found in large quantities. New towns are everywhere springing up along new railroads, and the railroads are being built even in advance of the settlers.

Towns not in existence five years ago now number their thousands of population. And, as at different points the Government builds the reservoirs for which appropriations have already been made, homes will be found for tens of thousands of settlers as well as for the present populations.

If this rapid development, if these country districts, springing villages, growing towns and enlarging cities are not to foster a mammon worship which will destroy all true nobility among us, the gospel of Jesus Christ must be preached from the beginning in every settlement.

Mr. Craig says: "Our work has prospered. During the synodical year, ending September thirtieth, over seven hundred members were added to the church, of whom at least two hundred were Indians. During the past five years thirty churches have been organized, and of these five are already self-supporting. During the same period nineteen church buildings have been erected, ten manses, and seven school chapels. Five years ago we had only nineteen hundred members. To-day we have over five thousand; then only three churches were self-supporting, now we have ten. Of our Indian tribes only the Pimas had their missionary. Now the Pimas and the Papagoes, as well as the Maricopas, the Mojaves and the Navajos, have their separate missions."

Mojaves and the Navajos, have their separate missions."

The work among the Mexicans is slow, but the foundations are being well laid. Wherever our American people go we must follow them with the gospel.

For the coming year we need more schools among the Mexican people; we need more true missionaries in all our presbyteries to reach the fields that are opening for the gospel, and need support for these men.

Special interest this year has gathered about the work amongst the Navajos in New Mexico and Arizona, and the Mojaves and the Papagoes in Arizona.

Amongst the Navajos the Rev. Charles Bierkemper has been busy learning the language, laying plans and now carrying these plans into effect. On account of the unusual water supply, a large number of Indians have located at the Cornfields, some nine miles south of Ganado, and to these he has been giving a good deal of attention. Two Sunday-schools have been organized with an average attendance of forty-five. The people are beginning to show a deep interest.

A mission house has been erected on the lands secured from the Government, thus providing a missionary's home and room for school and church services. Mrs. Bierkemper's school has been conducted with marked success.

The Rev. and Mrs. Claude R. Brodhead, at Jewett, among the Navajos in northwestern New Mexico, have continued their consecrated and fruitful labor.

Additional buildings have been secured, an irrigation plant has been authorized, rendering eighty acres productive and making possible a large and important industrial work. A hospital and boarding-school have been opened. The fourfold mission now carried on is abundantly justifying the cost of its establishment.

With all this in process, we are as yet only touching here and there the 40,000 Indians within the bounds of the synod. In New Mexico there are 10,000 amongst whom nothing is being done by Protestant missionaries, except what we are doing at Laguna. The Baptists, the German Lutherans and some independent missionaries have started work amongst the Apaches, the Zunis, the Moquis, and the Navajos, but the great mass of these tribes is not yet evangelized.

For several years the Papagoes in the southeast of Arizona, have been a source of anxiety. No one could be found to undertake the work of missionary to these scattered villages. Early last year Mr. Frank S. Herndon, superintendent of our Tucson Indian School, impressed with the need of the Papagoes, volunteered his services, was accepted by the Board and entered upon this new field. He has built a home for himself and his family in the Papago village near Tucson, and uses a tent for church services.

So already are seen signs of a successful work among this

A year ago we reported the opening of the mission among the Mojaves in western Arizona. The Rev. Alfred C. Edgar continues his work among this roving tribe, having been supplied with a tent with which he can follow his people and hold services wherever they may be gathered. He has also been holding service at Fort Mojave. The work is difficult and will be slow, but the missionary is full of faith and courage, and sends tidings of the first fruits amongst the Mojaves in Arizona. He writes: "My interpreter during the last few weeks has been living a Christian life.. He has given himself to the Lord and understands fully what that means."

There has been steady progress made in the home mission work of the synod of Colorado during the past year. Considerable effort has been made by the pastors and stated cumplies in the direction of self-cumplet.

supplies in the direction of self-support.

Dr. Kirkwood says: "The churches have been unusually well supplied with ministers, but a good many changes have been made and some of our most efficient brethren have been called away from us. We are glad to-day that a large number of excellent brethren have been led to enter this synod and to fill the vacancies.

"As is well known to the country through the medium of the press, our State has been the storm center of long continued labor difficulties. They have seriously affected many communities in which our churches are located. In every case our ministers in charge have maintained their church work and rendered magnificent service to those who have suffered under these untoward conditions. Not a man has deserted his post, and not a man has lowered his standard of truth and righteousness. Several have suffered financial loss. More have been made anxious because of inability on the part of their people to meet promptly their obligations.

"For this new year we have a clear outlook and large work. Some of our smaller vacancies need special attention and assistance. Outlying fields in portions of our territory for the first time are being opened to settlement and must be entered and the gospel given them.

"We need not more men so much as more money to maintain those already here and those that we may be able to call to our assistance."

Within the bounds of Colorado synod perhaps the most difficult presbytery for home mission work is that of Wyoming. It is sparsely settled and great distances must be traveled in order to reach the more populous places. The Rev. Henry W. Bainton, the pastor-at-large, has to undergo some serious pioneer experiences. However, he bears them cheerfully and is holding services and planting churches in every available place within his reach.

The Big Horn Basin has been committed to the care of the Rev. A. L. Berry, with the commission of a traveling preacher. Many Mormons have entered this beautiful and fertile region, and it is a matter of great moment that our work there should be prosecuted with fidelity and energy.

Since the beginning of our work in Utah the Board of Home Missions and the Woman's Board have spent large sums of money. The result as shown by the statistics reported to the General Assembly may not seem an adequate return for so large an expenditure of money, or for the service of the noble men and women who have labored there; but where in any part of the known world can a more difficult and discouraging mission field be found than Utah? If the romance of missions were a prime motive in bringing men and women into the work, Utah would furnish the romance. If hardships and self-denial and an all but forlorn hope would always touch the hearts of those who seek missionary service, the Board of Home Missions would be flooded with applications for Utah. Dr. Wishard has more difficulty in securing men for his field than any other synodical missionary, yet he is one of the cheeriest and most hopeful of all who lead our work. His nearly four score years seem neither to have abated his strength nor chilled his optimism nor lessened his readiness for every kind of duty. The Brigham Roberts agitation and the Reed Smoot investigation only make it harder at present to carry on missions among the Mormons. We are hopeful, however, that all these things will ultimately minister to the best welfare of the people and the progress of the gospel.

Dr. Wishard says: "You ask me for a statement of work accomplished during the past year that will furnish facts of success achieved. I wish I could sound a note of jubilee. I wish I could report great and important victories that would arouse the enthusiasm of the Church; but I can't do it. We are sappers and miners, and are doing our work in the murky atmosphere of the most dense superstition and in the face of a fierce and reckless fanaticism.

"We have thirty-six ministers engaged in preaching in this vast territory, which is twenty thousand square miles, larger than all of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and Pennsylvania;—just thirty-six men, all told, from St. George on the south to Solomon on the north.

"With more than two hundred towns untouched by our gospel message, we are preaching in our little chapels to small companies of believers here and there, who venture to assert their faith. And now, my beloved brother, you ask us to 'Sing one of the songs of Zion.' Well, we are singing and praying, and wielding the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God. We are holding the fort in the assurance that our Captain is coming; and that some day when some of us have fought our last battle, the Presbyterian Church, which you brethren are trying to arouse, is coming. It is going to be done sometime, somehow—God knows when and how.

"No, we are not discouraged, for 'There is nothing too hard for the Lord.' Our only word to the Board, and through the Board to the Assembly, is—Opportunity! Opportunity! 'For a great door and effectual is opened unto us, and there are many adversaries.' 'We walk by faith and not by sight' and are warring a warfare for God and our native land. Some day we expect to look down from the heights and see a goodly company that is to come after us, and hear them sing the victor's song. But it is not yet."

The synod of Montana celebrated last year its tenth anniversary. The Rev. Charles F. Richardson, the synodical missionary, says: "Ten years ago we had thirty-three churches, with 1,681 members, of whom one hundred and thirty had been received during the year on confession of faith. We had twenty-seven ministers and workers, of whom twenty were in active service and six were pastors. These churches raised during the year $27,368, of which $2,360 was for benevolences, $683 of this being for home missions. There were 3,485 in our Sunday-schools. What advance have we made?

"To-day we have forty-eight churches, eight being self-supporting, with a membership of 3,128, of whom four hundred and fifty have been received on confession of faith. We have now forty-four ministers and workers, of whom thirty-six are in active service. Of this number eighteen are pastors, twelve are stated supplies, five are Sunday-school missionaries and one the synodical missionary. We have now seventy-one preaching points. Our churches raised during the year $60,410, of which $3,734 was for benevolences, $1,203 of this being for home missions. There are 4,632 in our church Sunday-schools. We have thirty-nine church buildings, valued at $161,690, and twenty manses, valued at $39,550. Surely all this is progress worth noting."

Montana is a difficult field. The cost of living is higher than in any other synod west of the Mississippi; the distances are great and traveling is expensive, but the brethren have accomplished splendid results, as the figures and facts quoted from the synodical missionary clearly show. He says: "No synod has greater cause for gratitude for things done by the blessing of God, the co-operation of the ministers on the field and the assistance of the Board of Home Missions than the Synod of Montana. We have been enabled to do work which has long been planned, to occupy fields upon which we have long had our eyes, and to see large additions to our churches for which we have long been In no one year before has our synod so fully realized its great need and magnificent opportunities, and at the same time so nobly and so well met them. For a long time we have felt that a forward movement along evangelistic lines was the thing needed, and we have also realized that only systematic and permanent work of this kind would accomplish the results which more than anything else we desired to see. A plan was adopted and a system of exchange put into effect by which more than thirty of our churches received special services through our own men on our own fields, with no outside aid whatever. have more than met our expectations, and such additions have been made to our churches that our work has been wonderfully strengthened throughout the whole State, and the increase of spiritual life has been most marked throughout our whole synod.

"Then many of our churches last year made a forward movement toward self-support. One of our churches has become self-supporting altogether. Then we have made a forward movement in occupying needy and destitute fields, in organizing new churches on such fields and also in seizing new and strategic points. In the past twelve months we have organized nine new churches with a total of one hundred and seventy-four members, and seven of these churches were in towns where there was no other minister or no other denomination at work. If only one thing were to be said about our synod in the report this year, we would desire that this be the one thing said and emphasized, that this be the thing published throughout our churches, especially in the East, where the objection is so persistently rehearsed against the multiplicity of church organizations in the West.

"Now in the doing work of this kind, in the planting of churches under these conditions, it will be easily seen that we need additional men to minister to these churches, and that in their infancy these churches must have aid from the Several of these fields must receive the entire services of a minister, as it is impossible because of long distances to couple them up with other points or fields. Four are towns so large and growing that they must have the entire time of a minister. We, therefore, need larger funds than ever for our new work in appropriations from the Board of Home Missions, and we do not believe our beloved Church will say to the Board, 'There must be a halt to the kind of work they are doing in Montana,' but that rather will it say, 'We will put into your hands the increased funds for that kind of work. Tell those Montana Presbyterians to go forward."

The Rev. Dr. Ghormley, the synodical missionary for Washington, says:

"The year has been one of marvelous development commercially. Government land which has value for farming or timber has nearly all been taken. Lands which a few years ago were considered valueless are now being cultivated. Small tracts of desert land where water can be had for irrigation are eagerly sought after for fruit raising. The forests are disappearing before the invading army of lumbermen. The mines are giving up their hidden wealth in great abundance. Cities, towns and villages are rapidly increasing in number and population.

"What State in the Union has grown three such cities as Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane in twenty years? Two decades ago the present sites of Everett, Bellingham and Aberdeen were in the virgin forest, while those of North Yakima, Ellensburg, Wenatchee and Charleston were sage brush deserts. Walla Walla, Lewiston, Moscow and Vancouver were villages. Our settlements are permanent. Puget Sound as a commercial center is attracting the attention of the world. Washington already has three representatives in the halls of Congress. A fourth will be added soon. What part of the Church can have greater possibilities than the synod of Washington! What more fruitful field for missionary effort?

"Churches are more regularly supplied with preaching. No church in the synod for which provision was made last April has been without regular services part of the year. There has been increase in the evangelistic spirit among ministers and people. Revivals have been numerous in the mission churches. Work has been strengthened in the cities and larger towns. Advance in civic righteousness is apparent in our larger cities. A growing interest among our Indian brethren is apparent. The spirit of evangelism is among them. Edward Connor, the first Nez Perces Indian to enter a theological seminary, is spending this year in San Anselmo, California.

"Five new church buildings have been erected during the year and one purchased. Two manses have been erected. Five churches have been organized, a number of outstations have been established. A number of manses and churches have been repaired. Debts have been paid and a spirit of liberality has prevailed. The spirit of comity is growing.

"The needs for the new year are: A deeper and more self-sacrificing spirit on the part of ministers and people, and the development of the work already in hand in order that more of the churches may be brought to self-support. Eighteen additional missionaries are needed within the bounds of the synod to supply the churches and the new fields which should be occupied."

The entire synod has been in harmony with the keynote of evangelism. Where possible special meetings have been held and success has attended them. In some instances pastors have had assistance, notably in East Oregon. The Evangelistic Committee of Synod secured the services of a pastor with special evangelistic gifts. He gave excellent service in Moro, Enterprise, Joseph and La Grande. In all there were substantial accessions to the churches. Five new churches have been organized, all in destitute places.

Our field throughout the rural part, which is the main part of Oregon, may be illustrated by the following characteristic cases. One is the center of our work in Grant County. "It is sixty miles from the railroad. There is a church building and organization at Monument and several preaching places. We need a good man,—one with tact, courage, piety, devotion, and able to preach without notes or manuscript. He must be able to ride horseback and willing to do anything to push on the Kingdom of God. Such a man can take up an interesting work where there is no church but ours. The church is well established and now needs to be carried forward."

Another in Willamette Presbytery "is near the ocean, with two and perhaps three churches. Eighty-five miles from railroad on the Siuslaw river. The man again must be earnest and wise, with enough mechanical genius to learn to run and manage a gasoline launch. There are no roads except the river in part of the field. We have a beautiful launch, all ready to run. Climate mild all the year. Wet in winter. Lumbering, fishing and farming are the work done."

The special needs presented to the Board for this year's report are more money and more men. To-day sixteen are needed. The requirements are stated by Dr. Holt, our synodical missionary, as follows: "Be careful to get men who don't use tobacco. The use of tobacco is not acceptable to Oregon churches. The man must be number one. Free, easy, not excitable or frightenable; able to preach in a saloon or hotel or schoolhouse, or under the trees, not willing to go to mining himself; a devoted, consecrated man who will lift up Jesus Christ in precept and example."

Except in one of these new fields no work is done by any Church. One region has eighteen hundred people and no church; one has several hundred and no church; one is a mining district with three thousand men. We have not been able to secure the man for this last work, although we have had the money.

We have two synodical missionaries overseeing the work of the very large synod of California. This is a temporary arrangement, although we are not now in a position to determine how long it may be thought best to continue it. The Rev. Dr. G. W. Lyons tendered his resignation as synodical missionary at the last meeting of synod, and the Rev. J. P.

Gerrior was chosen as his successor.

Dr. Noble says: "In the part of the synod which forms my field the year has been characterized by an unusual demand for the organization of churches. I have tried to be conservative and to hold back from undertaking new work which there might not be funds to support. Nevertheless, in following up the labors of our Sunday-school missionaries, and in response to requests coming directly from new fields, I have organized since the first of last April ten churches with a total membership of one hundred and ninety. Two of these were in the foothills of the Sierras, four in promising railroad towns in the San Joaquin valley, two in growing suburban villages near Los Angeles, and two on the Colorado desert, where a vast area is being brought under irrigation and cultivation. One more organization in a mining town in Tuolumne County, where I recently lighted upon a 'rich pocket' of Scotch Presbyterians, will complete work of this sort for the year.

"We are oppressed with a sense of the great need for missionary work among our foreign populations. We cannot hope to evangelize California and leave the foreign element out of the account. And yet there are difficulties in the way which seem almost insurmountable. We can only pray for more missionary zeal for ourselves, and plead with the Board and our great Presbyterian Church to 'come over and help us.'"

Mr. Gerrior took up his new duties November first. In his report he says: "I believe good work has been done throughout our synod during the past year, but the results have certainly not been startling. A number of Sunday-schools and six new churches have been organized and several hundred members added to our churches.

"More men should be sent to the mining camps and to districts where the people have not heard the sound of the gospel for years."

PORTO RICO.

SAN JUAN.

Our work in this Island has had another year of marked prosperity. Important among its events is the progress made by the English Presbyterian Church of San Juan, organized a year ago and under the care of the Rev. Robert McLean until October, 1903, when the Rev. William Lloyd Roberts became our missionary to that congregation, releasing all of Mr. McLean's time for the native work for which especially he went to Porto Rico.

There is an increasing number of Americans in the capital, where there are four churches for them—the Protestant Episcopal, the Methodist Episcopal, the Lutheran and the Presbyterian. Of these our church has the largest congregation, the services having been so well attended as to necessitate the enlarging of the audience room.

The church is well organized, having in addition to the Sabbath services a weekly prayer-meeting, a Society of Christian Endeavor and monthly social gatherings which have been deeply appreciated by the American residents.

Mr. Roberts says: "Our needs are many, but first and foremost is a church building. We worship in a hall. Pleasant enough, but yet not a church building consecrated to the service of Jehovah. San Juan is the capital of Porto Rico; it is the chief city, the city from which are gained the most of the impressions of the Island, for good or for bad, by our winter visitors."

The report of the native work at the capital is likewise most encouraging. There has been some reaction of sentiment among Porto Ricans during the year and the Americans are regarded with less favor than formerly. But even this change of sentiment may lead to the furtherance of the gospel. Those who come to our services now come for the truth's sake and sometimes in the face of much opposition. Notwithstanding, the church has been growing. The average attendance at the regular preaching service at the native church in Santurce, a ward of San Juan, has been two hundred and sixty-five; at the Wednesday evening meetings one hundred and ten, and in the Sunday-school one hundred and fifty-seven. The number of additions to the church since April 1, 1903, has been eighty-nine.

A Spanish church was organized in San Juan in March and about twenty were received as charter members. It has a fine Sunday-school, the credit for the organization and discipline of which is due to our faithful teacher, Miss Annie

T. Aitken.

Under Mr. McLean's supervision services have been opened in two neighboring villages—Toa Alta, where Mr. José A. Lopez, a native helper, studying for the ministry under the care of presbytery, is employed; and Corozal, where the Rev. Howard T. Jason (colored) is in charge.

In San Juan, besides our one American and two Spanish churches, is the mission day-school carried on by the Woman's Board and doing splendid missionary service under its efficient teacher, Miss Aitken. Special mention should be made of the new hospital. To the aid of Dr. Grace W. Atkins, who was formerly our only medical worker, have been sent Miss Jane H. Harris, M.D., and two nurses, Miss Sarah Burns and Miss Sarah L. Bogert. The erection of three buildings for housing the hospital has been the achievement of the past year. The thorough equipping of our medical missionary plant is a matter of rejoicing in Porto Rico. As an investment for home mission funds it will pay large dividends.

San Juan being the capital and chief port of entry, a conference of home mission secretaries at the beginning of our mission work in Porto Rico decided it should be open as a mission field for all our Protestant churches. The special part of the Island designated for the Presbyterian Church was the western end, where most of our work is being carried on.

ISABELA AND QUEBRADILLAS.

Our northernmost stations there are Isabela and Quebradillas, where our missionary, the Rev. James A. McAllister, has put in a year of faithful work—and not without results. At Isabela a church was organized in June having now twenty members and one elder. This mission has had a heavy blow and the missionary an irreparable loss in the death in March of Mrs. McAllister, whose missionary service and Christian influence will long remain among the people to whom she had dedicated her young life.

AGUADILLA.

Passing on to the western coast we come to Aguadilla, where our church continues to exert a mighty influence, not only in that town but upon the region round about. In the three years since its organization our missionary here, the Rev. Judson L. Underwood, has received into the church three hundred members, all save two on profession of faith. This church has made good its reputation as a missionary church,—out of its poverty contributing last year about four hundred dollars for all purposes. The part of the congregation living in the country barrios of Malesa-alta and Montaña, about thirty in number, are making strenuous efforts to raise enough money among themselves to purchase lumber and zinc to build an inexpensive chapel to serve as a center of gospel light and influence to their unenlightened neighbors. The need of such a house of worship is illustrated in the fact that at a recent meeting the house of one of the members began to give way under the weight of the one hundred and seventy-five people who were crowded into it. A chapel located centrally in that populous district would be a beacon light to several thousand souls, and about two hundred dollars from the outside will enable the people to complete it.

At Moca a church was organized in October, four miles from Aguadilla, and in spite of the obstinate opposition of the priests. The church has two good elders who do much personal work. One of them is a merchant of good standing. He now sets an example to the town by closing his store on Sundays. He declares he sells more goods than

Mr. Federico Garcia Davila, a native licentiate of the presbytery of Porto Rico, has been the faithful helper of Mr. Underwood at Aguadilla and the regions round about, but more workers are needed. It is impossible for the men now there to overtake the demands on their time and strength.

Mr. Underwood writes: "The cheapest and wisest method for meeting this great and growing demand for help is for the missionary to have at his command a number of native young men students who shall be preparing for the ministry of the gospel to their own people, and at the same time developing their powers by laboring under the direction of the missionary. In the Aguadilla church we have a number of young men and boys who are desirous of fitting themselves for such work and who, with training, would develop into effective laborers, but who have not the means to go away to school. Some provision should be made at once for a Bible training school."

The Woman's Board has continued its mission school with two teachers as last year.

SAN SEBASTIAN.

At San Sebastian, formerly one of Mr. Underwood's outstations, sixteen miles up the mountains from Aguadilla, there has been progress since the arrival of the Rev. E. S. Lheureux last May. Tracts and papers which he distributes liberally are a great help. They are eagerly welcomed and he has never yet seen one torn or misused.

He has also been visiting Las Marias, a difficult station to reach because of three rivers which at times cannot be forded. No house there being available for services they have been held on the plaza with a large attendance, the alcade and his secretary proving very friendly to our work. Only its distance from our missionary and the difficulty of reaching it regularly prevent the reaping of a larger harvest in this mountain town.

MAYAGUEZ.

Mayaguez is the third largest city on the Island. Our work there under our missionary, the Rev. Milton E. Caldwell, D.D., has had the most prosperous year of its history. Ninety-one members have been added on confession of faith. A new and commodious church building was dedicated September 6, 1903, a credit to our work and an ornament to the city. Here and in the neighboring country we have four places of worship and four Sabbath-schools, with a total enrollment of more than four hundred pupils.

The Rev. Roy Cecil McAdie has been conducting the work at the Playa, the seaboard part of Mayaguez, and also helping in the work at Añasco, a town eight miles north of Mayaguez. It is the center of a population of more than thirteen thousand people. The church, organized in July, 1903, has a membership of sixty-eight.

The "Collegio Americana," by which elaborate name the mission day-school in Mayaguez is known, is enlarging in numbers and increasing in influence. Its corps of six teachers is a Christian force of great assistance to the church. Another teacher is at the Playa school and helps in the services in that part of the city.

Communities around the city are calling for missionaries. Three elders of the Mayaguez church have been active missionaries themselves,— carrying the gospel to many people, teaching Sabbath-school classes and giving public addresses to their countrymen. Two ex-priests, one an elder, and both full of enthusiasm for the Master's work, are members of the Mayaguez church. They are well known in the community, having served as priests in adjacent towns, and the stand they have taken for the simple gospel of Christ will have a marked effect.

Dr. Caldwell writes: "The neglected country districts, densely populated, are becoming very hopeful fields for our work. Our little rooms in the country near Mayaguez are filled with eager listeners and there is constantly a call for more backless benches, more lamps and larger rooms, so that the people may hear the Word of Life. What can we say to them? We dare not refuse them the gospel. They appreciate what is done for them. One man carries his New Testament with him to work that he may read it whilst resting. Our elders assume the great burden in conducting the Sabbath-schools and meetings in the country. We greatly need little chapels or inexpensive rooms in these densely populated country districts. Many of the best people of the Island live in the country and till the ground."

SAN GERMAN.

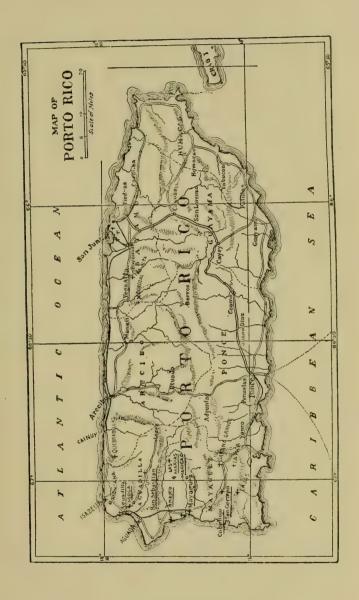

San German is an inland town reached by a short railroad ride from Mayaguez. It is the oldest town on the Island, lacking only seven years of being four hundred years old. Our center here is manned by the Rev. James Greer Woods, who has already reaped large harvests from his three years' service. We have an organized church at San German with a membership of sixty-four. A cottage prayer-meeting is held on the outskirts of the town every Monday afternoon. Every Monday evening services are held in a country settlement where about forty people gather regularly in a little house.

Lajas, a town about three miles to the south of San German, is said to be the strongest Republican community on the Island. Our missionary holds services every Saturday evening and a Sunday-school every Lord's Day.

From Sabana Grande, a few miles east of San German, and where the people are said to be more advanced in the study of English than in any other town on the Island, nineteen members have been received into our church at San German. A preaching service is held on Tuesday evening and a Sunday-school every Sunday morning.

At La Pica, three miles south of Sabana Grande, a chapel is being built by the generosity of the Madison Avenue Church of New York City and sixty-four persons have been received into church membership. Preaching services are held on Thursday and a Sunday-school is conducted on Sunday afternoon. A Shorter Catechism class has also been formed, one of the ladies of the congregation conducting it on Saturday afternoon.

Cabo Rojo, also near San German, is a center of religious enthusiasm. From the initial service the hall has always been crowded. Fifty-eight members have been received. Services are held on Tuesday evening and a Sabbath-school on Sunday afternoon. There are two elders and two deacons. The question of a church building is the all-urgent one there. The hall occupied is the largest in the town, but it is insufficient to accommodate the people. Half the audience is in the street looking in at the open doors and windows.

Mr. Woods has also visited Maricao, Rosario and other towns. He has eleven regular preaching stations, and is carrying on all this varied work with the help of only his own church members. He writes that many other fields are calling for workers and begs that help may be sent to him in the persons of missionaries and Bible readers. He pleads especially for a building for the San German church, which has become an absolute necessity if our work is to be strengthened from that important center.

CUBA.

This young Republic is developing rapidly. Even a superficial observation shows how promptly and earnestly the Cubans are addressing themselves to the work of self-government. The help which the United States gave to them at the time of the intervention and during the time of our occupancy of the Island is generally and gratefully appreciated. Very many of the Cubans also welcome the help which is coming to them through the establishing of schools and mission stations by the Protestant churches of the United States. The President of the Republic himself appreciates what is thus being done.

In addition to the work of our own denomination active missionary enterprises are being conducted by the Presbyterian Church, South, the Northern and Southern Baptist, the Southern Methodist, the Congregational and other churches. The result is that there are evangelical services in all the large cities and in many of the larger towns.

HAVANA.

The Rev. J. Milton Greene, D.D., who is the superintendent of Presbyterian missionary work in Cuba, has immediate charge of the services in the capital, where the mission centers, including two under the care of the Sabbath-school Board, are now four instead of three, as reported last year. The fourth station was auspiciously opened in Espada Street, in a densely populated part of the city, where hitherto there had been no evangelical services. It is under the direction of the Rev. Antonio Mazzorana, who formerly had helped Dr. Greene in other stations in the city and in the region round about. At the first service the room was filled to overflowing with fifty persons, a very interesting audience because of their deportment and close attention, while outside an orderly and attentive crowd filled the space to the middle of the street.

The mission school of the Woman's Board, Miss Mabel K. Bristow, teacher, has completed its second year with increasing promise.

GÜINES.

Under the missionary leadership of the Rev. A. Waldo Stevenson the Güines church was organized in July, 1903. It has four elders, strong and intelligent men, and an increasing membership now numbering fifty-seven. The Sunday-school is characterized by an unusual love of Bible study, even the smaller boys and girls committing and reciting portions of the Sunday-school lesson each Sabbath. An active Christian Endeavor Society has been organized and many of the young people take part promptly.

Under Miss Beulah L. Wilson, teacher of our Woman's Board, the day-school opened last fall is emphasizing its mission character and is definitely a feeder for our church.

There have been many notable conversions. One man, the head of one of the public schools, when our missionary first went there was an agnostic, utterly indifferent to all religious matters. His conversion can be traced to the fact that he brought his little boys to enjoy the advantages of our Christian school. He himself has come into the church with all but one of his large family,—all active in every good work.

One young man felt himself "on the brink of the precipice" when our missionary went there and a message of the gospel found him. He accepted Christ promptly and joyfully. His conscience no longer allowed him to keep his grocery, with its liquors and its Sabbath trade, and he has engaged in other business. He is devoted to the study of the Bible and to the doing of good works. He has a Sabbath-school on Sunday afternoon in his mother's house and longs above all things to become a minister of the gospel and a missionary to his own people.

Our work in Güines is extending into the regions round about. Mr. Stevenson holds a Sabbath afternoon service in a hall three miles north of the city where the country people gather in large numbers to hear the gospel. He has also opened a station at San Nicolas, ten miles southeast of Güines, where from the first the meetings have been largely attended, where a very strong evangelical spirit is beginning to manifest itself and where the people are pleading for a mission school.

SANCTI SPIRITUS.

At Sancti Spiritus the Rev. Herbert S. Harris last August organized a church having now a membership of eightytwo with two elders. The property we have rented was originally a Jesuit convent, one of the principal educational institutions of the Island. It is about one hundred and fifty feet long and one hundred and ten wide, two stories high and built around a large open court or "patio." This can be made beautiful with little effort, as it already contains a considerable variety of flowering plants and shrubs. Facing the patio on all four sides are the open arcades, supported by arches characteristic of Spanish monastic architecture. The room used for a chapel is about one hundred feet long, eighteen feet wide, and fronts on the principal park of the city. There are five or six large rooms admirably suited for school purposes. The missionary has fitted up one of them for a boys' club, where the boys and young men may be gathered from the allurements of the street and the saloons. Another room is now occupied by the school taught by Miss Isabel French, sent there last winter by our Woman's Board. Enlargement is sorely needed here as in the other schools. Additional teachers will be sent as soon as suitable persons can be found and salaries secured.

Mr. Harris has opened a second permanent station in another part of the city.

One of the most interesting features of our work is the holding of neighborhood gatherings in different parts of the city from week to week. They are largely attended by those who have never entered our regular services. Twenty-five chairs and a baby organ are sent to the place of meeting and seldom is the attendance less than fifty or sixty. Often a hundred have been counted, including those who, unable to find entrance, have stood in the doors or at the windows. Many of our regular congregation were first attendants at one of these neighborhood gatherings.

Mr. Harris has held occasional services in several country districts, to two of which, Cabaiguan and Tunas de Zaza, we are specially invited. All that central portion of the Island is peculiarly open for evangelistic services. Everywhere the people give him welcome.

WESTWARD EXTENSION.

The principal extension of our work during the year has been on the Western Railroad, running from Havana to Pinar del Rio. Last year two stations were opened on that line—Guira and Alquizar. To these the Rev. Evaristo P. Collazo has continued to minister with much acceptance. He writes: "I believe that the influence of our church is extending itself more and more, and as it becomes better known it is more highly appreciated. Many who do not attend the services indicate their sympathy with us, and in our visits we always find many who earnestly desire a genuine religious reformation."

In March of this year halls were rented at Artemisa, San Cristobal and Candelaria, towns of from two to five thousand people. An idea of the welcome that awaits us in those towns may be gathered from Dr. Greene's account of the opening services in San Cristobal and Candelaria.

At seven-thirty the people began to gather, and within fifteen minutes the place was packed, far more persons being crowded together standing than were occupying the fifty seats which we had provided. It was the first evangelical service they had ever attended, and at a glance one could see that it pleased them to be invited to take part in the service of Their faces glowed and many tried to follow the music. The order was excellent; the attention all that could be desired. Responsive as this people are, it was very pleasant to see here and there the brightening eye and the nod of assent. As we afterwards learned, the groups outside were very distrustful of us, and not a little in opposition to us and to our work was expressed in the adjoining café. But as the service proceeded, and they heard what was said, a complete revolution took place in their sentiment, so that on all sides favorable comment was heard. It is encouraging to see in the audience a goodly number of leading citizens and not a few mothers with their daughters.

"The Romish church in town is practically deserted, only a handful ever being in attendance, and the priest being looked upon with supreme indifference. After announcing a service every Tuesday evening we left on Wednesday morning for Candelaria.

"On reaching there we found the whole city alive with We found the house newly painted, with a expectation. fine new cement porch in front, and soon had everything in readiness for the evening service. Then followed a repetition of our course in San Cristobal. At the appointed hour the crowd came in such numbers that only a fifth part of them could be seated, and such a hunger and thirst for the word of God I have never seen exceeded anywhere. The packed assembly stood and listened, patient and reverent. There were about one hundred women present and a very large portion of the audience were the very best people of the city."

As a supply for the last named stations it is proposed to secure Mr. Martinez, a converted Spaniard of good education and address and great missionary devotion, who for some months has been employed by Dr. Greene as a colporteur.

Artemisa will for the present have to be added to the already too large field of Mr. Collazo.

If our Church shall keep up with the march of events in Cuba we must greatly extend our work. So far we have done nothing in the eastern end of the Island, which is bound to have large and rapid development.

Perhaps the most urgent need just now is for church buildings. Our influence in Porto Rico has been greatly strengthened by the erection of houses of worship. This must also be done in Cuba. Especially is a commodious church property needed in the capital. It will require thirty or forty thousand dollars, but we must have it. The standing of Protestant missions, not only in the city but largely throughout the Island, depends upon it. Accustomed as those people are to fine church buildings, it is difficult to persuade them of the strength of our Protestantism so long as all our services are in rented rooms. What an opportunity is here presented in Havana for some one to build a memorial more enduring than marble?

ALASKA.

As the facts concerning the resources of the great Territory of Alaska come slowly into public view it bulks not less but larger in the interest of the country. We no longer feel, as Congress did when Alaska was purchased, that the price was exorbitant, for the seven million two hundred thousand dollars paid for it in 1867 were more than covered by the catch of salmon alone in 1902. The Alaskan mines have sent to Seattle alone fourteen million dollars in gold dust and bullion—almost twice the purchase price of the Territory. In 1901–2 the total output of gold in Alaska was more than four times the amount paid to Russia. The fur companies have paid into the United States Treasury in the last thirty years more than Alaska cost us.

Meanwhile the output of gold, copper and other minerals is steadily increasing. Railways are being built, and there is even talk of at some time connecting the Aleutian Islands with Siberia by a railroad tunnel. Remote as that time may be, the time is now at hand when the Church should do not less but more for the development of Christian civilization along those stormy coasts.

The past year has been one of persistent and faithful work on the part of our missionaries and teachers.

SAXMAN.

Saxman, the first station one approaches in a trip to Alaska, has for its missionary the Rev. Edward Marsden. He has been successful in strengthening the Church and in helping the natives in certain industries which will enable them to have permanent homes instead of living the nomadic life of the past generations.

With his little steam launch, the "Marietta," he continues to visit islands fifty or sixty miles from Saxman in various directions, where small settlements of natives are found without any gospel message or culture except such as he is occasionally able to give.

The great need of that station has been a medical missionary who could visit these native settlements from time to time in a professional way, ministering to their physical needs, for which they now have no one to care, and at the same time bringing them the gospel message. The Board has just appointed for this service John L. Myers, M.D., a graduate of Park College and of the Kansas City Medical College. He enters upon his work in April and will have a field of large and pressing usefulness.

WRANGELL.

A few miles north of Saxman is Wrangell, where for many years we have had both an American and a native The Rev. B. F. Miller became minister to both churches in 1903. The conditions there have been unusually hard. There has been a serious diversion of people from the church, but all the services have been maintained, and the faithful little bands are not without hope of recovering the ground that had been lost. By the developing of mining interests in the regions round about, Wrangell is likely to attract an increasing number of people.

KASAAN.

Not far west of Saxman is the new settlement of Kasaan, to which last summer the Rev. D. R. Montgomery went from his station at Jackson. The people of Kasaan had been earnestly appealing for gospel privileges and on the seventh of June the Presbyterian church was organized.

The importance of this village consists in the fact that the Kasaan Bay Mining Company has extensive interests there. The failure of the company last October changed so newhat the plans which our missionary had for building, but he is expecting that things will revive during the spring and summer, if not under the present management then probably under a change of hands. At Karta Bay, only a few miles distant, during the fishing season there are gatherings of natives with whom our missionary is in constant touch. Sometimes they come in a body to the village in order that he may give them religious instruction. Mr. Montgomery writes: "The work has been very pleasant and reasonably encouraging. The native services have been fully attended and entered into with characteristic warmth. In the evening we have had an average white congregation of twenty or twenty-five, besides all English-speaking natives. I have reason to believe that the congregations would have been larger had there not been a general exodus during the early winter."

Another mining camp, twelve miles from Kasaan, is Hollis, which our missionary also occasionally visits, as well as Hole-in-the-Wall, ten miles in the opposite direction, where there are sometimes hundreds of men at work upon the smelter.

In view of these varied opportunities it was thought best to locate Mr. Montgomery permanently at Kasaan. Meantime we have been able to give only occasional service to the Indians at Jackson, but the Board has in contemplation sending a missionary to that field as soon as the right man can be found.

KLAWOCK.

The Rev. David Waggoner, our missionary, reports a very interesting year. He writes: "Early in June we held our communion services. Eight candidates presented themselves for admission to the church. Seven were received on profession and one by letter. In the afternoon a baptismal service was held in place of our regular Sabbathschool. Sixteen children were presented by their parents for baptism. This was the first infant baptism performed in our church.

"Christmas was a bright spot in our work. We had a splendid exercise from the Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work. This was added to with anthems and a few recitations on the Christmas time. Some of the ladies from the Fifth Avenue and Brick churches had sent us a large number of presents for our people, and a former schoolmate sent us four dozen Bibles for those who could read.

How I wished that night that the givers could have seen the joy of their brothers and sisters who received the gifts.

"Our children spend a great deal of time with their Bibles getting their verses to read in the Endeavor meetings. We have four such meetings every week. They bring their Bibles to school for the teacher to help them on their verses. Even the little first-reader pupils try to get easy verses. Our Christmas not only gave us a happy, joyous time but is bringing blessings every day.

"Our winter communion service was very helpful in a great many ways. Seven were received into the church on profession of their faith."

JUNEAU.

The American church has had a successful year. It is more fully organized than it has ever been and the growth of the town will make it a still more important station. The Rev. James H. Condit continues his faithful ministrations.

The native church, the Rev. L. F. Jones, missionary, has been strengthened by the improvement of its property and by the erection of a native social hall. In the building of this gathering place for the natives the Indian boys did a good deal of the work. It will be a center of helpful influence to the natives who, without it, were often tempted to frequent places ruinous alike to body and soul.

Services have been maintained at Douglas Island also, with a better attendance than usual and better spiritual results.

HOONAH.

Passing west from Juneau we come to the island of Hoonah, where the Rev. William M. Carle has been missionary for the past five years, and where by earnest and spiritual work a good native church has been gathered. The opposition of evil-minded white people has counted a good deal against the work there, as in other places in Alaska, but it has been resisted with courage by the missionary and with a good deal of Christian devotion on the part of the people themselves.

SITKA.

At Sitka the Rev. William S. Bannerman has had a prosperous year in both the American and native churches, the work in the latter having been especially fruitful. The regular Sabbath attendance in the native church has been the largest in its history.

The school has been large and special efforts are being made to develop it farther along industrial lines, especially in the way of subduing and cultivating some of the land around the mission. It will be a formidable undertaking, but it is expected to pay both economically,—in the direct fruits of the ground, and spiritually,—in the added training of the boys.

The hospital has been without a physician for some months but it is hoped this need will soon be supplied.

HAINES.

Our missionaries at this station of growing importance are the Rev. Norman B. Harrison, and Mr. A. R. Mackintosh, who is in charge of the industrial department.

The usual mission services have been attended with large interest. The dedication of the new church on November eighth was followed by a week of meetings which were very fruitful. At a conference held later the people proposed to band themselves together more perfectly by the appointment of committees for the various phases of work, giving every one some specific duty. So they have committees on membership, prayer-meetings, visiting, social, strangers, readingroom, lecture and entertainment.

How busy our missionaries there have been is indicated by Mr. Harrison when he says: "During the quarter Mr. Mackintosh has conducted thirty-four meetings with a total attendance of one thousand seven hundred and thirty. I have conducted forty-four aggregating one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two in attendance. Besides these I held fifteen cottage meetings with a total attendance of about two hundred and fifty.

"We are beginning the new quarter with the plan we have been working up to—meetings every night of some sort. Monday night is given to the social or entertainment and lecture committee; the rest of the week to gospel meetings,—two led by the missionaries, three by natives under our instructions; on Sunday are preaching and Sunday-school, with an evening service by Mr. Mackintosh while I am preaching to the whites."

The industrial features are being developed as rapidly as possible. The practical training of the hand as well as of the head and heart renders a needed threefold help toward the Christian development that the Indians must have to take their true part in this town of increasing commercial prominence.

KLUCKWAN.

Another point of which Mr. Harrison has general supervision is Kluckwan, twenty-five miles above Haines, on the Chilkat river. During the past year the natives have built a church and manse at this point, doing a large part of the work themselves. Not the least of their labor was taking the materials for the buildings in canoes against the stiff current of the Chilkat river. It was expected that the natives might contribute three hundred dollars' worth of labor for the erection of the building. It is now thought that five hundred dollars is a low estimate for the labor they have actually given. This is an illustration of the interest these grateful people take in what is done for them and of their disposition to help themselves.

Mr. Fred R. Falconer is in immediate charge of the work. He writes that during his absence last spring at the General Assembly several of the natives conducted religious services among themselves, becoming, as he says, more and more capable in this matter. The self-helpfulness of the people is illustrated by the fact that before the church was built the natives had raised money and purchased a large tent to serve as a temporary auditorium and also to enable the missionary to follow the people to their camping grounds, to which they scatter from their homes when the fishing season begins.

SKAGUAY.

For two years this church took care of its own financial needs. Fluctuating conditions of population compelled its return to the Board for the single year just closed. There had been a large exodus of people and the population was reduced from some thousands to about fifteen hundred. Notwithstanding, under the pastoral care of the Rev. James Thomson, formerly of Seattle, our services have been well attended,—the night audience averaging over one hundred, mostly men. There has been a steady increase of the membership and the Y. P. S. C. E. on Sabbath evening has had an attendance so large as to compel the opening of the folding-doors to the auditorium to accommodate the increased audience. The prayer-meetings also have increased over fifty per cent in attendance over last year.

The church has agreed to be self-supporting this year and is much to be praised for its brave work under adverse con-

EAGLE.

The work in the interior of Alaska has been subject to the usual fluctuations caused by the movements of the population hither and thither in pursuit of gold. The Rev. Charles F. Ensign and his wife have continued their service at this station, the principal event of the year being the organization of a native church. The name of the church is this: Tsheh-tut-thut-tlui (che-tu-thut-li), or Big Rock. It is the Indian for Eagle Rock, referring to the big rock at the edge of the town which turns the current of the river. The missionary expresses the hope that the church may be as the rock, turning the current of men's thoughts toward better things. They have one elder and thirty members. The missionary is making efforts to secure a good building for the school and the church.

RAMPART.

The Rev. M. Egbert Koonce, Ph.D., has had varied experiences in and around this camp. A comfortable little house has been built, so fitted up that in it the missionary and his wife provided entertainment during the long winter evenings for the homeless and lonely men. In this way they were able to get hold of many who could not be reached by the ordinary methods of church work, and who were thus kept from frequenting the saloons and worse places.

A reading-room and library has been maintained by the contributions of the community, which is improving in general character. There is now assurance of a permanent and growing population. Families are coming and establishing homes. This means much to the success of the mission work. A church has not yet been organized, but the missionary is looking forward to the time when this may be accomplished.

ON THE TANANA.

Both Dr. Koonce and Mr. Ensign have during the year visited the Tanana country, to which there had returned a great stampede of gold hunters. A recent report from Dr. Koonce indicates a most interesting and appealing condition of affairs in that region. He made the trip up in eight days and back in seven. He says: "The hotel accommodations along the way are not up to the modern standard, but it costs a dollar for lodging when one carries his own blankets and bunks on the dirt floor of a log shack. The regulation price of meals is one dollar and fifty cents to two dollars, but I used my own provisions wherever possible. In all, the trip was accomplished with so much more comfort than that of last winter, when there was not even a cabin along the way, that I felt as if I were traveling in luxury. The thermometer registered as low as fifty-six below on my journey up, but I kept a-going and suffered no more serious ill than a frozen nose and cheeks."

He says he visited not only the towns of Chena and Fairbanks but all the creeks that are tributary, and after a through investigation of the whole situation he finds no hesitation in predicting that the camp will be the best and largest yet discovered in the interior of Alaska, possibly rivaling both Nome and Dawson. The camp has been handicapped by the lack of supplies. He writes:

"If there had been grub in the camp at a reasonable price three times the amount of work would have been done this winter, and many new creeks would have been prospected. It is really pitiable to go into the cabins of some of these men and see what they are living upon. Many of them have neither flour nor bacon and are living on the rabbits which they shoot or snare and of which there is, fortunately, a good crop this winter. I saw a man offer his claim, situated on one of the good creeks, for a sack of flour and a slab of bacon; failing in this, he traded it for a shotgun and a hundred rounds of ammunition. He was 'dead broke' and the last ounce of grub was gone, and he figured that with the shotgun he could get rabbits enough and grouse to keep him alive till summer. Taking into account the long season that yet remains before navigation opens, I cannot see how the most of these people will live; there certainly will be a great deal of suffering."

Chena is on the main channel of the Tanana river and it is believed this will be the principal town, although Fairbanks, on a slough of the river ten miles from the main channel, is at present the more important. At the former place Dr. Koonce at his previous visit secured a location and put up a cabin for a church. Mr. Ensign, who visited the place a year ago, also put up another cabin on the ground which was intended to be used for a hospital. Dr. Koonce appeals for help for this important mission field.

The Board has received an urgent letter from a miner in that far-off region begging that the Presbyterian Church send more missionaries to follow the wandering miners of the Tanana and other Alaskan regions. He closes his letter with this appeal:

"Life among us is hard at best. Death alone is certain and inevitable. The pay streak of Eternity is as wide as the heavens and deep as God's love. The trail to those diggings through the snows of life is dim and wind-blown and has many branches. We have no guide. Will you send us one?"

The Board hopes that the Church will enable it this year to provide services for that busy and needy camp.

TELLER.

The Rev. Hermann M. Hosack has had a year of peculiar difficulty at Teller. Sometimes but a few people remained in camp, but both the preaching services and the Sunday-school services have been steadily maintained. The native service has also been held for the Eskimo people, the attendance reaching ninety in a room fifteen by twenty feet.

There is a good deal of development, however, along that coast between Nome and Teller. Where it will crystallize it is impossible to determine. The first sailing of the Nome fleet last summer brought about thirty-two hundred people to the Seward Peninsula and many were unable to secure passage. A railroad is being built from Solomon, on the coast, to Council City. The railroad company claims it will finally "gridiron Seward Peninsula." Meantime our missionary is watching developments and is doing the best he can to meet the religious needs of the scattered communities.

POINT BARROW.

There is not much to report from this station. The distance is so great as to preclude late information. The last letters received from Dr. Marsh and Mr. Spriggs were written in September and reached the office about the first of April.

When this report was written there had been much sickness and many deaths among the natives. The work has gone on with the usual difficulties, encouragements and discouragements. The total membership of the church at last accounts was fifty-four and the average attendance at the Sunday-school about thirty.

We were in much anxiety regarding the condition of our missionaries at that station when tidings came to us last fall that the revenue cutter "Thetis" had failed to get through to Point Barrow. The supplies which we had put on board therefore could not reach their destination. We were relieved, however, a few months afterward to hear that the missionaries had been able to secure supplies from a passing whaler sufficient to put them through the winter.

Mr. Spriggs, the missionary teacher, writes: "I tell you this is a terribly desolate-looking place when you have but a half sack of flour in your larder. But we thank Providence for returning a whaling ship that went in fitted to winter, and largely from her stores, at high prices to be sure, we have secured a supply ample for our actual needs for the winter."

Dr. Marsh writes, that because of the pressure of the long and trying winters on members of his family he must come out next summer.

Where is there a consecrated physician who will be willing to take up the work thus to be laid down at this remote and difficult station?

LITERATURE DEPARTMENT.

If the proverbial statement about the truth of statistics can be a criterion in our literature department, there is reason to believe that the interest in home missions in our Church is rising. Not only from the record of dollars and cents received have we cause to be encouraged, but the increasing demand for the printed page, for definite information on definite phases of the work, lead us to believe that Presbyterians are thinking more about the fields and their particular conditions and needs. These reasons enable us to report unusual success for this department during the past

The number of requests received by mail from all sources is 14,653, or 2,893 more than last year. Besides these 2,460 requisitions for leaflets and envelopes for churches have come from the chairman of the "Committee on the Distribution of Literature," and 665 churches have ordered leaflets on the regular monthly topics. The plan of sending new leaflets for monthly distribution in the churches has worked admirably, if we may judge from the demands and expressions of appreciation. During the year 665 churches have been supplied with 44,922 copies of leaflets monthly. In other words, our department has sent out to these churches for the twelve months 539,064 copies of leaflets. If the pastors who promise to distribute these "wisely" be faithful to their trust, we have reason to believe a great increase in the cause of home missions will result. The growing favor which is meeting this plan is very gratifying. The list of churches receiving these leaflets has increased 131.

It has been our Board's endeavor to aid pastors in the preparation of programs on the regular monthly topics for use at the monthly concert of prayer. To this end a pocket manual of "Practical Points" was issued and mailed to each pastor early in the fall.

During the year our department has issued 11,080,132 printed pages, which have been bound together in 1,529,175 copies of leaflets and pamphlets treating various fields and phases of home mission work. Of these large totals 4,764,772 pages, or 465,605 copies, represent the leaflet publications of our Woman's Board; and 6,315,360 pages, or 1,063,570 copies, those of the Board. In addition, 104,475 copies of leaflets and programs made up of 431,900 pages have been sent out for the Young People's Department.

Our Board has printed and distributed 310,000 collection envelopes, the Woman's Board 485,572, and the Young People's Department 24,000.

The "Lecture Department," started last year, has become an assured success. The stereopticon slides have been exhibited about 233 different times and pastors pronounce their use "an education" in home missions. Because of the many expressions of appreciation by congregations who have already tested them, we unhesitatingly recommend them and their accompanying printed lectures.

The increased demand for the Prayer Calendar is cause for genuine thanksgiving. Its faithful use has done much to stimulate interest and to familiarize members of our churches with the work and workers on the field.

"Presbyterian Home Missions," by Sherman H. Doyle, D.D., which early in the year was purchased by our Boards from the Presbyterian Board of Publication, and has since been placed on sale in our literature department at a reduced price, has had an increasing use as a text-book for home mission study. A "Question Series" based on the book was prepared for use in study circles.

Notwithstanding the encouragement which these statistics convey, there is a long list of 3,500 churches where, it is reasonable to believe, the publications of our Board have not been distributed. There is great need for the dissemination of printed matter. Our department stands for the extension of information regarding the work and needs of home missions. Not only is it our purpose to meet demands, but to create them. Cheerfully do we try to meet them, but we must look to the home mission committees in presbyteries, to pastors, to sessions, to Sunday-school leaders, to women's societies, young people's and all other missionary organizations, and to interested individuals, to aid us in creating them. This informing others of the gospel needs of our land, like all other Christian work, depends upon individual effort.

"Good, the more communicated, the more abundant grows." We appeal to those who are receiving and reading our literature to tell others about it, to "pass it on," so that the work may continue to grow.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

The following report from the Young People's Department has been received and approved:

That the Young People's Department is a live adjunct of both the Board of Home Missions and the Woman's Board, organized for the purpose of presenting the entire work of Home Missions to the young people of our Church, seems a fact necessary of repetition each year. The remarkable growth of Christian Endeavor Societies caused the advent of this department in 1893, and since that time the in-increase in correspondence, in the number of special objects assigned, and in the providing of missionary letters, programs and other literature with which the interest in Home Missions is fostered, has been constant, and the report of the Treasurer shows that contributions from the various organizations of young people form a goodly percentage of the regular income of the Board.

With this brief outline of the work of the department in mind, let us look more carefully at a few features which it is possible to note in detail.

Young People's Secretaries.

Our working force consists of 225 secretaries, elected by the women's synodical and presbyterial organizations to present the twofold work of Home Missions to local societies. This must be done largely through correspondence, and the special requirements for office seem to be the graces of patience and perseverance. This is illustrated by a secretary who wrote 125 letters during one quarter, enclosing return envelopes, and received five replies! But she writes, "I hope to be re-elected this spring, for I am just becoming acquainted with my societies." The West Jersey presbyterial officers provide their young people's secretary with a duplicating machine, with which she prepares a short news letter for her societies every month,—while the secretary of New Castle still supplies a monthly outline program.

Although a change of officer is sometimes desirable, the average of fifty changes annually in our presbyterial list is deplorable. In this regard the past year surpasses all records, for, in addition to the usual number, eight of our large-est synods have elected new officers.

Conditions vary to such an extent in the synods, that although general letters are frequently sent from headquarters most of the correspondence must be adapted to the individual requirements. We are composed of various parts, each independent in a large measure, but each dependent on the rest, sharing the labors and responsibilities of the whole.

SPECIAL OBJECTS.

The Board entrusts this department with the salaries of about thirty missionaries who are assigned among the synods as general objects. Shares in the salaries of the missionary pastors or teachers, and in the general work of a mission school or scholarships in same, are also assigned on application from societies, Sunday-schools, or groups of either. Although no appeal was sent from headquarters for the anniversary offering of the Woman's Board, a number of the societies have sent contributions. Money is also sent for buildings, repairs, etc., which is not included in our totals, but will be found in the columns of the Board's report.

LETTERS FROM HOME MISSION FIELDS.

The demand for our printed letters increases every year, and over 21,000 have been furnished from the New York office to contributing societies. In addition to the general letters from the Alaskan, Indian, Mexican, Mormon and Mountain fields, and the Sitka letter for the Juniors, several thousand copies of duplicated letters from special workers have been supplied.

PROGRAMS.

The effort to provide programs for the Christian Endeavor topics assigned by the United Society of Christian Endeavor has been abundantly rewarded, and an average of 15,000 copies of each of the five editions has been furnished. Several of these topics have harmonized with our own monthly subjects, thus making the programs of double value. While this plan has increased the volume of work, the results fully warrant its continuance. Supplies are sent free to those who apply, but our only method of advertising has been through the columns of our denominational papers and magazines.

FOR STUDY CLASSES.

While recommending "Our Country" and "Presbyterian Home Missions," we have endeavored to meet the request for a more popular style of study book by uniting with the Young People's Missionary Movement in the use of "Under Our Flag," and expect to present, in connection with this organization, a new book for use next winter. The promised volumes on the special fields are also under way. In the meantime, the suggestive outline studies are being used with good results, and we expect soon a set of juvenile studies, or question series, for Juniors and bands of children.

REPORT BLANKS.

In answer to numerous requests, some changes were made in the annual report blanks and we returned to the original method of sending direct to the young people's secretaries for the tabulating of their statistics. Separate sets were provided for bands and young people's societies.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

No money passes through this department save for entry and acknowledgment. The following amounts have been received in the office of the treasurer direct from the organizations mentioned or through presbyterial treasurers:

Christian Endeavor Societies	28,630.38
Other Young People's Societies	22,760.26

The last figures include amounts from mission bands and all other organizations of young people. By referring to the statement of the Treasurer of the Board, you will note the division of Christian Endeavor money, crediting $14,-315.19 to evangelistic, and an equal amount to mission school work, according to the arrangement made in 1896. Here is an argument for quarterly payments. eleven months of the year a decrease in contributions was reported, and a broken record for the Christian Endeavor Societies seemed inevitable; but the twelfth month brought more funds than all the rest of the year, and so much of an increase that we can again report an advance of over $300. in regular contributions and more than double this amount in Although the margin may seem small, it is "Specials." worthy of note that the Christian Endeavor Societies are the only organization of the Church reporting no deficit to this Board.

We have always endeavored to make the matter of forwarding funds as simple as possible, and have recommended that money be sent through the presbyterial treasurer, carefully designated, in order to save expense at headquarters. But there is no rule to this effect, and societies are advised to send their money as they may elect. But is it any wonder that our young people are often confused as to the channel through which their contributions shall be forwarded? There are the treasurers at headquarters, treasurers of the presbyterial societies and treasurers of presbytery (sometimes called "presbyterial treasurers"), treasurers of young people's presbyterial unions and treasurers of sessions; and all have a natural desire to forward and report the offerings. Many complaints come to this department because contributions have not been credited to the payment of pledges, but invariably the error is traced to a failure to designate the object; hence the gift was included in the general fund, for which the treasurer to whom it was sent is responsible.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

Although the importance of a more frequent presentation of Home Missions in the Sunday-schools seems imperative to those who realize that the Sunday-school is the strategic point of the Church, our attempts to introduce this cause have been rather disappointing, and contributions have decreased. The total amount from this source is as follows:

a decrease for both. This is partly attributable to the growth of synodical self-support. We are therefore sure that Sunday-schools are not losing interest in Home Missions.

In accordance with the recommendation of General Assembly two special offerings are asked, one in November for the mission school work and the other in February for the "work of missionary pastors." To illustrate the effort made toward securing a general use of the program provided (free of expense) for these dates, we would report the methods followed in advertising our last program. Under letter postage samples, with a letter from the Secretary of the Board, were sent to all Sunday-school superintendents, to those who ordered programs last year, to synodical missionaries, chairmen of home mission committees in each presbytery, all young people's secretaries, and the denominational papers and magazines. In return, 461 orders were received—from over 7,000 Sunday-schools!

JUNIOR SOCIETIES AND MISSION BANDS.

Although Junior Christian Endeavor Societies are constantly growing into "Intermediates" and many have "disbanded for lack of leaders," no appreciable difference is noticed in our correspondence list, and 4,500 copies of the special Junior and Band letter have been sent to all holding small shares in the work of the Sitka School. We recognize that one of our weak points is in the line of helps for Junior superintendents, and hope to strengthen this point of our work during the coming year.

Bands are auxiliary to the women's societies, and the objects assigned are either the salary of a teacher or scholarships in the mission schools, although, for the help of secretaries, a general object—the Sitka school—has been assigned to Junior Societies and Bands. Several attempts have been made during the past year to discover who is responsible for presenting the work to Bands, and while in a number of synods it is understood that the young people's secretary shall act as leader and present the annual report, correspondence on the subject leads one to believe that Bands "just grow." Once in a while new ones are reported, but a sentence like the following is frequently heard: "My 'Buds of Promise' have all grown into full-blown wall flowers." We need a contagion of zeal for missions—the zeal which shall make us long to teach children their responsibility for the evangelization of our country.

Notwithstanding the fact that each year brings its discouragements and the consciousness that much has been left undone, we believe this department for the presentation of home missions to our young people was never more needed than to-day, and never more hopeful, and this brief summary of the year's work cannot end without another appeal for greater co-operation on the part of all who realize that the work for young people is one of the most important and rewarding forms of service.

The continued success of the past is due to the enthusiastic and loyal support of our young people's secretaries, and they are ready to reconsecrate themselves to this sacred duty and glorious privilege. But they cannot bear the responsibility alone. They need you. Will you help them?

M. Josephine Petrie, Secretary.

WOMAN'S BOARD.

This strong arm of our service has closed a prosperous year which has been marked by two principal events.

First, the observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Woman's Board by the contribution of forty thousand dollars (to be increased to fifty thousand) for the building and endowing of a boys' school at Santa Fé, New Mexico. This great offering has been given as a grateful tribute to the long and signal services of the President of the Woman's Board, Mrs. Darwin R. James.

The second notable event of the year was the election and induction into office of the new Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Ella Alexander Boole, the successor of the lamented Mrs. F. H. Pierson. She began her responsible duties October 15, 1903, and the Board wishes for her a happy and useful career in the great work to which she is called.

The Annual Report of the Woman's Board has been received and approved, and is herewith presented:

The completion of twenty-five years of effective service of the Woman's Board of Home Missions is cause for thanksgiving. We bring praises to our God for His wondrous leading during all the years; for the opportunities to advance His cause through the evangelizing agency of the mission school; for the lives changed through the power of Christ; for homes brightened because the light of God's love has shined upon them; for entire communities redeemed by the same power; and for the blessing that has come to the women of our Church because God has used them in the work of American evangelization.

It is fitting that we pause at the close of this quarter century of effort to review the beginnings of the work and recount some of its successes.

As early as 1870 a conference was held in Chicago between Dr. Henry Kendall, Secretary of the Board of Home Missions, and others, having reference to the organization of the women of the Church for home missionary work. The missionaries sent out by the Board of Home Missions found their work among the exceptional populations (Indians, Mexicans and Mormons) ineffective without the mission school, therefore the women of the Church were urged to organize, in order to undertake the support of this work.

The General Assembly of 1875 recommended "the organization of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, with auxiliary societies, under the advice and counsel of the Board of Home Missions, or its officers." At a meeting of the Board of Home Missions, December 18, 1877, the school work among the exceptional populations was formally under-The first teachers were commissioned by the Board December 24, 1877, sixteen, with salaries amounting to $5,400, which amount it was expected the women of the Church would contribute. From this time the work increased rapidly, and a general or national Woman's Home Missionary Society became a necessity. In response to this need a convention of women interested in home missions was called during the session of the General Assembly, at Pittsburgh, in 1878. Of the original twelve members appointed at that meeting the following are still living: Mrs. D. M. Miller, Mrs. J. F. Kendall, Mrs. O. E. Huntington, Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Boyd.

The Board of Home Missions, at its meeting, October 7, 1878, suggested various objects for which women should work, and also that the committees of the synods, as soon as possible after their appointment, show their sympathy and co-operation by the appointment of a general Executive Committee, to be their organ of communication with the Board. In response to these suggestions a call was issued, and on December 12, 1878, the Synodical Committees met in the Bible House in New York and organized "The Woman's Executive Committee of Home Missions," and adopted a series of plans and regulations for work. The first meeting of this new committee was held December 17, 1878, at the Mission House, 23 Centre Street, New York City, N. Y., and the work inaugurated which has since grown to its present proportions.

In May, 1897, the name was changed from Woman's Executive Committee to Woman's Board of Home Missions, without changing in any respect the scope or nature of the work, or the relations of the organization to the Board of Home Missions or to the General Assembly.

AUTHORITY FOR THE WORK.

In the report before the General Assembly of 1881, the following paragraph thus condenses 'all previous actions: "This work among the Mormons, Mexicans, and Indians is exceptional. The women, as a whole, have never taken any marked share in home missions, except in the preparation of boxes to add to the comfort of home missionary families. Let our women, then, assume the work to them so strikingly appropriate, and support the mission schools called for."

In 1886 General Assembly enlarged the field by authorizing mission school work amongst the Mountaineers of the South.

In 1895 the field was still further enlarged by authorizing work among the people of foreign tongues in the great cities, the mining districts of Pennsylvania and the West.

At this same session they were also authorized to commission women other than teachers to do missionary work in connection with the homes of the mountain people of the South, and wherever similar work might be demanded.

This opened the way for the appointment of Bible readers and field matrons.

In 1897 a resolution was adopted as follows: "That the Assembly commends most heartily the efforts and rejoices in the success of the Woman's Executive Committee, and that it is particularly gratified that they have not only done so well in their school work among the exceptional populations, but also that they have not neglected to maintain the preaching of the gospel by missionaries laboring in the school districts. And in view of the great need for preaching of the gospel in many fields, it is asked that the Executive Committee, if possible, increase their efforts in this direction."

This resolution encouraged the Woman's Board to relieve the Board of Home Missions of the salaries of the missionaries in Southeastern Alaska.

From the beginning it seemed to be the peculiar province of the women of the Church to carry on the primary school among the exceptional people. In the first annual report, 1879, the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Haines, says: "We desire to call special attention to what can be done by and for the children, the boys as well as the girls. Let it be a distinctive part of our woman's work to train them into intelligent Christian patriotism."

As mission schools became successful, and there was a demand for advanced work, God in His providence made it clear that it was His will and for His glory that higher educational institutions be established. There are now in successful operation not less than twelve schools in which academic work is done; also one college, one collegiate institute and one normal and collegiate institute, all of which, with one exception, have grown out of the little mission school.

In the Indian field, for whose people the Church had made no other provision for supplying the churches with a competent native ministry, there is a class, instituted by Miss Sue McBeth and continued by her sister, Miss Kate McBeth, in which young men are trained for elders and evangelists, and from which have come, already, more than half a score of ordained ministers. A similar one has been organized for the purpose of preparing Mexican young men for preaching the gospel to their own people.

Many of the public schools of the West and South are now in charge of men and women who were trained in the mission schools. Native evangelists carry the gospel to their own people, as witness James Hayes, the Nez Perce, preaching to various tribes, the result of which has been the organization of two churches.

When Porto Rico became a part of the United States, and by arrangement with the Foreign Board Cuba became home missionary territory, there was the same call for the mission school to go before and supplement the work of the missionaries.

To help the people, by showing them how to help themselves, and at the same time provide leaders along Christian, educational and industrial lines has been and is the aim of the Woman's Board.

THE FIELD.

The forces at work upon the field, teachers, missionaries, evangelists, Bible readers and medical missionaries, to whom we look for the carrying on of the work, are a noble band of self-denying Christian men and women. They are found in the one hundred and eighty-three missions and mission schools and in the 486 missionaries and teachers located among the exceptional people of our country. By these we send the gospel to the children and indirectly to thousands of their parents and friends. The statistical report shows how the stations are distributed in the various fields:—

In addition there are two commissioned speakers.

Our societies have contributed for the support of seven schools and one hundred and twenty-two teachers under the Freedmen's Board, details of which appear in the report of the Secretary of that department.

A REVIEW OF THE YEAR.

We rejoice that the hospital at San Juan, Porto Rico, is finished, and it was formally dedicated February twenty-sixth. The three buildings, the dispensary, the administration building, and the charity building are beautifully located within sound of the sea. The two physicians, their corps of efficient nurses, and the training class of native nurses, bear constant testimony to the missionary zeal of Presbyterian women, but, as the Scriptures are read and prayer offered each morning in the presence of the waiting people who throng the dispensary, we are sure that the ministry to the body is but the beginning of the ministry to souls diseased.

We are pleased to report also that the hospital at Jewett, New Mexico, has been opened, and that our medical mission-

Of the new work among the Papagoes we speak with thanksgiving, and for it we ask your prayers.

We rejoice that Pierson Hall, at Albuquerque, New Mexico, is completed, having been dedicated March 25, 1904, and provision made for fifty additional students among the Mexicans. The Evangelistic Training Class in connection with this school continues its usefulness, and promises rich results in Christian workers.

The need for a school for Mexican boys at Santa Fé. New Mexico, has been persistently brought to the attention of the women of the Church this past year in connection with the anniversary fund, and we rejoice that about $40,000 has been collected with which to build, equip and endow this school. It will be named the "Mary E. James School," in honor of the beloved and honored President of the Woman's Mrs. James has been officially connected with our organization since 1882, and its president since 1885. She has given to the Board not only the best years of her life but her best efforts, sparing neither money, time nor service, and we commemorate these facts by this permanent, living testimonial of our appreciation. The great need for this school commends itself to all who know the situation, and we are convinced that it will more than double the efficiency of the school work already being done in Santa Fé. We hope that the women of the Church will continue to contribute the funds until the entire amount, $50,000, is secured, so that in no sense will the school become a financial burden to the Woman's Board.

In the Mormon field we are glad to report steady advancement along the line of the academies, all being obliged to turn away pupils for lack of room and equipment. There is no field where the day-school teacher encounters more difficulties and greater perplexities, but undaunted by all these our missionary teachers continue their work.

Without doubt the agitation in regard to the unseating of Senator Smoot has increased the opposition to our schools, and lessened the attendance, but we who are doing God's work must not grow disheartened.

The mission schools, with the Sabbath-schools, are beacon lights in the midst of a perverted religion, and often the only influence against Mormonism. Let us pray earnestly for our teachers and their work.

In all the Mountain field there is constant demand and appreciation of the school work, but the special plea now is for ministers to continue the work. We cannot do better than to quote from the appeal from French Broad presbytery for additional workers: "The success that has attended the mission school work in the mountains is so remarkable that the Christian public regard it as phenomenal, and it is a question as to whether mission schools in the whole history of mission school work have been so signally blessed, influencing to a wide extent the whole sixteen mountain counties comprising the region lying west of the Blue Ridge and extending to the State line. Children in large numbers have been touched by our Christian teachers.

"The influence of the school has overflowed into the home, and parents have become anxious to share in the blessing that has come to their children. The Sabbath-school grows out of the day-school, with the teacher for superintendent and Bible class instructor.

"We must erect the church on the foundation of the schoolhouse, and no other body south of Mason and Dixon has such prestige or wide opportunity. To the end that our cause may spread, we should realize that the time has come when our evangelistic work must be more vigorously prosecuted, when more reapers must be put into the field which we have so diligently tilled and seeded, and which stands open for the ingathering." This is followed by an earnest appeal for three additional ministers in French Broad presbytery. We are glad to report that one salary has been pledged and almost the whole of a second.

There is no subject on which there is needed more thought and prayer than that of work among Foreign-Speaking People, and our societies are intelligently studying the problem. Kindergartens for the little children, and Bible readers for work in the homes, are the means employed in Chicago, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and Wisconsin. In Philadelphia the work is among the Italians, and the marvelous growth of the new Italian Presbyterian Church is a living testimony to the power of God. In other parts of Pennsylvania efforts are made to reach miners of all nationalities.

To Americanize as well as evangelize the thousands of immigrants that come to our shores each year is a part of the mission of the Church, and we have scarcely made a beginning.

In Porto Rico our schools are full to overflowing, native Bible readers being commissioned at Mayaguez and Isabela to supplement the work of the school and the church. A new school has been successfully opened at Añasco.

In Cuba we report a new school at Sancti Spiritus and a demand in each place for an additional teacher. Other places are calling for the mission school, and the Woman's Board only waits that the funds may be pledged before entering these open doors.

INDUSTRIAL WORK.

To be of the greatest help to the exceptional peoples, the policy has been to train the heart, the head and the hands. Christian influences through the prayer-meeting and Sabbath-school, under the blessing of God, touch the hearts. Instruction in the usual branches taught in school train the For the hand we have introduced domestic science and sewing for the girls, and in the Laurel district of North Carolina the cottage industries have been revived. For the boys farming, gardening, carpentry, shoemaking and kindred industries are encouraged. This year has brought enlargement along industrial lines. At Haines, Alaska, a teacher in gardening and farming has been employed; at Sitka a logging outfit has been purchased, and the boys will be taught how to clear the land and get out lumber; at Wolf Point, Montana, a set of carpenters' tools has been purchased, so that without extra expense to the Board the boys will be taught the beginning of carpentry.

In every case the aim has been to prepare the boys and girls to become useful men and women, and the industrial training is such as will help them to lift their own people to a higher plane.

RESULTS.

With gratitude to God we record the fact that seven new churches have been organized this year as the direct fruit of the school work, making a total of one hundred and five church organizations in the quarter century.

The presence and power of the Holy Spirit has been marked in the schools during the year, and especially so in the work among foreign-speaking people, and with profound thanksgiving to God we report that 1,153 souls have been born into the kingdom.

Young People's Department.

The Young People's Department, carried on jointly by the Assembly's Board and the Woman's Board, continues its usefulness, and is a means of enlisting the Christian Endeavor Societies in Home Missionary work. By means of letters the young people are kept in touch with the special fields to which they are contributing, and programs are furnished for the home mission topics in the Endeavor Societies. Young people are urged to attend presbyterial meetings and become actively interested not only in the work of organization but in the work on the field. Systematic contributions, even though the amounts be small, are emphasized, that the young people may have a part in the evangelization of America. The total amount of contributions from C. E.

Societies is $21,407.60, which amount is equally divided between the Assembly's Board and the Woman's Board.

The program for the Sunday preceding the twenty-second of February was prepared by the Secretary of this department, and the day was generally observed.

Through this department, also, the formation of study classes is urged, and will be pushed more vigorously another year by means of the special books that are being prepared.

LITERATURE DEPARTMENT.

The total receipts of our literature department for the year amount to $3,852.16, an increase of $1,122 over the receipts reported last year. Of this sum $2,750.96 was from the sale of literature published by our Woman's Board.

The receipts from the sale of the Prayer Calendar during the year reached $852.02. Being a joint publication, this amount was divided, half being deposited with the Treasurer of each Board. From the rental of stereopticon slides and sale of printed lectures $334.97 has been received and placed to the account of the "Lecture Department."

In February the Woman's Board prepared the program for the Interdenominational Day of Humiliation and Prayer;

23,237 copies were printed and sold.

The Home Mission Monthly, established in 1886, maintains its record of helpfulness to the workers at home and on the field. From the beginning this magazine has had but one editor, Mrs. D. E. Finks, and during all these years the magazine has been more than self-supporting, this year paying $5,000 into the treasury of the Woman's Board for the General Fund. We report 1,225 new subscribers this year, and express our appreciation of the faithful work done by the Secretaries of Literature, as well as the devoted services of the editor.

Over Sea and Land, the magazine for young people, continues its good work as a means of interesting Sunday-schools, Bands, and Junior C.E. Societies in missionary work.

MISSIONARY BOXES.

The auxiliary societies have continued to supplement the salaries of the Board's missionaries by the preparation of boxes, and this year four hundred and seventy have been sent to the field. Many of these contained new clothing and household necessities, and many missionaries testify they could scarcely have cared for their families without the help of the boxes. Three hundred and seventy-eight boxes of clothing and Christmas gifts have been pledged for the schools under the care of the Woman's Board; fifty-six carpets, seven flags, and twelve wonder-bags for teachers.

THE OFFICE.

We report with regret the retirement from the office of Mrs. John F. Pingry, who for eight years gave earnest, consecrated, faithful service to the work of the Woman's Board. While no longer officially connected with us, she will still be closely allied to the work of the Board through her connection with various important committees.

The present Corresponding Secretary entered upon the duties of her office October 15, 1903. We report, also, the resignation of Mrs. S. B. Brownell as Recording Secretary of the Woman's Board, which position, with a few years interim, she had held for nineteen years. She carries with her the gratitude of all for her valued service. Mrs. Augustine Sackett was elected Recording Secretary December, 1903.

SUMMARY.

The total number of woman's societies auxiliary to the Woman's Board of Home Missions is 4,158, young woman's societies and bands 2,480, making a grand total of 6,638. It is difficult to estimate the exact membership, but it is not far from 130,000. In the first year of the Woman's Executive Committee the attendance at the meetings was only three or four; now at the Tuesday meetings, held each week at 156 Fifth Avenue, the attendance often exceeds one hundred. Then nearly all the work was voluntary service, now the offices of the Woman's Board occupy one-half of the seventh floor in the Presbyterian Building, and a force of twenty officers, stenographers and clerks are busy from nine to five each working day of the year.

The Treasurer's report at the end of the first full year of our organization showed not quite $11,500 had passed through her hands. This year the total amount was $459,436.48, while if we add the totals for all the years, it makes $6,758,800 that the women of the Presbyterian Church have contributed through the Woman's Board.

Commissioned by General Assembly to do educational work among the exceptional people of our country, the women of the Church have responded nobly to the trust reposed in them.

Through the agency of the various publications they have become intelligent contributors to the cause of home missions.

The personal element has entered into the work and we appeal to the women of the Church for continued support of the schools already established. Having entered upon the work, there can be no turning back. Whatever the demands for new work, and they are many, we depend upon the women of the Church to meet their pledges first, and, looking upon the calls for new objects as providential opportunities for increased service, let us trust our God, who has led the Woman's Board during all these twenty-five years, to touch the hearts of Christian women, that seeing the need, they may faithfully, prayerfully, and cheerfully respond.

Respectfully submitted, ELLA ALEXANDER BOOLE, Corresponding Secretary.

CONCLUSION.

The Board desires to make recognition of the goodness of Almighty God in bringing us through another year with all our obligations met. This has been due, however, more to the dead than to the living. Our income from legacies has been large. The gifts from the churches and from individuals have fallen somewhat short of the previous year.

There is no missionary need at the present time greater than a reviving of the spirit of the consecration of money to the service of the Kingdom. Our Church is growing in numbers and in wealth; the opportunities for service are enlarging on every hand,—but there is not a corresponding growth in the grace of giving. Again we plead for that which shall be individual, systematic and proportionate.

Although there has been no general revival of religion sweeping over the entire Church as has been so earnestly desired, still from many harvest fields come rejoicing notes of reapers bringing their sheaves with them. Many of our missions have been greatly refreshed as the result of special evangelistic services or of the faithful and persistent labors of the pastor alone.

The outlook for the new year is full of encouragement only as the Church shall wake to realize her responsibility for the evangelization of our country and our new possessions. The doors are wide open. How fast and far we shall be permitted to enter depends on the response which the Church will make to our appeals.

The demand for men,—earnest, single-hearted, capable and consecrated,—continues to be far in excess of the supply. Let the Church continue to pray the Lord of the harvest to bring forth His laborers.

This year marks the centennial of the Louisiana Purchase, by which the country west of the Mississippi was opened for our national advance. Arrangements have been made by an Interdenominational Committee fittingly to celebrate this great event at St. Louis, October twenty-ninth, thirtieth and thirty-first. This committee will recommend that all the evangelical churches of every name throughout the country shall keep Sabbath, October thirtieth, as a day of thanksgiving and rejoicing for what has been done in bringing the West to the knowledge and obedience of Jesus Christ, and a day of consecration to renewed efforts to carry on the work so gloriously begun.

We desire the Assembly to recommend all our churches to set apart that Sabbath for such special services, historical or other, as they may desire to plan; that one feature of the celebration be a special offering for the work of the Board of Home Missions; and that especially the churches west of the Mississippi river, which have been planted during the century and so abundantly prospered, shall recognize that occasion with a special offering of thanksgiving.

The Board received with profound regret the resignation of the last charter member of the Board, Mr. George R. Lockwood, who, on account of increasing years, felt called upon to retire from the service. It desires to place on record its grateful acknowledgment of his fidelity and usefulness during the many years of his membership with us. Mr. Frank L. Babbott was chosen to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Lockwood.

The Hon. James A. Beaver, feeling himself unable to attend the meetings of the Board on account of distance and the pressure of official duties, tendered his resignation, which was regretfully accepted.

The terms of service of the following members of the Board expire with this General Assembly:

Ministers.

Laymen.

Rev. Samuel J. Niccolls, D.D., LL.D., Rev. L. Mason Clarke, D.D., Rev. Robert Mackenzie, D.D.

Walter M. Aikman, William H. Corbin, Robert C. Ogden, Henry W. Jessup.

Respectfully submitted, by order of the Board,

CHARLES L. THOMPSON,

Secretary.

SELF-SUPPORTING SYNODS

SYNOD OF NEW YORK.

The sixth year of synodical missions in the Empire State has been the most encouraging of any since the plan was introduced. Every obligation has been promptly met and the year closed with a substantial balance in the treasury.

While not so many dependent churches as hitherto have been aided, the increment to these aided churches has been greater than in any previous year, 1,263, an increase of more than ten and one-half per cent. to their membership. Four churches have been organized; six churches have reached self-support; three church edifices have been built and twenty-seven repaired; three manses have been procured; seven Sabbath-schools organized; eight hundred and seventy-three added to these churches on profession of faith; nineteen churches have enjoyed special manifestations of the Holy Spirit.

Some fields plead for earnest, sympathetic pastors, others long for a deepening of spiritual life, others are solving the problem of interesting the men in the church. Some can only strengthen the things that remain while family after family leaves the old familiar pew for residence in some larger town.

Though many rural regions have lost their old staunch supporters of the church, there still remains another element hitherto unchurched and unsought, from which neglected class a precious harvest of souls may be garnered.

And then there is the large foreign element which is hurrying to our State at the rate of a quarter of a million a year and this mighty host must somehow be assimilated and prepared for true earthly and heavenly citizenship. How to solve this problem is one of the greatest questions to day before leading men both in Church and State. They have come and doubtless will continue to come in such vast numbers that our wisest statesmen stand appalled at the sudden influx of so large an alien and unchurched population to our body politic. The best antidote for the ills which accompany such immigration is the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Synodical missions to some extent prosecute this work in this State and with good results where it has been undertaken.

In city and country alike the work is progressing most successfully.

The seed which is being planted in sadness and in joy, in darkness and in light will spring up and produce a glorious harvest. For the Master saith, "My word shall accomplish that which I please and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it."

J. WILFORD JACKS, Superintendent of Synodical Missions.

SYNOD OF NEW JERSEY.

The work of synodical home missions in New Jersey increases in magnitude and importance from year to year. Not only are depleted churches in rural and other localities being aided and the gospel preached in suburban towns, and new manufacturing centers rapidly coming into prominence; but the whole character of the work has changed by the pouring in upon us of a vast and increasing multitude of foreigners—no longer, as in former years, classed as "desirable," but as "undesirable," and upon reaching whom our very life as a nation, as well as our welfare as a Church, depends.

Between 1890 and 1900 there was a greater proportionate increase of the foreign-born population in New Jersey than in any other of our North Atlantic States. Indeed, more than one-tenth of the net increase of the whole country for that decade was in New Jersey. We have done our best to measure up to our new responsibility—gathering the children of these immigrants into our English-speaking church and mission Sunday-schools, providing missionaries, ordained and lay, who can speak in their native tongue, and aiding in the erection and maintenance of special churches wherever such are found to be necessary. As a result, we have now in New Jersey twenty-two German Presbyterian churches, three Italian, two Magyar, two Armenian and one Syrian, and are fostering a large number of other mission enterprises which have not yet attained to church organization. Last year we raised for this work $17,957.56 and expended $17,602.61, and expect to raise and expend during the present year over $20,000.

Our belief is that the field is "white already to the harvest," and that our duty is not only to pray the Lord of the harvest that He would thrust forth laborers into His harvest, but to go ourselves into the harvest field-NOW, ere it be too late.

EBEN B. COBB.

Chairman Committee on Synodical Home Missions in New Jersey.

SYNOD OF PENNSYLVANIA.

According to the Minutes of the last General Assembly the churches of the synod are credited with $276,361, given for home missions. Of this the Home Board received $127,763, leaving $148,598 given to home missions through other agencies. The synod's committee acknowledge the receipt for the synodical year of $28,562.36 from the presbyteries and the Woman's Sustentation Committee. In addition, there was received from the Board of Home Missions the sum of $3,000. It will thus be seen that more than one-half of the total amount raised within the synod is spent upon work within its own bounds, and yet many calls were unheeded and many opportunities for service unreached.

There were one hundred and sixty-two ministers and missionaries employed, which is four less than the number reported last year. The number of organized churches served is two hundred and six, which is an increase of six over last year.

It is pleasing to report that the repeated appeals of the committee to the synod to do larger things for the foreigners within the State has met with an increasing response on the part of the churches. The importance of this work, both actively and relatively, is steadily on the increase, and the duty of the synod to give heed to it becomes more pressing and important year by year.

During the year ten churches became self-supporting.

GEORGE S. CHAMBERS.

Chairman of Synodical Home Missions and Sustentation.

SYNOD OF BALTIMORE.

The synod of Baltimore has a large mission field-mostly in the presbyteries of Baltimore and New Castle. Forty-two fields, including fifty-five churches, more than one-third of the churches of the synod, were aided last year.

The Sustentation Plan has been in operation for twelve years with very satisfactory results. All the churches are kept regularly supplied with preaching, and the additions supply the loss constantly occurring by death and removal from country and village churches. Nothing unusual has occurred in the churches. Good and faithful work has been done, and there has been some growth in benevolence. Improvements have been made to church property, and some large church debts have been paid. Grace Church, Baltimore, for colored people, has become self-sustaining. The societies in the churches are well organized, and are good training schools for Christian workers.

The great fire in Baltimore may affect our work somewhat. Treasurer lost all his books and papers. The bank building in which his account was kept was also burned, but fortunately the vaults withstood the fire, and no money was lost.

Special services have been held in many of the churches, and pastors are looking and praying for a large harvest. .

WILLIAM H. LOGAN, Chairman of Sustentation Committee.

SYNOD OF OHIO.

The synod of Ohio has been operating seven years under its independent plan. The work goes steadily forward, though it is far from what yet requires to be done.

During the past year one hundred and forty-seven missionary pastors have been aided, who served one hundred and sixty-nine churches in one hundred and seventy-eight preaching points and had under their charge 12,616 communicants. There were gathered into the home mission churches 1,031 by examination, and 573 by certificate.

The presbyteries of Steubenville and St. Clairsville have taken up work among the Slavs, and the presbytery of Mahoning work among the Magyars. Other presbyteries are turning their attention to the foreign-speaking peoples.

Considerable evangelistic activity has been manifest through our State the past year. The superintendent, Rev. W. F. Ringland, D. D., and the synodical missionary, Rev. D. D. Bigger, D.D., have been constantly in the field and have enjoyed good reaping in many sections. A still larger force could be used with profit, if there was money in hand to sustain them.

The money contributions in our State for home missions the past year were $76,249.35, an advance from the living members of $5,945, but a falling off in legacies of $34,433. The value of home mission boxes was $10,500, making the offering in cash and boxes of $86,749.35.

For work in the State the sum of $26,017 was contributed in the several presbyteries, though it is apparent that even this sum hardly covers the full measure of our work for the State.

The spirit of discontent with even present conditions has taken possession of many of our people, and it is evident that more aggressive work will be undertaken in the near future, and sections of the State that are still needy will be better cared for in the time to come.

J. C. HOLLIDAY, Chairman Permanent Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF INDIANA.

The annual report of the Home Mission Committee of the synod of Indiana showed that the Indiana Plan has been in operation thirteen years. The home mission work has been greatly enlarged and the contributions for the work have increased wonderfully.

The Home Mission Board received from individuals and legacies the sum of $19,258,76 and from churches through various organizations $997.76. The Woman's Board of Home Missions received through the various channels that send funds that way the sum of $7,260.09.

The Yandes Fund, which is an endowment, the income of which is used for the support of home mission work in Indiana, amounts to $60,000. These invested funds yielded $2,172.97 last year. The income will probably be somewhat increased now as the fund is all invested. Associated with this fund is an additional trust of $5,000 given during the past year, the principal of which is to be used in aiding home mission churches to build buildings. The sum of $500 was appropriated to three churches from the fund.

The synodical superintendents were employed during the year for evangelistic and Sabbath-school work, for organizing and reorganizing churches and for general missionary service wherever needed.

ing churches and for general missionary service wherever needed.

The synod raised in church offerings for current work in Indiana the sum of $12,730.89; for the Yandes Fund, $15,000; for evangelistic work in the synod, $1,252.59; for current work from miscellaneous sources the sum of $475.12. The total amount of offerings from the synod for home missions amounted to $56,975.21, which was the largest sum ever raised in the synod in one year.

The synod has two hundred and sixty-two ministers, three hundred and twenty-four churches, 44,243 communicants. The net gain in membership for the year was five hundred and fifty. Eleven churches were organized. There are one hundred and twenty-seven churches receiving aid from home mission funds and presided over by fifty-nine pastors.

FREELEY ROHRER,
Chairman Home Mission Committee.

SYNOD OF ILLINOIS.

The work of home missions in the synod of Illinois has been conducted along the same lines of local management and self-support that have been followed for the past nine years. A general summary shows an increase of $864 in the amount contributed and passing through the hands of the presbyterial treasurers. On the other hand there has been a decrease of $3,400 in the amount expended for the support of our own missionaries. This decrease was principally in the presbytery of Chicago, where $1,139 less than the previous year was expended in the support of local work. There was also considerable reduction of expenditure throughout the synod, notably in the presbytery of Cairo, which drew but $100 of the $400 appropriated by the synodical committee, increased its own contributions by $214, and spent $524 less on its field. In Mattoon there was a reduction in expenditure of $541. These reductions were made possible in some instances by an increased amount being raised in the assisted churches, but is partly to be accounted for by the failure to secure pastors for vacant fields. Yet only thirty-six unsupplied churches are reported against fifty the previous year. Grouping of churches has been done to a greater extent than formerly, seventy-six churches being supplied in this way, against sixty-six the previous year. In many instances very weak churches have been supplied by neighboring ministers with but little if any compensation. Our work still indicates greater self-denial on the part of the laborers than on the part of the Church in giving of its substance.

The spiritual results of the work of our missionaries, as measured by the additions to the membership, have been full of encouragement. Our one hundred and four missionaries received ten hundred and seventeen members on profession of faith and three hundred and seventy-eight by certificate. This is above the average of the Church at large. The aggregate contributions for home missions from the churches of Illinois, as reported through the synodical treasury and through the treasury of the Board, were $33,953. The women's societies reported $19,993. In addition to this $30,136 were reported in the minutes of the General Assembly, which are not included in the above, making a grand total of $84,082.

A canvass of the foreign population of the State has been made, and special efforts will be made to reach the unevangelized immigrants speaking other languages in Chicago and in other parts of the synod.

THOS. D. LOGAN,
Chairman Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF MICHIGAN.

The synod has now been operating under the plan of self-support for two years. Offerings have been received covering two years and payments made covering eighteen months. The second year was anticipated with dread by some. It was feared that the enthusiasm of novelty would have worn off, and that the offerings would suffer decline. Happily these fears have not been realized. The enthusiasm for self-support has steadily waxed instead of waning. We believe that no cause to-day makes as forcible an appeal to our people as this of self-support.

We see no reason why the offerings of the third year may not go beyond those of the second. Many churches are determining in advance the sum which they should raise for work each year, and are raising it. This is the most effectual way to secure the permanency of the work. Our chiefest dread is the unintelligent, uninterested, fluctuating offering. Our ideal is each church pledging a definite sum as the minimum of its offerings for any year.

The total sum received for synodical home missions from October 1, 1902, to September 30, 1903, is $11,433.26, from the following sources: Churches, $10,437.12; individuals, $159.13; Sabbath-schools, $450.33 women's missionary societies, $42.22; young people's societies, $344.46. This does not, however, represent the total gifts of the churches and other organizations of the synod to the cause of home missions. The Home Board received from Michigan for its work of "evangelization" the sum of $853.26. The Women's Home Mission Society and other organizations sent to the Board for mission school work the sum of $6,530.85. The Presbyterians of Michigan, therefore, gave to the support of home missions during the year the grand total of $18,817.37. The total disbursements during the year were $11,201.33, leaving a balance of receipts over disbursements of $231,98.

The definite aim of home mission work in Michigan is building the Kingdom of God. To further this object a synodical evangelist has been secured, who devotes his efforts entirely to mission churches too feeble to employ an evangelist. The results are most gratify-

The education of the Sabbath schools and young people's societies in the object and efforts of the synod is receiving much attention. very helpful and instructive Sabbath-school service was prepared, and between one and two hundred schools used it

WILLIAM F. JONES,

Chairman of Committee of Home Missions.

SYNOD OF IOWA.

The Iowa Plan for self-support differs from older ones in that it is not presbyterial but synodical. While the funds are collected by the presbyterial treasurers to insure close attention in details, all moneys are paid into the State treasury; all grants are made by the synodical committee; and all payments are made by the synodical treasurer. This puts all presbyteries, whether strong or weak, upon an equal footing in their mission work.

Through the kindness of the Home Board, Iowa has a Board Loan Fund of $9,000. It comprises six months' offerings made in advance of the obligations, and it enables us to pay the missionaries promptly and during the months when few offerings are received. Part of this loan fund is invested in farm mortgages; the interest pays the expense of administration, and all the offerings of the churches go to the payment of missionary salaries.

In Iowa's first year of self-support, the number of self-supporting presbyteries increased from four to eight; the total gifts to all home mission purposes increased from $19,787 to $27,987, a gain of forty per cent.; the amount raised for other benevolences increased handsomely; and the sums raised for Iowa home missions advanced from $8,918 to $16,746, an increase of eighty eight per cent. Receipts for the first half of the second year show an advance on the first.

Synod asked her churches for forty dollars from each one hundred members, and she received about thirty-eight dollars a hundred. Out of four hundred and thirty one churches, seventy three gave fifty dollars for each hundred communicants, and these churches were put upon the honor roll of synod; one hundred and eighty nine churches paid their apportionment; one hundred and twenty-two paid part of it; and forty-seven paid nothing. Considering how many churches are vacant, weak and with but a name to live, this record was very gratifying indeed.

Iowa has twenty-seven German churches that are among her steadi est and sturdiest forces. Dubuque Theological Seminary is training a splendid corps of German-speaking ministers for all our western churches. We have three Bohemian churches which are doing priceless work among colonies that came from the land of John Huss; and we hope to enlarge this field as the way opens. We do not discover other foreign-speaking peoples in compact communities who seem to need our help; but aim to reach the children of all nationalities in our Sabbath-schools and services.

Churches receiving aid for some time are urged to undertake selfsupport, or to group themselves with other congregations; and a large number of fields have thus come to care for themselves. A movement is now under way to increase the average salaries in Iowa from $625 to $800. We want good men to stay.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

INTRODUCTION.

For the sixth consecutive year the Board is permitted to close its books without debt, and to write once more over the door shut upon the old year, "All obligations met and a small balance in the treasury."

Throughout the year there has prevailed a feeling of confidence that this favorable end would be reached—principally because of a large excess of legacy receipts, as compared with the average of the past ten years.

Comparative Receipts.—The table below indicates, in detail, the comparative receipts from the various sources—the "live sources" running very close to the receipts of last year, with the exception of "Individuals" and the "Woman's Board," while the legacies show a large gain. This large gain in legacies was, in turn, due to the paying in of a considerable proportion of the proceeds from an estate which has been in course of settlement for some years past.

Number of churches contributing through congregational offerings during the year, 4,153, in addition to which several of the self-supporting synods have contributed to the Board through their presbyterial or synodical committees.

Simon Yandes.—The decrease in receipts from individual gifts is partly accounted for through the death of one of our largest givers, Simon Yandes, Esq., of Indianapolis, Ind., who, last year, contributed to the work $20,000.00.

Mr. Yandes' death, early in this year, deprives the work of one of its most generous and systematic contributors. The Board is, however, remembered in his will to the extent of one-third of the residue.

Silver Anniversary Fund.—The Woman's Board, while showing a considerable decrease in receipts for current work. has at the same time raised, during the year, the sum of $39,088.70 as a "Silver Anniversary Fund."

Study of Receipts for Past Five Years.—A study of the receipts for the five years just closed is of interest, from the fact that much of new conditions has developed during that period. The year just preceding that closing with March 31st, 1900, was that in which the debt, so long a menace to the work of the Board, was extinguished. It is noted with gratitude that the total of funds received each year since that achievement has been an increase over that of its predecessor. Beginning with $729,511.09, in the year closing March 31st, 1900, the year now ended records a total of $820,606.20—a gain of $91,095.11. In this gain the "Evangelization" department participates to the extent of $38,577.85 and the department of "School Work" $52,517.26.

Analyzing "Evangelization" gain we find that the churches have decreased approximately $7,000.00; "Individuals" about $6,300.00; while "Young People's Societies" have shown an increase of about $2,000.00; "Interest on Permanent Funds" about $2,200.00; "Legacies" about $48,000.00, and Sunday-schools have about held their own.

The decrease thus shown in church contributions is not. however, a real decrease. It must be remembered that, during the period under consideration, three synods have undertaken self-support, and have applied the great proportion of their church offerings to the work within their own Contributions from these three synods during the year preceding that in which they respectively came to selfsupport amounted to over $17,000.00. The congregational offerings throughout the Church have therefore increased approximately $10,000.00.

It will thus be seen that while the receipts of the Board have made both an actual and a relative progress, yet the fact remains that the growth of the country west of the Mississippi, which especially comes under the care of the Home Board, is more rapid than the increase of the receipts of the Board. The estimates of the presbyteries for "old" and "new" work for the coming year are $88,670.00 in excess of the anticipated income of the Board.

Quarterly Receipts.—The irregularity in receipts by months and quarters would seem to be of sufficient importance to justify the publishing once more of a table in the following form, and to note again the fact that, as the average monthly expenditures during the year have been approximately $68,500.00, the necessity of borrowing, in order to care promptly for salary accounts and other necessary expenditures, has been one which could not be avoided.

Table of Combined Receipts.—Attention is again called to the table on pages 248 and 249 showing the total receipts, for the organized home mission work of our Church, for the past ten years. This table is compiled from the Annual Reports of the Board of Home Missions, and from reports of receipts in self-supporting synods, furnished by the treasurers of these synods.

Gifts for Permanent and Annuity Funds.—These funds have been increased during the year $81,187.47, investment of which funds are a part of the securities scheduled under the various headings on page 83, as follows:

General Permanent Fund	$26,350.00
Permanent Fund—Woman's Board	52,837.47
Annuity Fund	2,000.00

Legacy Receipts by Synods.—During the five years last past, the synods have contributed to the legacy funds as follows:

Loans.—The Board has been obliged to borrow during the year the gross sum of $160,000. The uniform rate for this accommodation has been 4 per cent.

It was suggested last year, under this heading, that it would seem to be wise policy to begin the accumulation of a Reserve Fund, so that the Board might be its own banker during the months of light receipts. In conformity with this suggestion, and endeavoring to carry out what has been a long cherished plan, the Finance Committee of the Board directed the Treasurer to deposit with a trust company something over $40,000 received during the year as a part of the proceeds from a large estate. It was hoped that this might be held as the nucleus of a considerable "Reserve," but before the year ended it was found that, in order to close the books without debt, this entire fund would be required. The Board is still, therefore, without the beginnings of this much-to-be-desired fund!

Expenditures—Percentages.—Expenditures for work, other than that on the field, have relation to gross receipts as expressed in percentages as follows:

PORTO RICO BUILDINGS.

Hospital at San Juan.—It was announced in this report last year that funds were in hand and a lot purchased in the suburbs of San Juan for the erection of a hospital, to be carried on under our Woman's Board.

This project has been carried through to completion and our church now has, as a part of its missionary equipment in Porto Rico, "The Presbyterian Hospital," built upon a beautiful site on the seashore, consisting of three modern buildings thoroughly equipped for work, and affording accommodations for about fifty patients.

Church Building at Mayaguez.—The third church to be erected by the Board in Porto Rico is located in the thriving city of Mayaguez (on the west end of the island) and upon its leading thoroughfare. The building was constructed and equipped under the direction of the pastor, Rev. M. E. Caldwell, D.D., with the aid and assistance of competent architects and builders, and is a thoroughly creditable structure,—an ornament and attraction to the city. It has a seating capacity of over five hundred and is well equipped for its special work. The cost of the lot and building was approximately $14,360.00.

Chapel at La Pica.—Southeast of Mayaguez, and within the territory under the jurisdiction of the Rev. J. G. Woods, of San German, a chapel has been built at one of the outstations with funds furnished by friends in the Madison Avenue Church of New York City, at a total cost of between five and six hundred dollars, grateful acknowledgment of which help is here made.

Church Building Needed at San German.—It is fitting at this time to call attention to the fact that there should speedily be built at San German, the center of a large and most needy group of towns, a church building of the type of those constructed at Aguadilla and Mayaguez. A fine lot, in a most favorable location, has already been purchased, and the Board only awaits the receipt of 'funds approximating $10,000 to begin the erection of this muchneeded building.

PRESBYTERIAN BUILDING.

It is only necessary to say, as to the rentals of the Presbyterian Building, that all the space in the building is rented, with the exception of two offices, and that the total of the rent roll, March thirty-first, is $124,505.00. The vacant rooms will, without doubt, be taken by May first.

Mortgage Indebtedness.—The financial condition of the building will be seen by reference to page 88. It will be noted therein that the mortgage indebtedness on the one-half share interest of the Board of Home Missions stands at $130,000.00.

General Assembly's Committee on the Debt.—The General Assembly last year appointed a committee less in number than those of the preceding years, it being felt that a committee of five, within easy reach of New York City, would be more easily convened, and possibly as efficient as a larger committee.

The mortgage indebtedness being so comparatively small at the beginning of the year, the committee felt that it would hardly be wise to do more than circularize the Church very widely, urging that the small balance remaining should at once be wiped out. Owing to unfavorable financial conditions, however, and possibly also to the fact that other mortgage-raising movements were on foot in the Church, very little has been received during the past twelve months, the total amount being $12,428.43. This has been equally divided between the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions and applied upon the mortgage indebtedness.

Purchase of Property adjoining the Presbyterian Building.—Owing to the rapidly changing nature of buildings adjacent to the Presbyterian Building, and to the fact that many high loft buildings are being put up, it has been apparent to the Boards that in all probability the old-time residences adjoining the Presbyterian Building on the west would, by the obstruction of light, if converted into high structures, be a menace to the income of the Presbyterian Building. An opportunity offering, therefore, to purchase to advantage the building adjoining on the west, it has, during the year past, been acquired, each Board owning a half interest.

On the part of the Board of Home Missions, funds were provided for this investment by the use of a part of the Annuity Funds, their investment in first-class New York real estate being considered as secure as first-class bonds.

The property is such that it can be adapted to business uses at comparatively small expense, and will thus be put in condition to earn a good return upon the money invested.

Respectfully submitted,

HARVEY C. OLIN,

Treasurer.

APPENDIX.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE ON HOME MISSIONS.

Your Committee on Home Missions would respectfully report that we have examined the Annual Report of the Board of Home Missions, together with the Minutes of the Board for the year 1903-04. We have also examined the reports of the Superintendent of Schools, of the Secretary of Young People's Work and of the Woman's Board of Home Missions.

A reading of these reports cannot fail to impress one with a sense of the magnitude, many-sidedness and overwhelming importance of the work entrusted to the Board of Home Missions.

It is impossible for your Committee to attempt even a summary of the admirable report of the Board. We ask for its careful perusal. Pastors will find it not only a storehouse of missionary information, but as well a stimulus to missionary interest and energy and a tonic to spiritual life.

The Board of Home Missions is comprised of able and devoted men. There are but few who realize how varied and how complicated are the problems which come before the Board for solution. Questions of finance, of law, of expediency, of organization, of agency demand constant attention, and these are so satisfactorily met and mastered that the administration of the Board challenges the confidence and the admiration of the Church. The hearty thanks of the whole Church are due to the busy men who give so many valuable hours to the work of the Board.

It is with no less pleasure that your Committee commends the wise, efficient, successful and with all the economical administration of the Secretaries and the Treasurer. A review of the work of these officers shows that they are men who have a firm grip upon the common sense of things. No cause could be more faithfully or skillfully served than the cause of Home Missions has been in the administration of the vast stewardship committed to these men.

During the year "the Angel of Death" has been among the workers on the field, perhaps we had better say the Lord of Life has been standing at the gate, for Jesus has said, "I am alive forevermore and have the keys of death and of the grave." The hand that was pierced holds the key of the death-gateway. That gateway has opened six times to our missionary force. We lovingly record the names of these who have passed through into the glory:

The force now on the field numbers 1,180 missionaries and 486 missionary teachers, a total of 1,666. The story of the work of these men and women makes the heart throb and quickens to utmost enthusiasm. Day after day they have carried the gospel message to sinning, sighing, suffering men, counting no service too much, no sacrifice too great. They are sustained and inspired by a burning passion for souls. They are moved by that spirit of evangelism which pervades our whole Church. While there has not been any general revival, yet from nearly every field come the tidings of spiritual awakening. In a number of the mission synods the General Assembly's Committee on Evangelistic Work has supplied evangelists to assist the pastors in special services and in every instance the pastors speak well of the work and are grateful for the assistance. As the result of the Heaven blessed labors of our missionaries 7,378 persons have united with the Church by profession of faith and 4,759 have been received by letter, a total of 12,137.

It is gratifying to note that during the year 115 churches were organized, sixty-seven church buildings erected, and $68,163.00 of church debts were canceled. The total membership of the Home Mission church is 61,813. There are 1,627 Sabbath-schools, 226 of which were organized last year. The membership of these schools is 92,557.

The report of the Treasurer presents a full and clear statement of the financial condition of the Board. The report has been audited and found correct. During the year there were $820,606.20 received from all sources. The balance from last year was $8,270.71, making the revenue for the year $828,876.91. The expenditures for all purposes were $825,696.65, leaving a balance of $3,180.26.

Let it ever be borne in mind that the cost of administering this great mission enterprise is only about four and a half per cent. That means that more than ninety-five cents of every dollar given go to the work.

Your Committee notes that the Board of Home Missions has given special attention to the recommendation of the last Assembly regarding work among the foreign-speaking peoples in our country. The Rev. John Dixon, D.D., was appointed by the Board to give special attention to this work. While the foreign-speaking people are scattered over the whole couptry, yet they most do congregate in our cities and within the bounds of the self-supporting synods. A plan of co-operation between these synods and the Board for carrying on this work was adopted at a conference of representatives of the self-supporting synods and the Board in New York City in October. According to the plan adopted the self-supporting synods are to prosecute the work of evangelization among the foreigners within their bounds, and in case any synod cannot secure the funds for such work the Board of Home Missions is to co-operate with that synod upon its invitation and in accordance with its plan. Your Committee finds that an established work is being carried on among sixteen nationalities, that there are 432 churches and stations among these people, with a membership of 26,205. A larger work for the strangers within our gates must be undertaken, for America cannot be evangelized and leave the foreign element out. The action of Wooster University in making provision for such instruction of young people of foreign birth as will fit them to be lay evangelists among their own people is to be heartily commended.

Encouraging progress has been made in the work on behalf of workingmen who are outside the Church and who are indifferent to its message. It is to the honor of our Church that she recognizes no distinctions among men and the services of the Rev. Charles Stelzle have materially helped to bring workingmen to a clearer understanding of the attitude of the Church of Christ towards them.

In a review of the work of the Board special interest attaches to the work in Porto Rico, and in the little Republic of Cuba, which owes its life to our America and to which America owes support and assistance. The problems in these countries are much the same. The grave difficulties in both fields are those which arise from Romanism and ignorance, twin sisters in every land and age. The people of both countries are eager for religious light and liberty. Our missionaries are everywhere received with cordiality. Schools are welcomed. The gospel is attentively heard. Cuba and Porto Rico are fruitful fields, and already a rich harvest has been gathered. Both countries are being shot through with new ideas of God, of Christ, of the Bible, of the Church and of the Christian Life. Though the work was begun in Cuba only two and a half years ago, yet such progress has been made that the missionaries have petitioned this Assembly to be organized into a presbytery. It is gratifying to know that our Church has now, as a part of missionary equipment in Porto Rico, "The Presbyterian Hospital," which is located in the suburbs of San Juan.

The call from all parts of the field for new work is greater than ever before, and never was there a greater demand for additional workers. The keynote of the report of every synodical missionary is "More men." Minnesota says, "We must be reinforced in every presbytery." North Dakota asks for twenty-five additional ministers, and South Dakota for twenty three "consecrated, capable and adaptable men." Washington asks for eighteen new men, and Oregon for sixteen. The same note is struck by all the synods. From far-away Alaska comes the same call. The Board is anxious to engage at once two men for Alaska—one a medical missionary to relieve Dr. Marsh, who comes down from Point Barrow, and another to go to a new station at the head waters of Kniakuk, within the Arctic Circle, five hundred miles above Rampart on the Yukon. This call is for men of strenuous build, afire with zeal for Christ and with love for souls. These men are to be sent at once, and an immediate response to this call is hoped for.

Your Committee feels that mention should be made of the excellent literature which the Board issued during the year. It has the excellency and strength which mark all the other work of the Board. Pastors are urged to avail themselves of this literature, freely provided, and to use it liberally. We call special attention to the text-books which the Board has prepared for Home Mission Study Classes, and ask all pastors to endeavor to organize such classes among their young people.

The work of the Young People's Societies is worthy of special emphasis. This department is being strongly developed, and its splendid devotion is meeting with gratifying results in arousing an intelligent and enthusiastic interest in Home Missions among the young people. Nearly $90,000 were contributed last year to Home Missions by the Young People's Societies and Sabbath-schools.

Your Committee is deeply impressed with the faithful and efficient labors of the noble women of our Church, and calls special attention to the work of the Woman's Board, the central organization of the 130,000 members of auxiliary societies. This Board is now celebrating the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of its organization and signalizing this event by the contribution of $40,000 (to be increased to $50,000) for the building and endowing of a boys' school at Santa Fé, New Mexico. This great offering has been given as a grateful tribute to the services of the honored President of the Woman's Board, Mrs. Darwin R. James.

The Mormon cancer has been laid bare to the nation. The disclosure has revealed Mormonism as a serious menace to the religious, moral and political welfare of our country. We heartily commend the work of the Christian women of all denominations in carrying on so successful a campaign against this iniquity. The agitation against Mormonism, crystallizing in the effort to unseat Senator Smoot, has increased the difficulty of prosecuting mission work among the Mormons and our noble band of missionaries in Utah should have the special prayers and sympathy of the entire Church.

Once more, and for the sixth consecutive year, the Board comes to the Church with the cheering message of "No debt." All rejoice in this. But our rejoicing is somewhat sobered, first, by the fact that this condition is made possible not by the generosity of the living, but by the provision of the dying. The income from legacies was larger last year than in the previous year, while gifts from churches and individuals were less than in the preceding year. In the second place, even with these larger legacies the condition of "No debt" was made possible only by careful management on the part of the Board, by scaling down the appropriations to the presbyteries which in most instances means reduction in the salaries of our underpaid missionaries, and by the policy of the Board to enter upon no new work until the receipts would warrant it.

There is not much occasion for congratulating ourselves on "No debt" when to achieve that the Board has been able only to maintain work already established, and has been unable to enter upon a wider aggression for the bringing of America to Christ. Not to advance in this day of opportunity and demand is to retreat.

The Board has been loyal to the promise which it made to the Church five years ago not to incur any large debt. But to every covenant there are two parties. This promise of the Board implied the pledge of the Church to supply the Board with adequate and increasing revenue for its growing work.

The Church is not giving enough money. Your Committee recognizes with gratitude the generous offerings of some churches, the consecrated gifts of consecrated men and women of wealth, and the self-sacrificing offerings of many of God's dear children who are not rich in the things of this world. But your Committee is convinced that the Church as a whole has by no means responded to the call of this work as it can and should respond. The average gift of the membership of our Church to all purposes was about $17.33. Our Home Mission churches put us to shame in the matter of giving. Out yonder in Indian Territory, one church, the Tishomingo Church, gave $175 per member to all causes. Pond Creek Church gave $60 per member, and South McAlester Church gave $45 per member. Either the people of the Tishomingo, Pond Creek and South McAlester Churches are richer than the people in our home churches, or the grace of giving is better developed in them. Had the average contribution of all the members of our Church been equal to the average contribution of the members of the Tishomingo Church the receipts of the year instead of being $17,561,377 would have been $186,808,475.

Our honored Secretary, Dr. Chas. L. Thompson, well says in the report of the Home Mission Board:

"There is no missionary need at the present time greater than a reviving of the spirit of the consecration of money to the service of the Kingdom. Our Church is growing in numbers and in wealth; the opportunities for service are enlarging on every hand,—but there is not a corresponding growth in the grace of giving. Again we plead for that which shall be individual, systematic and proportionate."

Your Committee is persuaded that the responsibility for securing the necessary money for the work of the Board rests primarily with the ministers. Let the ministers preach on Home Missions, pray frequently and fervently for the cause, talk about it with their people and soon an interest in the work will be awakened and out of that interest rich streams will flow into the coffers of the Board.

The work of the Board of Home Missions stands at the front of all the agencies of the Presbyterian Church for the upbuilding of the Kingdom of Christ in this land. The Board is the ally of the Evan gelistic Committee and of the Foreign Board, conserving the work of one and stimulating gifts to the other. All the sacred interests of our Church and country emphasize the call for increased offerings to the Home Board.

We are living in the day of munificent gifts to charitable, philanthropic and educational causes, gifts ranging all the way from $100,000 to $5,000,000. Such giving is unparalleled in the history of the world. What magnificent enthusiasm for Christ would be created, and what splendid results would accrue to our beloved land if our Christian men and women of wealth would make similar gifts for the purpose of bringing America under the sway of the gospel of Jesus Christ. If we have millions for education why not for salvation.

The three supreme needs are prayer, money and men. Our one common and comprehensive need is the baptism of the Holy Spirit with all the wisdom and power and love which that involves, so that we may work all our plans and methods with the ability which God giveth. Swept by the mighty inspiration of the Spirit the whole Church will be swayed by a splendid passion that shall finally gather men into a society that will faithfully image the love of God for man, and the love of man for man, the new Jerusalem let down from God out of heaven in which Jesus is King.

We respectfully offer the following recommendations for the action of the Assembly:

Resolved, 1. That the Minutes of the Board of Home Missions be approved.

Resolved, 2. That the following members of the Board, whose terms of office expire with this General Assembly, be re-elected for the term of three years, to wit:

Ministers.

Rev. Samuel J. Niccolls, D.D., LL.D. Rev. L. Mason Clarke, D.D.

Laymen.

Walter M. Aikman. William H. Corbin. Robert C. Ogden. Henry W. Jessup.

And that Mr. Frank L. Babbott be elected to fill the unexpired term of Mr. George R. Lockwood, resigned.

Resolved, 3. That inasmuch as an Interdenominational Committee has arranged to celebrate the centennial of the Louisiana Purchase by a convention at St. Louis on October 29, 30 and 31, we recommend that wherever practicable, Sabbath, October 30, be observed in all our churches as a day of thanksgiving for all that has been done in bringing the West to a knowledge of Christ, and that on that day a special offering be taken for the work of the Board of Home Missions.

Resolved, 4. That we commend the liberal use of the literature furnished by the Board and its wise distribution as a means of stimulating interest in the work of Home Missions.

Resolved, 5. That the earnest spirit of the young people of the Church, manifested in their increased gifts, is heartily commended.

Resolved, 6. That we heartily approve of the co-operation of the Home Board with the Evangelistic Committee and commend the continuance of this co-operation in the work of evangelizing our land.

Resolved, 7. That since at least $900,000 are imperatively needed for the work of the Board next year, an earnest appeal be made for larger contributions on the part of churches and individuals to the work of the Board and for special gifts for specific objects, such as furnishing the salary of a missionary or teacher, such gifts to be in addition to the regular offerings to the Board.

Resolved, & That the General Assembly expresses its hearty appreciation of the efficient services of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, congratulates the Board on the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization and extends to its honored President, Mrs. Darwin R. James, its grateful tribute for her long and faithful services as President of the Woman's Board.

Resolved, 9. That on the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving Day our Sabbath-schools be requested to make an offering for the mission school work under the care of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, and that on the Sabbath preceding February 22 the Sabbath-schools be requested to take an offering for the Evangelistic Work of the Board of Home Missions.

Resolved, 10. That in response to Overture No. 41 from the Presbytery of Mattoon, endorsed by the Presbytery of Fort Wayne, in reference to the reorganization of the Home Mission Work, no action be taken.

Resolved, 11. That since the demands for new work are far beyond the resources of the Board, presbyteries be urged to diminish the amounts granted to churches which for years have been receiving aid.

Resolved, 12. That the attention of the Church be called afresh to the urgent spiritual needs of our foreign population—as that population is massed not only in our great cities and manufacturing centers, but also in the mining districts of our country, especially the anthracite fields of Western Pennsylvania—where thousands and tens of thousands of Protestant Hungarians (Magyars) afford great opportunity for the instruction and training of our own branch of the Christian Church, and that special effort be put forth by our Home Board to meet their pressing needs for the kingdom's sake, for humanity's sake—for our country's sake.

J. F CARSON, Chairman.

MISS S. F. LINCOLN, TREASURER, IN ACCOUNT WITH THE WOMAN'S BOARD OF HOME MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

NEW YORK, May 16, 1904.

Examined and found correct,

ACTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Sixty-seventh Annual Report of the Board of Foreign Missions, and the manuscript volume of its Minutes for the year ending April 30, 1904, were presented to the General Assembly in session in Buffalo, N. Y., May, 1904, and were referred to the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions.

The Committee presented its report to the General Assembly, which was adopted. A condensed summary of the report, and other recommendations submitted, is herewith presented.

Any study which can hope to give a fair view of our foreign work, must fall into three sections. One phase of work is that of the administration; second, the inlook upon the home church; thirdly, the outlook upon the field.

I. THE ADMINISTRATION.—The two great losses, the death of Dr. Wells, and the death of Dr. Marshall, cannot be adequately estimated here. Dear to the Church for themselves and for their work, but dearer to the Lord of themselves and their work, they have entered into the untiring service and the eternal joy of the King. Rev. George Alexander, D.D., has accepted the Presidency of the Board, and should be welcomed by this Assembly in that high office to which we pray he may long be spared.

The written records of the Board have been reviewed minutely by the Chairman of this Committee as his share of the work. They are carefully and fully kept. Twenty-one formal meetings of the Board have been held, at each of which a bewildering number and variety of mis-sion interests have been carefully considered. An experienced business man said during this week, that nowhere in the world does the whole world come under such constant review as in the meetings of our Foreign Board. We have a more extended field than any other Church in the world. No other Church is preaching the Gospel in so many lands as is ours. All these nations have met week by week, even hour by hour, in the office of the Board. Some things in the record would make one's heart ache. A great deal will make one's head ache. But it is all inspiring reading.

We notice in the record an apparent increase in the freedom given to the Missions themselves in the administration of their affairs and the spirit of co-operation rather than control, which is pleasant.

The Forward Movement deserves, and herewith receives, hearty endorsement. The Secretary has been sustained in his efforts by the Board and the Advisory Council of representative business men outside the Board. The movement involves no financial burden upon the treasury. There are many delicate problems of relationship, and the whole matter of the living link between the home church and the foreign field is receiving new attention. The idea is enlarging, and in small ways and great, the foreign work is becoming vital to the Church. A full record of the work of the Forward Movement Secretary will soon be added to the literature of the Board.

2. THE INWARD FACING.—It is a pleasure to record that the interest in the foreign work is increasingly general. In the matter of workers, the East and the West have furnished almost equal numbers; the Western States sending 120 workers in the past five years, and the Eastern States sending 116 into the service. To be sure, twice as many men are needed if the Board's treasury could sustain them. Your committee feels strongly that the most ominous fact of the year is that suitable workers are not offering themselves in sufficient numbers to meet the demands of the field, and that the Board is restricting its work because of lack of money. It is vastly worse to lack men than money. We are sure that the policy should be sustained by the Church as it has not been sustained, which involves the sending out of every suitable worker who applies, without debating the state of the treasury. There must be, of course, a definite appeal to the Church to protect the work against financial embarrassment, but we may well glory in a deficit much larger than $40,000 when it means an increased force in a widened field. The Lord who hears prayer in behalf of workers, will hear prayer also in behalf of money to send and sustain them.

There are no words unsaid which can adequately characterize the work of the women of the Church. Through their several Boards and Societies they have sustained the work and cheered the workers. Year by year they assume new responsibilities and meet them well. The work of the Young People has been in part committed to them by action of the Board and they are developing their interest steadily. We must soon revise the Bachelor Paul who could only say "help those women who labored with me in the Gospel," and we shall say, "Help those women with whom we labor in the Gospel."

The home Church needs the triple vision—of its own great ability and its small accomplishments, of the world that lieth in wickedness needing redemption together with the hosts already at work, and of the Lord who claims right to command and power to save. When we gain that vision, we will count our million dollars a small gift. Years ago we gave half a million. We have gradually increased the gift until we are now safely past the million. The committee recommend that the Assembly set the mark now at $1,500,000 as the lowest amount that will be fair for the Church to give, and that the Church be called to reach it immediately.

3. The Outward Facing.—The view of the field is always inspiring, always solemnizing. We rise from the reading of the year's record with several deep impressions. Deepest of them is the impression of the variety of our Mission enterprises. Here is a great host of 3,000 workers, native and foreign working out from 1600 centers, with more than 50,000 converts, with 823 schools and 27,000 scholars, with 8 great Mission presses sending out 112,000,000 pages of Christian literature each year and with 112 hospitals and dispensaries, treating 360,000 patients. We gave to it, everything being counted, $1,131,000, but the native converts gave $117,000, and if equivalent values were reckoned, their gift would mean a million as well as our own. Moreover, the work is interwoven with world-movements whenever they appear.

Nothing can happen in the whole world which will not concern the kingdom of God for good or ill. All the great social forces concern our work. All the great leaders hold an attitude, favorable or adverse, to the work we are doing. Foreign Missions is statesmanship, but the state the kingdom of God. No Christian can afford to read his newspaper in terms of time alone, it is the essense of our faith that we learn to read the events of time in terms of eternity. The Russia-Japan war is more than strife between nations. It is the driving of the forces of the kingdom of God towards triumph.

A second impression is of the attitude of the field force. The missionaries in every field seem straining on the leash for a wider range. Hardly a Mission which has not pleaded during the year for the right to enter open doors. The list would be too long, but it would bring this Assembly to breathless silence if there could be placed before you side by side the pleas of the field and the answer of the home Church. Our fellows in Siam see two strategic points. We regret that we cannot allow them to be occupied, for we have no men and no money. The West Japan Mission finds three new points ready to occupy—we have no men and no money. Fields in the Punjab open and our workers plead for the privilege of entering—we have no money and no men. Hainan tells eagerly of two new points—we have no men and no money. One whole island in the Japan group is offered us-we have no men and no money. The Teheran field opens in two directions—we have no men and no money. Doors are flung open in India at a dozen places-we have no men and no money. In certain high churches the litany is sung, the minister changing his plea, the people ever responding with the same words. This is the world litany. From across the sea a changing cry of need, now a call for men to take the work of the glorified, now a call for men to enter upon new work, and from this side one response -no men and no money. We might well change our response, saying, "Have mercy upon us, miserable sinners." It is not simply that the heathen need us, but that our brethren whom we sent there are being held back, are being overstrained by being restrained, that God is opening doors and they plead to enter them and we will not permit. We exult in 82 new workers, but only the marvelous power of God can make them equal the five loaves and the two small fishes in their feeding the multitude.

A third impression is of the large plans that are being made for the future of the work. We note a new stress on the training of native workers, and we rejoice in it. From this land we need to send out only the picked capable leaders. We are not to supply the main working force; the rank and file of the force of the Church must be secured on the field. China is to be won by the Chinese, and Africa by the Africans. We are somewhat behind several other churches in the number of our native workers, but we shall not long be so. The venerable Dr. Ellinwood, with his ripe experience of foreign work, is crowning his service with plans and inspiration for adequate provision for this need. The Board should be commended without reserve in its large purposes in this regard. Men who are able to duplicate themselves by making it possible to train native workers should welcome the opportunity by giving largely for the schools which are to be established and developed. In all the Missions there is the feeling that as soon as possible the native church must bear its own load. Korea is only waiting the development of capable leaders to form its own Church. The site and part of the staff for the training school near Manila are already secured. The splendid Silliman Institute at Dumaguete is already under way. The new campus of the Wei Hsien College is nearing completion. The Siam, the Persia, the India Missions and others are calling for equipment better and larger than ever before to train native workers. Self-support is pressed and the converts are responding. In Africa the movement is strong. In Korea the native work supports itself almost entirely. In Mexico there is a rising spirit of benevolence. In China the self-reliant Church is developing rapidly. It is no small fact to chronicle the presence in this Assembly of an elder of one of our churches in China, the first in the history of the Assembly. How long it may be before the Lord's will is accomplished in the world-wide proclamation of the Gospel, no man can know, but the day is far advanced when men of all nations speak that Gospel to their own fellows.

The recommendations are not many. Few are needed.

I. That the Minutes of the Board be approved, and that the following be re-elected as members of the Board for three years: Rev. Wm. M. Paxton, D.D., LL.D.; Rev. John Balcom Shaw, D.D.; Mr. Alexander Maitland, Mr. John Stewart, William E. Stiger, Esq.; also, that the Rev. James S. Dennis, D.D., be elected to take the place of Rev. Dr. David Gregg, and that the Rev. Dr. Eben B. Cobb be elected to succeed the Rev. Dr. J. D. Wells, deceased.

2. That the Board be instructed to call the attention of the Church to the need for better training in the Sabbath-schools in the work of Missions, and to propose such plans for that end as may seem wise, and that each school be urged to send to the work of the Foreign Board an offering secured on the Sabbath nearest the Christmas Day and on Easter Day.

3. That the Board be instructed to arrange a conference with the Chairman of the Synodical and Presbyterial Committees, and with representatives of the Woman's Boards on the day preceding the next General Assembly.

4. That the Forward Movement, with emphasis on the work among men, and upon the maintaining of direct connection between the home Church and the field be approved, and the plans for its extension under guidance of the Board and the Advisory Committee be commended.

5. That the proposal to increase the equipment for the training of native workers in the various fields be warmly seconded by the Assembly in the belief that such workers can advance the kingdom of God more rapidly than others can do.

6. Finally, that this Assembly reiterate the declaration of many previous Assemblies that the Presbyterian Church is a missionary society whose chief business is the propagation of the Gospel to the uttermost parts of the earth, and that it record anew its purpose to execute the mission speedily and completely.

Resolved, That the Committee on Foreign Missions be instructed to communicate to Mrs. Labaree, widow of the martyr, and to the families of those starred in the report, an appropriate expression of the sympathies of this Assembly.

Respectfully submitted,

CLELAND B. McAFEE,

Chairman.

REV. JOHN D. WELLS, D.D.

Member of Executive Committee, 1854–1862. Member of Board, 1862–1903.

President of Board, 1885–1904. Died October 31, 1903.

INTRODUCTION

SIXTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U.S.A.

In making its Sixty-seventh Annual Report to the General Assembly, the Board of Foreign Missions would gratefully acknowledge the kind Providence of God in the encouragement and success which have attended its efforts.

Meanwhile it is with sorrow that it records the death of its beloved President, Rev. John D. Wells, D.D., who suddenly but peacefully passed away on October 31, 1903.

Dr. Wells had been connected with the Board of Foreign Missions since 1854, at which time he was appointed a member of the Executive Committee, as the Board was then constituted. Since 1884 he had presided over its counsels. Though he frequently requested permission to resign, he was entreated by the unanimous voice of his associates to continue, which he did until the time of his death. While Dr. Wells was greatly valued as a presiding officer, he was chiefly beloved as a man. His strong faith in God, his unfailing charity, and the humility with which he bore himself, were influences of inestimable value.

We would also report the death of Rev. Thomas Marshall, D.D., who for nearly fourteen years represented the Board as Field Secretary, with headquarters at Chicago. Having previously served with efficiency as a Home Missionary, and as a Synodical agent of Home Missions, and having spent eighteen months in visiting the foreign mission fields of the Far East, he was eminently qualified for the work which was committed to his care. Close contact with the wants and woes of the benighted millions of the Far East had rendered him an eloquent advocate of Foreign Missions.

During the year the following missionaries have been called to their rest:

Mrs. F. S. Miller, appointed October 6, 1892; died at Seoul, Korea, June 14, 1903.

The Rev. C. W. McCleary, appointed March 4, 1895; died at Elat, West Africa, June 25, 1903.

Mrs. Campbell Mackay, appointed April 7, 1902; died at Lakawn, Laos, November 14, 1903.

Mrs. C. C. Vinton, appointed February 2, 1891; died at Seoul, Korea, December 5, 1903.

The Rev. Benjamin W. Labaree appointed 1893; died near Salmas, Persia, March 9, 1904.

Mrs. W. W. Eddy, appointed 1870; died at Beirut, Syria, April 14, 1904.

The Rev. Boon Boon-Itt, died at Bangkok, Siam, May 7, 1903. Miss Emma Alexander, appointed June 2, 1902; died at Tokyo, Japan, February 23, 1904.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Vinton had both won in high degree the respect and love of their associate missionaries and of the natives among whom they labored.

Mr. McCleary had for eight years proved himself eminently useful, and had won the esteem and love of all his associates.

Mrs. Mackay died after one year of service on the field, going home like so many other young wives before the language was learned or her work had fairly begun.

Rev. Boon Boon-Itt was a native Siamese, who had been brought to this country and educated by Dr. and Mrs. House. Though not under appointment as a regular missionary of the Board, his natural ability, his thorough education and his devoted spirit enabled him to render most effective service.

The death of Mr. Labaree, who was murdered by a Moslem fanatic on March 9, 1904, has filled the Mission and the Board with horror and deepest sorrow. At the time of the writing of this report, the circumstances of his death are known only by brief cablegrams, but the fact alone of so cruel a martyrdom can hardly admit of further aggravation.

At a memorial service held on March 14, in the Board Rooms, the day appointed for Mr. Labaree's funeral in Urumia, Rev. Mr. Coan, now at home on furlough, gave a touching tribute to his deceased co-laborer, whom he characterized as an "all-around" man, qualified and ready for any service of the Mission which required special attention, a man of deep piety, and greatly beloved both by missionaries and by the native Christians."

Mrs. Eddy, widow of the late Rev. W. W. Eddy, D.D., had been a member of the Syria Mission for 53 years, 19 years under the direction of the American Board, and 34 years in connection with the Presbyterian Board. Her life had been characterized by fidelity, industry in the mission service, and the constant exercise of a positive spiritual influence upon the Mission and the native Christians. Three of her children, Rev. W. K. Eddy of Sidon, Mrs. F. E. Hoskins and Dr. Mary P. Eddy of Beirut survive her in the Mission service.

The term of service of the following members of the Board will expire with the present year, and they are respectfully recommended for reappointment:

Rev. William M. Paxton, D.D., LL.D.,

Rev. John Balcom Shaw, D.D.,

Mr. Alexander Maitland,

Mr. John Stewart,

William E. Stiger, Esq.

The term of service of Rev. David Gregg, D.D., has also expired, and he has removed to Allegheny, Pa., as President of the Western Theological Seminary and the Board would recommend the appointment of Rev. James S. Dennis, D.D., to fill his place.

Rev. Eben B. Cobb, D.D., who has been called to serve the Board for some months provisionally, is recommended for appointment to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Wells.

The Rev. George Alexander, D.D., long a faithful member of the Board, has been elected President.

Early in the year, acting upon earnest appeals from its chief mission fields for 200 reinforcements, and upon the recommendation of the last Assembly that the theological seminaries and the churches earnestly endeavor to secure the same number for the mission fields, the Board issued an appeal which was sent to the seminaries, the Synods and Presbyteries, and the summer schools, calling for volunteers with approved qualifications for the ever-expanding work. At the same time a corresponding appeal was made to the churches to so increase their gifts as to provide for this enlarged force. Up to the time of closing this report, however, only 25 men and 30 women (including wives) have been appointed and assigned to the missions.

A careful study of this whole subject will make it plain that another great demand is to be met, namely: that of an increased and more thoroughly trained force of native preachers. If the supply of missionaries from this country is so inadequate, a larger force of natives on the mission field must be trained for service, or the work will languish at all points. There is an additional reason for increasing the force of native preachers, namely: that with a given limitation of funds, a much larger number can be maintained. The cost of one missionary would support several native helpers. It is very evident that this resource must be more extensively resorted to in the future expansion of the missionary enterprise. Some of our missions are thoroughly awake to its importance. At a recent Annual Meeting of the East Persia Mission the subject received marked attention, and great emphasis was given in a special report unanimously adopted in favor of training a larger number of men to act as pastors and evangelists. A report from the Philippines emphasizes the same necessity.

The Presbyterian Board is below the average of the large missionary organizations in the proportionate number of its native preachers. Its financial reports for the present year show a comparatively small provision for what is called native work, and it is upon that work that our annual retrenchments generally fall.

But how shall a native ministry be supplied? There is abundant material, but we lack the means of thorough training. There is great need of institutions in which a chief attention shall be given to the preparation of Christian helpers of all kinds, men and women. The Board is always straitened for the means of erecting buildings and supplying equipments. This year it has been found necessary to strike out all estimates for new property of any kind, except in the few cases where special gifts have been received for the purpose. The situation, therefore, is a grave one. How is the difficulty to be met, how are necessary educational structures to be provided?

On the foreign field there is no Board of Aid to plead for this special class of objects, and there is no local sentiment which can be appealed to, nor is it possible except in rare instances to detach the presidents or superintendents for the purpose of appealing personally to the churches on behalf of the schools which they represent. These weak and struggling enterprises are far off, out of sight, and wholly beyond the reach of sectional sympathy. They can only be provided for by diverting funds contributed for current work, and as we have already shown, that which suffers most is the work of the native helpers. There is, therefore, this dilemma. In order to provide institutions for the training of future laborers, it is necessary to curtail the employment of even those who are already prepared for work. In view of these difficulties and discouragements, the Board is constrained to appeal strongly for some special provision which shall enable it to greatly increase its force of native preachers, and to enlarge and foster native effort in all directions. To this end it would suggest that appeal be made through the Assembly's Standing Committee on Foreign Missions to individual contributors of large means for special gifts for training schools in the mission fields.

With reference to this subject the following specific action was taken by the Board at its regular meeting, April 4:

"Resolved, I. That the report of the Board to the General Assembly shall present the great need of more native preachers and other workers, and the importance of providing facilities for the training of such agents.

"2. That the representatives of the Board at the General Assembly urge this matter upon the attention of the Assembly through the Committee on Foreign Missions."

The Board would invite the prayerful study of this difficult problem so essential to the future progress of the great missionary work of the Church, and would earnestly solicit generous gifts from the possessors of large means that its necessities may be provided for.

In July, 1903, Dr. Alexander, as a representative of the Board and as President of the Board of Trustees of Mackenzie College at Sao Paulo, visited Brazil at his own charges, and attended the triennial meeting of the Synod of Brazil, rendering to the Board on his return a valuable report of conditions and progress in that mission field.

He brought encouraging accounts of the Synod with its hundred churches and between ten and twelve thousand communicants. These churches, which since 1888 have constituted an independent Synod, are the fruits of the two Missions of the Northern and Southern Presbyterian Churches. Autonomy, self-government and self-support have reached a higher mark in Brazil than in any other mission field, and but for an unfortunate secession of a minority of the churches, which occurred at the time of the late meeting, the outlook would be altogether hopeful. Chiefly on technical or extraneous issues, a considerable minority withdrew, though there were few evidences of animosity attending the schism. A reunion is hoped for in the not distant future. The year has been marked by unusual activity and success in the Central Brazil Mission.

The Board is happy to report encouraging progress in the general mission work of the year.

The Missions in China seem to have more than recovered from the disheartening results of the Boxer movement of 1900. The indemnities claimed for the loss of mission property have in most cases been paid, and although there is in some provinces evidence of dissatisfaction with the general indemnity tax, yet the attitude of the people towards missions is more favorable than it has ever been in the past. In the Canton Mission the number of accessions to the membership of the church continues to be large. The interest shown by the Chinese Christians themselves, and by their fellow-countrymen in California and other countries, has continued to be manifest in the generous contributions made for the erection of chapels.

The Fati Training School for boys has by its normal training classes furnished scores of out-stations with effective laborers, so that the missionaries in charge of country work are virtually bishops superiptending the efforts of native preachers.

The Hunan Mission has made auspicious beginnings at Siangtan, Hengchow and Chen Chow. Each of the three Stations is manned by at least two missionaries, who have made substantial progress, though not without peculiar difficulties. The Hunan Mission has consummated a basis of friendly comity and co-operation with the London Missionary Society and the China Inland Mission.

A great advance has been made in the plant of the Peking Mission in the erection of a church, a street chapel, two hospitals, and five dwellings, all rising out of the ruins of the Boxer movement. Far better accommodations, a more wholesome sanitation have been secured by these changes. A corresponding interest is seen in the spirit and renewed interest of the people. The beautiful new church is thronged with listeners. More than fifty men have professed their faith in Christ, and new doors of influence are opening in all directions.

An account of the resurrection of Paotingfu Station, as seen in the ensuing report, reads like a romance. An attractive church, five residences, two hospitals, one for men and the other for women, a union school for the higher education of girls, and a primary school for boys—are either completed or in process of erection. The new church, dedicated several months ago, has been filled steadily from the first. The moral and spiritual soil not only of Paotingfu but of the outlying villages seems enriched by martyr blood.

The year has been signalized in the Peking Mission by the opening of a new Station at Shuntefu, the support of which has been undertaken by the Fifth Avenue Church of New York.

The missionaries of East and West Shantung have continued their steady, faithful work with a high degree of success.

Everywhere the work interrupted by the Boxer movement has been re-established. The transfer of the Shantung College from Teng Chow to Wei Hsien is to be made this summer, and although needing further supply of funds for the erection of buildings, it will enter upon a new and a large sphere of usefulness. The winter training classes have continued to be held for the improvement of the native preachers and helpers. In some cases, particularly at Chining Chow, large additions have been made to the churches, and the general outlook throughout the entire province of Shantung is exceptionally promising.

The present condition of Japan must awaken the deepest interest in all who love the progress of the Redeemer in that remarkable Empire. A conflict between Japan and Russia which has long been foreseen, is taking place in a startling manner. We can do little but pray that the God of the nations may bring forth good out of evil, and guard the interests of His own Kingdom. At the same time that the clash of arms is heard throughout the Far East, in all of which Japan is so deeply interested, it is important to note that - there has never been a greater readiness to receive the Gospel than during the past year. All accounts indicate the general prevalence of deep solemnity. During the year many addresses were given by Rev. Drs. Charles Cuthbert Hall and George F. Pentecost to large and interested audiences. Reports from the field speak highly of these discourses, and the general interest exerted by these brethren in the interest of Christian thought and life.

The Church of Christ in Japan has shown advancement in established faith and order, and, withal, a commendable missionary spirit. A special movement has been made toward the establishment of a Mission in Formosa, where two congregations have already been formed. The Japan Mission has asked the Presbyterian Board to establish a Station in that island.

The Korea Mission has maintained its high place as one of our most aggressive and successful missions. Not only in the North, where so great a work has been carried on for several years, but in the South and central portions most encouragmg results have appeared, and that notwithstanding the diminution of the missionary force by sickness and necessary furloughs. New interest has been shown in the matter of higher education, and steps have been taken not only at Pyeng Yang, but at Seoul, toward meeting the demands for the training of the native ministry. Generous gifts have been made by the family of the late President of the Board, Dr. Wells, toward the erection of suitable buildings for this purpose at the capital.

Unfortunately, as the year closes, a heavy war cloud has overhung Korea and led to serious apprehension as to its effect upon the Mission and the native churches. It is a time for earnest prayer that the evil may be overruled for good.

The India Missions have made no great and unusual advances during the year, but along all lines have reported faithful and earnest work. A perusal of their reports will lead to constant surprises at the variety and extent of service. There continues to be increasing attention given to evangelistic work, and in some cases large numbers have been baptized.

In Lahore College there are evidences of an increasing spirit of inquiry on the part of students whose antecedents have been connected with some of the Somajes. Two conversions are reported of young men formerly connected with the Arya Somaj.

In the Furrukhabad Mission, Allahabad College has shown considerable advance in the acquisition of land for college purposes, and also in the recognition which that institution under the presidency of Dr. Arthur H. Ewing has gained among the higher institutions of the country.

The Siam Mission shows advancement in all its Stations and in all departments of work. Having in charge the only missionary work of any account in Siam, it is extending its influence in all directions. The Mission continues to enjoy the favor of King, princes and high officials. The King during the year has generously given 4000 ticals ($1120) toward the erection of a hospital at Nacon. The field reports speak of several noblemen who have embraced the faith, and on all sides the influence of the Mission is being more and more recognized. Itineration and general evangelistic work have been prominent and fruitful. Laudable efforts have been made by the people in various places in the erection of buildings for the prosecution of the mission work in schools and hospitals.

The Laos Mission holds a high relative place as an aggressive force in a field where it is the only representative of the Christian faith. It has gathered many converts into the Church, notwithstanding its great need of recruits. Several of its stations are manned by only one or two missionaries, though trying each to occupy a large district.

The East Persia Mission has struck a keynote which ought to resound through all the mission fields and through the home churches. It is a call for the raising up of a large and efficient force of native preachers and helpers. In a special report it says: "The East Persia Mission has no greater need to-day than that of a corps of spiritually-minded native helpers, and it may be that we are not doing our duty to meet this want."

The Syria Mission has passed through a year of unusual difficulty, partly connected with the health of some of its veteran missionaries, and partly by the social and political disturbances which culminated in mob violence in Beirut. It is evident that the irrepressible conflict between Mohammedanism and Christianity is still rife. The censorship of the press still continues, and there is a spirit of unrest, social and political. Many thousand citizens fled from the city during the riots in August, and the general interest of the community has suffered irreparable injury. A serious outbreak of cholera in Northern Syria swept away 15,000 victims. At the same time, the work of the Mission, though embarrassed by endless limitations, made fair advance. A good work is being done in the schools, and the work of the Press has exceeded all its former issues. The organizations of the mission churches into presbyteries, with the new responsibility of self-government, has developed a more stable and virile type of Christian life.

The West Africa Mission has made a new departure. A year ago the Board seriously considered the question whether, in view of obstacles interposed by the local French and German governments, the entire work should not be handed over to the Protestant churches working under the French and German flags, while some new field should be undertaken by the Board in other regions on or near the Western Coast. So strong a protest, however, was made by the West Africa Mission that the project was abandoned and the work is being carried on with increased resolution and efficiency.

The Philippine Mission has moved forward with unchecked zeal and success. Three new Stations have been opened during the year in the southern part of the Island of Luzon. One of these commands the inland sea, known as Laguna de Bay, whose coast cities and villages comprise a wide and most inviting mission field.

Among the salient events of the year was the visit of Dr. Pentecost, who spent several weeks preaching at the most important centres, and whose discourses were of an earnest evangelistic character.

The dedication of the Tondo church, a beautiful structure, the first Protestant church in the Islands, was a memorable event. All the other Missions attended the service and tendered congratulations to our Mission and the church. In and around Manila are other small congregations, some of which have erected small chapels. The native evangelists employed by the Mission are most earnestly commended by missionary Rodgers for their courage amid "perils by robbers." In September a normal class for the training of evangelists was attended by fourteen representatives of the churches in other parts of the country, and by an equal number from the city. It is the purpose of the Mission to repeat this experiment every six months. Mr. Rodgers writes: "What we trust can be done, is that within a short time one of our more experienced missionaries be placed in such a position that he can devote his time almost exclusively to this subject of training the workers, first by correspondence classes, and by visits to the men in different towns; then by gatherings or conventions of a month's time, and lastly by organizing such a school as experience may indicate is possible."

The American church has received 87 communicants during the year. The average attendance has increased from about 50 to 140. During the year the Board sent out Rev. Stealy B. Rossiter, D.D., of New York City, to take charge of the English-speaking congregation at Manila. This was done upon the urgent representation of the needs of some adequate provision for American residents at Manila, who under proper direction and encouragement might soon build up a strong Presbyterian church at that influential center. Before Dr. Rossiter left New York, several thousand dollars were contributed by generous individuals for the erection of a suitable church to cost not less than $25,000. It is to be hoped that this amount will soon be completed and that a building worthy of such an undertaking may be erected. Earnest Christian work has been carried on at Iloilo and in the surrounding country, both on evangelistic and medical lines.

The Silliman Institute, at Dumaguete, with a hundred students, has already become a recognized power and has been spoken of by disinterested persons as the best school in the Islands. The more recent Station of Cebu has also made a fine beginning in evangelistic work and in the medical department.

The Mission in Colombia has been unfortunate in the past year, owing to the necessary withdrawal of some of its most experienced missionaries on account of failing health. Moreover, political disturbances, always existing in greater or less degree, have recently been increased by diplomatic conflicts between Colombia and the United States. But, as the influence of this country seems likely to increase in Central and Southern America, there is reason for increased missionary effort and influence in Colombia.

The Chile Mission has continued to prosper in the current work of the churches, and particularly in the development of higher education. The Instituto Inglis, at Santiago, has won a high position and an international influence.

The work of the Mexico Mission is gradually assuming more complete organization and is developing an aggressive home missionary spirit. Since the consummation of a union between different Presbyterian Missions, the independent Mexican Church has inaugurated missionary work by its own representatives in the hitherto unoccupied State of Chiapas.

The Eleventh Interdenominational Missionary Conference was held in January, 1904, and was entertained by the American Baptist Missionary Union. Twenty-three Boards and Societies were represented, the number of commissioners in attendance being 71. In the importance and interest of its discussions, and in the earnest spirit of the sessions, this Conference was unexcelled by any that preceded it. The practical science of Missions has been steadily evolved by these Conferences, and the question of comity is making progress.

The services of Mr. William Henry Grant are invaluable as a secretary of these Conferences, while his chief attention is given to various duties as Librarian of the Presbyterian Board, and as Secretary and Treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the Christian College in Canton.

Mr. David McConaughy, whose work is supported by special contributions outside of the finances of the Board, has labored assiduously and with a good measure of success as representative of the Forward Movement in connection with the work of the Board. Dr. T. H. P. Sailer, who renders his services gratuitously, has been indefatigable in promoting and systematizing Study Classes throughout the Church in Foreign Missions.

The recommendations of the last Assembly in regard to the Christmas and Easter offerings have been earnestly pressed upon the churches by the Home Department.

The Home Department Committee, composed of members of the Board and others, has given much attention to the various measures proposed to increase the missionary intelligence of old and young, and the systematizing of missionary effort along all lines.

The women of the Church connected with the various Boards and Societies which have so long been an important element in foreign missionary work have continued unabated. These seven organizations stand for systematic giving, for earnest personal prayer, and for that immeasurable influence which attends their sympathetic correspondence with the fields.

In response to a communication received from the General Evangelistic Committee, the officers of the Board sent to all of its Missions a request to unite with the home churches in a general and extended season of daily prayer for an increased evangelistic spirit, and for the speedy conversion of souls.

The Treasurer's report will show a general advance in all classes of contributions except that of legacies. The increase, however, is not commensurate with the inevitable growth of the work, and it must not be forgotten that, while the churches and the Missions are praying for a great enlargement of the work, there must be a corresponding increase in the consecrated gifts of the Church.

F. F. ELLINWOOD,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE FORWARD MOVEMENT.

(CONDENSED.)

May 1st, 1903.—April 30th, 1904.

David McConaughy, Secretary of the Forward Movement.

Upon the generous agreement of leading laymen to assume the financial responsibility for bringing about a forward movement for knowing and sending on the part of the Presbyterian Church (and particularly of the business men), which should parallel the Student Volunteer Movement for going, so as to help to effect the evangelization of the world in this generation—the Forward Movement Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions was appointed. An Advisory Committee was also constituted, composed of ten laymen from various sections of the country. The policy of the Forward Movement stands for

First, a specific object in the field abroad, connected by a living link with the Church at home.

Second. a scriptural method of maintaining the specific object by individual, systematic and proportionate giving.

Third, a campaign of education.

Fourth, a Forward Movement Committee carefully chosen by the session and charged with the carrying out of the Movement.

Attention has been given to developing the work in one or more presbyteries each, in the Synods of Baltimore, Pennsylvania and New York. A Synodical Campaign was also carried on on a limited scale in the Synod of Illinois.

In the Newcastle Presbytery, Baltimore Synod, a vigorous campaign was waged. The Presbytery at its meeting in October passed a strong resolution urging the Presbytery to assume "the entire support of the new Station of Chieng Tung in North Laos." The cooperation of the Secretary of the Forward Movement and the services of several returned missionaries having been secured the campaign was prosccuted during the month of January. The report submitted to April showed that out of 57 churches, with 6955 communicants, 25 pledged to the Forward Movement $2271.46. The result was very gratifying.

In the Pittsburg Presbytery, Pa., instead of attempting to reach the churches generally, attention was concentrated on a small group of churches in the east end of the city. In the East Liberty Church the results were most notable. After a men's conference, two men volunteered a thousand dollars each a year toward the support of a parish abroad, proportionate to the ability of that church to assume. The Forward Movement Committee appointed by the Session has earnestly prosecuted the matter, and the church is now proposing to undertake work in China to the amount of as much as twenty thousand dollars, some thirteen or fourteen thousand dollars of which has already been subscribed.

IN OTHER SYNODS.—Individual churches have shown marked improvement. Among the signal advances is that attained by the First Church of Duluth, Minn. Its offerings for Foreign Missions for some years have averaged less than $90. Under the stimulus of the Forward Movement, the church assumed the partial support of a Station in the Punjab, India, to the extent of about $1500.

The House of Hope, St. Paul, has made a remarkable record since the introduction of the Forward Movement, having taken up the support of not less than eight missionaries on the home and foreign fields within the past year.

The efforts of the Forward Movement have by no means been confined to the churches that are in a position to take one or more missionaries of their own. Small churches have had more of the Forward Movement Secretary's services than the larger ones. The impression that the Forward Movement is mainly concerned with providing the support of missionaries is erroneous. As a matter of fact, that is only an incident of the policy. The principle of the specific object is broad enough to embrace every opportunity of a world wide work. It is much to be preferred that the entire work of a Station should be included together, and by assigning shares according to the amount estimated, it is possible to offer the smallest as well as the largest church, a parish to be developed in the uttermost parts of the earth.

In the Huntingdon Presbytery is a church of 33 members. Every member is a day laborer, working in the mill, and the congregation was bearing the burden of a special subscription for the erection of a $4000 church building. Yet this church pledged $114 a year, assuming a share of evangelistic work in the Kurdistan mountains of Persia. The last letter from that field reports 109 converts on a single tour recently made by Mr. McDowell, the missionary who is himself supported by the Clearneld Church in the same Presbytery.

To sum up the results of the past year's work, so far as yet reported, they are as follows:

Conferences with Synodical and Presbyterial Chairmen and committees—seven. Campaigns in Synods—Illinois, one. Campaigns in Presbyteries—Newcastle, St. Lawrence, North Philadelphia, Huntingdon, and Pittsburg—five. Churches visited—103. Individual pledges through churches, new—$30,321.75. Individual pledges, direct, new—$12,510. Individual pledges, through churches, renewals—$7576 24. Individual pledges. direct, renewals—$3200. Total—

$53,607.99. It must be remembered that these are pledges and that there may be some shrinkage.

It is the aim of the Forward Movement to meet the ever-increasing demands made upon the Secretary for his services, to exercise extreme care not to interfere with the work of the Women's Boards, to maintain the living link between the missionary and the church, and to increase the efficiency of the work at home and abroad.

REPORT OF FOREIGN MISSIONS LIBRARY FOR YEAR ENDING MARCH 31, 1904.

The increased interest in missions during the past year has shown itself in the number of persons who have visited the Library and made use of its literature, stereopticon lectures, illustrative objects, maps and pictures.

The number of volumes added to the collection was 270, of which 44 were gifts from individuals, including twelve large quarto volumes bound in leather comprising the History of Roman Catholic Missions, in French and German.

The Library now contains 8029 bound volumes, besides some thousands of pamphlets and unbound magazines. Of the bound volumes, 3029 have been added since the reorganization of the Library, November, 1894. One thousand six hundred and thirteen volumes were loaned during the year.

The mission study classes organized by Dr. Sailer have given new impulse to reading and research, which has been outwardly manifested by their members coming to the Library to borrow or consult the books, and often to work. There has been a greatly increased loan of curios and pictures for special meetings, and the stereopticon lectures have been in active circulation in almost every State from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The collection of idols and curios has been enriched during the year by gifts and loans by missionaries and interested friends. The importance of the Library to those who are doing more serious literary work in preparation of articles and books should be held in view by all its friends as a depository for valuable books, manuscripts and illustrations.

ELAT: 75 miles east of Efulen; occupied as a Station 1895. Missionaries—Rev. Melvin Fraser, A. B. T. Lippert, M.D., and Mrs. Lippert, Mrs. C. W. McCleary, Rev. L. D. Heminger, Mr. F. B. Guthrie, H. L. Weber, M.D., and Mrs. Weber.

MACLEAN MEMORIAL STATION: at Lolodorf headquarters of the German Government in the Ngumba country, 90 miles northwest of Batanga; occupied as a Station in 1897 Missionaries—W. S. Lehman, M.D., and Mrs. Lehman, Rev. W. M. Dager and Mrs. Dager.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. R. H. Milligan, Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Johnston, Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Johnston, Rev. Melvin Fraser, Mrs. Dager, Mrs. Gault (and perhaps Rev. R. H. Nassau, D.D.).

The report from the West Africa Mission is full of encouragement. Self-support is being strongly urged upon the people, and their response is gratifying. A high ideal of Christian life is being taught, and the natives are struggling toward it from the depths of their ignorance and superstition. The spirit of inquiry is general, and the seekers after truth are being lovingly and carefully instructed. Reinforcement was gladly welcomed. Mr. Guthrie for the industrial work at Elat will meet a long-felt want. The others, Rev. L. D. Heminger, Charles F. Norman, M.D., and Mrs. Norman, Joseph E. Blunden, M.D., and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph N. Krug, were sorely needed, as the missionary force was so small that Lolodorf had been left without a white missionary.

But the year has also brought illness and death. The Rev. Etiyani Nyenga, a valued native worker of Benito Station, has been called home. Elat Station and the Mission are sorely afflicted in the loss of the "beloved McCleary." His return to Elat was a triumphal entry. The people turned out "en masse" to welcome him back to his work, but in a few months their joy was turned to mourning, for his work among them was over. His wife will heroically continue the work laid down by her husband.

BARAKA STATION.

The oldest work in the Mission, that among the Mpongwe, is being carried on by the side of the newer work among the Fang. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham are laboring to prepare the Mpongwe Christians for self-government and self-support. Mr. Milligan, in the ever-enlarging demands of the Fang work, has found some relief in the increasing efficiency of the native workers, who have been under his instruction for a number of years.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mpongwe.—Four persons were received into the church during the year. The catechumen classes have a membership of 25. The regular Sunday and midweek meetings are held, and Christian character is developing. A woman's meeting conducted by Mrs. Cunningham in the different towns meets a great need.

The officers and a goodly number of the members are interested in self-support, which has been attained again this year. The Sunday offerings for the year were $102. The Woman's Missionary Society supporting a Fang catechist, gave $41.40. In addition, $62.40 has been raised to erect a parsonage for the native minister, making a total contribution of $205.80.

Thirty-eight members of the Corisco church, living on the mainland in French territory, were organized into a separate church connected with the Baraka Station. They have given $27 to the support of the work, and have collected material for a new church which is being built.

Fang.—Mr. Milligan's work of itinerating among the Fang has been hindered, owing to his care of the Fang school at Baraka, and has been mainly confined to the supervision of the classes of catechumens formed in many towns, some of which are more than 100 miles distant. In this work, the launch "Dorothy" has continued to prove invaluable and entirely satisfactory. At the close of the year 65 Fang were received into the Ayol church by baptism, leaving more than 300 still in the classes under the instruction of catechists.

Five church buildings are being erected in different Fang towns.

EDUCATIONAL.—Mpongwe.—The day-school had an average attendance of 18. It was not thought wise to have boarding schools for the Mpongwe children, since they live so near to the Station. The school can never be largely successful until we secure a French speaking teacher.

Fang.—The boarding school at Baraka has had an average attendance of 70. Mr. Milligan has given the school close and constant supervision, though he was relieved in the teaching by a competent assistant. The work done in the school has been more satisfactory than in former years. A large place has been given to religious instruction, and attention has been especially given to personal work among the boys with excellent results. The large majority of the boys were professing Christians before the end of the term. Their towns are scattered over the whole area of the Gaboon field, extending from the coast 150 miles toward the interior.

Ndombo, the town in which a church was organized during the year, had a day-school with an average attendance of 18.

MEDICAL.—The medical department has been in Mrs. Cunningham's charge. Although we have no physician at Baraka, it is an extensive work, and has been larger this year than before. The dispensary is open every morning, and people come with ailments and diseases of almost every kind and in every stage. The average daily number of patients was 12. Since the first of January $46 has been received from the natives in payment for medicine.

The whole work of Baraka Station has enlarged and developed, and the needs of the work are great. The strong Fang people continue to press toward the coast and to afford an exceptionally attractive missionary opportunity.

BENITO STATION.

The second full year under Spanish control has passed without interference with the work. The missionaries have sought to adapt themselves to the situation. With the officials who have appreciated the desire of the missionaries to live up to the spirit of governmental laws and regulations there has not been the least suggestion of friction.

EVANGELISTIC.—No strictly evangelistic trips have been made during the year, on account of the stress of work at the Station. The prospects for evangelistic work are brighter for next year, as there will be two men at the Station and no building to do.

The Sunday morning attendance has been about 200. The midweek prayer meeting has been almost as large as the Sunday evening service, which has averaged of. The timidity of the people and the preparation for the evening meal make it impossible to get a large number regularly to attend an evening service. The Sunday-school has an enrollment of 300, and an average attendance of 130. Most of the 17 teachers are young men who have been recently received into the Church. The catechumen class meets at the same hour as the Sundayschool. Nine have come out of it into the church during the year; 28 new names have been added, making the present enrollment 55. Sunday afternoon the advanced boys meet with Mr. Hickman to read the English Bible and to sing English hymns. Saturday evenings a service is held in which the remarks are based on the theme of the coming Sunday service. Mrs. De Heer and Mrs. Reutlinger have held weekly prayer meetings for women in the villages about the Station with average attendance of 12.

Forty-two persons have been received into the five churches of the district. The Bata and Myuma churches are without supply, owing to the death of Rev. Etiyani and the removal by Presbytery of Rev. Mbula from Myuma to Ubenji. The people of Evune and Melega are building new houses of worship.

EDUCATIONAL.—In addition to the boarding and dayschool at the Station, there are seven other schools, supervised by a member of the Station. The children in the Benito Schools have always worked for their food, and this year they were asked also to pay something toward their instruction. The boarding scholars paid the equivalent of two cents per week, and the day scholars one cent per week. Thirtyfour dollars were received from this source, a large sum for them, and unquestionably the children have a higher appreciation of the value of an education. The teaching was almost entirely by natives, supervised by the missionaries. Under the law, Spanish had to be taught, and the only available native was a Roman Catholic. Mr. Ford, who was at the Station only a part of the year, supplemented the instruction as best he could. The school work was satisfactory to the Spanish officials. Boys and girls worked as usual two hours a day, doing much work about the premises, and in the garden, and cracking palm kernels to be sold to traders, and sewing.

The schools, in spite of many difficulties, are productive of much good. The children of different tribes are brought together and learn to live in peace. They must be systematic, obedient and at least outwardly reverent. They must overcome their inclination to laziness, and do some work each day. As a result, some through preference continue to live in their villages the kind of life that they learn to live with us. From this advanced position some of them turn from their old lives of heathenism or superstition to Christianity. Their grasp of Christianity is not what we should like, yet it is a reaching forth in the right direction. The average of the boys' school was 43, and the girls, 30. During the year 25 children have learned to read and four girls have completed their knowledge of the Shorter Catechism.

MEDICAL.—Mrs. Reutlinger, while not charging prices which a physician would for medicine, has received $47 in cash, trade and work. The simpler cases only were treated, yet much relief was afforded to natives and missionaries. Each of the three days of the week on which the dispensary was opened, from 10 to 20 patients would come for treatment. As opportunity offered, words were spoken to them of the Great Physician, and these words were not without fruit. Inquiring after one of the patients who had returned to his home on Corisco, the answer was, "Oh, he is better and is asking after the way of salvation!"

BATANGA STATION.

This Station covers a strip of coast 60 miles long, inhabited by 9000 people, with three organized churches and 680 members. The year opened with the Station well manned. 10 missionaries, including wives, having been appointed to Batanga, but only Miss Nassau and Mr. Knauer have been on the field during the entire year. January 12, only seventeen days after reaching Africa, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adams suddenly died, a sorrowful introduction for a new missionary, which was soon followed by the illness of both the stricken parents. The repeated fevers of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Knauer forced the mother to return to America with Mrs. Gault, and finally compelled Mr. Knauer to resign. to the deep regret of the Board and the Mission. Elat Station, sorely stricken by the death of Mr. McCleary, and the almost fatal illness of Mr. Fraser, sent an urgent call for help, to which Dr. and Mrs. Weber responded. The arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Norman in August, to take the place of Dr. and Mrs. Weber, was a great relief. These interruptions by illness, death and other contingencies sorely affected the work. Though the force was nominally large, only a moderate amount of continuous effort has been possible. But in spite of difficulties, there are reasons for encouragement and signs of advancement can be seen by those familiar with the work in former years.

EVANGELISTIC.—Miss Nassau took a leading part in the work of the Bongahele church, and visited in the towns as she had time and strength. Mrs. Gault in the early part of the year did some itinerating among the women. Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Weber visited in nearby towns, and were only hindered from holding two weekly meetings by interruptions beyond their control. An inquiry class was maintained at the Station for pupils of the boys' school. Mr. Knauer had oversight of the churches and native workers, of whom there are, I ordained man, 2 licentiates and 4 Bible readers, one of whom is entirely supported by the people. Twenty were added on examination. Native contributions to evangelistic work were 475 marks.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Bongahele girls' school has closed the tenth year of its work. It continues to bring Gospel truth and influence into many homes through hymns, psalms, catechism and prayers, which are memorized even before the girls know how to read. One hundred and twenty names are on the roll, two-thirds of whom are in the primary department. A large proportion of the number are baptized members of the church. One girl united with the church during the year, and several others are in the catechumen class. A Sunday afternoon prayer meeting is maintained, also a C. E. band composed only of Christian young women and girls. It is encouraging that former pupils, now married women, come back, sometimes with children in their arms, to revive their knowledge and go back to their towns with happy thoughts to lighten their toil.

The Batanga Boys' School was in session three terms, aggregating 184 days, with a daily average of 74. In August, girls were received who in the afternoon were given instruction in sewing by Mrs. Menkel. This arrangement has proved very satisfactory, giving many of the advantages of the boarding school, with less drain on the strength of the missionaries in charge, and only a small part of the expense. Two have joined the catechumen class. Six tribes were represented, but there were none from the Bengas. All instruction was in German. Attendance at church service was required. A C. E. Society has developed, and a prayer meeting, which is led by

This year for the first time the boys were required to pay toward their tuition. Each boy paid two sticks of cassava bread a week. This is about the only commodity available among them. One hundred and ninety-four marks were realized in this way.

In spite of some discouragements, the work seems more promising than in former years. The attendance was larger, more tangible results in open confession of Christ are seen, and a forward step in self-support has been taken. The effort to teach those who are old enough the blessing and importance of purity has not been in vain.

Ten village schools are under the Station's oversight. Six of them are open the entire year. The average attendance on each was 18 or 20, and enrollments ran as high as 50. The stand has been taken that the people of a village did not want a school unless they were willing to give something towards its support, and 325 marks have been contributed for the work, a clear gain of that amount. The absence of a sure market for their produce, which would be a reliable means of securing a little ready cash, is a difficulty in urging self-support; but the gifts of the past year give conclusive evidence that a large willingness to give is felt by the people.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Weber followed Dr. Johnston, and the work is now nearly self-supporting. The natives have little or no money, but they give cassava bread, plantains, eggs, etc. For a time, the charge for medicine reduced the practice, but it has again assumed the former proportions. There has been a daily average of eight new patients at the dispensary, and three returning for treatment. Twelve major and 26 minor operations were performed. Several times the hospital has been crowded to its utmost limit. During eleven months the receipts were $108.02 from natives and $119.12 from traders and government officials, a total of $227.14.

Mr. Adams has worked hard and faithfully as Mission Treasurer, and has greatly increased the efficiency of that important department.

EFULEN STATION.

Considerable time was given during the early months of the year to combating the rum traffic. Traders, seeking gain, are ever supplying the natives with intoxicating liquor, and the missionaries' vigilance must not lag if they would guard the natives from its evil effects. An uncompromising position is the only safe one. To refuse to give it in marriage dowry, to handle it in trade, to carry it for others, or to have anything at all to do with it is constantly urged by the Station. The evils of drink are becoming known, and the line is clearly drawn between those who handle and use it and those who refuse.

Sabbath observance is becoming more general. The idea that making a profession and having their names written in a book is Christianity is gradually being dissipated. The people are realizing more what is involved in becoming Christians. There is a deeper and more intelligent interest in spiritual things, accompanied by a correcting of past living.

EVANGELISTIC.—Fourteen persons have been received into the church during the year. The membership is now 26. One has been suspended. The same discipline is used in the catechumen classes as in the church. Anyone known to be leading a life unbecoming a Christian is suspended or dropped, and 48 were thus dropped and 17 suspended. One hundred and forty-one names were added, making the total catechumen enrollment 217, of whom 32 are in the advanced class. Some have given up polygamy to come into the classes.

The Sunday morning congregations have averaged 475. Sunday-school, immediately preceding the service, is attended by the whole congregation. An organization modeled after the C. E. meets Sunday evenings, with an attendance of 60. Its members are pledged against Sabbath breaking, rum traffic and other evils. It has helped to raise the standard of Christian living. After the opening of the girls' boarding school, the girls met Sunday afternoons for Bible lessons. Meetings were held on almost every Sunday in villages one or two hours from Efulen.

During the school term the boys met twice a week for instruction in the Bible. Sixty-six meetings were held for women in three villages, averaging 40, 50 and 80 respectively. The week of prayer was observed, the daily meetings averaging 200.

Two short trips were made telling the Gospel story and gathering schoolboys,—one of them to villages not visited since Dr. Good's death. Many times the question was asked.

"Why have you not come before?"

The church and catechumen classes have supported and directed a systematic itinerating work since July. Each month four persons voluntarily give from ten days to two weeks. For the five trips reported, there was an average of 10 meetings, with an attendance of 40. They preached to carriers on the road, to sick on their beds, and pressed the Gospel claims to individuals in private. Many villages which have never before heard the Gospel are reached in this way.

Thirty-six dollars and seventy-six cents were contributed by the church and inquirers. A new church seating 550 was built with the aid of men from the villages, at a cost of 700 marks.

EDUCATIONAL.—The attendance, interest and character of the school were better than for several years. The new primer, a large missionary force and more supervision, with the teaching of German the second term, were factors in this result. Appropriations and dormitories would allow but 100 boarders. The quota was filled during the first and second weeks of each term. After that, many boys were turned away.

Including day scholars, the average daily attendance was 148 for the first term and 152 for the second.

The boys, as usual, worked two hours a day for their food, have paid for all school supplies, and contributed $18.04 toward teachers' salaries, this being more than one-half of what was paid to the two native teachers. Each scholar also gave his mite toward the church contribution.

At the beginning of the second term the boys built a girls' dormitory, and a boarding school was opened, with seven girls, who were given sewing lessons in the afternoon. The matron attended school with the girls.

MEDICAL.—Since the physician was also school teacher, there was no time to gather in hospital patients. There were 300 treatments a month. A few operations were performed. The monthly income averaged $15.16.

ELAT STATION.

While the year has brought unexpected changes, yet the departments of the work have been sustained and God's blessing has been evident. A keen sense of loss and grief fell upon the Station in the death of Rev. C. W. McCleary, June 20. He had returned from furlough with his bride only the 4th of the preceding March. The place he occupied so long and well, and in which he was, from human view, so much needed for the future, is painfully vacant.

Mr. Fraser during the first half of the year was comfortably well, but in June he was brought low by an attach of haemo-globinuric fever. Since that time, while full strength has not been regained, he has been able to keep continuously at work.

EVANGELISTIC.—The attendance at church has been about 500, an average which was increased to 700 during the presence of the schoolboys for almost half the year. The regularity with which many participate in the services and the goodly proportion of young men have been encouraging features. The people have been eager to hear the Word, and there has been great joy in preaching Christ to the crowds. Scarcely a day has passed without one or more coming to declare faith in Christ. The coming of hundreds of confessors does not always mean so many converts genuinely convicted of sin. The people need long probation and much instruction, for they are densely ignorant and are to be persecuted and sorely tempted. The movement does suggest a pretty general shaking of the foundations of heathen life and belief, and the return of many to God. The church membership at the end of the first year since organization is 12, six adults having been received on confession of faith.

The Sunday-school has an attendance of 400. The weekly meeting of the less advanced class, which numbers about 100, is swelled to 350 by schoolboys and persons from adjacent villages; 20 unusually promising Christians constitute the meeting of the advanced class and the church members.

Mr. Salveter spent most of his Sundays in four villages from six to thirteen miles distant from Elat. The attendance varied from 125 to 250. A number expressed a desire to accept Christ, and one of the villages is building a meeting house.

Catechism instruction, daily prayers and meetings for women, and village visitations have proved a distinct help to the work.

A two-weeks trip by Dr. Lippert, east of Elat, and a 24-days trip northeast by Mr. Salveter reached many people for the first time with the Gospel. The horse and bicycle conserved the strength of the missionaries and drew many to the meetings. Several times during the year young men in pairs have been sent out in evangelistic trips of two or three weeks.

EDUCATIONAL.—The advantages of learning, decorum and manly character have become so advertised and recognized that where formerly boys had to be begged and supported, there is now competition for place. When the dormitories were full, boys came, saying, "Let us stay; we will sleep in the saw-pit and under the house, and live on sweet potatoes." So a score or more did. The day and boarding school attendance has been the largest in the history of the Station, the daily records the most regular, and the interest and progress most marked. The average attendance of boarders was 208. At one time there were over 300. With day pupils the average daily school attendance was 258. Sixty pupils have been reading the translated portions of the New Testament. During the second term German was taught by Mrs. Weber, as desired by the Government.

In the interest of self-support and development of wholesome character the boarders have been required to work three hours a day in payment for food. They have spent the afternoons in the fields and accomplished a vast amount of labor. The last term the day pupils cheerfully paid a fee of two cents per week, amounting to $5.62.

Much care is given to the spiritual welfare of the pupils. During the year over 300 of them expressed a desire to lead a Christian life. During the vacations the boys have carried Christian influences to their villages, in which they have held many meetings. In at least four villages suitable houses in which to hold services have been built. By God's grace many young fellows have been kept from falling and have let their light shine in the dark places.

MEDICAL.—The medical work has been in charge of Drs. Lippert and Weber while present, and at other intervals has been looked after by Mr. McCleary and Mr. Salveter. Medicines were dispensed to 1134 persons, not including school boarders. Cash received, $159.76, of which $124.76 was from natives and $35 from traders. A dozen hospital patients under Christian influences have expressed a desire to be Christians.

BUILDING.—Building a new Station is a work of some magnitude. With all the departments of work in operation, some delay and interruption to the building cannot be prevented. The efforts of Mr. Salveter during the year have been toward the completion of the second residence and the erection of one boys' dormitory and two outbuildings.

Thus the work of the year has run. In spite of interruptions and losses to the working force, the cause has forged steadily ahead. There has been a distinct gain in the growth of many, in grace and knowledge, in power to resist evil and in efficiency of service. Hundreds have acknowledged God. The Christ has drawn mightily upon the hearts of the people when lifted up in the several departments of work. The outlook is bright with promise all along the line. The year has been another earnest that His kingdom is coming among the Bulu.

LOLODORF STATION.

Hearts were heavy when ill-health compelled Dr. and Mrs. Lehman and Mr. Dager to prepare the people to be left without a resident missionary. Ndenga, a Batanga licentiate, was kindly transferred from Efulen. There is a strong feeling between the coast and interior tribes. In spite of this, Ndenga soon won for himself a place in the affections of the people. He worked as hard and earnestly at Lolodorf. Eagerly and faithfully he told the Gospel story day by day to passing caravans and people of the adjacent villages.

Before leaving for furlough, the missionaries organized a band on the order of Christian Endeavor, in order that Christians could help each other during their period of self-reliance. Trustworthy natives were given the care of the premises, and plans were made for the continuation of school and evangelistic work by the natives. It was a critical period to leave the Station just when the little company of advanced catechumens were almost ready to be organized into a church; but there was no alternative, for the missionaries were obliged to return to America for recuperation.

Reports from the natives in charge indicate a sustained interest. Mr. Salveter says:

Since the missionaries left Lolodorf last March, I have made three visits there. Ndenga who was left in charge of the evangelistic part of the work has been doing well and the attendance at the Sabbath service has increased. The morning service October 11th had the largest attendance I have ever seen at Lolodorf. The church which will seat about 250 being more than crowded.

Dr. and Mrs. Lehman and Mr. Dager will return to the field this summer with renewed health, so that the work of this Station will soon be more effectively prosecuted.

CHINA-GENERAL.

Our interest in China, whether considered from the commercial or missionary view point, centers in the eighteen provinces, which comprise about one-third of the land area of the Chinese Empire with its dependencies. Politically, however, the remaining two-thirds, comprising a land area of over three million square miles, is likely to occasion quite as much contention among the nations. The eighteen provinces contain nine-tenths of the whole population, and a proportionate amount of the wealth and resources of the Empire. The annual output of mines, manufactures and products of husbandry in this wonderful country will soon be enormously multiplied through the introduction of Western methods of transportation and machinery. On the other hand when once the taste of the Chinese people is developed for the products of the West they will become enormous purchasers of our manufactured products. ready the nation is awaking and asking the question why the Middle Kingdom should be so far behind other countries and unable to protect itself against their encroachments. The Germans are rapidly developing railways and opening mines in Shantung. The Belgians are building a railway between Hankow and Peking. The American concession from Wuchang, across the river from Hankow, is already laving the track which will give railway connection in time from Canton to Peking.

In the triennial examinations, which are competitive, the thousands of students assembling in the districts or at the Provincial examination halls are being asked new and strange questions. A number of the Manchu princes are travelling abroad and some are studying English. Chinese gentry are going abroad for education and travelling in even larger numbers, and many of them are employing Japanese, American and other foreigners to teach English in their families. "The Society for the Diffusion of Christian and General Knowledge Among the Chinese" in its annual report indicates the immense increase in the circulation of the books on Christianity and Western knowledge

Some of the questions asked at the late examination for Chu Jen (M. A.) degree are of special interest. In Honan the question was asked "What improvements are to be derived from the study of foreign agriculture, commerce and postal systems?" Kiangsu and Anhuei.

"What are the chief ideas underlying Austrian and German prosperity?" "How do foreigners regulate the press, post office, etc., and how do they get faithful men?" "Where is the Caucasus, and how does Russia rule it?" Kiangsi, "How many sciences, theoretical and practical, are there; in what order should they be studied?" "What is the bearing of the Congress of Vienna, the Treaty of Berlin, and the Monroe Doctrine on the Far East?" "Wherein lies the naval supremacy of Great Britain?" "What is the bearing of the Siberian Railway and Nicaragua Canal on China?" In Shantung, "What is Herbert Spencer's philosophy and sociology?" "Define the relation of land, labor and capital." "How best to modify our civil and criminal laws so as to gain authority over those now under extra-territorial privileges?" "How best to guard land and sea frontiers from the advance of foreign powers?" In Kuangtung (Canton), "What should be our best coinage,—gold, silver and copper like other western countries, or what?" "How to fortify Quangtung Province?" "How to get funds and professors for the new education?" "How to promote Chinese international commerce, new industries and savings banks?" In Hunan, "What is the policy of Japan—only following other nations, or what?" "How to choose competent diplomatic men?" "Why does China feel its small national debt so heavy, while England and France with far greater debts don't feel it?"

The Reports speak of the great and growing influence of the Japanese on Chinese education. "Even in religious matters we find that Japanese are endeavoring to assert an influence by banding together a large number of votaries who are professedly Buddhistic."

The missionaries have been received by the higher classes, as well as the lower, as never before in the history of Chinese missions. In places where they were formerly ignored or threatened, they are now openly received and entertained, and their advice sought. Many of the preaching halls are crowded with men of all ranks, especially younger men.

A brief resume of the history of the past ninety-seven years should be given. Robert Morrison landed in Canton in .1807, where he was compelled to live in close retirement, along with a few other foreigners, for nearly a year, when he removed to Macao. He at once set to work to make a dictionary and translate the Bible. He baptized his first convert in 1814. When he died in 1834 only three other missionaries had come to his help. The Church had in 1836 only three converts. At the opening of the treaty ports in 1842 there were some twenty missionaries and six converts. At this time the five treaty ports were opened and the missionaries came from Singapore, Canton and Macao where they had been studying the several dialects.

At the close of the second period in 1860 the communicants had reached one thousand. Some fifteen societies were then at work, with a force of 160, including women. After the Treaty of Tientsin in 1858, foreigners could travel by passport anywhere in China, and protection to native converts was guaranteed.

At the Shanghai Missionary Conference in 1877, there were 120 men and women, representing 20 societies. The whole number of missionaries to China had risen to 473—three times as many as in 1860. The communicants had increased from 1,000 to over 13,000. Only nine of the eighteen provinces had been entered.

From records of the Missionary Conference held in Shanghai in 1890, it appears that 1296 missionaries representing 41 societies were engaged in seventeen of the eighteen provinces. The number of communicants had incrased to over 37,000. Ten years later, in 1900, there were 2.785 missionaries with 6,388 native workers. The number of communicants had risen to 112,808, and 68 missionary societies were at work in eighteen provinces.

CANTON STATION.

It has been a great year in this field. The work has been abundantly blessed. The people have been unusually friendly and accessible. The lives and health of the missionaries and their families have been mercifully preserved. The largest material addition to the equipment of the Mission is the Woman's Medical College, adjoining the Woman's Hospital and in the same compound with the First Church, Canton.

Miss Lucy Durham has given valuable aid during the year, and Mr. Wm. D. Noyes, Rev. G. G. Bruce and Miss E. Patterson have been added as new missionaries.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The First Church of Canton has had the most prosperous year in its history in the large new building. The seating capacity of the women's side is already taxed. The number of men is also increasing, including many students and well-to-do business men. Mrs. Fulton's meeting for women is a most helpful agency. The Sunday-school has a corps of seventeen teachers and an average attendance of nearly 150 women.

San Ui Church.—Ten years ago this church was struggling along with a handful of members; to-day it has a membership of 240, of whom 47 were brought in this year. All expenses are met by the members, and $500 have been subscribed towards a new building.* Tong Ha has had 42 additions. The members have refitted the chapel and scores of villages have been reached. One member was persecuted because he would not share in idolatrous ceremonies, and his house and those of his sons were looted and burned, but he remained faithful. Chick Hom has a fine new chapel. At the first communion one hundred were present, though the members were scattered after many years without a house of worship. The expenses are borne by Christian Chinese in California. San Ming church has the best building on the field, the cost of which was met by Christians in California. Forty-four adults were baptized during the year. A service is held every night, many students from adjacent schools attending. There is a strong work among the women, chiefly due to the labors of Bible women. At communion services the women's side is full to overflowing. More than 30 have been baptized. No Foo church has made steady progress since its start, and it is difficult to seat all the members. It has one of the best of our chapels, and a separate chapel for Sunday services and work among the women. Former prejudice has disappeared.

The Rev. A. A. Fulton, who has charge of all the above-mentioned churches, writes:

Three things impress me as I review the work. First, the large increase is due not to gains in any one particular place, but to steadfast preaching and increased watchfulness over converts on the part of native preachers. Second, a most encouraging work has sprung up among the women due to the presence of capable Bible women. During the first six years with no Bible woman the women baptized were 45; during the past two years 174 were baptized; 118 since last annual meeting. Third, the increased contributions show the sincerity of profession on part of the Christians. Several chapels and two churches have nearly doubled their contributions since last year.

Chapels.—Thirty-two chapels have been under Mr. Fulton's care.

Sha Tui, which began in the house of a member, has a $1500 chapel and the people have given land for a school and are willing to give $100 for a building. Tong Ha drew its 28 baptized members from half a dozen villages bordering on Hok Shan. From Chung Lau the work has spread into surrounding villages, in one of which a man has built a chapel costing $700. Ng Shap, where a poor chapel brought poor results, now has large audiences in a shop put in repair without expense to the Mission. Chung Wan dedicated a new chapel costing $2000, built entirely by native Christians. Kam U began with two members; now we have 100 and will organize a church in November. At Yeung Lau Pan a site and building have been given, and converts from two adjacent villages will also attend here. At Wong Pi we began in a small shop. One man gave a better site at a cost of $250. At the last communion 50 women were present and 14 adults were received on confession. Siu Kong and Tung Pik have been started from the spreading of the work at No Foo. Around Yan Ping are Tong Tai and No Kat, lately opened and never visited by a missionary before. One hundred villages are hereby brought under the influence of the Gospel. The same holds true of the work at Ngau Kong To. Yan Ping has subscribed $100 toward a chapel and asks to be formed into a church. At Yeung Kiu the members have given a site for a chapel. They will soon be formed into a church. At Hin Kong, Shing Tong and Chik Hom the work among the women is very promising. During the year two new chapels have been opened, costing $2700, and three new outstations opened.

The following churches are under the care of Dr. Andrew Beattie, the six organizations being divided into 30 congregations, 25 of which have regular services in chapels owned by themselves or rented by the Mission or local Christians, and three of which have petitioned Presbytery to be organized into churches. It is gratifying to be able to report progress and activity at all these centers with only one exception. Quarterly communion services were held at most of the chapels. The attendance at Sunday services continues to improve, and in several of the chapels good Sunday-school and Bible classes have been organized. In many of the chapels C. E. Societies have been active and have done good work.

Canton and Vicinity.—Canton Third Church. The Sz Pai Lau chapel is used by this church for street preaching and church work on Sundays. The Bible class, the Sunday-school and the C. E. Society, the various prayer meetings and the Sunday services have been the largest in the history of the church. The additions to the church were more than double those of any former year. The school for English has brought many of the better class to the Sunday services. Some very interesting night meetings have been held, attended by many who accepted personal invitations and who cannot attend the day meetings. This work will be continued during the next year.

In the leper village the congregation is large. Twenty-seven lepers were baptized during the year. The C. E. Society is one of the best in the Mission, conducted by the lepers themselves. It is touching to hear these lepers speak of themselves as "outcasts from home and friends, but beloved of Christ."

At Cheung Pan the church is gaining ground; the girls' school is drawing the people in. At Wong Chi Kong there is a new chapel opened by Christians who were baptized in the leper chapel. The people are enthusiastic, perhaps because the chapel is the result of their own work.

Three years ago a church was built at Liu Po, but this year the members had to build a wing. Still it is crowded at communion services. The evening Bible study is attended by 15 to 20 members. There are 100 inquirers. At Uk Ha, the work was hard for some years, but this year 22 inquirers applied for baptism. At Tai Tong, among those baptized were men who gave the chapel site to the Mission. There is no opposition and most of the people desire to know the Gospel. In Yau Ku Ling, a good school has been opened which is practically a Christian Hakka village. Tai Fun has had another prosperous year; the chapel will not hold half the members. From Tsang Shing District, many invitations have come from large villages. We should push forward here as a wide door is opened. In Sam Kong a new chapel has been fitted up and a good school opened. The Catholics are doing all they can do to hinder the work. From Tsang Shing City, the work is spreading in the surrounding villages, and the chapel is too small for the growing congregations. At Ching Kwa, an interesting work has grown up. A neat chapel has been repaired and there are scores of inquirers. At Fuk Un Shui, steady work has been done and a good healthy spirit prevails. The elder has been very faithful, conducting services and doing a good deal of preaching. A school has increased the church attendance. The Catholics have possession of Shek Pi Tan and so the work suffers. The Germans have also opened a work near, which has drawn some away. Shun Tak.—This is a rich district beginning about ten miles from Canton City and so densely populated that it is supposed that there are nearly, if not quite, two millions of people in it. It is a proud as well as a rich district, and until three years ago the missionaries in spite of repeated efforts, found it impossible to gain a foothold. Now, however, this door is open. The missionaries have toured repeatedly through this most promising field, Christians have been gathered, and to-day 70 Chinese have been baptized; 39 the last year. A very large number have become interested. The small chapel built by the people themselves sometime ago is far too small to accommodate the growing con gregation. The Christians themselves have subscribed about $3,000, Mexican, toward a new church property, but land is high in that populous region and the building must be large to accommodate the throngs. The generous gifts of the Rev. H. L. Vannuys, D.D., and a friend who does not wish her name given, have now supplemented the gifts of the people so that an adequate and commodious church can be erected. At Tai Leung, services are well attended and a Bible class meets every night. Many of the gentry attend the services, and as opposition and prejudice die they will enter the church. At Chan Tsun, a Christian offered $300 to help in the purchase of a building and another $100 to put it in repair. Twenty years ago the mission began work in Kau Kong, a city of 100,000. The opposition was too strong and the work was given up. A Christian doctor has now offered half of his shop and this has been fitted up as a chapel. There are several good Christians here already. In Sui Wan, services are held every Sunday in the house of one of the Christians. Dr. Beattie says: "What has im pressed me most has been the readiness of the people to hear the Word; little opposition has been met." Scores of villages with thousands of people have asked for chapels.

Dr. Beattie has spent 118 days in itineration, conducted over 300 meetings, administered the Lord's Supper 82 times, examined over 500 candidates, baptized 270 Chinese, traveled by boat over 1200 miles, on foot over 500 and on bicycle about 400. Six colporteurs have done good work selling tracts and Gospels and helping the preachers.

Dr. Swan reports that in addition to the hospital patients who regularly attend daily morning service many come in from the street and neighborhood. The evening preaching service and the Bible classes are well attended. Two Bible women have done faithful work. The hospital preacher and a colporteur have done much service. The men's and women's schools have averaged 12 each. The Second Church, under the Rev. Kwan Loi, is intimately connected with the evangelistic work of the hospital and is self-supporting. The addition of a gallery is considered, though the church seats 600. The report of the church gives 3 elders, 2 deaconesses, 61 added on examination, 2 excluded, 3 died, total membership 300; 55 adults baptized, 7 children baptized, Sunday-school (average) 200, contributions $713.

The Fa Ti church, under the care of Dr. Noyes, has had a prosperous year. Fourteen adults and one child were baptized, three were dismissed and one was suspended, making the total number of communicants 86; 75 were present at the last communion; the Sunday-school numbers 200, and contributions were $64.06.

Woman's Work.—Miss Durham's work began nominally in January, 1903, but she had made several visits to the country since October. Since that time she has made three extended tours, one to a point 200 miles from Canton. She has also made many visits to places nearer at hand: the leper village Cheung Pan, Wang Chi Kong, Tai Leung, Sam Cho and Shek Lung. The women showed the greatest interest in the meetings, and the missionary could hardly get away from their importunities, being besieged literally by them. Four Bible women and two students have been under her care.

Miss Churchill has had charge of the Sunday-school and work among the women at the Third Church, Canton. She has held two meetings a week for women and children, some coming long distances. One afternoon a week has been devoted to visiting in the homes of the people. While it is difficult to get the women to leave their homes, there they listen gladly. Four Bible women have assisted her, visiting about 400 homes. She has conducted meetings in chapels 76, in school rooms 110, Sunday-schools 46, in homes 38, total 270.

Mrs. Noves conducts daily morning worship for women, and a weekly prayer meeting and Bible study class, the latter for church members. On Sundays a class for boys is held, and after the preaching service the women meet for further instruction.

The Sunday-school at the First Church and all the evangelistic work at the woman's hospital were conducted by Dr. Mary H. Fulton till she left on furlough; since that time they have been under the care of Mrs. A. A. Fulton, who has also a prayer meeting for women with an attendance of as high as 54. She has under her care three Bible women working among the hospital patients and visiting Christians needing instruction, and inquirers.

Dr. Niles has had charge of four Bible women, one being the leper woman working at the leper village. Miss Noyes has had charge of two Bible women, and Miss Butler of one. The hospital school was under Mrs. Kerr's care till she went home on furlough; since then it has been under Miss Noyes' care. Sixty-eight have been under instruction.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Theological Seminary and Boarding School at Fa Ti have continued under the care of Dr. Noyes and Mr. Boggs. One hundred and ten were enrolled, with an average attendance of about 100. Five were graduated, one returning to Christian work in connection with the Presbyterian Church of New Zealand. There have been 25 theological students, 19 in the special course for young men who already have a Chinese education. A high quality of work has been done and a good spiritual tone prevailed. Dr. Noyes has prepared commentaries on the last seven chapters of Isaiah and on Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Nahum and Micah. The kind assistance of Rev. G. H. McNeur of the New Zealand Presbyterian Church in teaching the Normal classes is gratefully acknowledged.

The True Light Seminary for women and girls was in care of Miss Lewis and Miss Elliott, while Miss Noyes and Miss Butler were at home on furlough. The women's department had 61 pupils, the advanced department 30, the intermediate 70, and the primary 62,—223 in all. This school is making progress and keeping up with the change of sentiment in modern China. During the year, 16 have commenced mission work as Bible readers or teachers. More than 20 now in the women's department are expected to become helpers, 10 of them have already done Bible work in vacation. During the year 42 were received into the church, 20 at the last communion, one being in the fifth generation of Christians.

Day Schools.—Dr. Fulton has under his care eight day schools, three being for girls. Dr. Beattie has had charge of ten day-schools for boys and one for girls. Mr. Fisher gave valuable assistance in the English school. Miss Churchill has had four schools for girls, with an enrollment of 122. One of the most successful was for Manchus. Dr. Niles has had a school in Macao, now to be given over to the Canadian Presbyterian Mission. The school for the blind has had 30 pupils. Five have united with the church. Mrs. A. J. Fisher has had one day-school. Miss Durham has had two day-schools under her care. Miss Lewis, beside her work in the True Light Seminary, has had charge of five day-schools with 147 pupils. Miss Lewis and Miss Elliott had one together. Mrs. Noyes has conducted a school at Po Tai Shui; it was not closed, as printed in last year's report. Mrs. Boggs had in charge the school at Ha Fong Tsuen. Here a colporteur has worked in the dispensary and the John G. Kerr Refuge for the Insane. Miss Butler, beside work in the True Light Seminary, has cared for two day-schools, with 88 students, the small boys' boarding school with 26 pupils, and a Sunday-school with teachers' meetings.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Niles' visits to the country and care of the women's hospital in Dr. Fulton's absence have interfered with her city practice, but she has had 50 office calls, made more than 130 visits, and performed 40 operations. In April she took charge of the hospital. Figures for the year are: Dispensary, new patients 2804, old 2678, total 5482; operations 59; teeth extracted 640. Hospital: In-patients 133; operations 30. Out-practice: calls 140; operations 18.

The Woman's Medical College had 19 students, 2 were graduated in July. Mrs. Noyes has had charge of the dispensary at Po Tai Shui. At first the people were suspicious and afraid, but when the hot weather came the patients came, too. The medical assistant has done good Christian work with the patients, and the Bible woman has been most faithful.

Mrs. Boggs opened the Fa Ti Dispensary after the Chinese New Year. The Sunday-school for women and children held there had an attendance of about 35. Dr. Swan reports a large number of patients, improvements in the work, additions to the surgical outfit, a driven well and a new three-story building for medical instruction, at a cost of $16,000. The report enumerates:

Men		1272
Women	5,015	402

a total of 24,870. There were 2356 operations, of which 1359 were for men and 997 for women.

The services of Paul J. Todd, M.D., have aided very greatly in the work the past year. The patients at the hospital show their appreciation of what is done for them by a more generous support. The entire current expenses of the hospital are provided by the hospital receipts and voluntary contributions from the local community. The provision of a pure water supply from a well drilled to a depth of one hundred and seventy-five feet, mostly through solid rock, has been a great boon to the medical work.

Lien-chow church. The same spirit of advancement as last year is to be marked in the growth of this church. The interest and progress are gratifying. Sixty-eight have been received. March 28 twenty-six were baptized, one being an official from a town near by. The preacher contrasted the present with ten years ago, when 40 could with difficulty be got together; now there are 300 on communion Sabbath. The need of a new church is more apparent than ever. Dr. Chestnut with her characteristic zeal secured the funds while on furlough. Wong Yuk Shing, lent to Honolulu for a season, has secured a goodly sum to supplement the funds. One Sunday the Christians themselves contributed $140.

The Sam Kong church had 18 additions and a good attendance; Kang Hau had 3 additions; Lam Mo 12 and 2 restored, but 18 dismissed to form the church at Ka Wo, which was organized with 22 members, 3 being on confession. A chapel was rented at Tung Pi, and since that time 23 were baptized there.

Bible Study Class. About 20 attended the sessions in the men's department, coming from 50 miles to the south and 80 miles to the north. The study class under Mrs. Machle and Mrs. Edwards was the largest in the history of the Station, 27 being in attendance.

ITINERATION.—In addition to the many trips to Sam Kong and the schools in neighboring villages, five trips of greater length have been made. The first was by Dr. Machle and Mr. Edwards to Hunan, the second by Mr. Edwards to Kang Hau, the third by Dr. Machle and Mr. Edwards to Tung Pi and Chung Ten Wan, the fourth by Mr. Edwards to Hunan, and the fifth to Tung Pi, where 13 were received.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are 19 pupils at the boys' boarding school, the less advanced attending the day-school under Mrs. Machle's care, leaving 11 taking the preparatory course as outlined by the mission school at Canton. The girls' boarding and day-school at Sam Kong under Mrs. Machle's care has had an attendance of 25. Ha Tsin day-school, with an attendance of 16, and Thoi Yun Pa are under Mrs. Machle's care. Nan Tai day-school, under Dr. Machle, has 16 pupils. Mr. Edwards has had charge of schools at Lung Hau, Ka Wo, Tsai King and Wong Pun.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Machle's care notes the increasing interest of the gentry and officials in the work. A flood caused the loss of $250 to the property. A class of 10 medical students has been formed, 5 being Christians. Many of the patients are from the province of Hunan. The most are from two provinces, but as many as five are represented. Evangelistic work has been made prominent in both the men's and women's hospitals, in the former by the hospital preacher and the blind colporteur, and in the latter by Mrs. Edwards' blind Bible reader. The report gives:

64 visits were made and 1090 operations performed.

In the whole Lien Chow field, the opportunity for work has been unparalleled in the history of the Station, and lack of workers only has prevented the entrance into the many open doors. The spirit of superstition is being overcome by the power of the Gospel. A temple, belonging to the neighboring village of Hau Tsin, with its twenty-two idols was purchased by Dr. Machle. A plot of ground adjoining a temple near the Women's Hospital was also secured, and hopes were entertained that the temple itself would be sold and transformed into a temple for the worship of the true God. That a spirit of progress follows the entrance of the missionary is again manifest in the desire on the part of many for public improvements. The repairing and straightening of the road to Sam Kong, so that it will be suitable for jinrikshas has been discussed and the missionaries consulted in regard to it. A bridge across the Lien Chow River, of foreign construction, is also under discussion, and Dr. Machle asked to take the lead in pushing the matter. A resident of Lien Chow has offered one thousand dollars to start the fund.

YEUNG KONG STATION.

Over a year ago, the street chapel in Lien Chow City was given up on account of its being an unsuitable place. At the Chinese New Year a house was offered for sale in a better location. All the inhabitants of the house had previously died and would-be purchasers were afraid to remove the ancestral tablet. Arrangements were being made to secure the house when a man, then an inquirer, but who has since been baptized, came saying that he had already paid the bargain money. He agreed to grant the use of the house for a chapel as long as wanted, free of rent, provided the missionaries would remove the tablet and repair the house. Dr. Machle removed the tablet and the place has been repaired at an expense of twenty-seven dollars. Daily preaching services are held and the number in attendance is often one hundred.

A school teacher employed by the Station, told the Gospel story at a market town where he was spending the night. A young tailor became interested, and came to Lien Chow to seek employment and study the doctrine. He was employed by the Bible woman mentioned above and her daughter. While he plied the needle either the mother or daughter talked the Gospel to him, in which he became deeply interested. When he learned that the Bible woman was to go near his home he gave her a letter of introduction to his mother and mother-in-law, urging them to receive and entertain her. At the last communion he was admitted to the church and has shown his zeal by bringing three others, and reports that at his home all ten are studying Christianity. His father, a school teacher, has read the New Testament and has asked for a copy of the Old Testament for further study.

This is the first time in the history of the Yeung Kong Station that its missionaries have had facilities for carrying on all the different forms of mission work, but opportunities are greater than can be covered. The Gospel has reached many thousands of hearts to whom one year ago it was hardly a name. Until he started home on furlough, Mr. Marshall divided the evangelistic work with Mr. Patton. Mrs. Marshall continued the women's work until she returned to America. A fall while on furlough injured Mr. Marshall and he has been the subject of much prayer. His complete recovery may be slow, but he is steadily gaining. Mr. Patton is in charge of the entire field work, together with the educational work for men and boys at Yeung Kong. Mrs. Dobson has supervised the primary school, taught the Sabbath-school, and conducted the women's work since the departure of Mrs. Marshall. The erection of the hospital together with the medical work has been in the hands of Dr. Dobson.

A new windmill bought by the missionaries to improve the water supply and more especially to serve as an example of one mode of irrigation, has led many of the native farmers to inquire regarding irrigating schemes.

EVANGELISTIC.—Four new chapels have been opened entirely at local expense. The mission bears only the salary of its representatives at those points. A private loan fund for aid in purchase of local chapels has been established, somewhat after the plan of the Board of Church Erection, though in this case a private effort. By a readjustment, six colporteurs have been added to our force without additional outlay of funds. Yeung Kong City Chapel had 18 additions, and the Women's Chapel had large congregations. Pi Kong and Fau Cheung chapels had 9 additions; Chik Leung and Lan Hei 4 additions. These places are under one man, though twenty miles apart, and the people from one place walk to the other for communion.

Pak Kwan had 5 additions. Early hostility to foreigners and trouble from the Roman Catholics make work here seem barren of results, but the outlook for future development is promising. At Nga Shiu, twelve members of the Yeung Kong church living there pledged the local expenses for opening a chapel. Yeung Chan had 8 additions.

Shui Tung had 4 additions. Local dissensions growing out of old misconceptions concerning church aid in official cases seriously embarrassed the year's work. Roman Catholic and French influence make this an unfortunately prominent feature of the work in the west end of our field. There is now a reaction in our favor.

Mui Luk had 15 additions and an encouraging growth in the spirit of self-support. At Ko Chau, 11 were baptized and a building provided at local expense. There were 4 baptisms at Nam Tong, though it was not opened till the first of the year.

Work for Women.—A number of suitable Bible women have been acquired. The women have their own chapel and are self-supporting. They are now undertaking to pay for their building.

EDUCATIONAL.—The True Light Learning Hall has been opened this year with 50 boys between the ages of 10 and 16. A special class in western studies was opened with 22 young men. An English class of 16 was held every evening. A reading room and book-lending library was also established. A theological class of 5 men was started.

MEDICAL WORK, The Forman Memorial Hospital opened October 2, 1902, with one ward of fourteen beds for men. The occasion aroused much local interest partly from the fact that the hospital is the first of its kind within 200 miles and partly because all the officials and gentry of the city and vicinity were present. The principal magistrate himself unbarred the gate and declared the hospital open. From the first the reputation of the hospital has been excellent. Patients have come from as far as 50 miles. One patient cured generally becomes a good advertisement in his region. Sixty-four per cent, of the out-patients have been cured, and twenty per cent. have improved. There was only one death, an emergency case. Of 216 operations 82 per cent. were cures and 17 per cent. were much improved. Two operations were on children for vesical calculus. A tumor weighing nearly two pounds was removed from the sciatic nerve of a woman, and sixteen cataract operations all had excellent results. The hospital accommodations are already too small.

SHEK LUNG STATION.

Both Board and Mission are happy in the generous gift of the Rev. H. L. Vannuys, D.D., of Goshen, Ind., in memory of his beloved wife, who, after a life of unusual beauty and Christian usefulness, entered into rest a short time ago. The amount of the gift was $6000 gold, of which, with Dr. Vannuys' approval, a small part will be used to aid in building a church at Shun Tak, already referred to in the Canton Station report, but the rest will be devoted to opening a new Station at Shek Lung.

Our work on the East River has grown until it should have more careful supervision than can be given it from Canton. Moreover, the work can be developed in that section to almost any extent. Shek Lung is the center of the work. It is an excellent location for a Station. It almost touches the three districts of Tsang Shing, Pok Lo and Tung Kun. In Tsang Shing we already have three chapels and in Tung Kun eight chapels. From Shek Lung any one of these chapels can be reached in less than three hours. Shek Lung has a population of over 100,000. It will be on the line of railway running from Canton to Hongkong. The new Station will cover the districts of Tung Kun, Tsang Shing and part of the Pok Lo district, embracing a population of upwards of a million people.

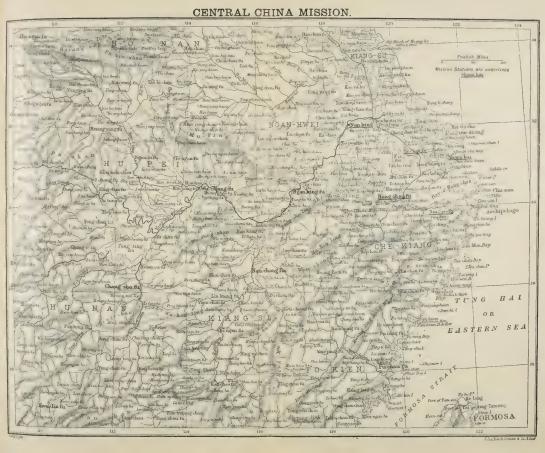

A new two-story brick chapel seating 400 was opened in Shek Lung during the year. On the ground floor are rooms for meetings for men and women and a good school room. About 500 people packed the church at the opening and several officials called and presented scrolls. The regular attendance has more than doubled since. The change in the attitude of the people in the last few years has been wonderful. The people were extremely hostile, but now opposition has almost ceased.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will probably be the first resident missionaries, and they will take up their residence at Shek Lung as soon as a house can be secured. An important work will doubtless develop at this strategic center.

The new missionaries added to the Mission during the year have been the Rev. Charles D. Herriott, who has been assigned to Hangehow; Miss Lois D. Lyon, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyon, who has been assigned to Soochow, and Miss M. D. Morton, and Miss Margaret B. Duncan, who have been assigned to Ningpo, to open a new school for higher class Chinese girls.

Progress has been made toward the union of the various Presbyterian churches. The Committee on Presbyterian Union in China held its first meeting in Shanghai in October, 1902. Besides representatives of our own Missions throughout China, members of the Southern Presbyterian Missions, the English, Scotch, Irish, Canadian, and American Reformed Missions were present. The whole ground having been carefully gone over, the committee felt that an Organic Union of Presbyterian Communions throughout China can be attained, and it is hoped that the day is not far distant when the Presbyterian Church of China, a united and independent Church, may come into existence. The basis of union will be, for polity, the Presbyterian system, with General Assembly, Synods and Presbyteries; and for doctrine, the consensus of doctrine held by the churches entering the union. This consensus is illustrated in succinct form by the Westminster Shorter Catechism. The committee's report has been submitted to the various Missions and Boards concerned, and has already been acted upon favorably by our own Board and by some of the Missions concerned. Others are about to take action at their fall meetings; and the committee is to meet again on November II of this year. Chinese pastors and churches are evincing much interest in the question, and will doubtless soon be called on in the Presbyteries from Manchuria to Hainan to take action upon it.

NINGPO STATION.

The report of the Station suggests at the beginning a difficulty which is now felt in almost all Missions in China, namely, the change in financial conditions.

Our force of native workers has remained the same. High prices have made it a hard year for them, but in spite of the temptations they have had, we believe on the whole that the year has been comparatively free from going into lawsuits of a questionable nature. Most of the men are getting old and are unable to do the work they once did, and before long there will be a most pressing need for consecrated, able young men. Most of the latter are students of English in our academy, and as we cannot give them reasonable prospects, we shall probably lose them, and then our work will be most seriously crippled. Young men who would give up a good salary in business for one-half or one-third that amount, to work in the ministry, are worth more than young men who enter the ministry for a smaller amount but who could not make more elsewhere. The former would also build up self-supporting churches more rapidly than the latter. It would be better to get first-class men to work at a sacrifice than to get mediocre men to work for less at no sacrifice.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The church at Yu-Yiao has raised $800 Mexican toward the erection of their new church building. With reference to the case of Mr. Yi discussed in last year's report, the Station relates:

Mr. Yi, who was formerly pastor in the Zong-yu field, was suspended from the ministry by act of Presbytery in June, 1902. He then went to Shanghai and entered a business position in the Shanghai Dispensary. In February of this year he moved his family from Zong-yu to Shanghai. Later on, in June, when his term of suspension had come to its limit, a special meeting of Presbytery was called to consider his case, and ultimately all the native members voted to restore Mr. Yi to the ministry.

One of the infant Sunday-schools in Ningpo under Mrs.

Fitch's supervision has now over 100 scholars.

Miss Rollestone, Miss Cunningham, Miss Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Kepler have all done itinerating work in the country. Of an interesting plan pursued by Miss Rollestone the report states:

After this Miss Rollestone arranged for a two months' trip to the Hae-deo region. The trip required more planning than usual, as it was Miss Rollestone's desire to give the Christians there some industrial work in connection with other teaching. The pastor of that district had also been most desirous for a long time of giving them some trade by which they could support themselves when crops failed, and which they might also ply in their leisure time. Weaving the small, rough towels now so commonly used by the Chinese, and which is at present a good business, was suggested by him, but could not be accomplished at the time. Probably it can be managed at a later date. Making straw hats, the kind worn by the farmers of the locality, was planned for in the meantime. While getting the straw, and making other arrangements which caused some delay, Miss Rollestone bought some native cloth, gathered the young women together with the hope of teaching them how to cut and make their own garments, one garment being promised to each woman when she had finished it. Several young women came. In the forenoon they studied and in the afternoon sewed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright also made during the year their first country tour. For three months and a half Miss Cunningham was in the country, mostly in a houseboat.

Ten days were spent at a farming village. Here, afternoon meetings were held for the women church members; house to house visiting was also done, and some teaching in the mornings. She lived in the home of one of the Christians, and the work there was much enjoyed. The last two weeks were spent at one of the out-stations, from which many villages and homes were visited, both Christian and heathen. One woman impressed Miss Cunningham as being especially interested in the Gospel story. Her heart seemed to be prepared to receive the truth, and while other women were asking all manner of questions about other things, she said, "Oh, tell me more about the Gospel! I want to learn all I can." She is a young woman with three children, and her husband is a business man.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are five boys' day-schools, two of which are self-supporting.

The latest one is the school at the Fu-zin church which pastor Zi organized. He secured the services of an excellent English teacher who, with a teacher of classics, is doing good work. In the summer examinations the boys were presented for inspection also, and although their faces and hands looked well, yet their finger nails and necks could have endured a little more soap. But it is to their teacher's credit that he looks after them even to this extent.

The only girls' day-school is the primary department of the Boys' Boarding School, which has been, as usual, under Miss Morton's charge.

The enrollment has been thirty-nine. All are children or grand-children of Christians. One girl was married at the Chinese New Year to a Christian tailor in Hangchow; another served as pupil teacher for a term, and still another, from the China Inland Mission, after several years in the school, returned to her home at the end of the year, where she is doing excellent work teaching the Christians and visiting among the heathen, accompanied by her mother or her aunt. As an impetus to good scholarship in this school, Cupid has impressed three of the girls into his service. One of these is engaged to a young man serving at present in the Diffusion Society. As he expects to take a course in the United States in a college and later in law, it will be many years before they can be married. Meanwhile his affianced hopes to spend a few years in Tokyo, perfecting herself in English and other branches, and then continue her work as teacher.

It would seem to be just the time to send a few picked girls to neighboring Japan to prepare them in the excellent schools already established there for the work of higher education for girls, which must soon come in China. Chinese girls especially need a change of environment to give them larger views of life and higher ideals, that they may be ready to assist in the work of regenerating their country.

Presbyterial Academy.—

At last the old building, a veritable factory of unnameables, has fallen. It was not venerable in its old age, and so there were no regrets to see it pass away.

A fine new building has been erected in its place.

Fifty-three have been in attendance the past year, and out of a much larger number of applicants for baptism four have been received

The interest among the boys in spiritual things has been higher this year than ever before. The Y. M. C. A. meetings are full of life and enthusiasm. One great help is the splendid class of teachers we have. They work together as brothers—the four of them—and it is pleasing to see them at the bi-weekly teachers' meeting discussing the needs of various boys and how to reach them for Christ. Mr. Bao, especially, who was a graduate from Hangehow College, and who also has had three years in the States, has a lovely Christian disposition, and its sunshine brightens everyone he meets.

In addition to being required by two daily inspections to keep their rooms in good order, the boys are required to have drill or athletics four times a week. Mr. Wright has charge of this work, and the boys have shown a great improvement under him.

Ningpo College.—This is the institution mentioned in last year's report, which the Chinese are erecting and putting entirely under Mr. Fitch's control, with the understanding that he is to have a free hand in its management and religious influence.

There are four trustees to this institution, and they are natives of the Ningpo Fu. Three of them have Taotai rank, and at present, with the exception of one of them, are in the wholesale business. The one exception, Mr. Li Tsing-u, returned in the spring from an audience with the Emperor and has just received an official appointment in the province of Hupeh. The grandfather of his recent bride is Wong Veng-ziao, of the Wai Wu Pu, or foreign office at Peking. These four men have taken great interest in the college, but the building work had received a temporary check owing to the recent attitude of students from Anglo-Chinese colleges in talking sedition against the present Manchu dynasty. Also the money market has been exceptionally tight during the last few months, so that it was hard to continue the work of raising subscriptions. Up to the present $21,500 has been paid by the Chinese for ground and building, about $1000 has been raised and deposited in a bank by Mr. Boa Yinhan, one of our Christians, for the furnishing of the ground floor, and in June the Board of Public Works paid over to Mr. Fitch $2000 for laboratory equipment. Before long over $1300 worth of apparatus will have arrived, and Mr. Li Tsing-u has promised a suite of rooms in his semi-foreign hotel for the temporary storing of the apparatus. At last, only one day before making this report, the trustees have rallied again and decided that the work must be completed this year, and they are taking up the matter with even more energy than before. All that has to be done is to put down the floors and put in the doors and windows. The building is three hundred feet long, over fifty feet deep, doors and windows of red hardwood, and floors of Oregon pine. The coping and pillars are of green stone, the latter being of Corinthian pattern.

It is interesting to note that in all their conversations about the school the trustees show no inclination to depart in the slightest from the original agreement regarding the management and the having of Christian services.

Twelve have been in attendance at the Girls' Short Term Boarding School, and the building has been got ready for the new Anglo-Chinese School for Girls, from the better families, which previous methods of work have not been able to reach. Fourteen men came to the Men's Training Class, and thirteen women to the Women's Training Class.

The ages of the women ranged from twenty-one to sixty-seven. The majority of them were elderly (over fifty), and that helped to make the work easier, as younger women often have more trouble among themselves, or have children who make trouble.

SHANGHAI STATION.

The year has been one of blessed opportunity, and we have great cause for thanksgiving to God for the visible token of His blessing in the beautiful new buildings at the Press Works and at South Gate, as well as for those not so easily catalogued and classified.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mrs. Fitch writes encouragingly of the Mission Press church.

Some of the members are growing in the "grace of giving"; the contributions for the year showing a decided increase. The church has built a very comfortable parsonage this year at a cost of nearly $950.

Of the Hongkew church Dr. Farnham writes:

It is nearly self-supporting and self-governing; but the pastor often comes to him to get help in his trials and difficulties.

The church has bought a lot, which they have been obliged, however, to mortgage heavily.

The church at South Gate, of 154 members, has passed through another year with our beloved Mr. Thaung still spared to us, though suffering most of the time with great physical weakness. Nine were admitted to the church during the year on profession of their faith in Christ.

The customary evangelistic work has been carried on in the city, and there was an interesting work at Moh-kan-shan.

During Miss Silver's absence on furlough, her Bible women, Mrs. Yung and Mrs. Pen, made eleven evangelistic trips to Pootung district. Sometimes they worked from their hired houseboat, but other times they lived for some days in the homes of friendly people. They visited and worked in ten different villages, and were usually very kindly received, with no lack of hearers, ready and willing to listen to the story of salvation.

EDUCATIONAL.—Mr. Silsby writes of the new building for the Lowrie High School:

The building has cost, including architect's fees, Tls. 7502.84, or about $10,000 Mex., and is worth at least a thousand taels more than it cost; for building material and the price of labor have advanced considerably since the contract was awarded over a year ago.

It is to the Earnest Workers for China, and especially to the energetic treasurer, Mr. Alex. M. Hudnut, that we owe this new building. The Society of Earnest Workers for China was organized by the young people of the First Presbyterian Church of New York some forty years ago, and has ever since been a supporter of the Lowrie High School. The present membership, however, is not confined to the First Church. Miss Maria Speer Wright, for many years president of the society, has gone to her reward, and many other earnest workers have passed away. The society has erected this building as a memorial of those who have gone before and as a crowning act after these many years of loving service.

Of the work of the school Mr. Silsby reports:

The religious work of the school has been carried on much as usual. The Young Men's Christian Association has been maintained during the year and the meetings have been very helpful, but as most of our boys have been in the school only two or three years, there has not been that efficiency that could be expected from older boys. With our better equipment we may hope to keep our boys longer and secure better results.

There has been during the past year a general feeling of unrest in the schools of China, and many of them have had to face outbreaks of insubordination which have seriously interfered with the work of the year. In the government schools these outbreaks have in several instances resulted in quite an exodus of dissatisfied students, and many mission schools have also been more or less affected by this spirit of unrest. In our own school we had some trouble which involved nearly all the pupils. A few of the older boys had stirred up the others to unite in making demands to which we could not accede.

We found it necessary to expel the one who seemed most blameworthy and to punish the rest in various ways. After it was all over the atmosphere seemed clearer than before, and the school closed in peace and with good prospects for the new term.

It is very gratifying to be able to report that so far all our graduates have connected themselves with some Christian church before leaving us, and we pray that the influence of the school may be increasingly Christian as the years go on.

Girls' Boarding School .- Miss Cogdal writes:

Fifty-six pupils were enrolled this last school year, with an average attendance of fifty. Three girls joined the church, two being children of unbelieving parents, the third having a Christian mother. Two of these girls pay for their board and tuition in full, and the other in part; all three are over seventeen years of age, and have unbound their feet since entering the school. The unbelieving parents can scarcely be said to really sympathize with their daughters in the stand they have taken, but they did not oppose them.

Two of our former pupils are practising physicians and hold re sponsible and well-paid positions in mission hospitals at Nanking and Wuchang.

Every one of our graduates who is free to do so is employed in school or hospital work, and so far the demand for such workers is by far greater than the supply. Others are exemplary wives and mothers and faithful to their home duties, and the demand for such wives is also greater than the supply.

Formerly the pupils in our girls' boarding school were all Shanghai girls, but now we have pupils from Canton, Hangchow, Ningpo, Nanking, Soochow, and other cities as well, so many people having come from other places to Shanghai within the last three years.

It is the aim of those in charge to make this a school for the best class of Chinese, that is, those who really value the privileges and advantages of Christian education and are willing to pay what they can toward the maintenance of the school and who give up the practice of foot-binding. Our receipts are increasing each year, and though the number of pupils has about doubled within the last six years, while the prices of rice, fuel and other necessities have increased twofold, we use a much smaller sum of foreign mission funds than we did ten years ago.

The Station has ten day-schools.

In Miss Posey's three schools, the Berean (or Anglo-Chinese—self-supporting), of from fifty to sixty pupils, takes up most of her time. The year began greatly rejoicing in the addition to her working force of Mr. Chang, one of her first fruits to Christian Endeavor, and who has helped efficiently in the teaching of English, mathematics and Mandarin in the school. He had been a number of years interpreter of English in the Wei-hai-wei regiment. From his experience in the regiment and in other ways the boys have been trained by him as "good soldiers."

One of the first severe cases of persecution was that of a young lad of sixteen, who had been to the school but about nine weeks. Mr. Chang reports: When he came he had scarcely heard of the Gospel, but soon he was led by the Holy Spirit to believe in Jesus Christ. He had only a mother and grandmother, and they were heathen. For refusing to worship his ancestors, he was shut up in a room and all decent clothing was kept away, so that he could not leave the house. He came to the school, anyhow, the next morning, and asked that some of us should go to his home and talk to his mother, which was done, but with little success. The next day he wrote to us saying that he was being sent to Ningpo.

LITERARY WORK.—

Dr. Farnham has, besides, the editorial care of the society's two magazines—the Child's Paper and the Chinese Illustrated News—published monthly. Each copy contains something of Christ—some saving truth.

During most of the year Dr. Farnham, Mr. Partch and Mr. Silsby have all been engaged in the translation and revision of the colloquial Bible. The hope is that another year will see the completion of the whole Bible in the Shanghai colloquial.

Besides the work of revision in the Chinese character, Mr. Silsby, more than ever before, has spent much time on the "Romanized" (i. e., using the Roman or English letters to spell phonetically the words represented by Chinese ideographs). Being convinced that it is almost impossible to teach adult Christians to read the Bible and other literature easily and intelligently in the Chinese character, he feels that with God's blessing the use of "Romanized" literature will be increasingly useful in enlightening the minds of many to whom the Chinese character is unattainable.

HANGCHOW STATION.

The main changes in the force of helpers during the year have been three; first, the resignation of the old Hangchow pastor, Mr. Tsang, and the installation of Mr. Dzi in his place. By this Mr. Tsang ceases his active connection with the church and Mission, though he still exerts himself in a hundred ways for the good of the work. Mr. Tsang, who is now sixty-five years old, has had a long and honorable career as a minister of Christ. After finishing school, he accompanied Dr. Nevius to Shantung at the opening of work there, and was a trusted helper. He then came to Hangchow, where he has been ever since, seeing the gradual growth, not only of our Hangchow church, of which he has thus far been the only pastor, but also of all mission work throughout this region. For nearly forty years he has been "in labors more abundant."

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The old City church has at last been removed and enlarged. The people have contributed generally, and the new building will seat about 500.

During the triennial examinations held in Hangchow, preachers of the various Missions have been chosen to wait on the scholars at the doors of the examination hall, with gifts of books. The books, a grant from the Diffusion Society, are two in number: a Letter to the Scholars of China, by Archdeacon A. E. Moule, and Permanent Prosperity for China, by Dr. Timothy Richard. We trust and pray that by this and by all means many of the scholars of China may be won to Christ.

Out-stations.—

Sin-z.—The work at this busy market town of twelve thousand or more is especially encouraging. Most of the additions are, however, not from the town, but from the farmers in the neighborhood. The church building was enlarged at Sin-z last year, as reported at our last annual meeting; and the new building is the scene of much earnest work for the Master. It is well filled almost every Sunday. A large shed has been erected within the compound for those from a distance, that they may cook and eat their dinner in shelter. The pastor here is simply overrun by his Christians and inquirers all day long on Sunday, but he and his capable wife seem to be happy and tactful in dealing with them.

Tong-yang.—No part of our field betrays our shorthandedness

Tong-yang.—No part of our field betrays our shorthandedness more than the Tong-yang district. We have here nearly a hundred Christians, with their families and a number of inquirers, nominally belonging to one church. But the supply, Mr. Loh, is growing too old and infirm to give the six widely scattered centers proper oversight.

Hai-ning and the neighboring towns of Hah-zeh and Yun-hwa have been worked as usual by Licentiate Tsang Pao-zun. He is growing more valuable as a helper; being a man of good parts and common sense and with a pleasing manner. The responsibility of caring for a number of Christians, and the desire to win souls, seems to be "making a man" of him. He has been greatly pressed by certain of the gentry of Hai-ning to give both advice and teaching help in a school recently opened by them. This he finally did, for a limited time, placing the money carned in the hands of the Station treasurer as a nucleus toward the building of a church at Hai-ning.

Pu-kiang.—The year's work here has not been without results. We have not, however, seen our way clear to receive any of the inquirers into the church. The effect of having been helped after the year of the riots, and of receiving indemnity for destroyed homes, has been a lowering of spiritual life; or perhaps, rather, of exposing and deepening the mercenary spirit of some who had joined us.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Hangchow College.—

During July and August of last year the scourge of Asiatic cholera raged in Hangchow and the surrounding country, carrying off hundreds and thousands of the people. Never before, write those in charge, do we recollect seeing so many white shoes on the feet and white braid in the hair of our scholars, as signs of mourning for the dead. School opened, however, with some seventy pupils, and the number kept up to the end of the term in January. There was no graduating class at the end of the year.

The teaching of English in all the classes is the most radical change which has been made in the school. But we still hold to the principle on which the college has been run in the past, that a mission school is for the education of the youth of our Christian con-

We are making an effort to have each boy who indentures for the full and regular course pay an amount equal to the cost of his living. During the spring term, ten or twelve boys helped to scrub floors, clean windows, etc., thus saving the wages of a servant. A step of this kind is quite an innovation on Chinese ideas of student-life; and some parents, though unable to meet the cost of tuition, were reluctant to have their boys come on such conditions. In one case, the father had refused to have his son study; but the boy pleaded so to be allowed to attend school that he was allowed to try for one term. He studied well, scrubbed well, grew fat, and seemed always to have a smile when at his task.

Some special help has been given by Mr. Gifford, a young American in Shanghai, who was called to take up some work in the col-

Mr. Tse, now the head teacher, has been asked by some Hangchow merchants to take charge of an exhibit for them at the World's Fair at St. Louis. He will be greatly missed; and yet it is the opportunity of a lifetime for him; and we pray that the experience may be blessed to him as a further preparation for usefulness in God's service.

We have in former reports emphasized the need of a professional teacher in the sciences, and also of a building for use as a science hall. Each year the necessity for greater proficiency along the lines of scientific teaching becomes more apparent; and a specially trained teacher is most urgently needed.

The religious life in the college has on the whole been very good. Much interest has been shown in the Y. M. C. A. A band of four has gone out every week to preach on the streets and to sell tracts and books. Nine have been received into the communion of the church. Quite a number are asking for baptism.

From various sources we learn that the reputation of the college stands high among the gentry of the city, who closely imitate our curriculum and methods in the schools they are establishing. The college has also fortunately been free from the spirit of insubordination fomented by certain young men educated in Japan, which has ruined a number of schools in this part of China.

Girls' Boarding School.—

After New Year several new pupils were received, bringing up the number to twenty-four, of whom two were day pupils. This taxes the slender capacity of the Chinese building we have to the utmost, and still there are some who had to be turned away. One bright little girl, from a well-to-do heathen family, was very insistent upon coming. She sent word several times by different people that she wanted to come. When told that she could not be taken in, she said she would come as a day pupil and pay any price for the privilege. She had to be told there was not even room in the school room to seat her. And still she sent word the very next day that she was coming. But there was no choice but to turn her away. Later, one of our Christians died and left a little orphan girl. Money was provided to put her in school; but there is absolutely no room for her, unless some of the older pupils are turned away.

Again a heathen family came begging to put their three daughters in school. If there was no room to sleep in the school, they wished to come as day pupils; and when told there were no vacant seats, they were anxious to bring their own seats and desks and willing to pay $2 per month each for the privilege. But there is no room, and these, too, must be turned away.

A terrible epidemic of scarlet fever raged in Hangchow in the spring, a disease new to China. The girls' school of the Southern Presbyterian Mission had to be disbanded on account of it; a number of their girls dying and thirty or more being dangerously ill.

Theological School .-

The class consisted of eighteen men, of whom three were from Ningpo, two from Hangchow, and five from Soochow; the rest being from three Stations of the Southern Presbyterian Mission. The students did very creditably. It is hoped that this experiment in a united class will soon result in the establishment of a union theological seminary by the two Missions.

A committee from several Missions has since visited Nanking and has agreed upon a Union Presbyterian Training School to be located there.

SOOCHOW STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Zong-sin-gyao.

The afternoon preaching service conducted here by Mr. Lyon has been marked by large and attentive audiences. The character of this audience has been slowly changing. It is no longer like the ordinary street chapel service, that is, the audience is not a transient one, and it is more like an established church service, many coming quite regularly.

A marked feature of this service has been the after meeting held immediately at the close of the preaching service, and to which all are invited to stay, and so far as it is possible each one remaining is dealt with personally. In this after service the foreigners present, the Bible women, hospital helpers and the Christians have a part. Large results are looked for from this hand-to-hand work, and it is proving to be a good and much needed training school for all helpers and Christians who have no, or at least little, idea of personal work. Our helpers can, for the most part, preach well, but do not yet understand the one man method.

South Garden Church.—

Concerning the attitude of the people toward the work, Dr. Hayes says: "A change seems to be coming over the people, and we have access to men and homes of the upper classes that heretofore were closed to us."

This work, during the entire year, has been most encouraging. This is real "street chapel" work, and so it is rather difficult to put the finger on many definite results, and yet there are some. The crowds have been encouraging. Hundreds of men and women have heard the Gospel. Some afternoons we have had five or six large audiences, and a number of times, after spending two or three hours preaching, selling books and tracts, we have had to come away and leave a large audience. The nature of these audiences is encouraging. They are no longer made up of the beggars and riffraff of the city. Many teachers and members of the better classes come and sit down and listen attentively to the preacher, and are always willing to receive a tract, and have bought some Gospels.

A large and growing work among the women has also been conducted here by Miss Moomau. In connection with this work one interesting case is mentioned by Miss Moomau: "At the New Year time, feeling that there was a great opportunity to get nearer the women, I invited them to my home to drink tea. Much to my surprise, not less than sixty women and children came. Among that party was a grandmother of one of my day pupils, who was so timid that I could scarcely drag her into the parlor. She had never seen me before, and being rather meanly clad in comparison with the silks and furs of other guests, I took special care to make her feel comfortable. After that she came quite regularly to our Wednesday and Sunday services. God seemed to give her a keen realization of her need of a Saviour and a clear understanding of the way of salvation, so that at our last communion she was received upon first application into church membership.

Itineration.—

Dr. Hayes made a trip to Li-li, which was quite interesting. The literati of that place banded together and called one of the graduates of our high school to teach English. The scholars made a feast for Dr. Hayes, and he was invited by the literati to speak in the town hall. He says they were evidently expecting history or science, and so were not greatly pleased with the Gospel message, but gave him a good hearing and paid his expenses to and from Li-li.

Dr. Cattell, Dr. Fitch and Miss Moomau have also made a number of country trips, the former chiefly to Ng-kong. Of the work at this place the report states:

There are about twenty who come regularly every Sabbath, and some of them quite a little distance, to attend services, hear the preaching and receive catechetical instruction. A number of these men have come before the session at South Garden, but so far none of them have been received into the church. The question is not an easy one with which to deal. Some of these people came expressly to get the foreigners' help and influence, and did not hesitate to say so. And yet some of them come quite regularly to the services and seem to be sincere seekers after light. For the present it seems best to lead them on into that light as best we can, letting them know that we are glad to help them in all spiritual matters, but to quietly and firmly say that we cannot help them in their law cases.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' High School.—

Sixty-five names have been on the roll. One of the pupils has been received into the church during the year, and there are now eleven inquirers. Six of the boys are Christians, two of them being from heathen families. Of the eleven inquirers, only one is from a Christian family. One of the most promising boys the school ever had was taken from school because he wished to be a Christian, and two others are believed to have been taken for the same reason.

A spirit of reform seems to be in the school. Three of the boys are from Szechuen; two of them are inquirers and one of them is an out-and-out reformer. He thinks there should be a new China, and is determined to do all he can to bring it about. He is also somewhat of an athlete, and because the native clothes and queue are not conducive to exercising, he has discarded both and adopted foreign clothing. About twenty of the boys own foreign suits, but do not wear them except during the time they are exercising.

pily recovered, and is now better than ever. The work has been under the charge, as usual, of Dr. Cattell and Dr. Fitch.

The total number of patients treated was 5166, of whom 1890 were new patients. Seventy-five minor operations were performed in connection with the dispensary work.

During the year 174 patients have been admitted, making, with the six remaining in the hospital at the beginning of the year, a total of

The shortest stay has been one day, and the longest 231 days, with an average of 21 days for each patient. In addition to the patients a number of relatives and servants were admitted, so that much of the time for the last few months the wards have been full to overflowing, and some patients were refused admittance.

Of the number admitted, 19 were Christian women, 102 were heathen women, six were inquirers. 15 children of inquirers, and 32 heathen children. Medically, the cases were of great variety and interest. Many of them were very serious.

There were some deaths during the year, all children except two,

one of whom was a poor tea house girl.

The work has grown among this nameless class of unhappy women, whom we call "Tea House Girls." With the help of Mr. Olsen, Superintendent of Police in the foreign concession, four of these girls have been rescued. Two have been placed in the Florence Crittenden Home in Shanghai and are now trying to lead Christian lives. One, a mere babe of five, whose feet were amputated, was sent to the Slave Girls' Home in Shanghai, and one, who became blind after a few weeks, is still in the hospital.

During the spring months two difficult operations were performed, and the patients in both cases recovered. One of these patients, after her recovery, and as an evidence of her gratitude, posted placards all over the city and country telling what had been done, and urging "scholars, merchants, farmers, all people that had any disease to go quickly to the hospital and be cured." These placards brought many patients, and the woman has become a Christian and has been baptized.

LITERARY WORK.—

Mr. Lyon has been engaged in translating the Soochow Sundayschool lessons and in the revision of the Old Testament into the colloquial, together with the correcting and revision of proofs. He also taught in the Union Theological School.

Dr. Hayes was also on the Translation Committee, and spent some little time in company with Mr. Lyon and Dr. Davis in the translation of the Old Testament into the Soochow colloquial.

NANKING STATION.

Last year's report recorded the death of Elder Peng, a worker of great power and fruitfulness. This year the next helper in point of experience, Jan Yong-king, has left, dismissed for unworthiness. On the other hand, some new workers have been developing well, several of whom are entirely self-supporting.

Mr. Williams writes of the work among the student class. He has, during the year, as opportunity offered, tried to do what he could among these men. Considerable time has been given, during their frequent calls, in explaining the teaching of Christianity as well as in answering many other questions. During the last part of April they wanted to meet in large numbers and hear lectures. They desired to perfect an organization for this purpose. The organization was discouraged, but help was given in the form of talks and lectures. Four such large meetings were held during May and June, attended by as many as 250 students. Dr. Macklin lectured twice, while Mr. Robertson, of the Y. M. C. A., gave one lecture through an interpreter. Afterwards on account of the size of the gatherings and anxiety of the officials, lest there be some other purpose than the one expressed, the meetings were discontinued.

Plans were made for a large campaign for the students during the present triennial examinations, but owing to misrepresentations to the new Vicerory and his consequent fear lest the students seize this opportunity to stir up trouble, the plan had to be given up. This caused great regret to those interested in its success.

A union service for all members of the native Protestant churches was held at Nanking once every month. The meetings were in the chapels belonging to the different Missions and were led in turn by the native pastors and missionaries. The attendance was good, and, we felt, tended to cement more closely the bond of Christian union between us.

COUNTRY EVANGELISTIC WORK.—

The large district about the city of Nanking has been divided among the different Missions. The portion to the south and east of the city was allotted to the Presbyterians. This district is traversed by two large streams that flow from the southeast into the canal that skirts the wall of Nanking. There are also two important land routes leading to Gu-yong and Chinkiang and cross roads connecting the larger market towns and cities. During the spring and fall, when the water is high, the work may be largely done by boat, but during the winter season one must either walk or use donkeys, spending the nights in inns or preferably in rooms owned or rented by the Mission. Mr. Drummond, by preference, travels entirely on foot, taking coolies to carry bedding and books. He thinks in this way to more effectively reach the people. Mrs. Abbey travels by boat when possible. but during the winter months she and the Bible woman either walk or ride as convenient.

Nanking needs greatly another woman to assist, and we need beside an ordained man, whose time will be free from other duties to carry on this country work, and who will be strong enough to endure the hardships of such experience. Never before has our Station given so much time and strength to the itinerating work.

EDUCATIONAL.—Girls' Boarding School.—Mrs. Leaman continues in charge.

There are thirty-two girls enrolled the past year; sixteen of these are members of the church and seven others are applicants for baptism.

Only after nineteen years of work have we been able to keep a class of girls long enough to complete the course of study. This was the first class of girls to graduate in Nanking, and great interest was felt by the other girls' schools. We trust the honor obtained by these four will stimulate the younger ones with a desire to complete the course also.

The industrial department did good work. Orders for a large number of fancy articles, both knitted and embroidered, were filled by the girls most needing help. A few of the poorer girls were thus enabled to earn their tuition and partly clothe themselves.

The Boys' Boarding School, as before, is under Mr. Williams' care.

After the winter Mrs. Williams taught the senior class in English and relieved Mr. Jao for other classes.

The attendance of the school has been better this year. The autumn term we had thirty boys, but at the new term at Chinese New Year we had thirty-eight on roll, and many others were refused entrance on account of lack of room.

Six or seven students during the year have applied for baptism. Being in the school, and under constant supervision, it was thought best to give them further trial. We have eight boys who are members of the church.

Miss Dresser has continued the Women's School, to which some country women came for study and training, and mothers' classes and training classes and three day-schools have been carried on.

HWAI-YUEN STATION.

Just after the close of the mission year the Station was able to buy a desirable piece of property in Hwai-yuen, which it had long been hoping to secure, so that it is no longer wholly at the mercy of land laws. The feeling of the people has continued altogether friendly.

On the whole, the tolerant attitude of the people toward us seems unchanged. We have been subject to the petty annoyances, including rumors and abuse, which foreigners everywhere meet in opening a The wonder is that we have escaped with so little. The most noteworthy thing was an incendiary fire which burned down our cow-house, and which might have destroyed our residences had the wind blown from a different direction. It was followed by placards, written by the incendiary, urging the people to drive us out, But all the while we could notice no diminution in the usual courtesy of the majority of the people, nor the slightest tendency to draw away from us. In fact, we could hardly wish for greater praise from an open enemy than the placard itself contained, for there was no word of criticism of our past conduct, and the writer relied upon the fear of possible evils to come to incite the populace against us.

EVANGELISTIC.—

As yet no church organization has been formed, but during the year we have baptized on confession Dr. Cochran's former teacher and the young man on trial as medical dispenser.

We have in our field two men who seem earnest inquirers. Besides these there are a large number who have approached us on the subject of joining the church, but who have been so manifestly moved by mercenary or political motives that we have been unable to give them any encouragement.

Systematic giving has been started among the Christians and regular attendants at our services. Each, on entering, receives a little bambeo slip bearing his name, and he threads his cash on a string attached to it, giving each week a regular amount, previously pledged. The plan works well, as they are interested in it, and gives promise of value in educating them in this Christian grace.

Itinerating.—

Mr. James Cochran took three trips. Two were to Feng-yang, one of which was with the special object of reaching the students at the prefectural examinations. A third trip was to a place about thirty miles up the Hwai river to sell books and preach at an idol procession, in honor of which a large number of people had gathered from the country around.

Mr. Lobenstine took five trips during the year. First, in company with Mr. Chu, he went up the Ko river to Ko-yang-hsien, intending, besides doing the usual work of preaching and selling books, to look up the family of a patient named Wang, operated on in the hospital, and also to investigate and, if necessary, close a "Jesus Hall" that had been opened for the purpose of doing a "Yamen business." He found it had already been closed, before he reached there, by friends in the China Inland Mission. The Wang family received him most kindly, doing everything for him they could, inviting friends and even passers-by on the street to hear him preach. He returned through the country east of the Ko, where there is an active work carried on by the Roman Catholics, whose converts are constantly causing trouble with the authorities and the people. They have been in that region for many years and are using methods that are thoroughly hated. We ourselves are badly enough disliked, no doubt, but this is partly because the people do not distinguish between us and the Roman Catholics.

Woman's Work .--

Before the houses were fairly settled visitors began to pour in, taxing their strength to receive them. They soon exchanged the usual calls of courtesy with the ladies at the Yamen and were invited to a feast, which they returned. Besides this they accepted several other invitations and paid and received many calls. Everywhere they met courtesy and in many places apparently sincere friendliness.

With some misgivings the ladies began a series of services for upper class women, whom custom does not allow to go to the chapel. They were held every second Tuesday, in the women's guest room. First, refreshments were served, after which was a religious service, followed by informal conversation about the Gospel. The attendance continued good; some seemed interested, and it was felt that the time was well spent.

EDUCATIONAL.

On the arrival of the two helpers from Shantung in March, it was decided to start a school for boys. It was opened with five scholars, and the number soon increased to eight, which is the present attendance. None of the boys receive free tuition, a minimum charge of five hundred cash being made for each of the three terms. Perhaps a good deal larger attendance could be secured for a free school, but we felt it important to try from the start to get a moderate contribution from those benefited. Although the number of pupils has been small and the expense considerable in money and time, we feel that both are well expended, because of the promise of a larger work in the future and because of the foothold it gives us in several homes, a thing we especially need in a new field.

Three training classes are carried on, two for men and one under Miss Lobenstine's care for women.

Circulating Library and Reading Room.—

The use of these and the number of callers in our guest room have both fallen off markedly during the year, as the novelty of our presence has worn off. The diminished use of the reading room is also partly due to the fact that several of the more wide-awake men now take their own periodicals. This has been rendered easier for them by the establishment of a branch of the Imperial Post.

Very gratifying was the success of a series of four lectures on "Christianity and Western Civilization" delivered in our chapel by Mr. Hunt, of the Disciples' Mission at Ch'u-chow. Tickets were sent only to literary men and were in great demand. Our chapel was well filled each day by the very men we wished to reach, and they paid close attention.

MEDICAL WORK.—

The reputation of the hospital seems to be spreading, and it is quite possible that during the coming year we will have to turn away many whom we could help, because of lack of room.

We are particularly glad to think of a family who came from a little village sixty miles northwest of us. Four of them underwent serious surgical operations and obtained complete relief from very great suffering; others received medical treatment, and still others of the family were in the hospital from one to two months nursing their friends. All had daily instruction in the truth and seemed to understand much of what they heard.

Though the unavoidable absences of Dr. Cochran from Hwai-yuen have been a handicap, the dispensary has been open one hundred and seventy-nine days, and five hundred and seventy-two new patients have registered; counting first and later visits, 1803 have been treated, and eighteen visited in their homes. There have been thirty-one inpatients. Seventy-six operations have been performed, eight of them major.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSION PRESS.

The report of Dr. Fitch, Mr. McIntosh and Mr. Douglass says:

The year 1902-3 marks another epoch in the history of the Press. The removals from Macao to Ningpo and from Ningpo to the East Gate, Shanghai, and thence to the present quarters at 18 Peking Road, were all of them important in their way, but none of them of such magnitude and such far-reaching results as the occupancy of our new printing works during the latter part of the current year. On the 17th of June our first religious service was held in the new building, in one of the work rooms which has been temporarily set aside for a chapel—as we have as yet no house for religious services in connection with the new buildings—and hearty praise and thanksgiving were rendered to our Lord, who has provided us with such a suitable place in which to do service for Him.

Realizing that, with the distance of the works from Shanghai proper, we should also need dwellings for our workmen, we asked and obtained from the Board a loan of $7000 gold for the purpose of purchasing land and erecting houses for them; the design being to erect five rows of five houses each, which were to be rented to the workmen at such a rate as would pay the interest upon the money and permit of an annual payment toward the principal, while at the same time giving comfortable quarters for our men, close at hand.

During the year we received from the American Book Company, New York, a large and varied consignment of their books, more especially school books. We are happy to say that the venture has succeeded beyond our highest anticipations. Of course, these books are all in English, but it is remarkable the extent to which they are being called for, for schools all over the Empire—schools conducted principally by missionaries, but also government schools with which no missionary is connected. Also the sales of books in Chinese, such as the works of the Society for the Diffusion of Christian and General Knowledge among the Chinese, the Chinese Tract Society, the Educational Association, etc., have been almost phenomenal, as is evidenced, partially, by the fact that our sales from the book, stationery and supplies room were some ten thousand dollars more during the first six months of 1903 than they were in the last six months of 1902.

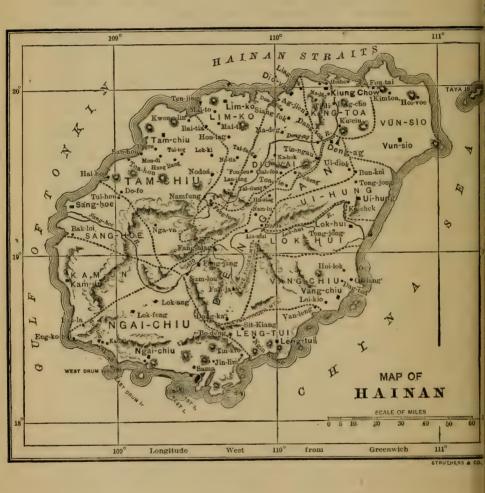

Of course, the removal to new and enlarged quarters has necessitated and facilitated the enlargement of our plant. We secured one large new Cottrell press, making the third of this class of machine from the United States, and also succeeded in getting a very good large English cylinder press, second hand, for a very reasonable figure. A new gas engine of one-half more power than our old one was purchased to take its place.

Several fonts of new Chinese type were cast and new cases made for them, so that our new commodious Chinese type room is practically full. The English type room is also being kept up to date.

While it is true that the work of educational reform has seemed at times to be threatened by the hostile attitude of the Conservatives, and many of the schools and so-called colleges which were begun with so much promise have proved very disappointing in their development, yet it is impossible to turn back the tide which has already set in. It may be stayed for a time, but too many of the youths and more enlightened men of the land have come to know that there is something better for China than the crumbling past or the unsatisfactory present. While they do not yet see clearly, and do not realize the real needs of China, nor of how these needs can only be met in the Gospel, yet more and more they are coming to look into the claims of Christianity, and our field of work is increasingly hopeful and ever widening.

HAINAN MISSION-1903-1904.

HAINAN: a large island on the southeast coast; occupied 1885; established as a Mission 1893.

KIUNGCHOW ("The Grace A. Mead Memorial"): Missionaries—H. M. McCandliss, M.D., and Mrs. McCandliss, Rev. Wm. M. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Rev. A. E. Street and Mrs. Street, Miss Etta Montgomery, Miss Alice Skinner, and Dr. J. Franklin Kelly and Mrs. Kelly.

KACHEK: Missionaries—Rev. Frank P. Gilman and Mrs. Gilman, Rev. C. H. Newton and Mrs. Newton, Sidney L. Lasell, M.D.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. A. E. Street and Mrs. Street, Rev. C. H. Newton and Mrs. Newton.

The working force in Hainan has been seriously diminished. The beginning of the year found more than a third of the entire Mission—Dr. and Mrs. McCandliss, Dr. and Mrs. Vanderburgh, Miss Schaeffer and Mr. Leverett-in the United States on furlough. In December, Dr. McCandliss and family returned, but in May Mr. Gilman left on a six Then came the news that Dr. Vandermonths' furlough. burgh had been forbidden by his medical examiners to return to Hainan, and the sad news of Miss Schaeffer's resignation on account of serious illness. Later, Mr. Leverett rejoined his Station, and the Mission had the pleasure of welcoming new arrivals in Miss Alice H. Skinner, Mrs. Gilman, formerly of the Canton Mission, and Dr. and Mrs. J. Franklin Kelly. Mrs. Kelly coming from successful missionary work in India under the Methodist Society. But now Mr. and Mrs. Patterson have been obliged to resign on account of the prolonged and severe illness of Mrs. Patterson, and Mr. and Mrs. Street are in America, so that the Mission is still badly undermanned.

KIUNGCHOW STATION.

There has been no serious illness during the year. In the fall a series of typhoons passed over Hoihow and Kiung-chow, but, aside from minor damages to houses, were without bad effect.

The year has seen good progress in building. At Kiungchow, Mr. Campbell has almost completed the Mead Memorial house. Miss Montgomery also erected a four-room building with servants' quarters and outbuildings, to house temporarily her scholars and women inquirers. At Hoihow, Dr. McCandliss has put up at the rear of the hospital a building nominally for assistants' quarters, but which, owing to a large part of the hospital being used as foreign residence, has been used also for patients. To those who know what building in Hainan means—the search for materials, the instruction of workmen, the lack of even a single assistant who is thoroughly reliable, the constant personal supervision and manual labor,—these items contain a history of accomplishment.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. Campbell had charge of the preaching services at Kiungchow. Sunday morning services were held at the chapel at the North Gate with an attendance of about 40. Since Miss Montgomery's school opened, the number is larger than before. At the chapel of the West Gate services were held Sunday afternoons with an attendance of 35 to 50. Sunday-school was also held at the North Gate. In the summer, Miss Montgomery organized a weekly teachers' class, and Mrs. Campbell has held a meeting for women on Wednesdays. There has been no gain in church membership, one addition being balanced by one dismission.

At Hoihow, Mr. Street held Sunday morning services in the hospital chapel, and Sunday afternoon, for part of the year, we had meetings in the street chapel at Tah Mui. During the first part of the year Sunday-school was held, but owing to lack of teachers this was changed to a general Bible class. For part of the year Mr. Street held two afternoon meetings each week for Christians. He also accompanied Mr. Gilman in a trip to Ngai-chui and Lui-chiu. In the hospital chapel services have been held every morning by Dr. or Mrs. McCandliss. During the year two members have been added to the church from Hoihow and six from Ngai-chiu.

In March, Miss Montgomery took four Bible women to the great idol feast at Liau Ta. The large crowds were very friendly, and although there were counter-attractions in theaters and gorgeous processions, she had attentive audiences and sold nearly four thousand cash worth of books. Again, in September, Miss Montgomery went to Deng-Ang and the surrounding region, holding classes for women and giving instruction. In addition, four Bible women have been engaged in regular itineration in the villages and markets within a radius of thirty miles with very encouraging results. Miss Montgomery says that she finds women wherever she goes who want to learn to read the Romanized type. These women who are able to read are a marvel to those who gather about them. Mrs. McCandliss has visited native houses, and several afternoons in each week has contrived to send out six Christian women two by two to do the same work. Her acquaintance with both Hainanese and Cantonese enables her to reach two classes of people, the Cantonese as the commercial class generally being the more prosperous. Mrs. McCandliss earnestly hopes that some other woman can be spared to help in this work, as there is a great deal to be done.

EDUCATIONAL.—Girls' School.—In March, 1902, there being no suitable place, the girls' school had to be closed. Miss Montgomery supplied the lack as well as she could by taking a few women into her own house for instruction. This year she put up the building mentioned above, and September 8, opened school with 14 boarders and 5 women from the country. Already the building is overcrowded and applicants are turned away almost daily. A noticeable feature is the willingness of the scholars to pay what they can. Formerly day pupils had to be supplied with needlework, etc., to compensate them for time lost while in school. Now, with one exception, every pupil pays for board, some a dollar a month, some a dollar and a half. One cooks the school rice, one brings wood, and later will bring food supplies. Of the women every one pays all her own expenses. Miss Montgomery has adapted Braille's system for the blind to Hainanese Romanized and has already taught one woman to read and write.

Boys' School.—The Boys' School was held in the old Tiau house, and the attendance was all that the building could hold, II boarders, 3 day boarders and 4 day scholars. Illness made it difficult to keep the boys in regular classes and prevented the reopening of the school in the fall.

It is almost impossible to go on the way we have done these past years. We have no right to receive pupils in quarters where we know beforehand that their health will suffer serious injury, and unless suitable buildings can be put up for the carrying on of educational work in Kiungchow, the superintendent sees no alternative but to close this promising part of the work of the Station.

The unanimous opinion of the missionaries is that the most important and pressing need of the Hainan Mission is higher educational work for young men at Kiungchow, the literary and commercial center of the island, the instruction given hitherto having been altogether primary. Such a school is practically the only agency we can look to for providing native evangelists and assistants for the Hainanese-speaking people, of whom we are in such need. The Mission is only waiting for the needed reinforcements and appropriations to begin this work.

MEDICAL.-Hospital at Hoihow.-This has been a "banner surgical year." An operating table, sterilizer and other appliances were contributed, and in spite of the fact that the hospital building was largely occupied as a residence by missionaries, the number of operative cases and in and outpatients has been large. Considerable time has been given to the training of native helpers, to the end that larger numbers may be handled in the future. Some time has also been given to teaching some of the women what to do for woman in woman's hour of trial, and the hope is to push this as being the greatest physical need of the people. The terrible results of ignorance, mismanagement and superstition are continually coming to light. In the daily chapel service the first five minutes are used in giving the audience, which consists mostly of patients, and averages from 50 to 150, some information on hygiene in the avoidance of disease, the general care of disease, and the evil effects of superstition bearing on dis-This arouses interest and leads to their paying more attention to the religious exhortation that follows. Two Christian women have been instructed in the care of surgical cases. The peninsula of Lui-chiu, which the Mission and Board are so anxious to work, has been reached by the hospital through 54 in-patients who have been treated. Mr. Street and Mr. Gilman found evidence of the good influence of the hospital work in many places during their trip to Luichiu.

NODOA.

In spite of the short rice crop, there has been unusual quiet for the last year, rumors of robber attacks not having been so frequent. But the soldiers have not been withdrawn from the market, and care has been exercised about going into the villages. There has been considerable illness both among forcigners and natives. At a time when an outbreak of cholera was feared in the market, a large devil celebration was held, and the unusual spectacle of Buddhist priests (invited from Hoihow) performing their rites was seen. It was all to no purpose, however, as an epidemic began before the celebration was over.

The "Century" house has been completed by Mr. McClintock, who has also erected the new girls' school building.

CHURCII.—The great event of the year has been the establishing of the first organized church in the Hainan Mission, with a membership of nearly one hundred. At the call for organization many of the members came up in families and remained for several days, listening to a course of instruction as to the duties and privileges of church members and officers. A set of rules was adopted for the guidance of the church, much stress being placed on the church attitude in lawsuits and dealing with officials. Three elders and two deacons were ordained. The elections were entirely free from instructions on the part of the foreigners, and the character of the men chosen showed that the members had a fitting sense of the importance of the offices. The women exercised their privilege of ballot as well as the men, and all were intensely interested in the results. As yet no native pastor has been chosen.

EVANGELISTIC.—Sunday morning preaching in both Hakka and Hainanese has been held each week with an average attendance of 125. The Sunday-school has had an average attendance of 105. Sunday evening services have been conducted by the older Christian school boys. prayer meetings have been held during the school session. The weekly women's meetings have been continued, and also the visits to the markets and villages. Many women have come to the compound to be entertained by the missionaries. Bible woman A-Niong has done specially good personal work with women hospital patients. During school vacations, several women came from a distance of fifteen miles bringing their own rice and asking for instruction, so that a special vacation instruction class was organized. In general, the strength of the church is the Hakkas, among whom the truth makes healthy progress. But among the Limko Lois, although there is no one who knows their dialect and can work among them, there is a very encouraging growth of interest.

EDUCATIONAL.—Girls' School.—The high price of rice, due to a failure of successive crops, has slightly reduced the number of scholars this year. A delay in opening after summer vacation was caused by an epidemic of dengue fever. The most advanced class has been a great help in teaching the lower classes as well as in instructing inquirers. Mrs. Melrose reports that this class has done especially well in their work in Bible history. Five of the girls have asked to be baptized, and one has been taken into the church.

Boys' School.—Here, too, the high price of rice diminished the attendance slightly. Five boys applied for baptism and were admitted into the church. All Christian instruction is now in the hands of Christian teachers. Field day exercises were held this year in which the competitive teams contended in base ball and basket ball and other sports.

MEDICAL.—There is a steady growth in the hospital work. As there is only one medical assistant, the dispensary at Namfung has been discontinued. Soldiers from the camp in the market still come for treatment, and the general sent his own daughter over for treatment. The secretary of the chief magistrate of the district also came for the removal of a tumor from his neck. The evangelistic work has been active, and a number of patients applying for baptism have been received as catechumens.

OUT-STATION NAMFUNG.—Services have been held as usual. There has been a marked increase in attendance, especially among the women, many sitting on the ground until benches were brought. Of five applicants for baptism, two were admitted into the church. A week before Christmas Mr. Patterson with preacher Un visited a number of nearby villages. The school has suffered from dengue fever, but has had an average attendance of 18. The scholars are all day pupils, but are required to attend Sunday afternoon Bible class, and many attend the Sunday morning service. Sunday offerings have been started at the congregation's own initiative.

KACHEK.

In December Dr. Lasell was released from the Hoihow hospital, and joined Mr. Gilman and Mr. Newton at this Station. Mr. Newton has finished the manse, so that now Kachek has one house ready for occupancy. Living in a proper house has already shown results in freedom from the fever from which the builders suffered so severely while living on the ground floor.

EVANGELISTIC.—Sunday preaching services were held in the kitchen storeroom at the manse, until after the opening of the dispensary in June, since which they have been conducted in the dispensary. The first of the year, weekday services were held in the dispensary chapel, and since the dispensary opened daily preaching services have been conducted with the patients. In October one new member admitted to the church. Before his furlough, Mr. Gilman, when not assisting in building, itinerated to Leng-Tui and Lia-Mui, taking in Vang-Chui and No-Lak and many other places. He and Mr. Street made a trip around the island and to Liu-Chiu to be spoken of later. Deng-Ang, Doa-Lou, Ui-Diok, Lia-Kka, Khou-Lai have been visited more or less frequently. Dang-

Ang is indebted to Kiungchow Station for work done by Miss Montgomery in itinerating, and by her Bible women, who did excellent work among the women. Helper Lim and Colporteur Lau accompanied Mr. Gilman on some of his trips and also made trips by themselves up the river to Cioh-Biah and south to Leng-Tui selling books and speaking of Christ.

MEDICAL WORK.—Medical work began by the opening on June 1 of the dispensary in the lower market property. The crowds were very large at first, but gradually settled into a normal size as the novelty wore off. All the work so far has been with out-patients, as there is no place for in-patients. There has been great willingness to take the medicines and much appreciation of the treatment. The accommodations consist of a room on the street, 23x11 feet, and the dispensary proper in the second house, 26x14 feet. What had been an open kitchen in a little courtvard between the two buildings was turned into a medical storeroom. Windows and a door were added to the dispensary, a water sink was made, the floor was covered with bricks instead of mud as before, and the dispensary was considered ready for use.

The first three days we simply treated patients. Most of the incurable, blind, lame, and halt of the district came in expecting instant relief. Gradually the hopeless and incurable element has somewhat sifted out of our practice, though a number yet come in to remind the practitioner of his helplessness, especially incurable blindness and leprosv. Fortunately the great majority of cases can be at least helped and many are cured. The tying of a bleeding artery for a merchant in the market was something unknown before to the district. A large tumor removed from a man's shoulder surprised the onlookers by the freedom with which the flesh was opened-about five inches, and the readiness with which the cut was repaired. Infected wounds of hands and feet were incised and the pain stopped almost at once. All these are new and convincing. Extraction of foreign bodies is also easily understood and appreciated. One man from the next district came to be treated for a bullet wound. Before the rains came, while water was very scarce, his village had a fight with a neighboring village about water, and he was shot in the mouth, the bullet going through his jaw and deep into his neck. A month later he came to us. We laid him on one of the benches used for seating people at services and told him not to move while we cut the bullet out-a big irregular lead slug. He carried that slug all around the market showing it to every one, and finally took it home to show his village. Bamboo thorns, needles, pieces of wood, all furnish us with a simple means for acquiring a name for skill.

THE PRESS.—The working force has consisted of one printer assisted by an apprentice and one of the school boys. Lack of funds has prevented the purchase of necessary equipment and greatly curtailed the output of printed matter.

The Romanized edition of Romans, already in manuscript, has been thoroughly revised by Mr. Newton and placed in the hands of the Literary Committee. A number of translations into Hainanese colloquial have been made by Miss Montgomery, including hymns, Dr. Kerr's book on Health, Air, Food, etc., a book for mothers on the care of children, a work on self-support, The Power of Prayer, Religious Emblems, and a number of booklets, tracts, etc.

The Presbytery of Hainan, which was organized at the Mission Meeting of 1902, held its second annual meeting this year. Two candidates for licensure were taken under care of Presbytery and the first delegate from the native church took his seat in the meeting.

NGAI-CHIU AND LUI-CHU.-A trip around the island down the east side to Ngai-chiu, returning by the west side to Hoihow, was made by Mr. Gilman and Mr. Street, the former on a bicycle. Many services were held and informal instruction was given, besides the selling of books. At Lak-Lah, Mr. Ngang, the native evangelist, was visited and six of his catechumens baptized. Everywhere the travellers were kindly treated and listened to, and in several places there were requests for some one to be sent to open permanent work. The south and west of the island were found to be infested with robbers and pirates, guards of soldiers often being necessary for safety. The total distance covered was 479 miles. On reaching Hoihow Mr. Gilman and Mr. Street'set out for Lui-chiu on the peninsula north of Hainan. Here the travelling was varied, sail-boat, steam-launch, bicycle and chairs, wheel-barrow and ox-cart all coming into requisition. The difficulty of dialect was somewhat overcome by the employment of a Hainanese returned from Singapore, where he was converted, who knows many of the dialects to be met in the peninsula. All along the route many old acquaintances were met, who had known the missionaries on former trips or had been in the hospital at Hoihow. One man brought a manuscript copy of the Lord's prayer, which he had made while a patient and had used devotionally since. There were also traces of visits of missionaries from Canton and Pakhoi in the shape of calendars, tracts, etc., but the people said that they had assured them that no work was to be taken up as the language was different from their own. At Am-fou there was a regular stock exchange scene when shorts are running to cover—the people surrounding the missionaries and taking their tracts as fast as they could gather in cash, hundreds were disposed of before they were satisfied. At Liu-chiu city, as else where, people were very friendly and bought books freely. Finally it was announced that the French boundary had been reached and shortly after the French flag was seen flying over Hai-feng market where one hundred Chinese soldiers in French uniform are under the charge of a French officer. The friendliness of the people continued, however, and after passing more French outposts a well-made road five meters wide brought them over the last ten kilometers of the way to Kwang-chowwan with its French military, naval and civil stations. The travellers put up in the Chinese quarter and heard many complaints of the French, whose regulations prevented the friendly Chinese from entertaining them over night in their own shops. It was soon evident that no work could be done there, and taking advantage of a small steam launch, the travellers made their way to Nan-chow, thence by sail to Luichow, by wheel-barrow to Si-Vun and at length again by boat to Hoihow, having covered, by cyclometer record, two hundred and ninety miles—the two trips amounting to seven hundred and sixty-nine miles in all.

HUNAN MISSION.

SIANGTAN: occupied 1900. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Lingle and Mrs. Lingle, Rev. W. T. Locke and Mrs. Locke, Dr. E. D. Vanderburgh and Mrs. Vanderburgh, and Miss Emma T. Kolfrat.

HENG CHOW: occupied 1902. Missionaries—Rev. Geo. L. Gelwicks and Mrs. Gelwicks, F. J. Tooker, M. D.

CHEN CHOW: occupied 1904. Missionaries—Stephen C. Lewis, M. D., and Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Mitchell.

The Hunan Mission is the youngest of all the Missions of the Church. Siangtan, the first Station, was occupied in 1900. For more than ten years, however, prior to this, our missionaries had been doing work in Hunan and the first Church organized in the province was established in the southeastern corner of Hunan by Mr. Lingle, who was then a member of the Lien Chow station. In its report for 1900, the Board said:

For more than a year the Board has contemplated an advance into the great province of Hunan, which lies north of the Quang Tung province, and extends as far as the Yangtze river. The southern portion of this province, which is said to contain from seventeen to twenty millions of people, is broken by mountain spurs and is not as densely populated as the great valley extending north and south through the central and northern portions. Through this runs the Siang river, which empties into a small lake near the northern border, and then flows into the Yangtze. On the Siang river are three large cities, namely, Chang Sha Fu, the capital, which is about 150 miles south of the Yangtze; Siang Tan, lying fifty miles southward on the river, and Heng Chow Fu, which is near the confluence of one of the principal branches of the Siang. Through this valley runs the contemplated line of the great railroad which is expected to connect Canton with Peking, and which has been conceded by the Chinese Government to an American syndicate. Hunan, from its position, therefore, as well as its great resources and teeming population, bids fair to be one of the most important provinces and the most interesting mission field in the Empire.

The people have been distinguished above those of any other province for the bitterness of their anti-foreign spirit, and the unyielding intolerance with which they have regarded the Christian religion. A few years ago the most inflammable appeals were issued from this province, calling the people everywhere to unite in a determined effort to exclude the missionaries and all foreigners, and indirectly threatening revolution.

A rapid change took place in Hunan, however, so that instead of being one of the most anti-foreign provinces, it became one of the most open and progressive. No opposition was encountered to the establishment of Siangtan Station in 1900, although in view of the Boxer troubles, it was deemed prudent to recall the missionaries to the coast until the outbreak in the north should end. In 1902, the second station was established at Heng Chow.

Other Missionary Societies have been establishing work in the province. There are now twelve missionary organizations having missionaries residing in its bounds. It seemed desirable to have a Conference of representatives of these various organizations at the beginning of the work, so as to avoid as far as possible duplication and friction; and in June, 1903, 32 foreign missionaries, representing ten of the twelve Missions, met in Changsha. The Conference considered questions of comity and the relation of the Conference to the Government and other questions of common interest. Among the actions of the Conference, it was resolved:

"That the members of the Conference pledge themselves to do all that they can to further the outward expression of the real inward unity that exists between the churches represented here. We advise that the Chinese terms for names held in common be as far as possible unified, and that matters in which we differ be emphasized as little as possible." "That this Conference of missionaries at present working in Hunan wishes to record its opinion that the Church of Christ in China should seek in every way to avoid all intermeddling in Chinese litigation of any kind whatsoever." "That inasmuch as the Chinese are entitled to freedom of choice, previous attendance at other services should be no bar to membership in the churches of any Mission. But no baptized or communicant member should be received or employed by any other Mission without consultation with the first Mission. Further, we suggest that when any unbaptized person transfers his attendance to a different Mission, the missionaries to whom he comes inquire as to his antecedents. And it is considered a brotherly act for the missionaries from whom he goes to volunteer such information even if not asked."

No formal action was taken as to the division of territory, but a discussion of the question led to some practical readjustments of the fields of the Missions. The Conference took measures for the appointment of a permanent Advisory Committee to deal with questions of comity and general Mission interests.

The force of the Mission has been increased during the year by the addition of the Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Locke, Miss Elizabeth McAfee, who went out to marry Mr. Mitchell, and the appointment to Hunan of Dr. and Mrs. Vanderburgh, formerly connected with the Hainan Mission.

The work of the Hunan Mission has been connected during the past year with the work of the Canton Mission by the establishment of a third Station at Chen Chow. The HUNAN. 85 early work developed in Southern Hunan by Mr. Lingle, when he was a member of the Lien Chow Station of the Canton Mission, and which embraced the first church organized in the province, has been transferred from the care of the Canton Mission to the new Station at Chen Chow. Of this Station, Mr. Lingle wrote during a visit in October:

I think Chen Chow must be a naturally healthful place, from its location among the mountains, and the present unnatural amount of sickness is due to contaminated water or something of the kind. I have seen more of the place this time than I saw in June, when I was here, and am more favorably impressed with it. It is doubtless larger than my estimate then. It is nearly, if not altogether, as large as Lien Chow. There are better streets and better shops than in Lien Chow, but our location here is not for the sake of this place, but in order that we may be within reach of all the other places which are assigned to us as our field. It is very nearly one hundred miles by overland route from Siangtan to Heng Chow. It is a little over one hundred miles by land route from Heng Chow to Chen Chow. It is at least one hundred miles from Chen Chow to Lien Chow, so you can see that we are not getting our Stations too close together. The Chen Chow Station will cover an immense territory. There are at least ten official cities in it occupied by no other Mission, not to mention the great number of towns, markets and villages. A half dozen men could not cover the whole field.

The Mission has had to face during the year a peculiar difficulty, growing out of the readiness of men of bad character to take advantage of the prestige of the Church. In many districts chapels were opened by Chinese who had no knowledge of real Christianity whatever, but who hoped by posing as Christians to secure influence in law-suits. Some of these chapels were established in the name of the Presbyterian Mission. Mr. Lingle has been busy securing the suppression of these and conferring with Chinese officials, explaining to them the real character of the work and the Mission's utter disapproval of interference on the part of missionaries in Chinese litigation, and all use of the good name of the Mission in Chinese disputes. The same spirit, which has led to the creation of these chapels, has brought many pretended inquirers to the missionaries, and it has been necessary to exert unusual care to admit no unworthy characters into the Church. The Mission has felt that it would be wise to take even an extreme position in the beginning, in order to keep the Church pure and to have its real character distinctly understood.

The Mission lost during the year Mrs. Doolittle, who returned to America, and her daughter, Dr. Doolittle, who resigned to marry Mr. Berkin, who is in charge of the Kuling Sanitarium.

SIANGTAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—

In Siangtan there are two chapels,—one in the city which is mostly used for Sunday services. Mr. Lingle has conducted the services here when at home. During his absence Mr. Wang of the Boys' School has occupied his place.

During the winter and early spring the audiences of this chapel ranged from one to two hundred persons, seemingly greatly interested. Later on, after several of the church members had been expelled, there was not quite such an interest,—there would be no temporal gain to belong to the Presbyterian Church.

Eight men have become members of the church. Of these, four have been expelled for using the church's name as a shield for evil deeds. This desire to rush into the church for the sake of protection, for gain, for power is strong all through Hunan, and is a phase that must be lived down. It will demand great discretion on the part of the various Missions, together with the influence of the Holy Spirit, to overcome this condition of things.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—

The Boys' Boarding School has greatly prospered since last year. It went at a poor, dying rate in the old building rented in the city, which was so distant from the home of the missionaries that proper oversight could not be given to it. In January a good, substantial school building, large enough for twenty boys, was erected in the compound with the foreign residences. Since then, the school has been more than full with students who have paid thirty dollars a year for board and tuition. The deportment of the school has been quite commendable, especially when one considers that there are no professing Christians among the students. The boys range in age from eleven to twenty-nine years, averaging about seventeen.

There are several students who are much interested in the gospel, and one who at his marriage, a few weeks ago, insisted upon having a Christian ceremony. He was not able to induce his father to consent, but there was as little idolatrous ceremony as possible. He openly expresses his belief in God and Christianity.

Sunday-school and day-school work has also been begun. Most of the missionaries have been busy with the study of the language, Mr. and Mrs. Lingle being the only older missionaries of experience, but the new missionaries are fast taking up their duties. Mr. Gelwicks writes:

I took up no regular work until this spring. The first effort was a little Sunday-school at our old home in the walled city. When we moved it became necessary to find another place, and though none of the people were professed believers, it was explained that the object of the school was to seek their good and not our own, so that they ought to help. I rented a room which required a couple of days' work to make it usable. They paid the expenses of this and cheerfully loaned all the furniture that was needed. Those interested were only a few families of quite poor people. This school has been conducted regularly and is a little light in the darkness. Some of the children are very bright and are learning much of the true way.

As rapidly as possible we are reaching out into the country districts and towns accessible from Siangtan. During my absence the evangelist did some of this work, especially the visiting of a large and enterprising town some five miles from the city. Since my return I had joined him in the visits and find that the opportunity for this work, which ought to be faithfully developed, is indeed great. We feel the need of renting a small building in this town. It may be asked, "Why not let those interested enough to assemble to hear the Gospel provide their own place of meeting?" The theory is a good one, but the practice of it, at least in Hunan, is attended with the gravest peril. In a new place the chances are that the majority of those who come at first and especially those who are most cordial and generous, are bad men and seeking false ends. To identify your cause with them, and make their homes the place of worship, may prejudice all the right-minded men of the place against Christianity; while to have a public place rented with your own money obviates this difficulty. It is recognized that the missionary cannot be held responsible for those who come in to hear.

As yet I have not baptized a single person, for which fact I feel like echoing Paul's fervent exclamation of thanksgiving in his Epistle to the Corinthians. At the chapel there are perhaps some fifty more whom we believe are honestly seeking the truth, but when any of them will be baptized I know not. We could easily report many baptisms, and if we loved the Kingdom less our reports would look more successful from our viewpoint. But again, we must ask those who care for the true interests of Christ's Kingdom in Hunan to be patient.

With regard to these perils, Mr. Lingle writes strongly in his report:

Eight persons have been baptized by me since our last Mission meeting. Four of the number have been dismissed since for misconduct.

The only two baptized members at Heng Chow have been suspended for giving their assistance in establishing unauthorized chapels and making gain out of them. I took a long journey in June, visiting the places where unauthorized chapels were running in the name of our Mission, and had them all closed, so far as I know.

MEDICAL WORK.—

This was in charge of Miss Leila Doolittle until the first of October, when she left the Mission to become the wife of Mr. Berkin, of Kuling. She was greatly encouraged in her work. She did not leave a record of the number of patients treated, but the dispensary was crowded each morning with thirty or forty patients.

It is hoped that the Girls' School may soon be opened in Miss Kolfrat's care.

In Heng Chow, the condition of things is very different from that of a year ago.

HENG CHOW STATION.

Then we had two members and many inquirers, and now we have no members and barely a handful of people to attend services, and the reason is just this. We put faith in a member who had been connected with the church for ten years in Kia Kwoa, one of the original out-stations of our work in Southern Hunan. We put him in charge of the chapel at Heng Chow and he proved a traitor, or rather he was not strong enough to resist the irresistible pressure brought to bear upon him by just such people as are spoken of above. The bribes and fees offered were too great a temptation, and he fell. The two church members thought that the Kingdom of God comes with great pomp and show. They were zealous to open up many churches, too, where the poor and afflicted and debt-oppressed and justly persecuted men might find rest, since for the sum of two or four dollars they might enter the church, and then the law could not touch them, and for a small consideration the debts were gotten rid of and outside debtors were compelled to pay up to those in the inner circle or submit to blackmailing.

Dr. Tooker, who gladly went to Heng Chow with Dr. Lewis last autumn, just after annual meeting, and who remained until spring to help the two young men still newer than he in the language, had the true instinct of a detective and was able to ferret out many of these things and reported to Mr. Lingle, who in due time dismissed the two zealous members and sent the helper home. The many false chapels have been with difficulty closed by the officials, at the solicitation of Mr. Lingle.

Mr. Mitchell writes of some of the pleasant associations of the new Station life:

The brethren of the London Missionary Society have been very kind to us. One of our great social privileges of the year has been the Heng Chow Club, a bimonthly literary society. We had six meetings and they were most enjoyable. Mr. How, our evangelist, has been a great joy to us. We have learned to love and trust him in the work.

Dr. Lewis adds:

The Heng Chow field we have not found to be an easy field for a number of reasons; but a field of great opportunities and possibilities, and with our most efficient helper, Mr. How, I feel at least a beginning has been made.

PEKING STATION.

The year has been one of great encouragement in the Peking Station. Progress has been manifest in things temporal and spiritual,—in buildings, schools, church, and opportunities for work of all kinds. New property has been secured for the Men's Hospital and resident physician. Three new buildings have been put up during the year, giving us now in all a church, a street chapel, two hospitals, and five dwellings. Dr. Wherry has borne the main burden of this exacting labor, and his supervision has been faithful and wise. Last, but not least, the new artesian well furnishes an abundance of pure water for hospitals, schools and families; an unspeakable blessing after having depended for so long on water of doubtful purity carried in pails from the ancient wells of the neighborhood.

CHURCH.—The beautiful new church has been filled every Sunday since it was dedicated in December. Not only on Sundays, but evening after evening for many weeks, the bell called people from their homes and shops until the church was filled with attentive listeners, mostly men, orderly and quiet, many of whom remained to the after-meeting, where there was opportunity for asking questions and learning more. It was in these after-meetings that some of them made their first attempts to speak or pray in the presence of others. Mr. Cunningham had charge of the meetings, which continued for two months; Drs. Whiting and Wherry and Elder Kuo aiding greatly in the preaching. It was encouraging to see those hundreds of men come night after night and listen attentively to the simple Gospel message. More than fifty men professed their faith in Christ, and many doors are opened by them to the Gospel messenger. The care of these partly instructed inquirers is a great work in itself.

The witness of a lame man who was formerly a beggar was used of the Spirit in encouraging many hearts. A man blind for twenty years was driven from home by his father because of his confession of faith in Christ, but he took it bravely, only praying for his persecutors. One day in the prayer-meeting, the blind man repeated in clear, strong tones, "Blessed are they that are persecuted for righteousness sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." He is a happy Christian in spite of his affliction. He will probably enter the school for the blind. Two brothers who became Christians were so changed in their lives that the transformation was obvious to their parents and neighbors, who said that the young men had taken the foreigners' medicine. The simple prayers of inquirers for sustaining grace, for fathers and mothers still in heathenism, and for one another were most beautiful and pathetic. Though the meetings were kept up so long, still, the neighbors seemed loath to have them stop, so they were continued two nights in the week. In June, half-hour meetings were begun for the men working on the men's hospital and Mr. Fenn's house. After the missionaries left for other duties, the Chinese brethren kept these meetings up with encouraging success. In these ten months twenty-three persons have been received into church membership, six babes were baptized, and a large class of inquirers instructed.

At Pipe Street Chapel a service has been held by Dr. Whiting every Sunday morning, after which the native helpers have usually preached to non-Christians, or read and discussed some tract, or conversed with any disposed to talk on religious subjects. Five days in the week, also, regular preaching at the outside chapel has been carried on by Dr. Whiting, and the numbers coming and the attention given have been encouraging. Some have become habitual attendants and a few have applied for baptism.

SCHOOLS.—The work of the Boys' Boarding School, under the care of Mrs. Cunningham, has been most satisfactory. Thirty-five boarders have been crowded into cramped quarters, which has accounted for the illness of some of the boys. The Chinese teachers have done good work, and as one of them plans to take up further study this fall, a young man who has just graduated from the Shantung College has been engaged for the coming year. His father was a preacher and a martyr at Paotingfu, while his grandfather was burned in his own home in our east country field. Two boys were graduated at the Chinese New Year, and hope to go on to college. One is a son of a former helper, to whom a widowed mother, younger sister and , brother look for support, and he naturally feels the need of getting out where he can make money. He has had some very tempting offers, but has had strength and determination so far to refuse. He has been a great help in the school, taking up and conducting the physical drill begun by Mr. Hersey (a converted American soldier befriended by Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham). Aside from the limited accommodations, there are two reasons for the school being small. One is that a good tuition is charged, and the other is that little attention is given to the study of English. There has been an excellent spirit in the school all the year. Six boys were received into the church, two of these having been baptized in infancy. Twelve others asked for admission.

The Boys' Day-school at the gate was also under Mrs. Cunningham's supervision, but was hampered by a lack of devotion on the part of the native teacher, who aspired to an Imperial school with higher salary. The little girls' school, under the care of Miss McCoy, numbered fourteen pupils. The plan was to prepare them for entering the Congregational Bridgman School for Girls in accordance with the union scheme. One of Miss Newton's former pupils who escaped massacre has been a most faithful teacher.

Miss McCov has given two hours a day to teaching.

The work done for children outside of schools has been most interesting. Miss McCoy has gathered nearly a hundred "street Arabs" into the chapel near the first station which was destroyed. Here they are taught hymns and a text each Sunday, and occasionally they receive as reward a picture card, and it makes little difference to them whether it advertises soap or sewing machines. In the afternoon a similar company, but smaller in number, come to the Sunday-school on Second Street, where they are also taught a text from a red card which they frequently carry to their homes and put up on the walls, sometimes the whole family learning the text before the next Sabbath.

MEDICAL WORK.—The deeply regretted resignation of Dr. and Mrs. John Inglis on account of ill-health was followed by the appointment of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Griggs, who took charge of the medical work for men connected with the important An Ting Hospital. Partly owing to the rebuilding operations and partly to the necessity for language study, the work was comparatively small during the year. Nevertheless, there were many calls upon time and skill. The coming year will naturally see a rapid development of this phase of the work in the new hospital plant.

In the fall of 1902, the Douw Hospital and Dispensary for Women were opened, and were under the care of Dr. Mackey until June, when Dr. Eliza Leonard returned from her furlough in America. For some time the dispensary attendance was small, due partly to the fact that there had been no dispensary there for so many months, and it took some time for people to learn of it, and partly, perhaps, because people were a little afraid to come after all that had happened. The number of patients increased gradually but steadily until now there is a large attendance. The Hospital opened with three patients, but by summer it was full. Daily evangelistic work has been done in the dispensary waiting room and hospital wards by Miss McKillican and a Chinese helper.

The people who come to the dispensary have been very friendly and have listened willingly to the teaching they have received. Many of the patients' faces have become familiar with the church services, which shows that the hospital is an open door through which many hear the truth. The medical care of the girls of the American Board school, Peking, has been one of the duties of the year which brought many pleasant associations. During ten months there were 2800 dispensary patients; 209 were seen in their homes, and 55 were hospital in-patients.

WORK FOR WOMEN.—The women's work is very closely connected with the hospital, and more or less of it has been done by all the ladies of the Station. Miss McCoy has had charge of two meetings, one at Second Street and one at the home of some Christian women in the South city. An attempt has also been made to teach women daily at Er-tiao Hu-t'ung. The number of callers on all the women of the Mission has been unusually large this year, many of them showing great friendliness and asking to be called upon in their homes. Interesting classes of women have been taught by the women of the Station in the Sunday-school which follows the morning service. One woman who attended these classes has asked that she and her daughters might be received into the church. Industrial work for the poor has been carried on during the summer by Mrs. Whiting.

COUNTRY WORK.—The country work and the work of the Peking church are closely interwoven, the church supporting a native helper in the country field, and classes from the country coming into the city for instruction. Mr. Cunningham spent sixty-seven days in the country during the year, and Miss McKillican a number of weeks. Mrs. Cunningham also made one country trip of twelve days, after the close of school. The special interest of this trip was a visit to the home of a man who for years was an outcast from his home because of his Christianity. Now, since the Boxer trouble there is a great change, and he teaches his son, daughter and nephew Christianity and Western science in the old home, without molestation.

Miss McKillican's class of eleven women was of special interest. One member of the class was a woman of over seventy, who heard the truth for the first time, and whose heart had evidently been prepared for the good news. She said that the three weeks she spent in the class were the happiest in her long, hard life. On her return to her home she persuaded her son and his wife to have the family idols destroyed, and she has asked to have her name enrolled as a catechumen. Another member of the class was a former school girl who had been married into a heathen family, and who had for some years been drifting into heathenism. She had not dared to keep a Christian book in her husband's home or let her friends know that she was coming to the class. On her return from the class she took books with her and has been witnessing for Christ. She is no longer persecuted, and some of the family are studying the books.

PAOTINGFU STATION.

Paotingfu rejoices in a year of health and prosperity, and in the addition to its force of Mr. Mather. The confusion and discomfort of unfinished buildings and grounds looking like a lumber yard and brick kiln combined have given place to order and comfort, on an exceptionally beautiful compound. Best of all, the Chinese seem more ready to hear the Gospel than ever before; a better class of people are inquiring about the truth, a more friendly spirit is everywhere manifest, and the opportunities for reaching people, both in the city and country, are much more abundant than before the Boxer outbreak. More men listen to Mr. Lowrie's daily preaching in the street chapel than ever before, the chapel being frequently crowded. An increasing number of these street chapel hearers have come out to the regular Sunday service in the compound church. A goodly number of outside boys come every Sunday afternoon to a service specially adapted for them, a decided innovation in Paotingfu.

In February (1903) the new church was occupied for the first time, a large congregation being present, many undoubtedly coming from mere curiosity, but all showing a neighborly feeling. There has been a good attendance at the Sunday morning service ever since, more women coming than ever before. The Sunday-school, which formerly consisted of one class of about a dozen scholars, has now grown into a dozen classes with a hundred scholars. The church is open every day, and for months past a number of men have come daily from their homes in the city for two hours of study.

Besides teaching these men in the church, Mr. Lowrie spends much time in his study explaining the truth to the large number of men who call upon him there. Mrs. Lowrie and Mrs. Miller also receive a great many calls, and are invited to visit many Chinese homes. Mrs. Lowrie visited one poor old lady whose eyes Dr. Lewis had successfully operated on, and found her so grateful for restored sight that her heart was easily impressed. She became a Christian, put away her idols, made a great effort to control her temper and began to use her poor dim eyes to study the Bible. By holding a page so that the sunlight falls directly on it, she can manage to decipher the characters, and in this laborious manner has made considerable progress in read-

When one considers what Mr. Miller and Dr. Lewis have done this past year in the way of building, it is no wonder that the compound has been transformed. Most of the buildings were well under way last year, but since the last Mission meeting five residences with servants' quarters have been completed, the large and attractive church, the Hodge Memorial Hospital for women, two gate houses, thousands of feet of compound wall, together with water courses, sidewalks, etc., and the men's hospital, girls' school and boys' school buildings are nearing completion.

The George Yardley Taylor Memorial Hospital promises to be a handsome building, with a complete equipment provided by a munificent gift from Dr. Atterbury. The hospital was formally opened at the Chinese New Year (1904). During the past year Dr. Lewis has used rooms in the rear of the city street chapel for dispensary waiting rooms and wards. In spite of the inconvenient quarters a great deal of both medical and surgical work has been done. Six thousand eight hundred and thirty-eight patients have been treated. Fifty-nine operations have been performed, in many of which Dr. Lewis has been ably assisted by Mrs. Lewis. Dr. Kao is not only successful as a medical helper, but most faithful in spiritual work with the patients.

As Dr. Mackay had to conduct the women's medical work in Peking during Dr. Loonard's absence in the United States, the Hodge Memorial Hospital has not yet been opened, but Dr. Mackay has begun outside woman's medical work, and soon the new hospital will prove a great factor in winning the people's good will.

The country around Paotingfu is an inviting missionary field. Mr. and Mrs. Killie, Miss Gowans, and Mr. Lowrie make country trips a regular part of their work. In Man Cheng county, about twelve miles west of Paotingfu, we have a chapel, and for many months a regular Sunday preaching service, followed by Sunday-school, has been conducted either by Mr. Killie or a Chinese helper. The average attendance has been about forty-five. Mr. Killie has baptized eleven adults and five children there, and five more adults in other parts of his country field. Mrs. Killie has conducted a weekly prayer-meeting for women in the Man Cheng district, being invited to different homes in the various villages. Sometimes a hundred women have attended a single one of these meetings. Mrs. Killie made this twenty-four-mile trip more than thirty times during the six months preceding her illness in June. She has also held an inquirers' class there for ten days' study. The women supplied almost all of their own food, the class of thirteen or fourteen women costing the Mission a total of only fifty cents. An encouraging feature of this field is the enthusiasm with which the people responded to Mr. Killie's proposition to build a new chapel. They have cheerfully subscribed the land and almost enough to pay for the building.

Mr. Killie and Mr. Mather made a most interesting trip to a group of villages in the mountain fastnesses not far from the Shansi border. They had been told that in those villages there were nearly forty people studying the Bible and keeping the Sabbath, as the result of the personal work of a young man who is filled with faith and zeal. He is a weaver of mats, and every Sunday used to lay aside his work and walk several miles to pray and talk with these people. This man's younger brother had been converted because of the faith and peace shown by the older brother during the terrible days of the Boxer persecution. Mr. Killie found that the report had not been exaggerated, and he greatly enjoyed still further opening up the Word of God to those hardy, simple-minded people. Many of them had never seen a foreigner before, but they vied with each other in showing kindly hospitality. Last winter a woman from this mountain district started with several male relatives to walk to Paotingfu, a distance of eighty miles, to learn more of this truth. Walking with bound feet, in the midst or winter, over rough roads, for such a distance, proved exceedingly painful, and finally, blistered and footsore, the poor traveller reached our compound. After a period of study in Miss Gowans' class, this woman was baptized and returned to her home rejoicing.

Miss Gowans, in addition to the work of daily instructing the women who come to her rented rooms in the city, has held six study classes during the year, each lasting ten days, with an average attendance of fourteen. The women have paid half of the cost of their food. Some of them have been exceedingly earnest and diligent in their studies. One woman heard for the first time last summer that if she besought the true God to give her His Holy Spirit, He would guide her into the truth. She prayed this prayer constantly, and finally decided to go to Paotingfu to see if any one could teach her. She provided herself with food and fuel, took her two little children and traveled to Paotingfu, where she found Miss Gowans. She proved most earnest, and seemed to be truly converted, going back to her village as an enthusiastic witness. She was the means of influencing another woman of considerably better social position to come into the city and become acquainted with the foreign-This woman and her son soon decided to give up epium, to which they had become slaves, and opened their comfortable home to Christian services. This woman's conversion was speedy and thorough, and soon premises in her village were secured, and a new preaching centre established. Mr. Lowrie visits the place every ten days, and considers the opening hopeful.

Two boarding schools have been started this year, the Boys' School, under the care of Mr. Miller, and the Girls' School, under the charge of Miss Newton. Mr. Miller's school, though not large, only seven pupils having come as yet, has one distinction, that the pupils provide all of their own food. This is very unusual, and is a long step in the right direction. The boys have worked hard and accomplished a good deal. Mr. Miller, in spite of his heavy responsibilities about the various buildings, has given a great deal of time each day to class work.

The Girls' School also has a distinguishing feature. It is the first union school in North China. The Congregational and Presbyterian Missions have effected a practical union in girls' boarding schools, and in pursuance of such union the American Board school at Paotingfu was united with ours in February, 1903, and so far the union has worked admirably. We have thirty-five scholars, nineteen from the American Board, and sixteen of our own. One teacher also came from the Congregational Church, and she and our two teachers have done excellent work. The Presbyterian girls pay a little more than one-fourth of the cost of the food, and of course supply all of their clothing and bedding. Next year they will pay for their books. Only two are supported or helped in any way by foreigners. The American Board Mission pays all the expenses of their girls, but they are hoping to have the parents of these children pay something when school opens in the autumn. Both schools have been housed in borrowed quarters, but new dormitories are in process of erection, and will be occupied this fall.

SHUNTEFU STATION.

Shuntefu is an important prefectural city in the midst of a vast population estimated to be about five millions. In 1900 plans had been matured for opening a Station there, but the Boxer outbreak prevented anything being done until this year, when, to the gratification of both the Board and the Mission, the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York City generously offered to become responsible for the support of the new Station. Dr. and Mrs. Guy W. Hamilton and Miss Louise M. Keator, M.D., were promptly commissioned and are now on the field, assisted by Dr. Whiting, of the Peking Station. An ordained missionary has been appointed and will go out this coming summer.

Naturally there is not much to report this year, as the missionaries did not arrive until late in the year and are learning the language. But an excellent site for a compound has been purchased, and the Board confidently expects this Station to become in time a large and prosperous one.

SHANTUNG PROVINCE.

Shantung means "east of the hills." The character for Shan has three upright strokes united by a single stroke at the base, and supposed to resemble jagged mountain tops. The character for Tung is a compound of two characters one for trees and the other for sun—the sun shining through the trees, hence east. From east to west it is about 543 miles, containing 65,104 square miles of territory, and is therefore one-third larger than the State of New York. It is considered one of the healthiest provinces in China, its climate being about like that of Virginia. Its rugged shores are washed by the sea, and its great central mass is much varied with hills, valleys, lakes and rivers. Its mineral wealth deserves special notice. Limestone and granite quarries abound throughout almost the whole province. There are also good quarries of marble, a considerable variety of iron ore, and abundance of excellent coal, and several gold mines. The population is about 38,000,000. The province has a peculiar significance in the eyes of the Chinese of being the home of Confucius.

From the point where the Grand Canal crosses the Yellow River, ranges of hills and mountains extend to the southeast, to the east, and to the northeast. One would be better able to remember the general position of the ranges in Shantung, by picturing the mountain system as being a huge hump-backed monster, lying on his right side, and facing the south. His head is kept cool by the waters of the Yellow River in the western part of T'ai-an-fu; his feet go to the very extremity of his bed, the toes sticking out at the southeast promontory, and the heels, with a Chinese spur, stretching beyond distant Yung-ch'eng. The calf of his leg bulges toward the city of Teng-chou, while the Laoshan peninsula affords a rest for his great knee. His giant arms, extended south and east, scarcely stop short of seizing I-chou city. At his ugly shoulder sits the proud capital, Chi-nan-fu; along the spine of his shapeless hump, the great eastern highway runs. Over his monstrous body, here and there, are many huge carbuncles; isolated conical peaks are a particular feature of the mountain system of Shantung. The secret and center of his being lurks among the heights of T'ai-shan, the sacred mountain of China.

TENGCHOW STATION.

This Station is the nearest point in Shantung to Port Arthur (60 miles), the storm center of the East at present. The missionaries can hear the distant sound of cannon. The Chinese population, however, seem quiet and friendly, perhaps more so than ever before. Dr. and Mrs. Mateer and Dr. and Mrs Bergen returned after a year's absence on furlough. Dr. Hayes also returned to work in connection with the Mission after two years spent in organizing the Provincial University at Chinanfu.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The country field is under the care of Mr. Irwin and consists of three distinct districts, viz.: Tengchow, Lai Chou and Pingtu.

In the Tengchow district there are 15 out-stations where communion services are held besides several markets where regular work has been established and many other villages where there are Christian homes to be visited. Most of this work is 100 li (35 miles) from Tengchow and there is a membership of 120. In the Lai Chou district, situated about 180 miles from Tengchow, there are six out-stations with two organized churches and a membership of 166. In the Pingtu district there are 9 out-stations with 169 members, besides a little flock of 18 left in Mr. Irwin's care by the death of their native pastor, Rev. Yuen, who passed away this spring in a good old age after many years of service.

We have opened three or four places this year which we hope will develop into permanent out-stations. In the Tengchow and Pingtu districts 49 have been added on confession.

The work among the women in the city has been largely done by Miss Snodgrass and her helpers; she has made 170 visits and her Bible women 618, making a total of 788 visits in the homes of Chinese.

Midweek prayer-meetings have been held at three places, viz: at the ladies' home, at the street chapel, in the Water-city and in the college chapel. The number in attendance being respectively 1521, 456 and 664, making a total of 2641.

Mrs. Wight has visited three villages, and both she and Mrs. Wells have done some city visitation work.

Inquirers' classes have been held for men and for women in Tengchow and in the country districts. About 60 men and nearly half as many women came to the classes held in the city by Mr. Irwin and Miss Snodgrass, and nearly as many more were instructed at various times by native helpers at Lai Chou and Pingtu. Quite a number of those received into the church were from these classes.

Sunday-schools.—The average attendance has been: non-Christian children, 202; students and others, 204; total, 406. Highest attendance on any one Sunday, 715, when the city was full of visitors.

The Church.—Services have been largely in the hands of the native brethren, Mr. Irwin and Mr. Luce assisting occasionally. Twenty new members have been added on confession and six by letter. The church has two native evangelists, one supported by the natives, and one by the foreigners.

EDUCATIONAL.—Literary Work.—Mr. Luce has been engaged upon the translation of "The Records and Letters of the Apostolic Age," by Burton. Mrs. Mateer during her furlough compiled a book entitled "Siege Days," which gives a very interesting account of the siege of Peking during the Boxer outbreak, from the viewpoint of the women and children. Dr. Mateer and Mr. Bergen prepared two pamphlets on the College, giving a sketch of its history and presenting the needs in the way of buildings, endowment, etc. Dr. and Mrs. Seymour have completed the revision of a series of Sunday-school primary lesson leaves.

Girls' High School.—Under charge of Mrs. Wight the school has had a prosperous year. There were 31 pupils in attendance, four of whom were new. Twenty-two are members of the church; 27 are from Christian homes. Their ages range from 12 to 23. Mrs. Hayes assisted for several months in the school. When she left, the girls presented her with a scroll on which she was addressed as "benevolent mother." All the girls earned the half-holiday granted each month for good records, for which they worked hard and steadily. Less memorizing and more thought has been put into the lessons. Material progress has been made in self-support. In one case the fee of 6000 large cash was paid, the average per pupil being about 2000 for the year.

The story of one of the girls, the daughter of a poor Christian who had died of cholera, is typical of many of our Christian girls who will put up with anything to come to school. She appeared one day in the guest room, tired after a tramp of twenty miles. Her dress had been rented from a pawn shop and was much too big and old for a little child of twelve. It was a faded purple gown with sleeves decorated with painted flowers on a dirty white background. She had attended one of the day-schools and had struggled to get back. Might she come to study? Who could say no?

Our seniors are already giving daily help to the juniors in their tasks. One pupil took charge successfully of a day-school in the city during the illness of the teacher. Eleven have gone weekly to the Sunday-school to teach heathen children, besides conducting weekly prayer-meeting. They have daily Bible classes and Christian Endeavor Society Four have joined the church during the year. The womens' meetings are enriched by the singing of the girls. The sewing class and the closing exercises attract visitors from among the wealthy and official classes of the city.

Day-school.—Besides five city day-schools, there are 23 country schools for boys and five for girls. There are in attendance at these schools 345 boys and 60 girls, an increase over last year of 83 boys and 19 girls. The country schools were under the care of Rev. J. P. Irwin. It is the steady aim to increase their efficiency through carefully graded lessons and by securing teachers with normal training.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Effie B. Cooper of the Chefoo Station has spent several months here, substituting for Dr. Seymour, who with his family went to Chefoo for a change after their sore bereavement in the death of their two little boys, Fred and Eugene, from scarlet fever.

In the Tengchow Hospital there were 33 in-patients, and 40 visits have been made to the homes of patients. The dispensary work has been as follows: 1314 new patients, 1631 return patients, 727 calls for medicine for friends, 463 attendances upon college students, a total of 4175 patients. Evangelistic work among these patients consisted in preaching by Dr. Seymour and his assistants, both in the hospital and waiting room. Names of those who seemed interested have been given to evangelists to follow up.

CHEFOO STATION.

The field under the charge of the Chefoo Station is roughly estimated as 50 by 160 miles. This territory covers an area of 8000 square miles and contains 3,500,000 people. The 1300 Chinese Christians connected with the Station are widely scattered. There are eight organized churches.

The war between Russia and Japan has more or less affected the Chinese as well as the foreign population, owing to the vicinity of the fleets and concentration of the army in Manchuria. In describing the work of one of the schools Mrs. Nevius says: The attendance has been irregular, the boys and their mothers being busy in a new industry—that of shelling peanuts to send to Port Arthur—an industry which has assumed large proportions in the villages near by since hostilities became imminent.

On Sunday, July 26, Chefoo was visited by the worst calamity in its history. A heavy rainfall, coupled with a cloudburst on the hills back of the city, in two hours turned the two small streams running through the native city into raging torrents. One of these passing through the populous part of the city, where there were innumerable shops and inns lining both banks of the stream, swept everything before it. In the very sight of the missionaries, men, animals, and debris of every kind, were swept by the torrents into the sea. Hundreds of lives were lost, over 800 houses destroyed, and a loss of property amounting to over $1,000,000 (Mexican) resulted.

While the process of destruction was going on, men, women and children drenched to the skin, barely saved from the raging flood, came up to the mission premises overlooking the city. Food and shelter were afforded them for two weeks, more than 100 being provided for in this way. The foreigners and natives appointed a relief committee with Mr. Cornwell as a member; American Consul Fowler placed at the disposal of the committee the money put into his hands for this purpose, mostly given by officers and sailors of the United States fleet. Miss Vaughan and Miss Corbett embraced the opportunity to preach to the women and girl refugees, and found them very susceptible to the truth. Six of the women are now coming to Sunday-school. Several of our Christian families were carried out into the harbor and were rescued by boats, as were many other natives.

Another item of general interest was the work of the Y. M. C. A. The missionaries of the C. I. M. and the S. P. S. united sympathetically in the work, Mr. Cornwell taking the lead and raising most of the money to carry it on.

A reception was given to 200 resident Japanese, addressed in Japanese by Rev. Mr. Curtis, Presbyterian missionary in Japan. The Japanese consul has also shown in various ways his interest in the institution.

The American naval squadron of 15 warships and nearly 4000 men made Chefoo headquarters for the summer. Mr. Cornwell, Consul Fowler, Dr. Seymour and two American business men opened a resort for the sailors called the "Columbia Club." This work was highly indorsed by Admiral Evans. The fleet not being provided with a chaplain, Mr. Cornwell arranged for religious services on Sundays, in which he was assisted by missionaries and others.

The influence of a wise missionary was well illustrated in the settlement of the difficulties rising out of two temple properties, owned, one by a Buddhist, and the other by a Taoist priest, who became Christians and wished to make over their properties to the Church. Opposition had arisen in the local communities, which had been increased by the indiscretion of the Christians, and the open hostility of the ruling official until it had reached such a stage that the Church could neither take possession of the temples nor withdraw without injury to the work. Mr. Cornwell made a special trip to bring about a settlement, which was happily accomplished. A new and friendly official has been appointed in place of the one that died. Two young men of the gentry, personal friends, became peacemakers. The Church has dropped all claims to the temples and lands upon the understanding that the idols are not to be reinstated. Four temples and lands have been handed over to the official for use of government schools. The Christian expriests each received a good portion of the land,—ample for their support, and all are satisfied. The ex-priests who remained faithful through a very trying year are grateful. The official is gratified, our opponents have become our friends, and the gentry in Chefoo, who took an interest in the case feel that the settlement is equitable.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—At Chefoo is the Street Chapel and Museum, which draw crowds daily. The attendance of 86,000 reported last year has been exceeded this year, over 61,000 being in attendance during the first six months. Dr. Corbett preached daily to large crowds in this chapel, assisted by three trained evangelists. To relieve the strain on the native helpers of continual preaching at the chapel, some of the helpers from the country districts have been brought in to preach for a month at a time, with good results. Each one attending was given a tract printed on the premises. A native type-cutter and printer is kept busy printing tens of thousands of tracts of prayers, hymns and calendars. Since last year he has printed 2300 small books, 2660 calendars and 82,164 tracts, which have been distributed on the premises and by country workers. At the street chapel evening classes were conducted for interested inquirers, some of whom have become regular attendants at the Sunday services.

Sunday-school Work.—The three Sunday-schools in Chefoo are deserving of special mention. The one connected with the Chefoo Church, of which Mr. Elterich is superintendent, has an average attendance of nearly 200. Miss Vaughan has had a class of ten to twelve outside women who were influenced to come through medical aid received at our dispensary, and another class of six inquirers. Mr. Cornwell has had charge of the Sunday-school of the Anglo-Chinese School. In addition to this he has conducted a Sunday-school for the workmen on the church building. Mrs. Cornwell has had charge of an interesting Sunday-school for the pupils of the day-schools, mostly from heathen homes, with an average attendance of fifty.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Chefoo High School, with its three departments, normal, academy and primary, had over 40 enrolled, 30 of whom were boarders.

There were twelve in the normal department, several of whom were graduated in February. Three of the students will enter the Tengchow College. Special attention has been given to the exposition of the Scriptures at daily prayers by Doctor Corbett and Mr. Elterich. In the normal class they also taught the Shorter Catechism, Plan of Salvation, and Epistle of Peter. Mr. Elterich had a class in the academy department in the life of Christ. The other studies were conducted by four native Christian teachers whose influence was excellent.

Two boarding schools were conducted in Dr. Corbett's field—one for boys and one for girls.

The Anglo-Chinese School has an enrollment of 80.

The strong religious character of the school, and the establishment of similar schools in the city by heathen with no religious instruction, have somewhat retarded its growth. Mr. and Mrs. Cornwell, Miss Downing, Mrs. Samuel Mills, Mrs. Crossette, and six native teachers gave considerable time to this school. In addition to running expenses the tuition fees covered the salaries of two foreign teachers. One of the former pupils associated with the new Chinese Minister to the United States is now in Amherst College.

Of the 21 day-schools conducted by the Station for the benefit of the children of native Christians, 17 are in the country districts and four at Chefoo. Of those in the city, Mrs. Nevius has had charge of two for boys, with an attendance of 20 to 30 each, and one for girls, with an attendance of 20. Miss Bainbridge teaches the class in English connected with this girls' school. Mr. Cornwell has had charge of the boys' day-school, with an average attendance of 20.

Theological Class.—From February to July this class was in session at Chefoo. The Rev. W. N. Hayes, D.D., having severed his connection with the Provincial College at Chinan, took charge of this class, with 11 students, and did the main part of the teaching, being assisted by Dr. Corbett and Mr. Elterich. The students did faithful class work, comparing favorably with any similar class in America. They also rendered effective help in the evangelistic and pastoral work of the Station, taking turns in preaching in the street chapel and industrial school, and in conducting special services for the workmen on the church building. Mrs. Nevius kindly furnished accommodations for this class at her own compound.

MEDICAL.—The dispensary was maintained by Dr. Effic Cooper, where women and children and the pupils of the schools were treated. The dispensary not only relieved much suffering, but was a distinct evangelistic agency. In addition to attendance of the patients at the Gospel services, many of the women and children were attracted to Sunday-school and church services. Dr. Cooper made a country tour with Miss Vaughan, attending to the sick and engaging in evangelistic work.

INDUSTRIAL WORK.—The Chefoo industrial work established and conducted by Mr. and Mrs. James McMullan in a building erected by them, has had an attendance of between 50 and 60 girls, mostly from the neighboring villages.

They spend half the day in work, the making of lace and brushes, and the other half in study. On Sundays a congregation of from 80 to 100 meet in this school for services, 30 of whom are communicants, and a church organization is under consideration. Mr. McMullan, assisted by the missionaries of the Station, has looked after the services thus far, but the congregation are anxious to have a native pastor. The Rev. Wang Chang Tai will for the present devote part of his time to this congregation.

The school is regarded as a strong evangelistic agency since it not only teaches Chinese girls a useful handiwork whereby they can make an honest living, saving some from lives of shame, and teaching them cleanliness and neatness, but it also brings them under the direct influence of the Gospel, opening up their homes for evangelistic effort. It has broken down much prejudice, and anti-foreign feeling, and opposition to Christianity in a number of villages hitherto opposed.

LITERARY.—Mrs. Nevius having completed her Anti-Foot-Binding tract, an edition of 10,000 copies in the Mandarin was published by the Anti-Foot-Binding Society, and a smaller edition in Wenli. Mrs. Nevius also prepared a useful book in Mandarin, for primary schools, called "Easy Lessons for Beginners." One of the pupils of the Anglo-Chinese School under the editorship of Mr. Cornwell prepared a series of articles for the paper called the "Chefoo Columbian." These articles contain much interesting information about Chefoo and the mission work. They were printed in a special issue of the paper in honor of the American fleet then in port, in connection with the celebration of the Fourth of July. A large number of copies were sold and the mission work thus brought to the attention of thousand of foreigners.

TSINGTAU STATION.

The working force has remained practically the same as that of last year. It has included Mr. Davies, Rev. Ting Li Mei, ten evangelists, and part of the time twelve, two Bible women and seventeen school teachers. Besides these, whose time has been wholly given to this work, there has been a goodly number of volunteers. Rev. C. P. Metzler joined the Station about Christmas, but his removal by the Mission to Teng Chou leaves Tsingtau in the same need for reinforcement as before. The German officials have continued cordial, and voluntarily suggested that if land were purchased special arrangements might be made regarding taxation.

The following agreement made between R. Whilhelm, representing the Weimar Mission, and L. J. Davies, representing our Mission, is a notable instance of true comity:

"1. The purpose of these two societies is to preach the Gospel, and the agencies which they use for this work are chiefly evangelistic effort, schools and hospitals, and the dissemination of literature, and they do not believe in using political means to accomplish their ends.

"II. These two societies intend to work together on terms of friendship and mutual helpfulness. To this end it is agreed that,

"I. If Christians wish to leave one Mission to go to the other they shall be furnished with letters of dismissal from one church to the other and that they shall not be received unless they can secure such letters.

"2. Pupils of one Mission applying for admission to schools of the other Mission must bring letters of recommendation.

'3. Pupils of one Mission, who may attend the schools of the other Mission, are wholly free to be baptized or admitted to the Lord's Table or confirmed, as the case may be, by the Mission with which their parents are connected. Neither Mission wishes to proselyte among the members of the other. The school authorities desire however to be informed of such cases.

"4. Pupils of one Mission in attendance on schools of the other Mission are free to attend church with their own Mission, but they must notify the school authorities of their choice.

'5. When one Mission wishes to employ members of the other Mission as evangelists or teachers it will consult the Mission with which the person in question is connected before employing him.

"6. In the country districts, in villages where there is a Station or school or chapel of one Mission, the other Mission will not open work. In case of larger places where one Mission is already located the other Mission will not come except after consultation.

"7. In case of dispute between members of the two Missions every effort shall be made to prevent recourse to the courts."

Tsingtau Local Work.—Rev. Ting Li Mei, stated supply of the Tsingtau church, the organization of which was reported last year, is doing fine work as a preacher and pastor. The decision of matters regarding the local church has been left to Mr. Ting and his Chinese session. Mr. Davies has been consulted and has given his opinion, but has carefully refrained from assuming control. Three neighborhood praver meetings in different parts of the city and a church Y. M. C. A. of 35 members have been a great help.

The helper who was in charge of the street chapel, now closed, has been employed by Elder Liu Shou Shan to work in his large apartment building, where about 800 persons make their temporary home. Mr. Liu has set aside a large room which is to open about eight hours in the day. Tentwelfths of the helper's salary of $12 a month is paid by Mr.

Liu, and the remainder by the Y. M. C. A.

Rebuilding Tai Tung Chen Church.—The church building at Tai Tung Chen, the outlying Chinese center, has been rebuilt at a cost of $556. The expense has been divided qually between the Mission and the local church. Mr. Ting raised the money among the Chinese and superintended the work of reconstruction.

Out-Stations.—The out-stations have been visited from five to thirty times and many calls made upon the Christians in their homes. The railway has been a great help in this work. Out-stations which are approximately 65 miles from Tsingtau can be reached without fatigue in less than half a day, as against two days and a half by Chinese cart or mule fitter. The value to the work of frequent visits and of the longer periods of time spent at each center has been very manifest. The helpers and Christians are stimulated, the missionary keeps more fully informed, and difficulties which threaten to develop into lawsuits can be settled before the acute stage is reached.

The opportunities for work among the women in the country districts of Chi Mi, Kiaotschou, Pingtu and Kao Mi are very great. The two Bible women are doing good work. But far greater progress may be expected when we have women missionaries whose time and energy can be devoted to this work.

SPECIAL EVANGELISTIC EFFORTS.—

During the first two weeks of February meetings were held in Kao Mi and Kiaotschou. In each place two or three services were held each day. These were well attended and unusual interest was manifested. At Hsintan preaching bands were organized, which went into the surrounding villages each day between the morning and afternoon services. The audiences thus secured were large and attentive.

The work of the evangelists has been the same as in past years, conducting public services on the Sabbath, preaching to the unbelievers on markets and wherever opportunity offers and performing in general the duties of pastor in the absence of the foreign missionary.

At two points in the country district the value of patient endurance of persecution without appeal to the courts has been illustrated. In the one case we were convinced that real injustice was being done the inquirer but felt sure that the wisest course lay in submitting to the wrong. It was very difficult to resist the pleading of the injured man for our sympathies were strongly with him. The result of the various negotiations is so much more satisfactory than we had any reason to expect that the man gladly agrees that the course adopted was the wiser. His enemies are reconciled to him, he will secure property which appeared to be hopelessly lost and there seems reason to hope that the truth may find entrance to his village. In Kwan Chwang of the Kao Mi district sixteen persons have been received since the beginning of this year and more are inquiring. This is believed to be due, to a considerable extent, to the patient endurance of persecution by certain members of the church. The Christians have met their persecutors with kindness and love, and have taken their troubles to God in prayer, believing that He is able to help and that He will assuredly give the strength necessary to endure the suffering, and their confidence has not been misplaced. The prayer of all who may hear or read this is asked that the same spirit may prevail in all sections of this field.

Additions to the Church.—In the country districts there have been 60 additions on profession of faith since the beginning of 1903, a little more than 20 per cent. increase in less than eight months. Eighteen were admitted to the Hsintan church, 10 in Mei Ch'iu, 15 at Tung Lui Kou-tsi, and 17 in the district near Kao Mi.

The Stations in Ping-tu are in a lifeless condition. This is due in one center partly to the removal to Tsingtau of many of the congregation, and in the case of the Chou Chia district chiefly to the lawsuits carried on by an ex-helper. Two men in the Kao Mi district, father and son, have been expelled from the church for taking a concubine for the son. They were repeatedly exhorted not to follow this heathen custom but refused to listen. The whole number of names now on the church rolls in Tsingtau and the country district which we oversee is about 460.

EDUCATIONAL.—The advance in school work for which we expressed a hope last year has been to a considerable extent realized. There are five schools for girls and 11 for boys, and 60 girls and 127 boys are enrolled. Efforts are being made to secure better work from both teachers and pupils. The schools are examined three times during the year and a record kept of the progress of each pupil. No new pupil is received who will not promise to remain for three years. Arrangements were made to receive boarders in the Hsintau girls' school, and the number of pupils now enrolled is 30, 11 belonging in the village and 19 being boarders. The work done in this school has been exceptionally good. Great praise is due those in charge, and especially to Mrs. Tang, the principal.

Self-Support.—

The good beginning made under Dr. Bergen has been followed up. The principle that it is the duty of the Chinese church to carry on its own work, to educate its own children and to evangelize the unbelieving, to the extent of its ability, has been cordially adopted by several of our leading men who had never before fully recognized it. From this it has followed that no difficulty has been experienced in bringing up the contribution toward teacher's salary in the schools for boys to an effective minimum of 5000 large cash—$3.20 gold. The salaries range from about $15 to $30 gold, for the year. In the Hsintan church there are three boys' schools and one school for girls. The pupils pay 20,000 large cash and the church contributes 20,000 more toward the salaries of teachers. When to these sums is added that paid by the girls' school the whole amount paid on teachers' salaries for the four schools is about 50,000 large cash or about $30 gold, over 28 per cent. of total salaries at this center. In this Hsintan girls' school each girl pays 250 cash toward teacher's salary, 100 cash for teacher's pens and papers, buys all her own books, pens, pencils and paper, and the boarders pay one-third the cost of board and all traveling expenses. In the Mei Ch'iu girls' school one-half the teacher's salary being the only charge upon the Mission. In the Tsingtau girls' school the incidental expenses and about one-sixth of the teacher's salary are met locally. In our estimates for last year $75 gold was put down to be raised on the field for schools. The amount actually raised was $144. about 25 per cent. of the whole.

Translation.—During the year the translation of the Blakslie lessons by Mr. Davies on the Gospel history was thoroughly reviewed and corrected, and an edition of 1000 copies printed from wood blocks. Most of these have been sold. About half the course on Old Testament History has been put into Chinese.

SHANTUNG COLLEGE.—The regular work of the College has gone on without interruption, though the attendance was considerably reduced by the temporary withdrawal of 20 students who decided to teach a year in the village schools, thus earning money for the continuance of their college course, after its removal to Wei Hsien. The college was fortunate in again securing the services of Prof. Liu Gwang Djao, who went with Dr. Hayes to the Provincial University. Mr. Liu is a man of fine abilities and a leader in Christian work among the students

The College Y. M. C. A. has carried on evangelistic work among the junk men and others, holding meetings three evenings each week in the street chapel, Water City, a member of the faculty always accompanying them. Two parties go out each Sunday to preach in the city and surrounding villages. During the summer one of the teachers took a party of students for a two months' evangelistic tour in the country. We hope that these vacation evangelistic tours will become a permanent part of the work.

Dr. Mateer and Dr. Bergen, being in the United States at the same time, endeavored to raise the endowment of $250,ooo authorized by the Board. They were able to secure only a small part of it. An interest in the college was, however. awakened in the regions where they canvassed, which it is trusted will lead to the securing of the endowment in due time.

Work upon the new buildings at Wei Hsien is progressing. and the removal will be effected next fall.

History.—

In the year 1864 Rev. Dr. Calvin W. Mateer and his wife, Julia B. Mateer, took six heathen boys into their home and began what was first called the "Tengchow Boys' Boarding School," and later the "Tengchow High School." It is now called the "Shantung College." Beginning without text-books, or buildings, or qualified native assistants, out of sheer hard labor and perseverance and an indomitable faith the missionaries may be said to have made all three.

During the 35 years in which they shared the work, they graduated students who are now teachers, bought and erected modest but useful buildings, and prepared text-books in arithmetic, algebra, and geometry. These had to be made specially to suit Chinese conditions, and after sundry revisions are now used all over China. The first class was graduated in 1878, when the school was formally organized, with a regular curriculum embracing a five years' course.

When Dr. Hayes accepted the invitation of Governor Yuan Shik Kai to take charge of the Imperial University at Chinanfu, 1901, Rev. Paul D. Bergen, Ph.D., D.D., was elected president of the college. It has now about 100 students, and a good many of the organizations, including literary societies, etc., found in any American college. Liu Gwang Djao, professor of higher mathematics, a scholarly man, has lately translated a standard work on electricity into Chinese, and prepared an original text-book on calculus. He is an earnest Christian. Wan Hsih Ngen, professor in astronomy and political economy, is one of the best mathematicians in China. Beh Ru Hu, professor in Chinese literature and composition, has a degree from the Chinese Government, and is an accomplished literary man. Gao Wen Dsao, professor of chemistry, is an able man in his department.

The Chinese members of the Faculty are all graduates of the College and all Christians, with the exception of the professor in Chinese literature, whose attitude toward Christianity is reverent. Up to date the College has had about 160 graduates, now scattered throughout the Empire, a great majority being engaged in direct Peace and prosperity have marked the year in this vast and strategic field. The Chinese were never so friendly. The fury of the Boxer outbreak has been followed by an era of better understanding of the purpose and work of the missionary and by a greater readiness to hear the Gospel. The sacked and ruined buildings have been restored, so that the Mission is now better equipped than ever before, though some important buildings are still greatly needed. At Wei Hsien, where the ravages of the Boxers caused the most serious destruction, the missionaries had the efficient aid of Mr. Gordon as architect and Mr. Russell as builder. There has been advance along the whole line in the work, and the arrival of Dr. Margaret H. Bynon, Miss Mary C. Moore, Rev. Albert Dodd, Rev. W. P. Chaifant and Miss Boehne has added to the feeling of encouragement.

But there have been serious losses. To the deep regret of the Mission and of the Board, ill-health forced the resignation of Miss Emma Boughton after twelve years of faithful and efficient service, and the same cause compelled Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Faries to lay down the medical work at Wei Hsien in which Dr. Faries was so remarkably skillful. The Mission will seriously miss also the Rev. J. H. Laughlin, who was one of its most active ministers for the last twenty-three years, though the cause will still have the benefit of his labors at San Francisco, where he succeeds Dr. Ira Condit. Deep sorrow has fallen in the death of Mrs. John Murray, of Chinanfu, October 13, 1902, and of Mrs. William P. Chalfant, at Los Angeles, California, June 8, 1903. These sad events have already been reported to the churches, and loving memorial resolutions have been spread upon the records of the Mission and the Board. Both were women of great beauty and strength of Christian character and missionaries of entire consecration to the Master's service.

WEI HSIEN STATION.

After fourteen years of faithful service Dr. Faries was compelled by ill-health to give up his chosen work and return to the United States. The expressions of deep regret among the Chinese were many, for all realized that the Doctor had spent his time and strength in their behalf. The Doctor and his three boys were carried in chairs to the railway station, with quite an escort of Chinese. The procession was headed by a band of music, a "ten thousand name" umbrella and various banners with such inscriptions as "The saviour of ten thousand," "The skillful physician," etc.

EVANGELISTIC.—Prior to the meeting of Presbytery, a four days' prayer meeting was held, to which all Christians were invited. More people came than could be housed, and a rich spiritual experience was enjoyed. The numerous outstations have had their usual quota of trying questions that are part of "the care of the churches." Discipline has been administered where necessary, and the names of the unworthy taken from the church roll. The political situation, while far from satisfactory, is of the kind that keeps the national pulse in a somewhat normal state, and this has been reflected in the work. Apparently, the work was not permanently injured by the Boxer disturbances, but rather interest has been awakened. Every department of our work has been reopened, and new centers of interest constantly spring up.

Revival services have been held in different parts of the field, and preaching from various centers with bands of helpers among heathen villages. Three weeks' meetings have been held in and about Ku Chou, the city between Ichow Fu and Wei Hsien, where a new Station is proposed. Since the Boxer outbreak fifteen new centers have been opened and the North Shon Kwang church has been organized. After ten years of co-operation with the English Baptist Mission, two out-stations with a membership of 13 have been received from the Baptist Church, and one Station with a like number has been transferred to the same church. It has been a tedious work to effect this change without offending the Chinese Christians; but, having been done successfully, it can be done more easily in the future. No report can be had from the work of the five native pastors until after the meeting of Presbytery. In addition to those received by them, 260 adults have been baptized and 350 received on probation by the three foreign pastors. A class consisting of 50 school teachers and helpers was taught in July at the Station. Another class for men was taught in the country by two of the native helpers. Much interest is manifested among the workmen as a result of Mr. Russell's morning prayers and their daily contact with Christians. Some of the men are seen at rest time poring over the catechism and appealing to the members of a woman's class to tell them characters. Truly, a remarkable state of affairs for old China, with its army of illiterate women,

The Chu Cheng field continues to be hopeful. Interest is observed among a highly respectable class of people—members of the gentry even having come to the services and remained to a late hour to talk about the New Testament and Christian books, which they declared went into the root of the matter in a way the classics did not. An interest is also manifest in Chang I and Kao Mi, with the inevitable result of persecution, but so far no serious crisis has arisen. The members of the Station have continued in their open policy of declining to assist in lawsuits, and it is earnestly hoped that in time the sentiment of the church may be entirely against this insidious temptation. Book room sales show an increase of 33 I-3 per cent. over last year's good report.

Woman's Work.—Twelve classes have been held for women, and eight of these were taught by Chinese; the other four—two in the country and two on the compound—by missionaries. A score of good Bible women have done excellent work over the field during the year, and as many more could be used if we had them ready.

EDUCATIONAL.—"Point Breeze" Boys' High School.— The school opened with 45 boys. During the year, 8 have finished the course, 6 of whom have gone to Shantung College and 2 are teaching public schools. Eight more will finish at the close of this year. All are Christians. It is a gratification to all interested in the school to know of the active Christian life led by these boys. The Y. M. C. A., composed of the whole school, has been the means of doing much good. The boys go out two by two on Sunday to preach to the heathen and lead the service at out-stations. The fact that not a case has come up for discipline shows their desire to live what they profess. The parents of these boys have paid in during the year 184,000 large cash. We expect 50 boys next year, adding 21 to our number after Chinese New Year.

Girls' High School.—The Girls' High School was opened in December. The walls in the new dormitories being too damp for use, 30 girls were compelled to wait until the term opening in September. Seventeen—all that were left unmarried after the vacation of two and a half years enforced by the Boxer outbreak—were all that could be accommodated, sleeping in two class rooms. The pleasure of the girls upon returning was mixed with remembrances of dangers passed through and the loss by death of three of their number, two by illness and one by martyrdom in Peking. The fine Christian spirit manifested by the girls during the year, and their diligence in study and routine work, were the best possible testimonials of their appreciation of God's goodness to them. At the beginning of the September term, 38 girls promised to pay for the coming year 195,000 large cash,—the fees running from 3000 to 9000. This money is being used this year in the purchase of window shades, lockers for the dormitories, and a globe. There is no rule in the school regarding the unbinding of feet, moral suasion simply being used. But this year all the new girls who have come have unbound feet, showing that the leaven is working in Christian homes. The application for admission of more than a dozen girls had to be declined for want of room.

Country Schools.—Three hundred and ninety-five boys have attended the 36 day-schools, and 45 girls have gone to the four day-schools for girls. Of this number, 291 are the children of Christian parents. Many heathen object to sending their children to our schools, not because they teach Christianity, but because too much time is lost on Sunday and the Saturday holiday. Many, however, do take advantage of the schools,—the number this year, 104, being more than double that of last year. This shows that the fear of connection with the missionaries is practically gone, although the opportunity to secure Western learning may have something to do with it at the present time. One-third of the expenses of these schools has been paid by the parents. Five boarding schools for girls, with 150 pupils, have been in session during the year.

Theological Class.—A theological class composed of thirteen young men has been efficiently taught by Dr. W. M. Hayes, who spent six months at Wei Hsien teaching this class, assisted by a member of the Station.

MEDICAL WORK.—No separate report can be given of the men's hospital on account of the departure of Dr. Faries, Dr. Edna Parks and the native assistant being obliged to conduct all the medical work of the Station. The attendance at the women's dispensary has been 2560, but, as many visitors came, a far larger number have heard the Gospel through this one agency. Hymns, prayers and tracts have been given out daily to the women. The medical work has suffered a great loss in the death of Dr. Ting, who of all the Chinese assistants was the only one killed in giving anesthetics. In the women's department 101 out-calls necessitated an itinerary of 1670 li (557 miles) traveled by chair, cart and train. Part of the time two Bible women have been employed, one giving her time to the patients and the other going with the physician into the homes of the patients and following up old cases. The women's medical work was housed in temporary quarters until May I, when, owing to Dr. Faries' return to America, the men's hospital was used. The new building for the women's hospital is now completed. The arrival of Dr. Margaret Bynon for the women's hospital will set Dr. Parks free for country medical and evangelistic work, while Dr. Charles K. Roys has been appointed with a view to the men's hospital work.

BUILDING.—Since September, the boys' and girls' schools, the men's and women's dispensaries, the church and six residences have been completed. The destroyed compound has thus been completely rebuilt, having risen from its ashes with better facilities than ever for mission work.

CHINANFU STATION.

The year has been in general one of prosperity and growth in all branches of the work. The outlook is good. There is ground for encouragement and increased activity; but more workers are greatly needed.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Churches of the City and Suburbs.—Mr. Hamilton is in charge. The church is growing in the midst of difficulties, and is in a better condition than in some former years. The church has resumed the support of its local evangelist, which had been interrupted by the Boxer troubles. There are now about a dozen inquirers, most of whom depend upon this evangelist for their instruction. The Christian community is rapidly increasing in worldly prosperity, and we hope that within two years it will be able to call a pastor. Sunday morning services are well attended, and a number of the converts show commendable zeal in bringing their non-Christian acquaintances. A fair degree of liberality marks the contributions. A Christian merchant in the west suburb, for instance, has set aside a large room for week-day services. There is ground for anxiety, however, regarding the increasing temptation to non-observance of Sunday. Ten or more of our adherents have positions in the Chinese post office,—some of them quite lucrative. Unfortunately. Sunday is not recognized as a day of rest by the Imperial post in this inland service, save in a limited degree. Some of the Christians as merchants or contractors employ a considerable number of laborers who are not Christians. They find the Sunday question one of great difficulty. The attendance at Sunday-school is not encouraging, and the afternoon service in the South Gate Chapel is not so well attended as last year. But the church as a whole is growing in number and in general influence.

The Church in the Country.—This comprises work in six counties and parts of five others, and is under the charge of Mr. Murray and Mr. Hamilton. The general outlook is good, much better than in any former year.

Mr. Murray spent four months in the country work, visiting all parts of the field, holding 195 services in thirty different villages, not to speak of much wayside preaching. Communion was administered 15 times, and 21 adults were baptized. The present number of communicants is 233, of whom 70 are women. These members are associated in four organized churches and some unorganized work. The inquirers number from 60 to 80, of whom one-third are well advanced. Mr. Murray also held two classes in the summer and winter months, teaching the duties of elders, deacons and members, parts of the Acts, Genesis and the Psalms.

In the midst of such apathy, the state of the Christians is much better than the past year or two. Many of the fallen ones have been restored. There has been no persecution and not a little outside inquiry. New work is starting up in five localities. Two new chapels have been erected. A girls' school has been newly opened.

In the field under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton there is an increased number of inquirers, especially in Changching. In the south and west of the same district a number of women who three years ago were unconverted and bitterly reproached their Christian husbands for bringing on their families the Boxer persecution, have now become partakers of the same Christian faith. A chapel has been built in the west of Chibe district, and the boys' school that was closed by the Boxers has been resuscitated. A chapel has also been built in East Licheng and a girls' school opened de novo. There is noticeable improvement in the attitude of the people during the year.

Woman's Work.—This work has greatly suffered in the death of Mrs. Murray, whose zeal and efficiency placed her in the front rank of our missionary workers. The work, in the south suburb, which Mrs. Murray started the summer previous to her death, has been carried on, either Mrs. Neal or Mrs. Hamilton going out each week. Several women have regularly studied all the year and made good progress. the room of the west suburb, donated by a Christian merchant, services for women have been held for several weeks past. A score or more of women have been present and listened attentively during the meetings. Several of the Christian women in the east suburb church have volunteered to go and assist in these services. A large Station class was held for three weeks. All the women of the Station took part in the teaching, and women selected from all parts of the country field to the number of 26 were in attendance.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Boys' Boarding School, Dr. and Mrs. Neal in charge, opened September 2, 1902, with 30 boys enrolled, 8 of whom were day scholars. The second term there were 44, of whom 30 were boarders. The Y. M. C. A. in the school has been kept up, most of the boys being enrolled as members, and it is felt that it has done much to quicken them spiritually, as well as stir them up to endeavors to work for others. The same school fees were charged as last year, the total amount collected being $292.49 Mex., about three-eights of the total cost of running the school.

MEDICAL.—McIlvaine Hospital for Men.—There is encouragement in the fact that nearly 50 more patients have been treated in the hospital, that there have been more calls to visit patients in the city, especially among the highest officials, the Governor, Treasurer and Judge all having required medical attendance, and that the patients in hospital seem to take more interest in the teaching they receive in Christian truth. An evangelist works among the out-patients and the hospital inmates every afternoon, so that we hope in time to see fruits from the medical work in increased numbers in our churches.

The hospitals continue to make progress in self-support, all of the expenses of both the men's and the women's work for the last fiscal year having been met from contributions from officials, patients and foreigners, fees from daily patients, and sales of drugs. The physicians in charge are not sure that they can continue this record, but they hope to do so.

The statistics for the past year are as follows:

Dispensary Patients, New	3,542
", Return Visits	3,691
Total number of Dispensary calls	7,234
Hospital Patients	162
Whole number	7,396

Among the more important operations performed in hospital were the following:

Amputation of the leg	3
Tumors excised
Lithotomies
Hare lip	3
Operations on the eye (of which three were for cataract) 2	5

Louisa Y. Boyd Hospital for Women.—This has been a broken year in the Woman's Hospital, various unavoidable causes taking Dr. Burnham away for several months. The native assistant did what she could to take the doctor's place, so that the hospital was not closed. Dr. Neal kindly treated the difficult cases for her. Nevertheless, Dr. Burnham's absence has been a serious drawback, as many of the better class of patients object to being seen by a man, and naturally do not trust a partially trained native assistant. The in-patients have been of a much better class than usual, and many have obtained an intelligent knowledge of the truth. One woman, who was in the hospital three months, read all the Gospels, studied the catechism, and seemed very anxious to become a Christian. The Bible woman frequently visits her in her home to read and pray with her.

The statistics for the past year (September 1, 1902, to August 31, 1903) are as follows:

Dispensary Patients, New, Old	1,079

CHINING CHOW STATION.

Building operations have taken much time and strength this year. They consist of two residences completed, the foundation of a third laid, and a beginning upon the new hospital. Connected with this was the razing of many old buildings and the erection of a goodly number of compound walls.

For many months the only woman in the Station, Mrs. Romig, had not only many household duties, but the receiving of many women's calls. At an early date, too, she assumed the teaching of a class of schoolboys in English, and has for some months conducted a Sunday-school of street children, with an average attendance of 50. Mrs. Lyon from the first day of her arrival rendered important assistance in the hospital, Sunday-school and women's prayer meetings. Her previous acquaintance with the language enabled her to do this, and still not drop behind with her studies. Mr. Alexander Waite spent about two months at the Station, chiefly engaged in getting his building operations started. Being troubled with insomnia, the doctor advised his going back to Kuling for the summer.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Eight helpers have been employed throughout the year, the salary of one being paid by the native church. For six months six additional helpers worked in the country, one of them receiving his salary from one of the regular helpers. Most of the helpers have rendered efficient service, and God's blessing has apparently been on them. Into the Station church 39 newly baptized members have been received, and in the unorganized field 40 others. These, as usual, have ranged from early youth to extreme old age, from the pauper to the comparatively well-to-do, and from the illiterate to the literate. One of the brightest, most interesting converts was an old lady of 84. Several new outstations have been opened, one of them with 24 baptized members, all of whom, a native helper remarked, are sufficiently well off to admit of their attending church every Sunday.

Native contributions to the Lord's work have been on a larger scale than hitherto, $160 Mex. in all. The membership is now 226. To present an accurate picture, it is necessary to mention that there were distressing lapses, too. Such experiences drive us to God, showing how futile are our efforts without the regeneration wrought by His Spirit.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—There has been only one school in operation, that at the Station. Less than a third of its pupils being from the city, it may be classed, really, as a boarding school, though the Mission supplies nothing but tuition, rooms and furniture, the pupils boarding themselves. The number this year has ranged between 21 and 25. Only one regular teacher is employed, but several of the advanced students give assistance in teaching those less advanced, for their services receiving a small stipend. All the boys want a knowledge of English, and their parents want it for them still more, because it opens up avenues of gaining a livelihood. To such scholars the rapidly expanding postal system and the German railway offer lucrative situations. More than half a dozen of our boys have been filling those positions, though some find the temptations connected too alluring. The boys are young, inexperienced, hitherto always under the control of parents and teachers, never handling money except in insignificant amounts; suddenly they find themselves out of school and away from home, the last restraint removed, absolute masters of an income which is to them large, and exposed to the flatteries and alluring devices of the crowd of harpies that in every Chinese city lie in wait for just such innocents. The consequences are sometimes disastrous, but we hope that things will gradually right themselves by the exhibitions of salutary discipline now being made by the superintendent of post offices, coupled with a gradually decreasing demand for clerks, which will permit the boys to remain in school until they have acquired more stability of character. Five of our boys have united with the church during the year, and others are seeking admission.

MEDICAL WORK.—After the long period of closed doors, Dr. Lvon once more opened this department in March. The sick people of the adjacent regions at once manifested their eagerness for the medicines, and their willingness to trust themselves to the knife of the foreign doctor, and in the six months there has been an attendance of 62 in-patients and 9574 out-patients. Without trained native assistance, that is a large number for the new doctor to examine and prescribe for. It is an earnest of what a boon this department is going to be to the suffering portion of the populace. As an illustration of the influence of this work upon the direct saving of souls, we may mention the case of a Mrs. Wang, who came while the hospital was still closed and the way not yet open for beginning the work. She had a large and dangerous growth on her back. She was sent to Ichowfu, where Dr. Johnson removed the growth, cured her and sent her to her home in the T'eng-hsien district. She and the old lady who accompanied her on that trip have become Christians, and with a half dozen neighbors have been baptized, and that village has become a new out-station where God is regularly worshiped and served.

ICHOWFU STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—A blessed revival followed the series of meetings conducted by Mr. Mateer, of Wei Hsien. The meetings had been planned early, and efforts to arouse the churches to prayer had been faithfully made. The attendance was beyond all expectations. The meetings were held at three points, lasting two weeks, with four services daily. Many hearts received a blessing, and all were encouraged and strengthened. The native pastor, Mr. Wang, whom Mr. Mateer brought with him, was a man of prayer and power in the Word. It was inspiring to see a hundred men and women gather at daybreak to plead for salvation for friends and kindred, and a deepening of spiritual life for themselves. The need of personal work was pressed, and many were aroused to lead one or more souls to Christ this year. Christians were also stirred to giving of their substance. Ichowfu church pledged the support of a native evangelist. Two others united in pledging the support of a native pastor. and others of the country Christians pledged aid in supporting native evangelists. The young men of the Ichowfu church were wakened to individual responsibility, and went out by twos into the surrounding villages to tell the good news of salvation.

A new book room and city street chapel was opened in the spring, and this has proved an excellent channel for turning enthusiasm into service. The Christians, under foreign direction, are responsible for the daily services, and this free will preaching is bringing the Gospel to many within the city. The daily attendance has often reached 50 or more in one afternoon. The women also, under the direction of one of the ladies, have undertaken the daily visiting of the Women's Hospital and talking to the waiting patients in the dispensary every afternoon.

Sunday preaching, Sunday-school, a midweek prayer meeting, daily morning prayers in the chapel and Women's Hospital, a midweek Bible class and catechism class for women, a Sunday and midweek English service, have all been held regularly throughout the year, and since its opening, daily and Sunday services in the city chapel, also a regular Sunday service for women and children was held for three months in the east suburb.

Three special classes for Bible study were held during the year, with an aggregate attendance of about 70. Some of these were baptized Christians, but most of them were catechumens from the country. The classes for men and women were smaller than was expected, on account of bad weather which almost prevented travel. The summer class for men was the first on the self-support basis.

A native colporteur has been selling religious literature, furnished by the Mission, and has more than met his expenses thereby. From the new book room during its first four months, 300 pages of free literature were distributed, 70 catechisms taken, and 50 volumes sold, one-half of which were portions of Scripture. A new chapel at Siao Tai Ping has recently been finished, the funds having been provided by the Christians themselves,—the first church in this field to be built without foreign aid.

There is a deepening of interest throughout the field and at Men-Chwang, one of the most remote and lifeless churches, a spirit of revival has recently sprung up which promises fruitage.

The feeling against footbinding is growing; only one little girl in the Ichowfu church has bound feet, and all the school girls are free footed.

Considering that the language study of the new missionaries left on one minister and his wife the burden of shepherding this large and widely scattered flock, it is worthy of note that every out-station but one in the whole field was visited not less than twice, and many of them several times, by the foreign pastor, and even the most remote at least once by his wife. Besides the regular itinerary, several trips were taken to Ku Chow, the prospective location of the new Station. One of Wei Hsien representatives, accompanied by eight native evangelists, also visited the region, and in conjunction with four workers from this field spent some days in special preaching throughout the city and surrounding country. The people were friendly, and tokens of good will in the shape of tablets and banners were presented for the new book room and street chapel which was opened during the year. One native evangelist and his wife have been living and working the city during the year, and another helper for some months. A foreign trained native Christian physician from Wei Hsien has located there, hoping to build up a practice. The outlook is hopeful and conditions augur well for a future Station in that city. Other members of the Station spent a few days in the country, the total number of days for all being

The Ichowfu church attendance has been good, often taxing seating capacity beyond measure, especially on the women's

EDUCATIONAL.—Eight day-schools have been in session, of which the two under foreign supervision have proved most satisfactory. Three pupils from the girls' school enter the high school at Wei Hsien this year. A regular course has been adopted in Ichowfu schools which prepares pupils for the present high grade schools at Wei Hsien.

MEDICAL.—A medical class of 11 was successfully carried through an eight months' term. English was part of the course. The hospitals and dispensaries have been open daily, except Sunday. Over 12,500 patients have received treatment, of whom one-half were new cases. One hundred and fifty-seven were treated in the hospitals with an average attendance of 19 days to each patient. Most of the in-patients were medical, but general anesthesia was administered to 16, and other operations, several of some gravity, were performed under local anesthesia. Nine operations for cataract were performed, and other minor eye surgery. Several long journeys were taken into the country to see patients; two of these were over 100 li (35 miles) distant, and 116 calls, not including any made by assistants, were made in the homes of the patients.

The receipts, especially of gifts, have exceeded any previous year, from one source about 60,000 large cash ($20) were received. The daily work among the patients was often casting bread upon the water, but many of the hospital patients left believing if not openly accepting the truths they heard, and many studied faithfully while in attendance.

A dear sister was taken by the Father, bringing sorrow to one of our members, and we were all saddened by the news in June of the sudden death of Mrs. William P. Chalfant, who had been so long a vital part of this Station. The Chinese also have lost in her a warm and sympathetic friend.

The Station rejoices in a special gift from the women of the Southwest Board for land and wall for a women's hospital and home for the single women.

The year has been a peaceful one. With the exception of the rebellion at Joh Chao, 300 li distant, which did not involve any Protestants, no trouble has occurred in the field. It has been an unbroken year of privilege and opportunity along all lines, and the present conditions give great encouragement for the future. With the exception of short trips, less than one month each, taken by four of our number to Shanghai, no vacations have been taken by the Station, and these were necessary journeys not affecting the work.

LAHORE STATION.

EDUCATIONAL. — Forman Christian College. — Dr. Ewing, the President, reports:

The new Boarding House in connection with the College, and named, The Newton Hall, in memory of the Rev. John Newton, Senior, was completed during the year; and formally opened on February 5th, 1903, by His Honour Sir Charles Rivaz, in the presence of a great company of Indian and European friends.

The number of students is larger than ever before, the total enrollment being on October 31st, 377. The highest number on our roll was 401, in the month of June, and admission was refused to a considerable number on account of lack of space in the lecture rooms. The first and second year classes are each divided into two sections. Of the students, 188 are Hindus, 132 Mohammedans, 28 Christians, 26 Sikhs and 3 others. The size of the several classes is as follows; M. A. 13, Senior B. A. 68, Junior B. A. 56, Intermediate Senior 113, Junior 127. Tuition fees realized during the year aggregate Rs. 22,700-9-0, the largest ever received.

Two new departures have been made. First, the admission of four Indian young ladies to the first year class; and second, the union of the Government College and ours in the work for teaching the courses for the M. A. degree in English. A third new feature may be referred to, the establishment of the College Monthly.

Two of our students have, during the year, been received into the Church. Both are members of the second year class. S. P. Bannerji is the son of a man who many years ago forsook the faith of Christ, but who, after years of connection with the Brahmo Samaj, returned to the fullest allegiance to his Lord. On the day of his restoration to the Church, his son was baptized on the profession of his faith. G. Aditto was baptized in September. His father, on hearing of his intention, came to dissuade him, but remained, and father and son were baptized on the same morning!

It is worthy of mention that the father was a pupil of the writer in the Allahabad Mission School twenty years ago. He testified that the impressions received there have remained with him all these years.

In the University Examinations our College did extremely well. In the M. A. examination in English 9 men appeared, of whom five passed. In the B. A. out of 59 candidates 37 were successful, and of those in the University pass list the 1st, 3d, 4th and 5th places were taken by our men, and eight scholarships won. Special mention may be made of Kanwar Dulip Singh, son of Sir Harnam Singh, K. C. I. E., one of our Directors, who not only stood first, but succeeded in securing higher marks than had ever been gained in the University.

Our men took first place in Arabic, Persian, English, Pure Mathematics, Physics, History and Political Economy, and Philosophy.

Dr. Orbison has had charge of the new Newton Hall, with its 160 Hindu and Mohammedan students. He writes:

I have realized that the undertaking of such a charge involves great responsibility as well as privilege. It gives one a splendid opportunity to come into close contact and sympathy with the students. Indeed, I find myself in the position of paterfamilias of a huge family and perform the functions of sanitary inspector, medical adviser, dispenser of discipline, arbitrator of quarrels, censor of manners, and guardian of morals.

It is one of the special aims of the Missionary professors in the College to exert a personal influence on the conduct and character of the students, and we venture to think that, in some measure, this aim has been achieved, though we confess with sorrowful regret that we have failed to take full advantage of the possibilities presented to us. The Indian students are remarkably accessible, and responsive to friendly and sympathetic treatment, and amenable to instruction and advice. It may be truly said that they are easily managed, and very rarely do we find them mischievous, insubordinate or intractable. They have peculiar respect for their teachers engendered by the customs of the country. They have quick minds and warm feelings. Hence there is good plastic material to work upon. They lack in resolution, constancy, independence, and the moral stamina which would impel them to act up to their convictions. These qualities are yet to be stimulated and developed, and we believe it is the mission of Christian education to help accomplish this, as well as to impart right conceptions of Divine truth, and thus to thoroughly Christianize the thought of the educated classes in India. mately, right thought will lead to right action through the inworking of the Divine Spirit, quickening the conscience and energizing the

During the year two college students, who belonged more or less closely to the Brahmo Samaj, came out boldly and confessed Christ. In addition, the year has been marked by an unusually deep spirit of inquiry among other students.

Rang Mahal School.—Mr. Gilbertson reports:

Last year we had a total on the rolls of 1056 boys. This year we have 1136 or an increase of 80. The increase is entirely in the Primary Department, as there is actually one less on the rolls of the Secondary Department than there were last year. The exact numbers are 685 in the Main School and 451 in the Branch Schools.

The Sunday-school continues to be well attended. The largest attendance was 694, and the average for the year is 599. The young men of St. John's Hostel, C. M. S., still supply us with three teachers.

In the Moslem Girls' School, under Mrs. Ewing's charge, 61 names were on the roll, and in the Hindu Girls' School, under Mrs. Gilbertson's care, 150, although the number fell off on account of the plague and cholera. Mrs. Ewing writes:

My one aim in all my Bible teaching and talks is to fill the minds of these Mohammedan girls with the fact that prayer is a real and living force in the Christian's life, in distinction from the vain repetions they know. Not that I do this by condemning theirs, but by praying for girls who are ill, giving thanks for recoveries, and referring to the necessity of prayer in our every-day wants or in school matters that are perplexing.

In the Christian Girls' High School, which, though not under the entire care of the Mission, is yet assisted by it, the number of girls increased from 115 to 145.

EVANGELISTIC.—The missionaries have been relieved of the responsibility of the English Presbyterian Church, that congregation now being under the pastoral charge of the Rev. Arnold Boyd, of the United Free Church of Scotland.

The missionaries connected with the College are all engaged in some forms of evangelistic work as yet. Of one form of such work Dr. Griswold writes:

On the 14th and 15th of November, 1903, a Mela for village Christians was held in Panghali, a village in the Lahore district. This is the first Mela in the history of village work in this district. Nearly two hundred were present. A goodly number went out from Lahore. It was only the 24th of last March that Rev. Talib-ud Din, the Superintendent of Home Mission work in the Lahore district, invited Rev. H. C. Velte and me to go out and assist him in examining candidates for baptism in this very village, where no one had been baptized as yet. That very day over fifty men, women and children were baptized. Hardly eight months have passed before a Christian Mela marked by joy and enthusiasm is held in the same village. It seemed last March a somewhat radical thing to baptize so many people on one day, but I believe events have justified our action. If I had the same thing to do over again, I should certainly advise the baptism of the Panghali people. They had received a fair amount of instruction and they were clearly in earnest. As a Mission I believe were often far too conservative in the matter of baptizing new converts. After baptism they must, of course, be taken care of, i. e. taught and shepherded.

In discussing the evangelistic work Dr. Griswold urges the importance of putting forth special efforts to reach now the very accessible classes in the country districts.

Do we as a Mission distinguish between the accessible and the non-accessible classes? Have we learned the apostolic art of shaking off the dust of our feet against those who will not receive or heed our message? Time and time again, when the Jews hardened their hearts, Paul said to them, "Lo, we turn to the Gentiles." Some communities ought to be sternly left alone by us, until they are ready to receive and welcome. The Angel-message and the Angelsong were heard not in the streets of Bethlehem or Jerusalem, but out on the hillsides among the shepherds living in the villages round about. Why this? Because the hearts of the shepherds were simple and open. Compared with the inhabitants of the cities of Bethlehem and Jerusalem, the poor shepherds were accessible. Do not these things constitute a parable for us? In a word, there are in the Punjab to-day individuals who are accessible to the Gospel and individuals who are not accessible, classes and communities that are accessible and classes and communities that are not accessible. The accessible individuals are to be sought and found. The accessible classes and communities are to be evangelized. Where there are open doors, there let us enter. Where the doors are closed, let us wisely wait until God in His providence shall give an open door. And is it not true that individuals and communities that are accessible to us are also accessible to the Mohammedans and Aryas? Let us watch for God's providential guidance in the matter of the people among whom we work. When God by His providence and grace makes a community accessible to the Gospel, do we not sin against His grace if we refuse to enter in, and have we a right to find fault if the Aryas and Mohammedans reap a harvest from the soil which we refused to till? We are told by those who know that twenty or thirty years ago the classes that are now accessible were utterly inaccessible. How suggestive is this! By analogy we may expect that twenty or thirty years hence classes that are now non-accessible will be accessible. And so our duty is plainly to evangelize the accessible classes.

Woman's Work.—Miss Thiede has carried on her work at Wagah.

There are 21 communicants and 39 adherents, including children; seven of them are under instruction outside of Wagah. The total is 60. The average church attendance is 43, and the contribution 22 rupees.

In the Dispensary 5690 out-patients were treated.

In the Lahore Hindustani Church a Woman's Home Missionary Society has been organized. Of the Zenana work Mrs. Datta writes:

One of my Mohammedan pupils, who passed out of the Victoria School, and one of the brightest girls that I have ever known, has very nearly read the whole Bible and takes great pleasure in it. She of her own accord commits chapter after chapter to memory, and says she finds many of the passages which she learns by heart very helpful. Her knowledge of the Bible is remarkable and, after talking with her, I cannot help thinking that she must be a Christian. I must just mention another pupil of mine, who is also a Mohammedan and is most intelligent. She edits a paper which is probably the only one edited by an Indian lady in the Province. She does enjoy reading the Bible, and any one can see that she aims at living up to what she knows.

MEDICAL WORK .--

The dispensary attendance has kept up to about the usual average. The daily attendance for the year amounted to 12,754. Visits to outpatients numbered about 200.

Miss Herron, who has worked with Dr. Marston, writes of the dispensary meetings:

After the singing of a hymn, Bible lesson and prayer, Dr. Marston and her helpers go to their different rooms for work, and I take my place on a low stool among the women, who sat in the main room awaiting their turn to interview the doctor. I could count the days when this work was easy to the flesh, for indeed the class of women who came were often bigoted, and being too ignorant to know it, were vet proud, and ready to say they knew everything. Indifference was the hardest to hear, but a determined persistence in giving the Gospel along with the healing of their bodies soon made them softer in manner towards the story of Christ, and many during the year would say to noisy ones about them, "Be still. Don't talk about your own affairs now, you can talk about them at home; hear what the Miss Sahib is telling us. We want to hear, if you do not."

The caste line curses this, as well as other departments of the work.

One Hindu woman came for medicine, who said, "Don't touch me. I am a Hindu." I replied, "If I can not touch you, how can you take medicine from my hands?" She replied, "Give me dry medicine. I shall mix it with water myself when I get home, and then it will not defile me."

JULLUNDUR STATION.

The work of this Station has been carried on as described in last year's report without material change. A slight increase may be mentioned in the number of pupils, the total of last year, 752, having this year become 798, of whom 478 are boys and 320 girls. This is so notwithstanding a decrease of 26 in the branch schools.

The line upon line and precept upon precept, hammered into those boys for fifteen minutes every morning, is bound by the laws of logic and dynamics, as well as of grace, to produce a revolution in the young minds subject to the process.

Forty-seven Zenanas were visited, with 73 pupils under instruction in them. Some quotations from Dr. Newton's most interesting report will outline the work of the Station and the present conditions among the people.

We notice that most of the new houses that are being built now are well provided with windows. This looks as though people have learned something of the value of fresh air and sunlight. Since these visitations of the plague began, a large new house on the outskirts of the city has windows in every possible place, put in without any regard to regularity in the outside appearance of the building. It certainly looks eccentric, but we like to see it. Phenyle, too, has won its way. Women who used to turn their heads away in disgust at the very mention of it now beg us to give them some of this excellent disinfectant.

A friend of ours, a native gentleman of good position in Government service, made the remark to one of our licentiates that he thought God was taking off all the Mohammedans and Hindus and sparing the Christians in order to make a Christian country of India. This gentleman is a Mohammedan. Not long since, another equally prominent in Hindu society remarked to Mr. J. C. Newton that he had no doubt all the people would become Christians in the course of time.

In another village, fourteen miles from Daulatpur, there are some hopeful candidates for baptism who belong to the same family connection as the Daulatpur people. They were introduced to us by Nihal Chand, who last week accompanied us to their village for this purpose. We hope they may be baptized in a month or so.

We have been much interested in the case of a young man who applied for baptism in May last. He was a Brahmin by caste and seemed very resolute and determined, in spite of bitter opposition from his relatives. We advised him to wait some time, as he might afterwards repent of taking a hasty step. He replied that the step was well considered and he was fully prepared to make a public confession of his faith in Christ. While we were still hesitating, he came to Dr. Newton's house on Wednesday morning, May 13th, and earnestly requested him to administer the rite of baptism without further delay, as his relations were constantly annoying and persecuting him to turn him from his purpose. While this conversation was going on, an uncle of the young man, who had been following him at a distance, arrived upon the scene, and tried by every means in his power to get him away. Dhirt Ram, however, utterly refused to go, and plainly told his uncle that he was going to be a Christian. Finally, after exhausting the vocabulary of reproach and abuse, the uncle went off to report the crisis to his family connection.

Yielding at length to his urgency, the missionary agreed to baptize Dhirt Ram, in the church, at the evening prayer meeting, the same day. The young Brahmin seemed much gratified, and went away, promising to be on hand at the appointed hour. At 2 that afternoon, four men, all uncles, including the one who had called in the morning, came to Dr. Newton's house and inquired whether Dhirt Ram were with him. Dr. Newton replied, "No, he is not here now, but if you will come again at 5 o'clock you may see him in my presence, for

Dhirt Ram in the meanwhile had not gone home, but had retired for the day to a shady grove near a temple. The four men went away and made diligent search for him in the city and neighborhood, and at length, finding him in the grove, seized and dragged him away to his home in one of the suburbs, where he lived with his mother, a widow. There they gave him a sound thrashing, and locked him up, so, of course, he did not come to the church. The next morning, he managed to make his escape and came directly to the Mission house, where he obtained the sympathy he needed. It was now thought best to baptize him at once, and we did so in the presence of a few witnesses. He was then sent to another Station to remain for a month or two until the rage of his friends should have time to cool down.

His mother haunted the Mission house daily, thinking we had him stowed away inside. We told her he was not here and that we had sent him to another Station solely to protect him from maltreatment, and that if his uncles would give a written promise on Government stamped paper not to beat him again he should come back at once. It was pitiable to see her distress, and we felt deeply for her, but nothing would convince her that it was not our wish to deprive her of her son. It must be confessed that our sympathy was somewhat modified a few days later, when the Secretary of the Municipality informed us that she had been to him with the complaint that the Padri Sahib had kidnapped her son, a boy of 13, and was holding him a close prisoner in his house! As a matter of fact, he was 25. Those four men, the uncles, also came to ferret out the mystery, which was no mystery at all, for we told them plainly, as we had the mother over and over again, that we had no desire whatever to take the young man away from his home, but, on the contrary, wished to have him live there. The trouble was with them. They had beaten and locked him up. We, after baptizing him, had sent him away merely to protect him from their violence. If they would sign an agreement on stamped paper to treat him with propriety, we would send for him at once, but he himself had said he would not come without such a written agreement. They denied that there had been any beating, and said they had no wish to maltreat him in any way. Well, then, we rejoined, sign the agreement. But nothing would induce them to do this, and so the conference ended.

Now it so happened, after a few weeks, that a man who lives near Dhirt Ram's house here, and a barber by profession, went on some business to the town where the latter was staying, and accidentally met him in the street. The barber came home and told the family where he was. So they went to see him, and by fair promises persuaded him to come home. On his return they treated him with marked forbearance, and called a meeting of the caste leaders to consider the case. He was offered restoration on three conditions: first, he should give a good dinner to a swarm of Brahmin priests; second, he should pay the priests to repeat 32,000 mantras or incantations (only 8 rupees—$2.66); and third, that he should swallow by way of purification a vile compound containing unmentionable ingredients, similar to a plaster which is applied to mud walls and roofs to make them impervious to rain.

The plaster was handed to him by the priests. He took it and threw it over them, saying he thought they needed purification more than he did. Of course, it was not necessary to consider the other two conditions, since the most essential one had been rejected in so summary a manner. The priests did not take the matter kindly, but so much the reverse, that they emphasized their disapproval and their displeasure by inflicting at least temporary excommunication upon the whole family, uncles and all. Thus "the violent dealings" of those uncles "came down on their own pate."

After these events, Jullundur became so uncomfortable for Dhirt Ram and his mother, too, that they moved away to some other part of the country, and their present abode is not known here.

The circumstances of this case show how the ties of caste are In the earlier days of missionary enterprise in India, a convert who wished to obtain restoration to his caste succeeded only after great difficulty by the payment of Rs. 100,000 to the priest.

Some thirty years ago the writer baptized a wealthy Hindu, who afterward suffered a temporary relapse and was readmitted to his caste at a cost of Rs. 700, spent on the priests. Now such restoration is much cheaper. Caste bonds are visibly weakening. The penetrating solvent of Christian truth and Christian life is slowly but surely disintegrating the adamant of the Hindu social and religious, or more accurately, socio-religious organization. And this is a great achievement and a great victory for the Gospel forces-greater, we think, than the mere baptism of a few hundred or a few thousand converts.

The "Arya Patrika," an organ of the Arya Samaj at Lahore, came out recently with a harrowing lament over the "frightful" increase in the Christian population of India. As a matter of fact, they have much more to regret than the multiplication of Christian converts.

They have their own existence to regret and the existence of many other "reformed" Hindu sects, as proof of the above assertion that the ancient rock is going to pieces.

Here are some of these sects:

I. The Brahmo Samaj Conservative; 2. The Brahmo Samaj Progressive; 3. The Arya Samaj, Herbivorous; 4. The Arya Samaj, Carnivorous; 5. The Deo Dharm Samaj; 6. The Prarthna Samaj; 7. The Sri Bharat Dharma Samaj; 8. The Mah Mandal Samaj; 9. The Sri Nagmagam Mandli; 10. The Dharma Mandli; 11. The Dharma Parisad.

The Hindu religion is philosophical and is couched in difficult language, and for one to become in a fair measure conversant with it requires the study of a lifetime. Christianity is practical and it truth strikes home at once. It is couched in common language, so that a man may run and read. No wonder the Indians are more acquainted with the truths of Christianity than with their own religion.

LODIANA STATION.

Three members of the Hindustani Church in Lodiana have been suspended from the communion. The report says sadly but truthfully that "there have been more virulent cases of immorality than there have been heard of for years."

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Of one of the meetings in the Rupar district Mr. Jones reports:

A young man, a member of the Arya Samaj, was standing among the motley crowd of curious onlopkers, and heard a sermon preached by Mr. Uppal on the text, "Except a man be born again-born of water and the Spirit-he can not enter the kingdom of God." This sermon, together with the other addresses, made such an impression on him that he came regularly, almost daily, for three weeks, after the meeting, to receive further instruction. He said that he was much puzzled about the Hindu and Arya doctrine of Transmigration; that there was no hope in it for a sinner, and he could not see how any one could reach salvation by its endless round of imperfect works. The idea of a present salvation through a present Saviour wrought such a change in his whole view of life that he sold all he possessed and donned the garb of a faqir. Not having the courage to confess Christ by haptism, he gave up his work, and said he intended to retire into solitude-into some far-off jungle-where he might meet with God. Before doing this, he visited his home, in order to dispose of the rest of his property, and on the way thither stopped off at Ludhiana to see the writer. He professed a desire to become a Christian, and promised to return after seeing his home, but this he never did. We still follow him with our prayers, and we should like others to join us in prayer for him.

Among other places visited in the country work was Anandpur.

This is a very interesting and historic place, being a stronghold of the Sikhs, where Guru Gobind Singh baptized his first disciples. It is interesting, too, in that one of our missionaries, the Rev. Levi Janvier, was murdered there about forty years ago. On the Sunday evening of our visit a service was held at the Police Bungalow, which now stands on the spot where Mr. Janvier was killed. At that time there was not a Christian in the place, while now there are nearly fifty in the city and near villages. On the evening mentioned, a congregation of thirty were worshiping in the name of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

There have been 65 baptisms during the year in the country districts of the Station, excluding Khanna, making in the same districts a Christian community of 1198 souls. Of the work in the Khanna district Mr. Newton reports:

The church connected with this Station comprises 24 communicant members, and there are in addition 84 baptized men, women and children, who have not yet been admitted to the communion. Very few of these live in Khanna, the great majority being scattered in villages throughout the district.

There are still those who believe that missionaries stir up bad blood in the people, and that their work is a menace to the peace of the country. My own experience, and no doubt many others could say the same, is that I nearly always meet with a better reception in villages where I am known than in those that I have not previously visited, and that in villages which I visit for the first time my relations with the people are more friendly when I leave it after spending a few days there than they were on the day of my arrival.

Mr. Newton reports various superstitions regarding the plague, which some view as an invisible dispensation of Providence; others in a much more materialistic form.

A plague doctor arrived in a village where cases were being concealed. On inquiry being made, the people assured him that there was no plague in the place. He, not being satisfied, however, took his telescope under his arm, and, climbing to the top of the gate, turned it on one house after another till he had carefully scrutinized them all. He then pointed out several, saying, "There is plague in that house, and in that, and in that!" When asked by the astonished villagers how he had been able to distinguish so unerringly the infected houses, he told them that with his telescope he could see the microbes crawling over them. I do not know whether district officers generally are acquainted with this method of detecting the presence of infection, but it seems a very simple one and might be tried on a larger scale.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Mr. Gould has had charge of the City High School, and Dr. Wherry, until Mr. Fife's arrival at the close of the year, was principal of the Christian Boys' Boarding School. The total number of Christian boys enrolled during the year was 213.

During the year a business department has been added to this school for the teaching of typewriting, stenography, penmanship, bookkeeping and business correspondence. It is thrown open to non-

Christian students in order to make the department self-supporting from the start.

Girls' School and Zenana work have gone on as usual.

LITERARY WORK.—The extensive literary work of the Station has been continued undiminished under Dr. Wherry's care.

The books and tracts which have been published this year are as follows:

One thousand copies each of the following booklets: "The Mahdi Messiah of Qadian," and the "'Greatest Discovery' Exploded," in English and Urdu; 5000 copies of "Make it so Plain," and 2000 "Safety Certainty and Enjoyment."

Very much remains to be done in the way of producing a literature for the Church in India. Indeed, this is a task which will never be completed in India any more than in any other country. The advancement of the Church calls for more literature for Christians and a new literature for non-Christians. The books suited to the need of the work in India thirty years ago are not all antiquated, but for many modern readers they are certainly unsuited. A new form of antagonism to the Gospel has arisen. A new generation of Christians has been born. For these a literature is wanted. The pity is that so few give themselves to the production of the literature needed.

AMBALA STATION

The Ambala City Indian Christian Church has a congregation of 70 men, women and children, of whom 26 are communicants. As a rule, each member of the congregation gives one-sixteenth of his income to the church. The church is therefore almost entirely self-supporting.

The Sunday-school has enrolled fifty members, but not more than one-half of these have been in the habit of coming. There are five wards of this city, occupied principally by Ramdasi chamars. These people are low caste, but a shade or two higher than the Mahtars (Scavenger). They follow occupations such as tanning leather, making shoes, etc., which are considered very low indeed. Many of them acknowledge Jesus as their Saviour, and the Bible as the Word of God. But they are unwilling to be baptized lest they be cast out from their brotherhood. The feeling that deters them is very much the same as that which often compels a man at home to take a certain course lest he be boycotted by his trades union. There is also a large ward of Mahtars. These have no caste to lose, yet they have no special desire to embrace Christianity.

The Mission High School has just closed a successful year's work with a total enrollment of 482 boys.

MEDICAL.—The Philadelphia Hospital for Women.—

The hospital has just closed another successful year's work. Miss Carleton, M.D., has had 8058 new cases and paid visits to 14.643 outpatients. Miss Carleton writes: "According to common report, the women of this country are very much downtrodden. There are many exceptions to this, and it is only fair to let this other side be known. Many wives of Hindus manage all the money matters of their establishments. Once, when a large sum of money could not be kept over night in our house, it was sent to a Hindu friend, who handed it over to his wife as a matter of course, saying that she kept all his accounts and handled all he made. Another Hindu lady manages three establishments in different parts of the district. A third rules all her neighbors in her section of the city. Her power was useful during inoculation for plague. She coaxed or browbeat every one into being done. A like service was done by a strictly purdah Mohammedan woman in another quarter. She threw herself with enthusiasm into the work, dominating the room full of women like an empress, sending her orders for the neighbors to come, through her followers, despatching her dooly for the timid. Her restless, ambitious nature is always fretting against its bonds. She is too orthodox to enjoy the opening of Mission schools for girls in the circle of her influence. and has seriously crippled the usefulness of the one nearest her by opening one on her own account. There is another Mohammedan purdah lady, whose fad is to collect waifs and strays from the streets. The boys she keeps: the girls she sends to me. We will stock an orphanage if she lives long. Kim's "Rani" came to hospital once as an in-patient. We were helpless, and obeyed her rule. Tall, white-haired retainers came in from her estates, touched her feet, gave their reports and received their orders. When we sang a bhajan, she sang a sacred song from her books and held her own with the best of us. There is another Sardarni in the district who keeps her own property intact and separate from her husband's. She has her own treasurer and officials, and manages a large property successfully. She comes of good blood, for her great-grandmother, when her husband, the Maharajah of one of the largest native States in the Punjab, proved useless, took the reins of government into her own hands and successfully carried on the business of the State. In humble life we often see the same qualities shown. There is a mother of the Darzi (tailor) class, who has worked night and day to give her boys an education. One of these is now in the Deputy Commissioner's office, and the other a Patwari. Without her they would have been nothing. In the servants' quarters you often see a whole household depending on the mother for its happiness. Her housekeeping, her skill with the needle, her cooking, her cheerful disposition, her character unsullied by scandals and bickering, make her respected by her own family and her neighbors.

Leper Asylum .-

There are at present 22 inmates in the Mission Leper Asylum, of whom 17 are Christians. The grants for the up-keep of this institution are contributed in part by the Government and in part by the Society for Lepers in India and the East.

AMBALA CANTONMENTS.—The Church in the Cantonment has 16 members. The greater part of the work is out in the district.

An effort has been made to keep in constant touch with the 484 Christians of our district by holding services at their homes as frequently as possible. Most of these people are the serfs or slaves of the farmers, and so pitiable is their social condition that they are constantly carried off and compelled to do work by their masters without pay. They have been crushed down for ages, and as is natural, they are densely ignorant and of feeble mental capacity. Even when they are buried, the farmers, their masters, insist that they shall be buried face downwards as a sign of their lowly social position. An effort is being made at each of the four centers to teach the more intelligent to read Gurmukhi, so that they may learn to read the Bible. There have been 76 baptisms during the year,—at Mubarakpur, 30; at Jagadhri, 37; at Raepur, 9.

Especially encouraging is the formal request from the Christians of Mubarakpur and Jagalhri to Presbytery that they be organized into regular churches. They agree to pay their pastor's salary in kind, that is, in grain and other farm produce. Four day-schools are conducted at these places, with 56 pupils enrolled.

Of one part of the woman's work in the cantonments Mrs. Calderwood reports:

My "Sunday gatherings" of both low caste and some other children, in five different outdoor places, can as yet scarcely be called "Sunday-schools"; not only because they are as yet in their initial stage, but also because at present I make the task for these ignorant, wild and utterly untrained children as pleasant and easy as I can. Although I make the girls and boys sit in a circle around the Bible women and myself, yet I do not hinder the girls from carrying on litthe games of their own, nor object to the boys getting up and turning half a dozen somersaults. Nor do I keep them from running after a stray monkey, or a young buffalo, which may happen to run past us. The children listen eagerly to the "Parables of our Lord," recite Bible verses taught to them by their Bible women during the week, and learn easily the singing of bhajans. The latter chiefly attracts men and women. I hope that these "Sunday gatherings" will develop into systematic Sunday-schools. Most of our listeners do not know what sin is. They do know that if a murderer or a thief is found guilty, the ruling powers of this land will punish them (which is to be regretted), but they do not see the slightest wrong in crime itself.

The Middle School for Boys in the Cantonment closed its year of work with 160 boys enrolled. Several years ago there was a much larger attendance; but, on account of some baptisms that took place among the students, many Hindus and Mohammedans took their sons out of the school and started a rival Hindu and Mohammedan High School.

SABATHU STATION.

Sabathu lies on a ridge of the mountains between Kasauli and Simla, from both of which it is clearly visible. Distant from Sabathu not more than from ten to fifteen miles lie Kasauli, Dagshai and Solon: while Kakkarhatti is a village situated at the foot of the ridge within easy rifle range of the Mission house. Hence a more admirable center for evangelizing these places could scarcely be found. We have had a resident preacher at each of these out-stations except Solon. This break in our chain is owing to a transfer; but we hope to repair it in the near future. The population of each of these towns, including the surrounding villages, is as follows: Sabathu, 10,000; Kasauli, 12,000; Dagshai, 12,000; Solon, 20,000; Kakkarhatti, 800.

One of the most interesting features of the work at Kasauli is the Union Christian Endeavor Society started by Mr. Isa Dass. The Society has 35 members and meets once a week. Daily preaching and house to house visitation has been kept up throughout the year at Sabathu, Dagshai and Kakkarhatti, as well as in the surrounding villages occasionally. The hill-tribes that people these regions are very idolatrous and morally debased. Impurity is prevalent to an alarming degree. The social evil is widespread, and bears its fruit in the particular diseases of body and mind to which it gives rise. Marriage ties are regarded very lightly, and the general ideas with reference to the relation of the sexes are so loose that it makes mission work in these localities very difficult. Young catechists and preachers are exposed to temptations that, in some instances, have proved fatal, whereas old men, while less subject to these demoralizing influences, have not the strength to climb the steep hills that rise on every side.

Leper Asylum .-

Of the 92 inmates enrolled, two are European young ladies, the remainder native. Of this total, 41 are Christians.

SAHARANPUR STATION.

The Saharanpur district is more than 2000 square miles in area and has a population of 1,045,230. The population of the city itself is 66,254. The other Missions besides our own working in the district are the Methodist, the S. P. G. and the Reformed Presbyterian, all with their headquarters at Rurkee, which is the second city in size in the district. The number of Christians, all told, is about 2000.

The Theological Seminary.—

The training of suitable native agents for evangelization and pastoral work is one of paramount importance, and the one for which the institution is established. The course of instruction is substantially the same as that followed in theological seminaries at home, with, of course, adaptation of some things to India. Let no one imagine that it is an easy matter to preach to the "poor heathen," and that our preachers do not require to be thoroughly equipped for their work. Hinduism and Mohammedanism are no mean adversaries. The former is a vast system of philosophy and religion developed through thousands of years; and the latter is strong principally on account of the truths which it has adapted from Christianity and Judaism. The followers of both religions are ready to assail the Bible at every point with the greatest subtlety, and the preacher must be prepared to answer their objections and to give a reason of the hope that is in him.

The last session of the Seminary opened with 21 men, but the number was reduced to 17 during the year, as two were expelled for bad conduct, and two proved themselves unable to keep up with their classes. Three, who passed the examination of the Synod's Examining Committee satisfactorily, were graduated, and have now entered on their duties as preachers in their several Stations. During the present session, which began on October 15, there are 21 students enrolled, of whom five are in the senior class and eight each in the middle and junior classes.

Industrial School and Orphanage.—

It has 170 pupils. There are three Christian and four non-Christian teachers employed, exclusive of the teachers in the Industrial Department. Besides these, seven of the more advanced boys are teachers for the lower classes. This is an economical arrangement, and at the same time the boys are receiving a training in the art of teaching, which may be of great advantage to them in future years. Their work, on the whole, is quite as satisfactory as that of the paid teachers. There are 54 boys in the Industrial Department, distributed as follows: 30 carpenters, 16 shoemaking, 2 tailoring, 2 blacksmithing, 1 compounding, 1 dressing in hospital, and 2 typewriting and bookkeeping. Of these, 39 receive some instruction in reading and writing, while 15 give their whole time to industrial.

ing, while 15 give their whole time to industrial.

Schools for Non-Christians.—There are no schools of this class, except for girls. Of these there are five in all: three for Mohammedans, one for Hindus, and one for Sweepers. The total enrollment is 140.

Dispensary Work .--

There were more than 20,000 visits to the Mission dispensary during the year, or a daily average, excluding Sundays, of about 65.

Evangelistic Work.—

Four evenings in the week open-air preaching has been regularly conducted outside the Mission dispensary by the professors and students of the Theological Seminary. Generally, assistance in song and support by their presence has been given by a few volunteers. In the district it is the daily routine work of the preachers stationed at our four out-stations to visit one or more villages and preach in the bazaar or any other suitable place where a crowd can be collected. This is also the method adopted during an itineracy among the villages by all of the missionaries. Of this, however, we have been able to do very little during the past year.

The Church.—

The church has 119 members, and the total number of adherents, including the Christians in the district, is 322. There have been 12 adult and 7 infant baptisms during the year.

There is a Woman's Home Missionary Society in the church which was organized last February, almost all the women joining with considerable zeal.

Zenana Work .--

During the year an average of 60 women have received regular instruction twice a week.

Leper Asylum .--

There are two leper asylums here, one for men and the other for women, which are managed by the missionaries, but all expenses are shared between the municipality and the Mission to Lepers in the East. There are 24 inmates in the men's asylum, and 8 in the women's.

FEROZEPORE STATION.

Dr. J. F. Newton writes:

Riding to the City dispensary on my bicycle, I overtook a party of Sikhs, four carrying a sick man on a charpoy, or bed, and an old man walking with them. "Shero" (lions), I said, "where are you taking your burden?" The names of Sikhs generally end with the affix singh, a lion. Sher also means a lion, so shero or singho (voc. plur.) is a common mode of address among them. I looked at them with sympathy, which indeed I felt, for the patient seemed to be suffering, and the old man looked sorrowful. So I dismounted and they stood still, while one replied that they were going to the dakkhana or post office. The old man explained that it was his son they were taking there for treatment. He had a fractured arm, which the village syanas, or doctors, had not treated successfully. "Then you mean to take him to the dawai-khana (hospital)?" I suggested. Yes, they said, that was it. They were not sure the hospital and the post office were not the same. I asked them if they would follow me, as I was then on my way to the hospital. "Badshah help us, save my son; we will follow," the old man said, and tears glistened in his eyes, and he touched my knees with one hand and stroked my beard with the other. I pointed out the way that led to the Mission hospital, and went on.

Arrived at the hospital, I took my seat at the table which stands in the veranda, and read the passage in the Gospel which tells about Christ healing the sick and preaching the Gospel to the poor. Many patients were assembled, but not all, for they kept coming till nearly 3 o'clock in the afternoon on winter days. In summer we begin early and close at 12. The patients sit, some on benches and stools, and some on the floor. One of the strangest parts of Christ's ministry was, not that the blind received their sight, or the lame walked, or lepers were cleansed, or the deaf heard, or even that the dead were raised to life, but that the poor had the Gospel preached to them. Few were they of Rabbins or Philosophers among Jews or Gentiles who had cared for these.

I asked one what motives the people supposed we had in thus treating them, and going to the expense and trouble we did, yet free of charge. He replied that opinions differed. Some said we were employed by the Sarkar (Government) to do this work and were well paid for our pains. Others, that we had a contract with the Sarkar to make Kiranis (Christians), and were paid so much a head for every convert; or that we received a bonus at the end of our term of engagement. Giving dawai or medicine was only a means to this end. Thereby we stole the hearts of the people and prevailed on them to become Christians. Others, again, said we were pious people and did this work for pun, i. e., to lay up a store of merit for ourselves, which might prove useful in a future life. Thus they would speak, he said, one with another, in the evenings when they gathered in the village chauk. The real, the only, motive is not hit upon at all. As for stealing hearts, would more hearts could be stolen, or won to Christ; for is it not the winning of them to that which stands for righteousness and truth and charity? Yet they are not unimpressed. The friendly attitude of multitudes attests it. Their readiness to hear and read Christian truth and the spirit of inquiry contrast strongly with the hostility we encountered in our earlier years.

As for gratitude, many show it and really feel it.

On the arrival of the sick man, referred to above, we examined him and found nothing but a mass of slough. He had received a compound fracture of the arm above the elbow, and it had been dressed by a village syana. A syana is literally a wise man, but technically, whatever his occupation, one who treats the sick. He had dressed the wounded arm by smearing certain drugs over the wounded part and then binding it up with splints. These were cunningly devised. They were a number of thin bamboo sticks placed around the fracture and tightly bandaged. Four bandages were wound around it, one over the other, and each soaked in wet clay. This had the effect of a plaster of Paris bandage, only contracting yet further during the process of drying. The result was a stoppage of the circulation; and sloughing followed. Such was the syana's mode of dressing fractures. When we saw the patient the entire arm had sloughed off, the mortification extending to the shoulder joint, at which point nature itself had set a limit, and beyond was healthy tissue. All we had to do was to lift the bone out of the socket and then to apply the usual antiseptic dressing. He now made a rapid recovery.

The statistics of the City Dispensary are as follows:

Total number of visits	9670
Total number of new patients	5319
Medical cases
Surgical cases	321

Woman's Medical Work.—

The statistical report of the Woman's Hospital is tabulated as follows:

The number of beds	18
In-patients	130
New patients	3208
Number of visits	1113

Dr. Allen laments the same weakness on the part of many of her patients as that already pointed out above, namely, impatience of delay in recovery. They come with chronic maladies dating back six months, a year, or even more, and if not cured within a few days, betake themselves to other physicians, or go off to make a round of the hospitals. Carelessness, too, about seeking medical aid in time, is a marked characteristic with so many. Again and again patients come who are absolutely blind, having lost their sight through sheer carelessness and neglect, and whose sight could so easily have been saved had they but applied sooner. Gross maltreatment is responsible for many of these cases. A young man, with conjunctivitis, came for treatment and received a lotion for his eyes, with directions as to its use and advice to call again. He did call again, but not till several weeks later, now blind. Could I restore his sight? I asked him what he had been doing since his last call, and whether he had not followed my directions. No, he said, a Brahmin had advised him to put red pepper in his eyes, with assurance of speedy recovery.

The Mission Girls' School.—There are 40 little girls on the roll.

They are funny little things, these little girls. Imagine them dressed in tight pajamas—few of them wear frocks—in loose kurtas (they cannot justly be called jackets), and chadars, or mantles, over their heads. This part of the outfit is of least account. It is thin generally, even in winter, and cheap. The main feature is the jewelry—silver rings in their ears, any number, from five to sixteen, among all around the ear flaps, so that a string must be tied to each ear and passed over the head to support the weight! Then there are rings in the toes, and a ring in the nose, and a piece of silver, like a big brooch, called a chauk, into which the hair is somehow plaited like a topknot on top of the head. The whole is set off by dirty little faces, all of which, combined with the learning in geography and history and Scripture they are beginning to display, makes a generally droll impression.

The education of these little Hindu and Mohammedan girls never goes very far. The complaint of their teachers is that, just about the time they are beginning to know something, when they are twelve or fourteen vears old, their mothers come and take them out of school to get married. It will take some decades yet before the custom of early marriage now in vogue becomes obsolete.

Zenanas.—Mrs. Forman writes:

Often when passing an open door I ask if I may come in. I have never once been refused, but invariably been asked to come again. In some secluded street or courtyard I come upon a group of women seated, some on the ground, and some on morahs (stools) and charpoys, spinning and gossiping. I stop and speak to them, and receive an invitation to be seated. "Come and sit with us," one will say, and others second the invitation. "Come and sit with us, and sing something, or read to us from your book."

The Mission Church.-

The number of communicants is 77. The congregation is divided into two assemblies, one at Ferozepore and the other at Qasur, 16 miles away. Of the number named, 62 belong to the former and 15 to the latter. The church organization is one. Our church stands very near to the main thoroughfare (the "Mall" Road), and not far from the chief gate of the city, so there is at most of the services a fair attendance of non-Christians. Mussulmans, Hindus and Sikhs passing to and fro in the Mall at the sound of the church bell turn in that they may see what the bandagi (worship) of the Christians is The bell, swung in the tower of the church, is loud and deep toned, a gift made some years ago by some of the ladies in the Washington Presbytery in Western Pennsylvania. There were some, I was told, who thought contributions to bells a waste of funds, and did not contribute; but that bell has called many a one into the Christian bandagi and to hear the Gospel preached, who, but for its loud tolling, would never have thought of entering a church.

DEHRA STATION.

With the year 1903, Dehra Station completed its jubilee. Fifty years of work in Dehra Dun! To those looking only at the outward showing these words might be appropriately uttered in lugubrious tones. What! half a century of Christian effort, and only this handful of converts! Where are the mighty congregations that ought to assemble on Sabbath to testify that the Word has been spoken fearlessly and freely in the midst of a heathen people? But to those who know Dehra, and who have watched the patient tilling of the ground, and the planting of the seed, and have themselves watered it with their tears, these words ought to be uttered as a shout of gladness.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—In the Boys' High School 212 boys have been enrolled and 100 boys in the two other schools.

Girls' High School .--

There are from 120 to 130 pupils enrolled, most of whom are boarders.

This is about all that can be accommodated within the present buildings. The dormitories are all full, and the back verandas upstairs are used as bedrooms. This arrangement is very pleasant in summer, but not suitable for the winter months.

Two of the large front rooms have been divided by curtains to provide necessary class rooms, and bedrooms for the teachers. Every available corner seemed to be occupied to make class room, while once we saw two classes reciting in the same corner.

The general tone of the school is excellent. A Brahmo Samaj gentleman visited the school the day we were there. He is greatly interested in the education of women and girls, and has a school of his own in Patna. He was delighted with what he saw in Dehra. He said; "My teachers know how to teach, but that is all. They do not know how to make the girls happy, as you do. May I send two here to learn how to do it?"

He recognized the difference between his school and ours, and perhaps knew the cause of the difference, for he also said: "Many Indians will become Christians, but not in the way the missionaries think."

The Christian spirit which pervades the school must be felt by all who go there. The bright, happy faces of the children, the very earnestness they show in their work, the interest which the teachers, many of them old pupils, take in their classes, all testify for Christ. As I have tried to show, the school has never been in a more flourishing condition than at present.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Miss Savage writes of some of the work outside the Station:

Twice in the year I have taken a Bible woman to a village near the hills, where we have now succeeded in getting a foothold, and she was able to see the women more, as they were not afraid of her. I hope to spend two months with her there this cold season, and I hope we can place one or two workers there and perhaps get a little work started among the women and girls. It is on the road to a famous place of pilgrimage, Richikesh, back in the hills, on the Ganges, where sometimes four or five thousand pilgrims gather from all over India. Except during the rains there are always pilgrims there. In the rains, the water is said to be bad and the place becomes so filthy by that time that it needs the three months of constant rain to make it clean again. There is always an open door in Dehra for teaching and a willingness to hear the Bible and requests for the whole book or a part, as well as for hymn books, that is very gratifying. Often where there has been opposition at first there is afterward great interest.

MEDICAL WORK.—Under Dr. Vrooman's care.

The health of the school has been better on the whole than during the year preceding, which is partly due to milder climatic conditions, partly to prophylaxis.

The work outside of the school has not been much in amount, but has included some very interesting cases.

MUSSOORIE STATION.

Woodstock School .-

The attendance registers show 116 girls, 16 boys and 18 special students, thus bringing the number of pupils for the year to 150.

Our dormitory space has been pressed to its fullest capacity to accommodate the boarders from among these pupils, and we have again been faced by the need of increased dormitory space if we are to expand sufficiently to meet the popularity of the school.

The Normal Kindergarten Department continues to be increasingly satisfactory, and this year has had five students. It is encouraging to note that thus far each student who has taken the full two years' course in this class is now in a good position and is justifying our hopes by winning golden opinions from the principals of their respective schools. As a matter of fact, we have had more demands from other schools for the graduates of the Kindergarten Normal class than we have thus far been able to supply; and we feel certain that the limit of openings for well-trained kindergarten and primary teachers has not yet been reached. Aside from the encouragements received from our efforts to train girls along definite lines of teaching and thus fit them for self-support and usefulness, we also find the presence of so many earnest and mature students a very helpful influence in the general tone of the school and its discipline.

Mrs Andrews adds:

Our same need remains for more dormitories, some place for the sick, and a gymnasium in which to try to keep those who are well in continued health. The gymnasium has been much longed for during this year of very heavy rains, when for many weeks at a time the students have been unable to have sufficient exercise outside and yet there has been no place in the house where even moderate exercise could be taken. At the risk of repeating what has so often been said before, I must once more press these needs upon the attention of the Mission and its supporters, and plead again for some definite action concerning them.

Woodstock has been greatly blessed again this year in the conversion of a large number of her students, and the spiritual quickening of many more who were Christians. During the whole year every effort was put forth to win the students to Christ, both through the general services of the school and the personal influence of the teachers, and we saw the fruit of this seed sowing from time to time. But in July and August Mr. R. A. Studd held a series of evangelistic services in the Union Church, which proved the turning point in the lives of many of our students. Looking back now from the end of the year, we feel certain that the impulses to conversion and consecration which moved many hearts at that time have crystallized into actual experience in twenty-four lives.

HOSHYARPORE STATION.

In the city, preaching, a reading room, a Bible and religious book depository, and Bible classes have been kept up. In the educational work 60 girls have been in Hindu and Mohammedan day-schools and in the Girls' Orphanage and Boarding School.

There were 70 girls in the school during the greater part of the last year. Of these, 45 were orphans, 4 half orphans, and 21 with both parents alive. Four girls passed the upper primary examination successfully and left the school in August, two went to Anglo-vernacular schools of a higher standard, two took up service as cooks, and one died, and three had not returned to school after the long vacation. So there were only 58 girls on the rolls on November 1, the date of this report.

MEDICAL WORK .--

The number of outdoor patients last year was 13,764, the average daily attendance being 61. The number who received indoor treatment was 9. There were 3 major operations and 208 minor.

VILLAGE WORK.—

This has continued to be the most interesting and encouraging branch of our work, and has been carried on in seven different circles. Each of these circles contains a group of villages and has been worked by an evangelist, a licentiate or a catechist assisted by Scripture readers and teachers. There have been 255 baptisms in connection with this work during the year, 165 of whom were adults and 00 children.

The native church, the fruit of our labor, continues to grow and expand. There are 928 communicants in it, and 502 adherents, or adults and children baptized but not yet admitted into communion, forming a Christian community of 1430 souls.

KASUR STATION.

On account of the absence on furlough of the Rev. Robert Morrison there has been no report from this station.

Enders and Mrs. Enders, Dr. Nellie Binford and Miss Elizabeth Prentiss, with whom her aunt has gone as a self-supporting worker. On the other hand, the Mission has lost Miss McGaughey, on account of ill-health, and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy are expecting to remain in the United States. It is a great grief to the Mission that in spite of its urgent call for large reinforcements, it has been obliged to content itself with this small addition to its force.

ALLAHABAD STATION

The first word of our report this year is thanksgiving that in the midst of plague during the past year it has not come into the house of any of our laborers named above, nor has it entered more than once the homes of any of the Christian families worshipping with us. The past hot season has been one of the most trying in the experience of the oldest of our number, and yet at the beginning of the cold season every laborer is at his past, able to serve.

There are two organized churches in connection with the Allahabad Station, one at the Jumna and the other at Katra.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The centre of this work in the city has been the church in the Chauk. Night after night, with a few intermissions, have its doors been open and the Gospel preached, sometimes to quite a large audience, but usually to a small company of from ten to forty.

During the great Magh Mela the tent was pitched in the Mela ground as usual and the Gospel preached. It is becoming more and more difficult to preach at the Mela, not merely because of the opposition of the Arya Samaj, and other Hindu Societies, but because of the restriction of our preaching and selling books and tracts to the precincts of our own tent. Many years ago there were no such restrictions, and we were allowed a great deal more liberty in gathering audiences wherever we could on the Mela ground.

Some of the perplexities and encouragements of the evangelistic work are set forth in Dr. Lucas' report:

During my itineration across the Jumna, I met a Mohammedan gentleman, with whom I had long conversations, he coming to my tent and spending hours at a time in conversation about Christ, delighting in such converse. When a boy of sixteen he was sent by his father to England. He there came under holy influences, attending day after day the Moody meetings, and also hearing often and with delight Charles Spurgeon. A Mohammedan friend in England wrote to his father that his son would become a Christian if left in England, and at once the father recalled him. That was the turning point in his life. He had not the courage to give up all for Christ, and went back to his Mohammedan family. He looks back with longing to those days in England. It is too late now to go back and live over the life. While he never offers a prayer, save in the name of Christ, and delights in converse concerning Him, reading the New Testament and Commentaries, yet his state is perhaps best described by the parable of the seed falling among thorns, the cares and honors and "other things" choking the Word so that no fruit reaches perfection.

My conversations the last year with Mahammedana base led as

My conversations the last year with Mohammedans have led me to believe that a change has taken place in their attitude towards Christ. When I first came to India, thirty years ago and more, it was no uncommon thing to be bitterly opposed by Mohammendans, and while that bitterness has not disappeared everywhere, yet the experience of the last year or two has led me to believe that a quiet work of the Holy Spirit is being carried on in the hearts of many educated Mohammedans. I think it would be well were some of our young missionaries, with linguistic gifts, to take up the study of Arabic and prepare themselves by special study for dealing with that increasing class of educated Mohammedans one meets, men of keen intelligence, eagerly inquiring concerning the things of God. Never in my many preaching tours in the villages of India have I felt so deeply the spiritual destitution of the people and the great need of laborers.

The report was started that the Christians had been seen throwing something into the wells which polluted the water and caused the plague, and as in Allahabad scarcely a Christian had died of the plague, while thousands of Hindus had, many were easily persuaded to believe that the Christians in some way or other were responsible. A panic seized the people, many closing their shops and fleeing, and they were ready to believe any report, however absurd and incredible.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Christian College.

College work was formally begun on July 15th, 1902, in a residence building rented from the East India Railroad Company. The beginning was a day of very small things. During the first year eight different students were enrolled, but only half of this number continued to the end of the college year. In the beginning the staff consisted of Rev. Arthur H. Ewing, Ph.D., Prabhu Dass, Esq., B.A., and the teacher of Arabic and Sanskrit connected with the High School. Near the end of October, 1902, the staff was increased by the arrival of Preston H. Edwards, Esq., M.A. (University of Virginia), who at once relieved Professor Dass of the physical science work.

On the 6th of November, 1902, the Syndicate of the Allahabad University approved the application of the college for affiliation up to the

F. A. standard.

Early in March work was begun on a new building, intended ultimately for students' quarters, but to be used temporarily as college class rooms.

By constant pressure and through some "hustling of the East," the lower story of this building was got ready by July 15th and college work with two classes was begun. With the opening of the second year class, Rev. A. B. Allison, M.A., who had arrived in November and had been engaged in the study of the langauge in addition to some Scripture teaching in the High School, became a working member of the college staff, undertaking Bible teaching and history with both classes.

To our great encouragement students kept coming in until the number reached 38. The furniture we had provided was found to be inadequate and more had to be made. The rooms of the new building are already found to be almost too small for the 25 men of the first year class.

The Young Men's Christian Association.—Our local Association has taken on new life with the opening of the college year. A Sunday afternoon Bible Class for members only has been added to the regular Thursday evening devotional meeting.

With the beginning of the college proper a business department was organized, which provides instruction in shorthand and typewriting for those who desire to prepare themselves for a distinctively office career.

The Jumma Mission High School has been carried on as usual, but a distinct advance has been made in opening a boarding house in connection with it.

The Girls' School.

The Girls' High School at the Jumna has had a prosperous year, the results of the Government examination being most excellent. The Bible is taught to every class daily, with the exception of the primary classes instructed in the catechism and Scripture history. Of the 95 boarders in the school, the Principal, Miss Forman, reports that 31 girls pay all their boarding fees in full; 36 are received on a reduction, each however, paying at least Rs. 3 a month; 20 are paid for by missionaries, while 5 are taken free. The day scholars pay for their tuition. The aim of the school is to give a thorough Christian education to the pupils, the daughters of Indian Christians. Those who know from what a small and feeble beginning the school has grown to its present prosperity can congratulate all those who have had a share in building it up. On March 23, His Honor, Sir James Digges La Touche, laid the corner-stone of the splendid new building at Katra in which the school is soon to have its home. This building, with the site on which it was built, is the gift of Mr. Wanamaker of Philadelphia, and to commemorate his visit to Allahabad, so timely and helpful every way, the school in its new home is to be known as the Mary Wanamaker Girls' High School.

The Katra Boys' School has an attendance of 80 boys, mostly Hindu and Mohammedan. The Government gives a grant of Rs. 62 per month, and about Rs. 50 a month are collected as fees.

THE SEWARD HOSPITAL.—

Named in honor of Miss Sara Seward, M.D., who labored for many years in Allahabad.. It is a busy place. There were 37,321 treatments given last year, 354 operations, 342 in-patients and 690 patients visited at their homes. It it not open to out-door patients on Sundays, and the totals therefore represent an actual average of many more than a hundred per day throughout the entire year.

Dr. Norris writes:

No pen picture can give any adequate idea of the many cases of a single morning, and the clinical record of cases and treatments is just as inadequate. For the words "treatment given" cannot show you the tired mother who has carried her five-year-old boy on her head from a village miles beyond the Junna River. As she deposits the basket in which she carried him on the hospital floor, there is a look of triumph on her face, for now she feels that he will soon be well. Happily, his disease was amenable to treatment, and the poor woman soon went home rejoicing, carrying with her a copy of the Gospels and a book of Bhajans. Again, "patient admitted" tells nothing of the poor woman discovered by the roadside—a widow, and therefore cast out of her home lest her presence bring a curse. And thus might the stories be written—a hundred and more a day—of those to whom we are permitted to minister. They are mostly pathetic, but some are very amusing, and by enjoying these, the others are not so hard to bear.

Dr. Norris won the confidence and friendship of the Rani of Nepal, who listened attentively to the Gospel story and the Christian hymns, and now keeps in her room a copy of the New Testament and Psalms and a Hymn-book in Hindi.

As physician and friend she has been able to rescue several women and children and help them to positions which wiil enable them to lead respectable lives. Whenever time has permitted, she has also held Bible readings in the homes of Indians and Eurasians.

In recognition of her services during the plague, the Government bestowed upon her the Kaisar-i-Hind medal.

General evangelistic work and work for the lepers and the blind, and the publication of the Makhzan i Masihi, a fortnightly magazine in Roman Urdu, has been maintained.

FATEHGARH STATION.

This year there has been an unusual amount of sickness among our missionaries.

The membership of the Rakha Church is 136, of the Furrukhabad church 124. The Furrukhabad church has been more or less disturbed by an unseemly strife.

The untimely advent of another Mission has interfered with the Rakha church discipline, several who had been disciplined having been enrolled as probationers in that body.

The Sunday-school work has had a healthy growth. We report 38 schools and 855 teachers and scholars, an increase over last year of 4 schools and SI in membership. This increase is largely due to larger attendance in the Boarding Schools and to the energetic efforts of the workers across the Ganges river. The Christian Endeavor Societies of Furrukhabad church have continued their Sunday-school work in 16 places. In these Sunday-schools the training class men and the older boys in the Boarding School gain valuable experience in Christian work. All the workers conduct from one to three Sabbath-schools each.

EDUCATIONAL,—Rakha Christian Girls' Boarding School and Orphanage.

During the year there has been a total enrollment of 194. The health of the institution has given cause for a great deal of anxiety. Sixteen have died, all but one of consumption. It should be said that consumption is an exceedingly prevalent disease among children rescued from famine. It has been the practice to remove those found sick with consumption to the Allahabad Mission Hospital.

Forty-six of the girls have united with the church and 15 others are receiving special instruction preparatory to such a step at the next communion.

Barhpur Boys' Boarding School.—

The total enrollment has been 142. Especially have we been able to gather in the boys of Christian parents. An attempt is made to collect fees in accordance with the financial ability of their parents. It is gratifying to record this, for it shows a confidence on the part of the Christian community in the school. The boys seem quite contented, the loss this year from runaways being very small. The health of the institution has been exceedingly good.

The industrial department seems to be on a good sound basis; 20 boys are in this department learning shoemaking, carpenter's work. carpet weaving and tailoring; very good work is being done in all these classes. The apprenticeship method is used, that is, the boys sit down with masters and work. Not much in the way of theoretical work has been attempted yet. During vacations all the boys work at trade or laborer's work, thereby earning their own clothes.

Because of the smallness of the quarters, the four lower classes of the Furrukhabad Boys' High School, which is a day school, have been conducted in the city church building. The Girls' School reports an average attendance of 60. The total number enrolled during the year has reached 244. As the main object of the school is evangelistic, we are glad to welcome the girls, if only for a few days now and then. Miss Fullerton, who has had charge of the school, writes:

The average monthly enrollment has been one hundred and eleven, and the average attendance sixty. To one who understands the character of such schools the difference between the enrollment and the attendance is not surprising. Some of our pupils can slip into the school only during the absence from home of a relative who opposes her coming. Others attend for a short time and then are frightened away by neighbors or friends.

Of two teachers from the Dehra School, who have helped her, Miss Fullerton writes:

I have been specially pleased with the loyalty of both the girls to their old school. They always speak of it in terms of the warmest affection. Not long ago, in talking over their school days, one of them mentioned something that had happened that had not pleased her at the time; but, she added, "It turned out to be for the best, Miss Donaldson always does the wise thing." I mention this to show what our boarding schools are doing, and may do, to furnish us with loyal and reliable helpers.

She adds:

Our Hindu teacher said to me one day, in reference to one of the Christian teachers who had belonged to a lower caste: "Miss Sahiba, you treat all castes alike. You even make men and women out of animals." (Brahmins look upon out-castes as on a level with the lower animals.)

One of the pupils of the school was married during the year to a nephew of an elder in the church. She is now teaching her mother-in-law and her husband's two aunts to read and is continuing her own studies at home. I visit her weekly and examine both her pupils and herself in what they have learned.

Training School .-

This year we were able to send six young men out into the district to teach and do personal work. They have also kept up their studies under the direction of the preacher near whom they live.

The wives of the Training Class men have been taught in the Women's School. There have been 9 village schools.

Dr. Anna Fullerton has generously given her services to the medical work.

During the entire year a dispensary has been conducted in Barhpur.

To this dispensary 2864 visits were made and 33 operations performed, not including many minor operations.

For lack of better quarters my city patients were seen in a room used as a stable for my sister's horse during school hours. At one end of the room stood the horse with its bundle of hay, at the other end sat my waiting patients, while I took one at a time into a small harness room or closet when a special consultation was needed or a wound needed dressing.

One danger has to be guarded against in the establishment of medical missions here, as at home, that of further pauperizing the community. Native Christian families especially seem to regard it as their prerogative to receive medical advice and remedies without paying for

JHANSI STATION.

Dr. Holcomb met with a very serious accident during the year, falling from a wall and breaking his thigh, but has fortunately almost entirely recovered. Beside the work in Jhansi, at Nan and Ranipur work has gone on.

At Nan there has been for some time a number of candidates for baptism, and on the tour above mentioned, during which a fortnight was spent at Nan, these candidates received careful instruction. On the 31st of March the session of the Jhansi Church met in the dak bungalow at Nan and examined these candidates of whom there were four.

On the 31st of July a Brahmin woman from another part of the Jhansi district was received into the Church. She had been for some time a patient in the hospital of the Women's Union Mission in Jhansi, and had there been brought to Christ.

For those who literally live from hand to mouth the little that even a child can earn is of some account. We could have any number of pupils if we paid each child even a few cowries for coming, but we have not felt that it would be wise to pursue such a course. The paramount thought with all these poor people is in regard to the "meat that perisheth," and when it is so hard for them to live, is it to be wondered at that their great anxiety should be to get this? Will food for the body ever cease to be their crying want, until they feel a hunger for something better?

Of the Zenana work, Mrs. Holcomb writes:

Of the larger number of those who need instruction in Zenanas, it is safe to say that they would not otherwise have the Gospel. Women of the lower classes who lead less secluded lives may come within the sound of the Gospel, but their shut-in sisters have little opportunity to hear the glad tidings unless they are sought in their homes.

A school for poorer children in one of the wards of the city, taught by a Christian widow in her own home has done well, and a school in a large bazaar outside the city and more recently established, has given promise of success.

ETAWAH STATION.

The condition of the city church, Dr. Johnson says, has deteriorated on account of death and removals, although peace and harmony reign and the services have been well attended.

Of the district work, he writes:

Our last season's itineration was in many respects a favorable one. In company with my daughter and three or four other workers, we left the Station early in January, and traveled about among the villages, until the increasing heat warned us to seek the shelter of our houses. Wherever we could get a hearing at all, it was generally a patient and often an interested one; but often we found villages closed against us by the senseless idea, which somebody is sedulously promulgating all over the country, that the plague, which was at that time spreading in all that region, is not a disease at all, but is simply the effect of a subtle poison, which the English Government is carefully disseminating all over the country, with the object of thinning out the people; since they have found out through the census that the population is increasing far too rapidly. An addition to this story is that the missionaries with their catechists and Bible women are the trusted agents by whom the authorities scatter this poison far and wide. Probably it would not be hard to guess who are engaged in this business of sowing disloyalty, but for some reason the authorities take no notice. This systematic lying proved in many places a hindrance to our work, for as we approached a village, unless some one remembered to have seen some of us in the city, it was apt to happen that someone raised the cry, "The plague-spreaders have and in a moment the streets would be cleared, and everybody would be safely housed with closed doors, except that some one old man would be left to do the honors of the place, and urge us to go to the next village. Except for two things a large part of our work would have been ruined. In many villages men were found who recognized some of our party, having met us in the city, as at the opium weighments, and vouched for our harmlessness. Again, wherever possible, we attended the village markets. As the men of a dozen villages would be gathered in one of these, they were not so easily frightened, and we were able to make ourselves widely known as having come on a religious errand. We found it useless to try to combat this plague scare. The fact that Europeans, as a rule, are not attacked by it, is looked upon as a proof that the plague is not a disease, but a poisoning. They point to another fact, too, that its coming is known beforehand and provided for by the officials, as evidence of the same thing. In fact five could not argue against five hundred, and we were compelled to leave the people to their fancies.

Miss Johnson adds regarding this country work:

At first the women would suspect us of having come to spread the plague, and be very shy of coming near us. They preferred to stand ready to flee—a stone's throw away or safely ensconced on a roof above us. It took much cajoling and persuasion to get them within listening distance. More than once a door shut hastily as I passed it, because they feared, as I learned later, that I might throw a handful of plague infection into their homes.

The loss of Miss Belz is still keenly felt.

Dr. Johnson has kept up his indefatigable translating work, having prepared, among other publications, a preacher's commentary on Mark in Roman Urdu.

ETAH STATION.

The Rev. J. N. Forman has had charge of the Station during the year, having succeeded Mr. McGaw on the latter's return on furlough. He reports:

Mr. and Mrs. McGaw spent a considerable time in tents, devoting themselves largely to the Christian communities. The result of this tour was, in part, about 160 baptisms, besides strengthening those who had previously professed faith in Christ.

It was my privilege to attend a fine Christian mela held at Christmas time. There was a large gathering from the villages, and much enthusiasm prevailed. The service in the morning, children's exercises and Christmas tree in the evening, with out-of-door sports and dinner the day after Christmas, all afforded a fine opportunity for rallying the Christians, for emphasizing our unity, and for promoting the feeling of good fellowship and brotherly love.

The boys' boarding school has had a prosperous year, and has done good work. The number of boarders has varied from 36 in November last to 64 in July. The monthly average has been nearly 45, and the number in October is 56. Of these about 15 are orphans from famine times, three boys from the Etah district, and the remainder are from the families of Etah village Christians. They are fine lads, full of great possibilities. They work with hands as well as heads, and as a result of their manual labors have personal accounts, the credit side showing what has been earned in earth-work, and the debit showing clothes, shoes, blankets, bedsteads, etc., also some cash. The education is in Urdu and Hindi. The boys are well-behaved and some of them sincere Christians. We hope from their ranks to get recruits for our force of teachers and preachers.

In the men's training class there are 22 students, but in March the register showed 43 and the average for the year has been nearly 31.

The training class for women has varied in size with that for men, as these women are mostly the wives of the men in the training class. The present enrollment is 15. Mrs. Forman has ordinarily, when in the Station, given three or four hours a day to this school.

It has been the earnest desire of our predecessors and ourselves to strengthen the work in our villages. We have in the Etah field some 957 Christians baptized by Presbyterian ministers. For these we are directly responsible, and in addition to this number, we have undertaken the instruction of some 631 baptized principally by Methodists and neglected by them because of the very large numbers gathered into that Church a few years ago. So the number of baptized persons for whom we are endeavoring to provide instruction is 1588.

We are thankful to be able to report substantial progress in the number "under instruction." Last year there were 287, whereas this year there are 480, exclusive of the training classes. Of these 10 are Hindus, a few are children in sweeper families not yet baptized, but the large majority are members of our Christian community. Including the training classes, and one man studying in Saharanpur, the number is 517. Of these 1 is in the Theological Seminary, 21 young men and 15 young women in the training classes, 56 boys and 8 girls in the boarding schools, and 333 boys and 83 girls are enrolled in the village schools.

Though we are in great need of more workers, we are thankful to be able to report one ordained Indian minister. 5 unordained preachers, 28 men teachers, 14 women teachers, 1 Bible woman, 2 other native helpers, or a total of 51 native workers.

We have endeavored to develop the grace of giving among our villagers. They are poor, but still well able to contribute to school and Church, and they are accustomed to give while heathen. We are trying to get them to contribute an anna a month for each family, or for each separate cooking establishment.

In reporting these encouraging facts we must refer also, in order to be honest, to the disheartening fact that among our village Christians there is yet much of superstition, idolatry, clinging to old customs, such as child marriage. The work among the village sweepers is certainly of the Lord, and a really great work is being done by Him. Still there is need of special evangelistic work among those who have professed Christianity, and need of much prayer that the Holy Spirit lead them to Christ and so away from superstition and sin.

GWALIOR STATION.

Mrs. Wyckoff, who is working here with her daughter and son-in-law, Dr. Symington, writes as follows:

Many of the barracks near us are occupied by families of native soldiers. In some of these I have been a welcome visitor, and some of them have come to our house for instruction, others for medicine. There are seventeen thousand troops here.

A motley lot of people come to me for instruction every Sunday morning. They have learned to sing and pray, and listen attentively to the Word. They are beggars. Five out of the sixteen are totally blind, others partially so, and nearly all except three small children are suffering from the infirmities of age. Five are widows.

After securing a Bible woman, we opened a school in the old city of Gwalior and gradually gained access to several Zenanas. During March and the former part of April the small-pox became so prevalent that for a few weeks our work came to a stand-still. When it became safe for us to go into the city, our first visit was at the house of a Maharati doctor, who is in charge of one of the Maharaja's charitable dispensaries. He gave us a warm welcome, and explained that owing to a family festival, there were a number of guests in his house, but that all would be glad to see us. There was much confusion and chattering at first, but finally comparative quiet prevailed and the message was listened to with apparent interest by a few. Before we left we were bedecked with garlands of jessamine, and anointed with attar of roses. Nuts and sweets were also given us to carry home.

Gwalior is a native state and any advance steps in the work have to be taken prudently, but the workers here are wisely resolved that they must be taken fearlessly.

CAWNPORE STATION.

Mr. Gillam, who was married during the year to Miss Carrie Ewing, writes:

In the midst of pestilence, the conduct of our people has been commendable. They have not been without a sense of the seriousness of the situation, nor have they become unnecessarily alarmed, and the experience of realizing the near presence of death has, I believe, led them to a deeper trust in their Heavenly Father.

The organization of the church work has become more efficient than formerly. There are now connected with the church one Sunday School for Christians, one for heathen and a Christian Endeavor Society. The Sunday Schools are active. The Christian Endeavor Society is not strong, and they are only beginning to learn the lesson of responsibility in committee work.

Aside from activity distinctly connected with church life there have been the establishment of a day-school for Christian boys and a reading room for young men in the city. The school has begun with an enrollment of 13.

The reading room is in the city and is supported by funds from the European community. The amount subscribed is 30 rs. a month. The room is supplied with English and Urdu reading matter.

The Station's greatest need is property for a bungalow and hostel. A hostel is the only practicable plan for keeping oversight of young men who have no homes of their own, and for continuing the education of those who come from training classes in other stations.

FATEHPUR STATION.

No report of this Station has been received.

MAINPURIE STATION.

Mr. Mitchell reports:

I have left the High School almost wholly in the hands of the headmaster, Mr. Mukerji, and never have any fears about any work entrusted to him. He is a good Christian man, a good teacher, a good student and counselor. Three other Christian teachers have been associated with him in the school. During the year I have baptized 62 persons.

IN EUROPE: Mrs. R. G. Wilder, Miss Grace Wilder, Dr. Williamson and Mrs. Williamson.

Once again it must be reported that the field of the Mission has been visited by the desolating plague. In the presence of the hundreds of famine orphans under the care and education of the Mission, there is a vivid permanent memorial of the last great famine.

Dr. Williamson was married during the year to Miss Mackichan, the daughter of Principal Mackichan, of Bombay, but ill-health compelled the return of both of them to Europe. The Mission has been reinforced during the year by Miss Sybel Brown, an experienced teacher in the Boston public schools, who has gone out with particular reference to the further industrial training of the children under the Mission's care.

KOLHAPUR STATION.

The continued ill-health of Miss Wilder and her mother has prolonged their stay in Europe.

The plague raged very badly at Herla and carried away several of our people there. David Hoapa, a very old man, the first convert of that place and a recognized leader of his community, died a few months ago. He had to suffer a great deal of persecution from the hands of his people when he was the only Christian living among them, but he remained firm and thus became a nucleus of the small Christian community at Herla.

EVANGELISTIC.—There were twenty-four additions on profession of faith to the Kolhapur church. The whole number of communicants is now 145. It has been found very difficult to hold all the converts gathered the past few years, as against the overpowering pressure brought to bear upon them to draw them back into Hinduism. The report of the pastor, Shivaram Masoji, says:

It is very sad and discouraging to see so many of the new village converts drifting back into their former caste on account of persecution and other inconveniences they have to suffer from their own people and the village authorities. They are threatened with being deprived of their hereditary rights and privileges, and are boycotted in various other ways.

Mr. Goheen has preached each week in front of the church in the city and has always had large and attentive audiences.

Mr. Tedford was able to be out about seven weeks, taking to forty-two towns and hamlets the message of salvation as it is in Jesus. Not only near the dwellings of men did he and his helpers go, but into their harvest fields also.

As usual, the magic lantern was used to draw and interest large crowds during the leisure and quiet hours of the evening.

Mr. Tediord regrets that he cannot report favorably concerning the out-stations of Herala, Mazagao and Porale, committed to his care. Plague, relapses into Hinduism, and quarrels among the Christians have interfered with the work. The masters and only helpers at Herale and Mazagao seem to have been ill adapted to the nature and wants of the people. This, together with the refusal of financial aid formerly granted, seem to have had much to do with bringing about the unsatisfactory condition of affairs. This is but further testimony to the fact that no part of any of our work should be left without the daily supervision of a missionary. Very little of our work in its present stage can be committed to native control away from the daily commanding influence of a white face. A consciousness of the presence of such a being in a town has a constraining effect even upon the non-Christian part of the population.

"We have refused to baptize candidates apparently ready, but for whose religious instruction we were utterly unable to provide. It is very hard to take such a stand, but we have felt it wise to take it." Such is the statement of one of the leading missionaries in one of the oldest and most advanced Missions in India, to which Mr. Tedford adds his belief in the necessity for a closer adherence to the principle of no baptisms before candidates are thoroughly instructed, and no more baptisms without provision being made for proper supervision afterwards.

Sunday-schools.—

The average attendance at the Sunday-school in the city of Kolhapur is 300, one-third of the pupils being Hindus and Mohammedans, the rest Christians.

Three hundred children or more are in other Sunday-schools and in the out-stations.

EDUCATIONAL.—Some of the day-schools had to be closed for part of the time, on account of the plague. It was feared that the pest would break out also in the Girls' Boarding School, but this catastrophe was diverted.

The girls killed all the rats and mice for a reward: two pice for a large one, and a pice for a small one, so the houses have been kept quite free from rats, and that may be one reason, under the blessing of God, why the plague did not come near us.

Some of the orphan girls are still very delicate, and one of them, Ann Krandoba, died in May, after a short illness. Her mother died when Ann was only a month and a half old, leaving her to the care of a brother who had been devoted to the goddess Lakshmi. He had to beg milk for her, and sometimes he got enough and sometimes he did not; so the poor child cried and fretted and disturbed the neighbors by night and by day. They advised him to give her some poison and put her out of the way. He refused to do that and took her away to a lonely place so she would disturb no one. When she was a little older he began his wandering life, clothed in rags, cutting himself with a whip, dancing and singing from door to door, sleeping wherever he could find a place, under trees or by the roadside, but always carrying about with him the little sister, who shared whatever he received in alms. Sometimes he received only a little flour. He would make a fire by the roadside and boil some water, stir in the flour, and this paste would be their dinner. When the famine came he heard that the missionaries were taking children, so he brought Ann to Kolhapur and gave her to Mrs. Goheen, and went on his way. Ann improved in health, but was never strong and well and merry like the other girls. Her brother was much on her heart, and she used to beg Mrs. Goheen to keep him and teach him. He had been urged to give up his wandering life, but he declared he never would. Finally, he did come and ask to be baptized, and he is now earning his living.

There are 243 girls in the three houses, and when one considers that they are from nearly 243 different homes and of several castes, it seems almost wonderful that they can be as happy and contented as they are. Friends often ask, "Are there no troubles and quarrels and heart-burnings among so many girls?" There are plenty of them, enough to keep the school-mother busy, but when she considers how many more there might be, she thinks her children are not so bad, after all. When those who are Christians have quarreled, it is usually only necessary to let them think quietly awhile and then ask them if they know how quarrels can be settled without a third person having to reprove or punish.

The housework is all done by the girls, each work-class serving one day in the week in each class as cooking, grinding, hair-combing, dish-washing, carrying water, washing and cleaning. There are eight of the older girls in each work-class. The little ones help the older ones and sweep and dust.

Bedtime comes at 8.15 P. M. for the little ones and 9.15 for the large girls. The older girls are akas (elder sisters) for the little ones; they look after them during the day and at night help them to spread out their rolls of bedding on the floor, hear them say their prayers, and tuck them up.

The doctors ordered two of the orphan children to be rubbed with cod liver oil. No matron wanted to do it, so they said the aka of one of the sick children was to do it. She did it once while Miss Patton was seeing to the giving out of stores and medicines. The next morning there was no one ready to do the oiling; the aka, when sent for, said she could not do it because of the disagreeable odor of the oil. Afterwards, when she was asked to do it, not for the sake of the child, of whom she was very fond, nor to save Miss Patton's time, but for Christ's sake, she consented, and has done the work most cheerfully, and the babies have improved greatly.

Of the 243 girls in the Boarding Department 146 are baptized members of the Church and 59 are communicants.

The Somvar Day-school suffered from the death of Ramkorebai, the head teacher, to whom the school had for years owed much of its efficiency and its decided Christian influence. Punctual, quick to seize opportunities, "apt to teach, patient," Ramkorebai's influence extended far beyond this little school, and those who mourned for her were many. She died on the 16th of July, after a brief illness. It was a significant thing that the woman who collects the girls and teaches the lowest standard, a caste Hindu, said after the funeral, "I dressed her dear body for the grave." "It was your privilege," Mrs. Goheen said. "It was my right," she answered. That a caste Hindu should perform such a service for a Christian is an unheard of thing in Kolhapur.

Twenty-seven women have been in the Widows' Industrial Home, and have by their work earned three-fourths of their expenses.

The reading room of the Young Men's Christian Association was kept open daily, except when plague necessitated its closing.

The other branches of the Station's work—colportage work, Dorcas Society, etc.—have been maintained as usual.

KODOLI STATION.

THE CHURCH.--

During the past year the names of twenty-two persons have been added to the roll of the Kodoli church. Seventeen of these came from Hinduism and were baptized on confession of their faith in Christ. There were also twenty-six infant baptisms. The names of five persons have been dropped and twenty more have gone back into caste. There have been eighteen deaths, mostly from plague. Plague has been present in different parts of the Station field the whole year and is still bad at Kodoli and many of the neighboring towns. The Christian people have left their houses and are at present living in the fields in temporary grass huts. This is the best thing to do when there is an outbreak of plague and most of those who move in time, i. e., as soon as the rats begin to die in the town, escape. The Hindus are slower to move than the Christians, and they suffer much more on this account.

There have been quite a number of cases, too, of what might be called discipline of a milder type, aside from those that were formally brought before the Session for judicial action. The Indian in the lower grades of society takes life easy and will not burden himself with responsibility of any kind. In famine time, give him a good meal, and when his stomach is filled he will lie down and sleep as peacefully as if all his wants for all future time had been provided for. In ordinary times he will take unto himself a wife, when he has no money in hand and no income, no regular employment to support himself, no house to live in, and no previous acquaintance with the woman he marries. Christianity can and does check this tendency in those who receive it; but it takes time to do it, and there has not been time enough yet to root out the evil in the Christian community of the Kodoli field. Marriage contracted under such conditions sometimes proves entirely satisfactory, but sometimes it is followed by misunderstanding and trouble. It is not an unusual thing for a man to come with the complaint that his wife is not to his liking -she does not get his meals on time or suit him, she runs off to other people's houses, or, if he was a widower when he married her, she does not take care of his children. With the complaint comes the request that the session take her back and give him another one. The wife, too, is just as apt to be the disaffected one as the husband. It takes tact as well as grace to deal with such cases as wisely as the circumstances require. . . . There is an elder in the Kodoli church who is an adept in dealing with such cases. His methods seem very simple, but they are effective, and that is the important thing. . . . This elder is not an educated man, he cannot read (though he is learning now), neither is he a speaker. The secret of his power as a peace-maker is in what he is himself. He is a man of good common sense, and a simple-minded Christian. His wife is of a kindred spirit with himself, and both are a comfort to the missionaries, for they are of the number of those who are the evidence beyond all question of the power of the Gospel to transform the heathen and to make them "new creatures in Christ Jesus."

The Sunday-school work at Kodoli was very extensive and effective.

The infant Sunday-school has an average attendance of 200.... There are six other Sunday-schools at the out-stations. The average attendance at all these schools, as shown in the report of the clerk of the Church Session to the Synod of India, is 739.

A number of the boys have received New Testaments for having memorized one hundred verses of Scripture, together with some selected portions of the Word. The average attendance has been fifty-five.

The Woman's Meeting has been held every Friday afternoon. The women appoint their own leaders and carry it on in their own way.

EDUCATIONAL.—The many children in the Brownie Orphanage have made steady advancement during the year.

Sometimes school work seems exceedingly slow; but when one stands by and hears a class read, or examines a pile of legible slates, or watches the keen interest of the boys and girls in the morning Scripture lesson, one's thoughts, almost unconsciously, wander back to the scenes from whence these children came just a few years ago; such comparison makes the Brownies seem like "new creatures." Their improvement has been real and steady. In the boys' school drill and exercise have been introduced. Among our 165 boys enrolled as regular attendants, we have many that have already shown special ability; some excel in reading, others in arithmetic, several in singing, and some in running and jumping. The gift of a school bag to each of the 100 boys in the first and second standards has been the crowning of our boys' delight. Perhaps the most interesting things in the girls' school have been the forty new prize hymn books. Often the girls begged for a hymn book, and it seemed unfair to give to some and not to others. The announcement that each girl entering a given standard was to have a nice, new, cloth-covered hymn book, all her own, made all set to work with a new determination. Forty happier faces you never saw, and the fact that the books were earned made them doubly precious.

The Woman's School has been open ever since last November, except for six weeks' vacation, with an average attendance of about forty-eight. There is a place for every woman in the school; the grandmother comes with the daughter, and the daughter brings her baby.

One class is working over the alphabet, another recognizing words, a third reading and the fourth reading in the New Testament, while the fifth is composed of those too aged and those incapable of learning by sight, so they listen to Bible stories and memorize verses.

At three of the out-stations it has been necessary to close the schools during the closing months of the year, owing to the presence of plague.

At Denarde the enmity of the Hindus expressed itself in open scorn of the Christians, but the plague effected a reconciliation. It came about in this way. Plague broke out among the Mahars with such virulence that it was with difficulty they could dispose of their dead. At first they would not allow a Christian to touch a corpse, but when it became so bad that none but Christians dared to bury the victims, a Christian named Babaji Bhairu voluntarily assumed the charge of seeing to the burial of the Hindus who died, and when the others saw his Christian love, they understood that it was a fitting thing that "the living should bury the dead."

Once when I was preaching in another town a gosavi (holy man) joined the crowd. Without waiting to hear what I was saying, he at once said to me, "Stop, stop; don't tell the people these things." Then turning to the crowd he said, "Don't listen to him. I have often heard such things in many places. and I tell you the object of these Christians is to deceive others, as they feel that they themselves have been deceived." "Who are you?" I inquired, and the holy man answered, "I am a gosavi. I am not an ignorant person like these people; I can read and write. I have read many books like that in your hand. You say that Vithoba is no god. But he is. He is an incarnation of Vishnu, and that is the reason we gosavies worship him." I asked him if he had ever read the life of Vishnu, and he then replied in the affirmative. I then mentioned one of the Hindu books by name and asked him if he had read it. To this he answered, "No; a man whose caste is as low as mine would not be permitted to read that book." "What," said I, "have you become a holy man, and still carry your caste with you? Well, I want to tell you a story about Vishuu and Caste that is taken from the Hindu book you have not read. The river Ganges and the Sea got married and had an only son. One day the infant boy sat crying in the lap of his father, the Sea. Heaven and earth resounded with his lamentations. the throne of paradise was shaken, and Brahma came down to earth to see what was the matter. The cause of the child's grief was that he had no caste, since he was born of both fresh and salt water. When Brahma came near to comfort the infant, his father said, Brahma has descended from heaven to take you into caste. Then the joy of the boy was uncontrollable; he seized Brahma by the beard with both hands and could not be induced to let go until Brahma promised to give him Vruddhi, the daughter of a goddess, for his wife, and that he should be immortal unless he were killed by Sambhu. After he was grown, he got into a mortal conflict with Sambhu, and while it was going on, Vishnu, who was enamored of Vruddhi, enticed her away. Sambhu killed his antagonist, and Vruddhi became a suttee and was burned on the funeral pile of her husband. Vishnu was so sorry that he made a wooden image of her to hang about his neck. Now you will understand the reason why you gosavies wear that emblem that you have on your neck." At this all the people laughed, to the great discomfiture of the holy man. I stayed in that town seven days, and when I was going away the people said they liked to have me with them and listen to my preaching.

MEDICAL.—The work was in charge of Dr. Wilson part of the year, and thereafter of Dr. McArthur.

Among the accident cases during this time, several had fallen from trees or into wells, some had been gored by bullocks. Among the latter, a boy was brought one day whose side had been considerably torn by a bullock some days before. The shimpi (tailor) of his village had promptly repaired the wound by sewing it up, dirt and all.

During the past year there have been 4700 new patients and 11,000 new and old treated in the dispensary; the largest for any one month being 1556 during August. There were 219 in-patients treated in the hospital.

ITINERATION.—Dr. Wilson, Mr. Tedford, Mr. Richardson and native helpers have made tours embracing both medical and evangelistic work.

The father of one of the little patients was very interesting. The boy was in a serious condition, but recovered before they left the camp. The father seemed very grateful for what had been done. He had read Christian books and had heard some of the preaching. When spoken to of Jesus Christ he said he knew of Him, that He was a good man and founded our religion, etc., but he was greatly surprised when he was told that Jesus is living to-day and is coming again. That was something new.

This tour was a most enjoyable one. The region was mountainous, the air bracing and the scenery fine, the beauty of it being much enhanced by the river, which was bordered on either side with trees, whose branches projected far over the water. But best of all was the reception met with from the people. Everywhere they seemed glad to see the missionaries. They carried the words of their coming on before, so that from the day of their arrival at a new place the camp would be filled with the crowds who had come for medical treatment, and every day invitations were received from the people who lived in the village on all sides to come and show the stereopticon pictures which were a part of the outfit of the touring party. One of the schoolmasters has remarkable power, when explaining the pictures, which were Bible illustrations only, of giving a life-like vividness to the scenes which the pictures represent. The evidence that an impression was made was plain. It was a frequent occurrence when in preaching use was made of the parables or miracles for some one in the audience to make some such remark as "That is what we heard and saw last night when looking at the pictures which illustrate the life of the incarnation of the true God." Representatives of the gods that are not true abound on all sides,—they are found on the hilltops, by the streams, in the cool shade of the trees, everywhere. Mr. Graham writes thus of one man in whom he was much interested: "One Sunday afternoon, after an earnest talk with the head man of a village, he said to me, "Come, I will show you the god I worship," and he led me to a little mud temple, in which was a crude image gaudily decorated with paint, tinsel and bits of bright-colored cloth. "There," said he, "is my god, a dead and useless thing, an inheritance from my father." Then followed a long talk about the living God, the new life, the peace and joy which real communion with Him brings,—the way of approach to Him through the Saviour who had compassion on the multitude and who went about doing good. "I am in a maze," said the head man. "What shall I do? My mind is unsettled by these things which I have now heard for the first time. You must come to my house to-night and show those pictures there, for I want my wife and mother and the other women of the family to see them and to hear these things, too, and they will not go away from home to look at them.'

On one of these tours the missionaries met with the significant indication of the change produced in the mind of the people as to the status of woman.

In India, cholera, smallpox and other forms of pestilence are supposed to be the work of goddesses, an opinion which is perhaps in some measure both the cause and the result of woman being degraded and held in such light esteem. Women at home might be glad to know of something that seems to indicate a leveling up or a leveling down process in the Hindu mind. When cholera, smallpox or other malignant disease ravages a village the people make a small wooden image of the goddess, place it on a little plaything of a cart, and with great ceremony conduct the supposed divinity out of the town to the limits of the ground belonging to the village. Here they hold a feast, and then return to their homes, leaving her to go on to the next village. This she must do in spirit, for the image with its cart stays where they placed it till it rots and falls to pieces. On this tour the missionaries came to one village where on the roadside near by such a feast had been held. At a little distance from the empty food-baskets and the cast-away dinner plates (which were made of leaves) stood the cart, but on it were two images instead of one. One was the image of Mrs. Cholera and the other that of Mr. Plague, and the image of Mr. Plague was the larger of the two. Verily, whether there be progress or not, still, the world at least moves, even in India.

A short time ago the people of Kodoli buried four living pigs, one on each side of the town, as a propitiatory offering to the divinity that presides over plague. Doubtless young women would have taken the place of the pigs, as in the good old times, were it not for the oppression of the English rule, which in such matters restricts the religious liberty of the people.

These four tours occupied fifty days. Ten camps were made and about forty villages were visited. Over 1500 patients were examined and treated and a number of operations were performed.

The workers of the Village Settlement were also out touring, some for about three months.

Over sixty towns and villages were reached, the most distant being on the coast ninety-three miles from here.

Again and again the tourers had invitations to visit other villages, and in almost every village they found at least one who seemed glad to receive the message. An old man, a carpenter, kept saying, "Yes, the past has not brought anything." Often the confession is made, "Our idols are nothing," yet a weaver queried pathetically, "If we give up our idols what shall we have instead?" A woman said, "We do not understand these things; stay with us and teach us. We will give you something to eat." In more than one village a gracious reception was given us because some one had been helped during the famine. A woman said, with tears in her eyes, "To think you should come all that distance to tell us about the true God." Of course, some opposition was met; not all listened gladly. In one place a Gospel was burned, in another a man mounted the steps of the verandah from which the missionaries had been speaking to a large crowd and said, "What you say is all right but one thing, and that you should not preach,—that Christ is the only Saviour; but Mohammed for the Mohammedans, Ram for the Hindus, Christ for the Christians."

One day a Brahmin, a graduate of Wilson College, Bombay, after listening a while quietly, started arguing on this line, "You are satisfied with your religion, you have peace, have you not? Then why should you care what other people believe? You should be as the calm, undisturbed ocean." The essence of selfishness, surely. This man could know nothing of the exquisite joy we have in helping others.

MISCELLANEOUS.—Many different methods of work are followed in a Station with so many Christians and children to be looked after: sewing classes, reading classes, cooking classes, the latter especially for the girls.

Miss Scheurman examined during the year a cooking class of thirty-six girls who were competitors for a prize, The morning of the bazaar each girl received an anna (2c.) with which to buy all she needed to make the best meal she could for a family of three persons.

SANGLI STATION.

This Station is thankful to be able to record that though bubonic plague has again become epidemic toward the end of the year, yet we have been during the greater part of the year entirely free from it, and now it has only slowly and slightly increased.

Eighteen adults were baptized during the year, making the present total number of communicants 68. Church attendance, however, is 225; the Sunday-school, 240. There are ten classes in the Sunday-school, the children being divided according to their day-school standards. About forty orphan boys constitute an extra class taught in the afternoon.

There has been some gain in the Boys' School during the year in the way of increasing the staff of Christian masters. Of the industrial work in the school, the report states:

We are glad to report substantial progress in this branch during the year. Most of the boys have made good headway and nearly all show increased interest in their work. Forty are learning carpentry; sixteen brass moulding and finishing, and ten blacksmithing and fitting. Each boy is taught drawing and makes a drawing of the article he is about to make. This helps to make them think beforehand and prevents many mistakes in their work, and also develops their minds. By understanding drawings, and being able to work therefrom, gives these Christian boys an advantage over heathen workmen. Some Indian workmen can do a job fairly well if you allow them to copy from an article you already have, but very few are able to make an article from explanations, no matter how minute these may be.

Besides the industrial training in the workshop, two other industrial classes are maintained, one in tailoring, under Mrs. Irwin, five and one-half hours daily, five days a week, which makes all the clothing of the Boarding School, and one in gardening, under Mr. Irwin, which cultivates a vegetable and flower garden in the Mission Com-

The orphanage work at Sangli has been much more satisfactory since the construction of the new building.

It consists of four large sleeping-rooms and one dining or class room. All the rooms are fitted with cupboards in which to store blankets, clothing and eating vessels. It has the latest improvements in ventilation, and it is now impossible for the boys to close out all the fresh air during the night. All the floors are of concrete and can be easily cleaned by washing. An attempt, which is so far successful, has been made to make the walls proof against white ants and other vermin, and there is no place where rats can find an entrance except when the doors are open. This fact is a great consideration, especially in plague times.

Mrs. Irwin has carried on medical work, Miss Enright the Girls' Day-school; the native pastor regular evangelistic preaching daily. The report concludes:

Our relations with the State continue cordial. January 1, 1903, was the day set apart for the official celebrations in India of the King Emperor's coronation. Besides the great durbar at Delhi, functions were held in all governmental centres throughout India. To the durbar held in Sangli the missionaries were invited, and they attended. The following day a great feast was given at the Chief's palace, to which the Christian boys were invited. The boys, accompanied by the Christian masters—in all about 200—made a pretty procession as they marched through the streets in their white clothing and new caps to the palace grounds. They were cordially received by the officials, who took pains to see that their wants were attended to. The feast was sumptuous and of the best according to the native taste. One boy said, "The food was the same as the Brahmins eat." We consider it a step in advance when Christians are asked to participate with caste people in a public feast, especially in a Brahmanical centre like Sangli.

In June last, on the occasion of the adoption of a new Chief for the State, the Christians were similarly invited to attend some of the cel-

On the eve of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson's departure for furlough the administrator, hearing that a farewell gathering was to be held in the schoolhouse, voluntarily offered to have State servants decorate the place with lamps, etc., and sent the State band to honor the occasion. He and some of his officials attended. The native judge spoke appreciatively of the good work done by Mr. Wilson, especially mentioning his unceasing efforts during famine and plague times.

MIRAJ STATION.

Five cases of plague occurred among the Christians at Miraj, including Dr. Williamson's attack, from which he happily recovered.

There are thirty-four communicant members in the Miraj church, six having been added during the year. There is a much larger number of Christians gathered at Miraj through the medical work, who retain their home Church connections.

The Sunday-school held at 10 o'clock in the Hospital furnishes a sight not easily forgotten. The opening and closing exercises are conducted in the men's ward, for the greater part of the time, by Dr. Wanless. Into this ward come all who are able, and so the halt, diseased and blind are carried, wheeled or led by those always glad to be of service to others, and all join in or listen to the singing of Gospel hymns and reading and exposition of God's Word. The service cannot but be strange to most of these poor souls who have all their lifetime worshiped idols of wood and stone.

This school and the general work of the Station are well described in the following letter written by Mrs. Bruce, of the American Board's Mission, who, with her husband, upon whom Dr. Wanless operated, spent some time at Miraj:

This is Sunday, and there is an unwonted hush at this noontide hour. The necessary things to be attended to in a hospital were many of them done up in the morning; but operations are suspended, and the ordinary dispensing of medicines, so there is a little let-up for those who work so hard during the six days.

At 10 o'clock the bell is rung for Sunday-school, which is held in the men's ward in the upper story. This is a unique gathering, I must confess, when the sick and well listen to the appointed lesson for the day. There is no delay for the making of toilets! Some who are able come from their beds in the woman's ward and sit down in a corner. Here, where the Medical Department is the principal aid in evangelistic work, the poor and well-to-do have an opportunity to hear the Gospel. As Dr. Wanless is the presiding genius in the Hospital on week days, so he is first in the Sunday-school and in applying the truths of the Word to these people who have been first brought to enter these doors by the pressure of some bodily ailment and the conviction that the surgeon in charge would willingly use his skill in their behalf.

Could you have been with me this morning, you might have seen the men, some sitting, others reclining, or even lying down on their beds, according to their condition of body. Others who were partial invalids or, it might be, friends of the sick, had come and were sitting in the doorways or verandahs, or near to the beds, listening to the words of life. On the wall is an illustrated picture of the subject for the day, "The boyhood of Jesus." Dr. Wanless gives out a hymn of praise to Christ, in which the students and hospital assistants, as well as the nurses and other Christians, unite. Mrs. Wanless is by the side of her husband and leads in the singing and the formation of the classes. Miss Foster, the head nurse, is among the worshipers, but she has schooled herself to the principle that service is the most important element, and her eye and ear are quick to perceive where her presence is most needed. She was once superintendent of a hospital in Philadelphia, but chose to come to India to minister.

Well, the hymn is finished and Dr. Wanless rises to pray. His prayers, like his efforts, are fraught with energy as he is talking to the unseen God. The men, some with bandaged limbs or shaded eyes, are listening, while those who have eyes to see may be staring at the Sahib. We are wondering, too, and thinking how the Lord Jesus, when He went about healing the sick, might have anticipated the time when hospitals should be built in His name, and Science and

The service proceeds and we read alternately the verses of the lesson. After another hymn the classes are formed in the various wards, above and below; and also some one is deputed to speak to the people who are living under the trees in the rear of the Hospital. These are chiefly friends of those who are ill. They carry on their cooking in simple Oriental style, and are on the lookout for any one who comes to speak to them. Frequently they inquire when the Senior Doctor is going to his country and when he will return; and oftimes they heave a sigh of regret as they think they shall not see his like again, and the days are long to wait.

Near by is a large Dispensary Hall, where during the week, after a Gospel talk, medicines are given out to those who apply. The service on Sunday afternoon is held here. In this place yesterday the Christians had an occasion for showing their appreciation of Dr. and Mrs. Wanless in a very pleasant farewell meeting. The medical students were the prime movers in this, and they may well garland these dear servants of God, as they remember the way in which these friends have moved in and out among them, and taken them to their hearts and homes.

Dr. Wanless has some fine photos of the medical staff and students which cannot fail to enlist interest in America. In the centre sits our Doctor, serene, in the prime of manhood. He has been chiefly instrumental in the establishment of this Hospital and the carrying out of the system which prevails, and which was specially commended at the Decennial Conference held at Madras. Others, too, of noble spirit are entering into his labors; but more enduring than the stones of this great Hospital are the Christian characters which Dr. Wanless has been able to see developing. Some of these who are or have been students are of Brahmin extraction, and one is an Armenian from Persia who came to Bombay to pursue his studies, and was sent to Miraj. Most of them, however, are those whose fathers were from the lower classes and who owe their social elevation to Christianity. Several were children in our Satara school some ten years ago, the sons of preachers or teachers. Thus every generation of Christians is capable of greater improvement. Dr. Wanless remarked at his table last evening that he thought there was no joy superior to that of being helpful in the building up of character, and he has given of his best for this.

Among the Hindus there are those who affirm that Dr. Wanless must be divine, or a part of Divinity, inasmuch as he can diagnose disease and remove it so wonderfully.

The Station's report speaks as follows of the medical work:

Notwithstanding the drawbacks to the work in consequence of plague, the Hospital attendance has been the largest in its history. The number of in-patients treated was 1124; of this number 336 were eye-patients. There were 1698 surgical operations performed during the year, of which 1525 were done in the Hospital. Of the operations 941 were recorded as major. There were 393 operations for the removal of cataract. Dr. Wanless also made sixty-three visits to patients in their homes in Miraj and nine trips to outside villages to see patients.

The Dispensary attendance fell off slightly, a fact due to prevalence of plague in the town for a longer period than that of the previous years.

The total out-door attendance was 17,565, of which 8403 were new and 9250 returning patients. More than 600 different villages were represented in the out-door patients.

During the greater part of the year the Hospital was full to overflowing. With a capacity intended for sixty-five in-patients, the attendance was frequently eighty or over, and for weeks together it exceeded seventy. More than 300 different villages were represented in the Hospital patients. In 1902 the in-patients traveled an average distance of thirty-six miles each to reach the Hospital. Patients came from every State and district in the Bombay Presidency south of Bombay and from a number of districts north and northeast of Bombay, representing in all eighty-three different talukas.

The work of training nurses has continued under Miss Foster's care. All the nurses are Christian women.

Medical School.—The second class of eight students completed their three years' course in March. Six of the class, having passed the final examinations, received the school diplomas. These eight students are now all engaged in Medical Mission work.

In June last a new class of seven medical and two compounding students was begun. Since then two more have joined the medical class, making eleven in all. One of the latter is an Armenian, sent by the Church Missionary Society from Persia. Seven of the students have Mission scholarships from our own Mission, and four are supported independently. These young men are all of good Christian character and have been selected from a considerable number of applicants.

The Leper Asylum.—The Leper Asylum, supported entirely by the Mission to the Lepers in India and the East, has been open throughout the year, and, at the present time, has twenty inmates (eight women and twelve men), five of whom are Christian. There was one baptism during the year.

Work through women's classes, day-school, the Young Men's Christian Association, and constant public preaching and personal work has been part of the regular service of the Mission.

RATNAGIRI STATION.

Plague was all about the Station during the year, but it did not touch the Christians.

The famine boys under the Station's care have grown encouragingly in character and usefulness during the year. In June the men and larger boys in the church were organized in a society similar in character to the Young Men's Christian Association. Meetings were held for a time, in a rented hall, the second story of which is a Mashid.

The Mohammedans naturally objected to our worshiping beneath their temple, but as the owner of the building was bound by a written agreement they could not prevent our using the building. They attempted to drive us out by petty annoyances, such as pounding on the floor of the room above us, shouting outside, etc.

One evening the subject was the Apostle James. From the death of James one of the boys took the subject, "The persecution of Christians." He began quietly, but there was so much noise outside that he was compelled to raise his voice to a high pitch in order to be heard. As he proceeded he warmed up to his subject and became more and more excited. He brought his subject down to the present day. He had the persecutors before him. He preached directly to them, and with such force and pointedness that both they and we listened in wonder. When he finished, the noise had subsided, and those who annoyed us a few minutes before either departed or came in and listened attentively during the rest of the service.

Of one branch of the local work Miss Minor writes:

There is no part of the town where I am better received than at the Fort. Here I had a vernacular school for about five years, and am now welcomed in the homes of former pupils, as well as in neighboring homes, as I am known to the people there. It gives one convincing proof of the use of schools as an evangelistic agency, for this school certainly did much to open up the homes of the neighborhood for Gospel work.

One man in the Leper Asylum has asked for baptism. Miss Minor writes of this work:

It was a great pleasure on my return home from furlough to take up again the work among the women at the Leper Hospital. I had a very warm welcome from the women on my arrival, and many expressions of joy at my return. It was good to see their faces again, though many showed what progress the disease had made, while others had been called away.

Of the school work Mrs. Wiley reports:

From 7 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the evening, except one-hali hour at noon, we hear the constant buzzing that is peculiar to the Indian school. We have two schools on our compound,—one of Hindu children, which assembles at 7 A. M., and the other our Station school, which assembles at 9 A. M.

The boys are taught gardening, and some have become very useful in housework. All have a certain amount of work to do daily and are held responsible for its completion.

Of a school for Hindu children, turned on Sunday morning into a Sunday-school, Mrs. Wiley says:

When they first started to school they were so afraid of my white face, and some of them would just cling to the woman who brings them, but now they love to get up close to me and slip their little hands into mine while I am having a lesson.

Getting the truth into the minds of the children, and especially of the women, who have all their lives been taught that they have no minds, is no easy process.

One who has never attempted to teach women to read cannot appreciate what I mean to try to explain the mysteries of the Marathi alphabet, and connect letters with any idea of words, in the minds of those who have never given any thought to anything beyond digging in the fields and cooking meals.

ITINERATING WORK.—Mr. and Mrs. Wiley, with two helpers and nine boys from the Orphanage, and the Village Settlement ladies, together with one of the workers of the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission, carried on a special evangelistic work for a season at Sangameshwar. In one village, Mr. Wiley writes, the people told him that a white man had never visited their village before and that some of them had never seen a white face.

They listened very attentively; but said before we left that they did not have time to think of such things, as their time was all employed in filling their stomachs. This is one of the regular excuses given, since all the people of this region are very poor.

Mr. Wiley adds, as indicating the extent of the field:

If I could spend 180 days each year in the district, preaching to fifty people daily, and never to the same people twice, it would take me sixty years to preach the Gospel once to the present inhabitants of this district. The Mission force that we have in the Station at present is such that the united touring possibilities are probably one person for 100 days each year. At this rate, with the present force, it would take 180 years to preach the Gospel once to the present inhabitants of the district.

VENGURLE STATION.

This is next to the youngest of our six Stations, having just passed its third anniversary since being opened as a Station. The development of the work in some direction has been beyond our most sanguine hopes.

The cordial friendship and good will of the influential people of the town have continued and increased.

The orphan boys have grown more manly, and some for whom we have long prayed have come forward and accepted Christ as their personal Saviour.

In all the past six or seven years of plague in India, Vengurle has known but four imported cases, and none in the past year. Of famine we know nothing, though we must add that one of our English officials said that the large part of the population of our field had never known anything but poverty.

The church roll showed thirty-five communicants at the close of the year, the increase in numbers coming mainly from the boys of the Orphanage.

The boys have led their own prayer meetings in the Y. M. C. A., and often the leader, to his extreme discomfort, would be plied with questions from his audience.

In their lessons the boys have made good progress. Indeed, if we compare this school with the government schools and consider the time allowed, and the material facilities, the progress has been remarkable. When we look back over the three short years that these children have been with us, and realize that ten of the number have passed five years' work and four have passed six years' work in the three years, it is a matter for congratulation.

In industrial work the departments of carpentry, tailoring, gardening and household service are continued as before, and progress is being made, steady if slow.

The influential men of Vengurle have urged the establishment of a High School. Fifty-two young men of the Municipal English School presented a petition to Mr. Hannum to this effect.

The influential men of the town say that there would be at least 200 boys at the outset, if the Mission could open such a school.

Mrs. Marshall carried on a medical work with the dispensary open for only the last three or four months of the year, with a total number of cases of 6416. While the dispensary was open, the average attendance daily was seventy-one. The work had its humors.

In addition to the regular preaching, there was some touring in the country. Mr. Hannum and his companions, on one of his tours, were rather roughly handled, but the only damage was a broken lantern.

In urging its need, the Station points out that this field contains 3000 square miles, with a population of over 700,000, while beyond this boundary there is a large district unworked.

After the close of the Mission year the Mission lost by death one of its members, Miss Emma Alexander. The Board adopted the following Minute:

The death of Miss Emma Alexander, of the East Japan Mission, was reported to the Board. Miss Alexander was the daughter of Rev. T. T. Alexander, D.D., for many years one of the most beloved and successful missionaries of the Church in Japan. Miss Alexander was appointed June 2, 1902, and sailed for Japan in the autumn of the same year. On the way, she stopped in Honolulu, where her father was at the time, to visit him, and was present with him at the time of his death, going on immediately afterwards to take up her work in the Joshi Gakuin. There, for the brief period of her service, she wrought with love and faith, endearing herself to all. After an attack of typhoid fever, and apparent recovery, she became ill with influenza, which developed into meningitis, and on February 23 she passed away. The Board would express to the mother and other relatives, and to the Mission in Japan, its deep sympathy with them in this great sorrow and bereavement.

In the Annual Report for the year 1898 the following statement appears:

Japanese statesmen generally believe that a day of battle is not far distant; and that that day can be faced, or averted, only by thorough preparation. This means a large outlay for all the instruments of war.

What was then described as not far distant is now at hand. May the end of all be for the furtherance of the Kingdom of God!

In accordance with its custom, the Council of Presbyterian and Reformed Missions has published an Annual Report giving an account of the progress of its work in co-operation with the Church of Christ in Japan. The following general statement is taken from the opening paragraphs of that report:

Fortunate is the man who is called upon to prepare the Annual Report of the Council at a time in regard to which one of our oldest missionaries can say, "The people are more easily approached and affected with the Gospel than they have ever been since the country was first opened"; and when a missionary just added to our number can say, "Things look very encouraging to me, and I feel that the people are very eager for the Word of God"; while one who stands midway between them says, "I think the work in the West Coast is in a better condition than it has been in fourteen years at least. We find that the people are not only willing to hear, but more willing to receive Christianity than formerly."

The people are cordial, and are generally entering the Church. The number of Christian teachers in middle and normal schools is already astonishing, and there are also a few Christians even among primary school teachers. Being a Christian is less and less of an obstacle to obtaining employment. The graduates of mission schools are a help in many ways. In some places they are the chief workers in the church.

There is new life, and the prospects in evangelistic work have indeed greatly improved. The number of persons baptized is large. One missionary speaks of baptizing 57, another over 50, and still another 79. Many missionaries have baptized more persons during this last year than during any previous year of their service. In all, 1075 adults have been admitted to the Church. The only limit to progress seems to be in the number of workers available. Distress on this account has become more acute of late, and in some cases the point has been reached where important out-stations may have to be abandoned for lack of workers.

In educational work it is the same. Many of the schools are full to overflowing. The grade of instruction, the quality of teachers and the spiritual life of the student body are better than ever before. To be sure, all things are not what we wish and hope and pray for, but the simple tale of opportunity is such that one is likely to doubt the judgment of the chronicler.

These general statements in the report of the Council could easily be reinforced by particular statements in it such as the following:

There is a widespread spirit of inquiry, or readiness to hear faithful Gospel preaching. I was struck with this in my own daily meetings in the early part of the year, in the attendance and earnestness, and readiness to embrace spiritual truth and profess faith in Christ. The same may be said of places where there have been no special efforts put forth, or even stated workers or preachers of the Gospel.

Another says:

While in our work during the year, as a whole, there have been hindrances enough to keep us humble, discouragements enough to keep down all Utopian anticipations, and opposition enough to tone down unhealthy optimism, yet in looking back over it all, in no one year has the work of the Misson shown more substantial results than the past year. This is true in regard to the growth of the churches in numbers and efficiency of organization, in the spirit of self-support and general Christian enterprise, and in the development of our girls' school work.

To this the writer of the report of the Council himself adds:

There is no question that the attitude of the student and teacher classes toward the missionary and his Bible has undergone a radical change. No doubt the presence of many mission school graduates and other Christians among the teachers of the middle schools accounts largely for this. It is not unusual for missionaries to be asked to address schools, even normal schools, in sections where this would have been impossible some years ago. In Nagoya an opportunity was thus given that had been awaited for years. To be sure, the missionary does not preach on these occasions, but it is a recognition of his character and standing which all counts in the long run. Opposition on the part of teachers is not wanting, and there is ill-will in some quarters; but it is as rare as was good-will in former years.

Two things especially notable in the report of the Council are the general attention that is given to the instruction of inquirers in the Scriptures, and a deeper sense of the importance of work among the young, especially in Sunday-schools. The pupils in the Bible classes are for the most part students; but not exclusively. Post office and prison officials, officers in the army, and private soldiers and others are referred to. The teaching is carried on in the homes of missionaries, in student boarding houses, and in some cases in the public schools out of school hours. In speaking of the Sunday-schools the writer of the report calls special notice to the facts that they are more and more coming to be organized and conducted after home methods, that they are engaging the attention and interest of the churches, and that a large percentage of the teachers come from among the pupils in the girls' schools.

EVANGELISTIC.—The general evangelistic work of the Mission has gone on much as in recent years. Preaching in the churches, visiting the out-stations, classes for young men, the care of evangelists and Bible women, visits to the homes, and chores of various kinds. Special mention should, however, be made of a trip to Formosa taken by Dr. Haworth which confirmed the Mission in its belief that Formosa forms to-day a field of peculiar promise. Here also it should be said that repeated requests have come from the Japanese that the Mission establish a Station at Nügata with a view to extending the work in that part of the West Coast. An account of the evangelistic work of the Mission should also include a reference to the Ueno and Kamejima Missions, under the care of Miss Youngman. Here also mention may be made of the Meguro Leper Home, and of the Rescue Home. In the latter, Mrs. McCauley has a special interest, making it her residence and having the general charge of it for the present.

EDUCATIONAL.—Of the educational work also it may be said that it has gone on essentially as hitherto.

The Shinegawa Kindergarten reports 60 pupils. Regarding the kindergarten and private schools the writer of the Council report remarks, "It is pleasing to note the degree to which these schools are means to get into social relations with the parents."

The two primary schools in Tokyo carry such of the pupils as are able to continue their studies through what is known as the higher primary course. The Tsukiji School has an attendance of 150. Most of the children are very poor and are obliged to leave at the end of the primary course. During the twenty-five years since the school was established 145 have graduated. The Shiba School last spring graduated 12 from the primary and I from the higher course. The number of scholars in attendance is something below 100, not quite so many as last year. The change is due to a narrow interpretation of the law regarding the school age on the part of the ward officials. During the past twenty-five years 144 have completed the primary course. At present those in the higher course number 29. The Christian pupils have been organized as a Junior Endeavor Society, with excellent results. In connection with both schools are Sunday-schools. those in Trukiji being under the care of Mrs. Thompson, and the one in Shiba under that of Mrs. McCauley. One girl from each of the schools has recently entered the Joshi Gakuin.

The Otaru School reports 50 pupils in the primary course and 75 in the kindergarten. Five of the scholars are Christians, of whom 2 united with the church during the past year.

Regarding the school, Miss Rose writes:

The year has been one of quiet growth. It is blessed with two of the best of Japanese teachers, graduates of the Joshi Gakuin. They are an inspiration. Then, too, the pastor of our Otaru Presbyterian church lends his efficient services to the senior class three afternoons a week. There is a good degree of interest in the daily Bible classes, and English and music are very popular. There is unusual enthusiasm in the Kindergarten Department this spring. Our small quarters are overflowing.

Connected with the Otaru School there are several Sundayschools, notably one in the city itself, which from March until January has an attendance of 150 or more.

The pupils of the Sapporo Boarding School number 115, of whom 23 were baptized during the year. During the year the school has lost Miss Wells, for whom the climate proved to be too rigorous. But it has gained Miss Sherman, and Miss Ward, who has hitherto been in Osaka. The teaching force will thus be stronger than ever before in its history. Miss Smith writes as follows:

The interest in Christianity which pervaded the school last year, bringing twenty-three of our older pupils into the Church, seems to continue; and ten more received baptism just before we closed for the summer vacation. The new buildings which we have so much needed and have been praying and laboring for so long, are now completed; and we have good comfortable buildings, accommodating sixty or seventy boarders, and a chapel that will seat as many as are likely to come.

The pupils at the Joshi Gakuin number 219, of whom 110 are boarders and 109 day pupils. The graduating class, which had completed the entire course, numbered 8. During the year 12 of the girls have been admitted to the church. The graduates are all now engaged in Christian work; one of them has gone to Honolulu to join her parents in work among the Japanese residing there. A number of the girls teach in churches and Sunday-schools in different parts of the city. The year has been one of quiet, steady work on the part of most of the pupils. At the beginning of the school year 40 new pupils were admitted, and many more could not be received because there was neither dormitory nor class-room accommodation for them, but through the kindness of the ladies of the Presbytery of Washington and the addition of new recitation rooms to the chapel, this difficulty will soon be one of the past.

During the Christmas holidays the chapel was seriously damaged by fire caused by the burning of two houses across the street. For a while it seemed almost certain that the entire building and also the Sakurai Home would be destroyed; but by the efficiency of the fire department the fire was finally extinguished. It is due to the police, also, to say that perfect order was maintained and every assistance possible rendered. The conduct of the ladies and the girls, too, was a thing to be proud of. The emergency could not have been met with greater calmness or better judgment.

Mrs. MacNair writes of the Bible Training School as follows:

Seventeen were left in the school, four of these being wives of theological students. There have been years when we have had greater numbers; but I do not recall a time when we had students more faithful or more appreciative of their opportunities for study. One of the features of this year's work has been the special attention paid to the preparation of the Sunday-school lessons. The results have been most satisfactory, as shown in the development of the individual woman, and in more successful teaching. During the winter the students have carried on five Sunday-schools in Tokyo and Shinagawa. The upper class has spent two afternoons each week visiting in the homes of the Sunday-school children. Fortunately two of the experienced graduates, having a few months between engagements, are helping to keep up the work in all these schools, while the older students, either with Bible women or alone, are working in the country for three or six months. Last year's summer work in two country districts was of so much interest and had such good results that Bible women were sent in response to urgent requests to continue the work through the year. The work goes on with increased interest, and there have been a number of baptisms, eighteen as a result, in one place.

During the year the Theological Department of Meiji Gakuin has received government recognition as a Semmon Gakko: i. e., as a professional school. The students now number 19, of whom 9 are pursuing the regular course and 10 are older men who are taking what is called the special course. It need hardly be said that the coming of Dr. Oltmans is looked forward to by all with much pleasure.

In the spring of last year Mr. Kashiwai, who has been an instructor in church history for a number of years, was ordained to the ministry and installed as a professor in the school. The ordination and installation service was held in the chapel of the institution. Since his installation Mr. Kashiwai has gone to America to spend a year or more in study, and during his absence a part of his work will be done by Mr. Hata, the pastor of the Dai Machi church and a recent graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary.

There are now in the Academic Department of Meiji Gakuin 168 students, 22 of whom are pursuing the advanced course. The following from Dr. Wyckoff appears in the report of the Council: "The last year has been a prosperous one, the work going on much as in former years and in a way quite satisfactory to the faculty. The advanced course has now students in all three of its classes, but partly for lack of teachers and the consequent combining of classes, the course has not yet been so thoroughly systematized as it should be." To this should be added that the advanced course, as in the case of the Theological Department, has received government recognition as a Semmon Gakko.

But the fact of special interest in the history of Meiji Gakuin during the past year is the granting by the Department of Education of the privilege for which strenuous efforts have been made during the past four years. The graduates of its middle (Chu Gakko) course are now allowed to enter the Koto Gakko (i. e., schools preparatory to the University) on the same terms as the government middle schools.

In closing this account of Meiji Gakuin it is a pleasure to make special mention of the chapel now in process of erection. The building, which will be an ornament to the grounds, is the gift of Mr. and Mrs. E. Rothesay Miller, of the Reformed Mission. Besides serving the purpose of a commodious and beautiful place of assembly, may it also prove a potent means of quickening and cultivating in the Church of Christ in Japan a deeper sense of the duty of order and reverence in public worship.

LITERARY.—During the year Dr. Thompson has printed a second edition of his catechism on the Confession of Faith of the Church of Christ in Japan; and the following new tracts in Japanese have been published by Dr. Imbrie: The Living Christ, Master, who did sin? Eternal Life, In Remembrance of me, Men ought always to pray, Grace and Peace, A great rule and a great truth. Mr. Landis has continued his work on the Sunday-school Lesson Helps, and has given considerable time to the preparation of a mission map of Japan. Mr. Mac-Nair has expended much patient care and labor on the new hymn-book. The Hymnal, as it is called, will be used by the Presbyterian and Reformed, Congregational, Methodist and Baptist Churches; and it may properly be said that it is commonly regarded as by far the best hymn-book ever published in Japan. The work has been done by a joint committee comprising both Japanese and foreigners, and representing the Churches just mentioned. In the work of this committee Mr. MacNair has done his full and more than his full share.

It is not strange that the work of the Treasurer seldom if ever finds a place in the Annual Report of the Mission. That ought not so to be. Not only for the past year, but now for many long years, the Treasurer, Mr. Ballagh, has been a faithful and beloved fellow-laborer giving to each his meat in due season. For once, at least, therefore, he deserves to be mentioned.

BOARD OF HOME MISSIONS.—The work of the Board of Missions (Dendo Kyoku) of the Church of Christ in Japan is under the general direction of the Synod, and is carried on independently of the Council of Missions. It is, however, a work in whose success the Council is deeply interested; and an account of it may properly form a part of the Annual Report of the Mission. Regarding the work of the Board, Dr. Haworth writes as follows:

I have been impressed with the fact that there is little or no difference between the methods of the Board and those current among the Missions of the Council. Of course, the efficiency of these methods depends largely upon the men employed. In choosing its appointees, the Board probably gets on the average better men than the Missions. I think, also, that the Christians under its care do better in the matter of self-support than those who receive assistance from the Missions. This is largely to be accounted for from the fact that they are so much closer to the source of supply. They are constantly being appealed to for contributions, and see the appeal made to their fellow-Christians of the Church of Christ in Japan. They read, month by month, the reports of the treasury; and feel, when the Board is in straits, that they ought to strain every nerve to help themselves. It is impossible to give Christians who are assisted by the Missions quite the same feeling. The foreign Boards are so far away, their operations are so indistinct, and they are relatively so powerful, that it seems to make but little difference whether they contribute or not. To some extent we missionaries may and ought to overcome these difficulties by explaining matters to the Japanese and keeping the subject before them; but in the nature of the case we cannot do so well as the Board; and the practice of turning over work to that body, when it has reached an advanced stage, seems to be a wise one.

There are now under the direction of the Board 15 evangelists who are carrying on work in 11 places. The receipts during the past year amounted to $2576.28 (gold), of which $2134.98 were contributed by the Japanese. The disbursements were as follows:

Salaries of pastors and evangelists	.$1678.12
Itinerating of evangelists
Expenses for evangelistic work
Office expenses
Rent
Postage, etc
Printing Incidental
Interest	. 8.00
Balance	15

Six churches contributed over $50 each, and 12 between $25 and $50. During the past nine years the receipts have risen from $103.85 to $2576.28.

VISITS OF DR. HALL AND DR. PENTECOST.— Among the notable events of the year were the visits of Drs. Hall and Pentecost. "The primary object of Dr. Hall in visiting Japan was to repeat, with certain changes, his course of lectures delivered in India on the Barrows Foundation. The object of Dr. Pentecost in his visit was evangelistic in the more restricted meaning of the word."

Reference has already been made to the new chapel on the grounds of the Meiji Gakuin. In the performance of his duties in superintending its erection Mr. Landis accidentally fell from the roof to the cellar. It was a dreadful fall, and for days he lay, half conscious, between life and death; but now, very wonderfully the physicians all say, with care and rest, his complete recovery may be confidently counted on. For this the Mission expresses its unfeigned gratitude to God. He shall give his angels charge concerning thee; and on their hands they shall bear thee up.

YOKOHAMA.—Miss Case's resignation and marriage has left Yokohama without a resident missionary, and the school has been closed. The work of the Church of Christ, however, goes on efficiently as before, under the Japanese pastor.

HOKKAIDO.—Of the work in the Hokkaido Mr. Pierson reports:

In the Hokkaido the past year marks a distinct advance towards the acceptance of the Gospel as the religion for the Empire and the religion for the individual. Things are getting serious in Japan. A well-known literary man, Mr. Nakae, sees no solution of the mystery of life; and, knowing his days are numbered, writes a book which begins with matter and ends with despair. A former Hokkaido student seeks in vain for certainty in the maze of un-Christian philosophy and religions (from which Japan is happily emerging), and casts away his life in a Nikko waterfall, with no hope; because with no God in the world.

But where one of Mr. Nakae's books is read, two of Mr. Takahashi Goro's Christian answers are read. The student's suicide has quickened the public mind to a more earnest quest of the truth. The most popular book among educated people to-day is Mr. Kuroiwa's "What is Human Life?" Mr. Kuroiwa is the editor of a large Tokyo newspaper. His book leads up to the Christian solution. There is more than one voice in the wilderness preparing the way of the Lord. These are interesting and happy days in mission work in Japan.

Last year in the Hokkaido the crops were short and the fisheries below the average, and the famine of North Hondo was felt more or less in South Hokkaido; but it was a good year spiritually. Any and every year is a strategic year with us. It is more important to influence a making age than a disintegrating age. In old Japan there is a dissolution of old faiths going on. In the Hokkaido every cluster of thatched huts in the clearing in the wilderness is full of promise and full of peril. It is dreadfully lonely, the stumps, the malaria, the mud and the bears; but you pass on a little and see the more advanced farms and the new towns, and you conclude that Japan has a treasure island here whose hidden wealth she has only begun to uncover. The new age, the freedom of a new country and the new spirit of progress are all helps to the Christian preacher. As was said last year, and the year before that, and still the year before that, and as will likely be said next year, now is the time for the evangelization of the Hokkaido.

Mr. Johnson writes:

I have two classes each day in the girls' school, one in the English Bible and the other in English grammar. These classes I took in order to relieve Miss Sherman so that she might have more time and strength for the study of the language. When Miss Ward arrives I am to relinquish these classes. On Sunday afternoon I have a Bible class in the church for young men in the Agricultural College, Normal School and Middle Schools. The class numbers twelve bright young men. Two of these I am hoping to lead into the ministry. They are fine Christian boys, with a good command of English, and are very zealous in spiritual things. When I have a house I shall be in a position to invite young men to meet me in a social way, and thus gradually gain a stronger hold upon them. It is my aim to form an esoteric circle in my Bible class. These chosen men I hope to induce to study the Bible doctrinally. When their eyes begin to open at the sight of the glories revealed in the Word I think it will be easy to lead them to give their lives to the study and to the exposition of the truth as it is in Jesus Christ our Lord.

The language is coming gradually, and by and by I hope to open a preaching place on the outskirts of the town, probably in connection with Miss Smith's Sunday-school. We had hoped to have a Sunday-school next door; but the people have not yet vacated the premises, and we do not think they will before February 15. Mrs. Johnson is very much disappointed, as there are fully 80 or 90 children who would easily come to the school. This was the enrollment when the school was held in the school building.

The greatest loss suffered by the work in Japan during the year was in the death of the Hon. Kataoka Kenkichi, the President of the Imperial Diet or Parliament. Mr. Kenkichi was an elder of the Church of Christ, and President of the Board of Home Missions, retaining his membership and official position in the Presbyterian Church, though he was filling also the position of President of the Doshisha, the Congregational College. He was a great Christian man, simple and gracious. His high political position never led him to compromise his Christian faith, and he used the opportunities of his office to bring a knowledge of Christianity to the leading men of the Empire. Ten thousand people attended his funeral, the Emperor sending a roll of white silk and also 1000 yen for the funeral expenses.

OSAKA STATION.

The population of the Osaka field is 1,800,000. The Mission is one among many agencies working for its evangelization. Five out-stations have been visited; work has been carried on in connection with two churches in Osaka City. There are two schools, the Naniwa Jo Gakko, with 45 pupils, and the children's school, with 135. There are 10 Bible classes for men and women, 4 Sunday-schools, 3 street chapels, and there have been 55 baptisms during the year. Of an interesting occasion, when Mr. Winn was invited to speak at Kaibara, in the Government higher middle school, he writes:

It was only after receiving the principal's renewed assurance that there was no objection to my subject that I felt convinced that it was really their purpose to let me give the kind of a speech with which I had come prepared. The reason for this uncertainty in my mind was, of course, the existence of the law of the Department of Education, which prohibits all religious instruction or religious service, in the government schools. I once went to the Normal School in Kanazawa with Dr. Verbeck, where he had been invited to speak, and, as he supposed, on some Christian truth. At the very last moment, the old doctor was turned down; they refused to allow him to speak. My carefulness was to avoid such an end to my speech. Being conducted into the hall, I actually heard myself introduced as a Christian minister, with the added statement that it had been for some time the wish of the president to invite me to speak in that room. Thus within the walls of that middle school, I exhorted those young men and boys to improve the opportunity which Christian people in the United States and England had set before them for gaining a knowledge of, and receiving the blessing of, Christianity for themselves.

Since that I was asked a second time to speak within those forbidden precincts. As before, I preached, but now to fully three hundred students. On my first visit I said that the possession of books would not make scholars of those who laid them away upon shelves without studying them. And no more would the owning of a Bible put light and faith into men's hearts. The Bible was a book to be searched and studied in the hopes of obtaining eternal salvation. After we had retired to his office, the president said that he had been described by that statement; that he had a Bible which he had hitherto kept on the shelf, but he wished now to study it. There are at least two teachers in that school, who, in their hearts, believe that Christianity is the true religion. They not infrequently attend our meetings, and remain after them to engage in discussions upon religious subjects. The case of these teachers is by no means exceptional. There are multitudes of secret believers like them in the schools throughout the country.

The Station feels still the helpful results of the evangelistic and temperance work carried on at the time of the Osaka Exposition. At that time a hall was hired, just opposite to the entrance to the Exposition grounds, and there for nearly six months evangelistic services were carried on almost continuously. Regarding these meetings, Mr. Winn reports:

The total attendance upon the meetings for the five months was the almost incredible number of 246,000 souls! As there were about four million who went into the exhibition, our hall received on an average of one visitor for every sixteen who attended the exhibition. Sixteen thousand names of inquirers were received. That means, as indicated above, that efforts will be made to reach every one of these people with fuller teaching about the way of salvation.

The time allotted to each meeting was generally limited to 30 or 40 minutes. In that time two short, pointed speeches were made and an opportunity offered for any to hand in their names and addresses, thereby signifying their desire to receive further instruction in Christianity. This was deviated from somewhat, notably by the Episcopal Group, during the second two weeks that they were in charge of the hall. During this two weeks and the last three days of union meetings, only one but a somewhat longer speech was given at each meeting. And such preaching! Rarely, if ever, has it been equaled in Japan. For, at the hall there was the plain, carnest presentation of Christ and His teachings. Japanese and Europeans alike were stirred by those hourly throngs of earnest faces, to improve the opportunity to give them some knowledge of the way of life. This was pre-eminently characteristic of the preaching of the hall. Philosophy, sociology and kindred subjects were not the themes for speech and discussion at any time during the continuance of that work. It is cause for profound gratitude to God that there was no tendency to do anything else than declare the cardinal doctrines of the Evangelistic Faith.

The character of the audiences was noteworthy. By no means were they composed of the lower classes only, but many of good positions in official and social circles attended. Even one nobleman was there, incognito, and was so much impressed by what he heard and saw that he bought a Bible and hymn book. We know this because we have learned that he is studying the books since his return to Tokyo. An evangelist in a country field received the names of a half dozen persons who at the hall had signified their desire to investigate the teachings of Christianity. On looking them up he found that they were all prominent men in the region. This gave him an introduction to them and an entrance into their homes as a Christian minister. Were it not for this, it is likely that he never could have made their acquaintance and gotten the opportunity to teach them the gospel. Farmers, tradespeople, teachers, students, officials, priests, jinrikisha-men, old men and women, young men and young women, all these were there at the meetings. These promiscuous assemblies were composed of people from all parts of the Empire. Every prefecture had its listeners at the hall. The preaching there, therefore, was a most extensive sowing of the seed of truth. It may be called a Japan-wide scattering of the precious seed of the word of life.

The behaviour, too, of those audiences was truly surprising throughout the meetings. It would not have been wondered at if the enemies of the truth had been stirred up by sight of the evident success of the work to interfere with and oppose it. It would have been in keeping with what we all have known and what has been the history of such things from the time of the mob against Paul at Ephesus. It seemed almost certain that our meetings would call into existence opposition preaching by the Buddhist priests, but they did not, as far as my information goes. It would have been perfectly consistent, I repeat, with the history of our work even in Japan, if such things had had to be contended with. Two or three individuals on as many occasions dissented from the utterances of the speakers in rather a boisterous way, but aside from this the meetings were perfectly quiet and undisturbed. The people who came in respected the request to take off their hats and desist from smoking in the hall. More than that, frequently the speakers, Japanese and missionaries, were greeted with hearty handclapping at the close of their addresses. It was cheering beyond expression to see such demonstrations on the part of the hearers. It revealed the fact that the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ meets the heartfelt needs of even the religiously unenlightened and ignorant such as many of them were. Multitudes of those people were ignorant of Christianity, except to be superstitiously opposed to it. But it is quite certain that many of them went away to some degree enlightened as to the growing influence which Christianity is attaining in their land and as to the increasingly evident need of its principles and power amongst their own people. They got new ideas as to what Christianity is and of how wrong their attitude toward it has been. Any one who saw much of the preaching and attention which was given to it at that hall, could not fail to be impressed with this as one of the effects produced in those minds. One evening before the invitation to hand in their names could be given to those wishing further instruction, a man arose and said that he had never heard anything so interesting as that which he had listened to at that meeting, and began to inquire where he might get fuller information about Christianity. There were many questions asked, and exclamations uttered which showed plainly that the persons who used them had been led into unwonted thoughts and feelings toward our blessed religion.

The list of work in Mrs. Winn's report is worth repeating, to indicate how much is done by married missionary women.

1st. The Kiiku Gakko. 2nd. Oversight of three Sunday-schools and Bible class. 3rd. Four cooking classes with Bible study. 4th. Two English classes each week with Bible study. 5th. Two or three Bible classes at my home. 6th. Calls, entertainment of company and other miscellany, including housekeeping. Perhaps I should head the list by mentioning that, as far as possible, I have kept up teaching our son Merle every morning and part of the time he has had a boy friend to recite with him.

The English class for young men at the North Church has had a most prosperous year. We have had our forty in attendance much of the time.

Late in the spring, the evangelist Mr. Kimura spoke to them several nights in succession, and at the last meeting he asked all who would decide to become Christians to arise. Sixteen of them arose at once and made the promise, and prayed the first time before us all.

Much of the time I have had two classes per week for young men at our house, and the interesting fact about it is that they have come regularly for Bible study only, even choosing to read the Bible in Japanese instead of English. Most of them are young men from the medical or commercial schools, who come to the classes at my house, but I have had a number of judges come also, and they seem to be thoroughly interested in the Truth. I can't tell you how I long for faith sufficient to win these souls to Christ.

It seems to me that work among young men is most encouraging, and the results greater than among any other class, which I hope means great things for the future of Japan.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Miss Ward, who has had charge of the Girls' School in Miss Garvin's absence, writes:

In September, Dr. and Mrs. Devins, of the New York Observer, paid the school a visit. Dr. Devins gave some very helpful talks; also, when thieves broke into the house taking clothing and frightening the inmates very badly, his presence was a great comfort. The clothing was found in a neighboring garden, but the thief has continued to come in all six times, with various degrees of danger. So now we are lulled to sleep by the tramp, tramp of the watchman.

The Sabbath-school at the Naniwa averages over a hundred now.

KYOTO STATION.

Mr. Curtis writes:

We are thankful to have been permitted to expand the evangelistic work in Kyoto during the past year.

The locations of two new preaching places were chosen in sections of the city remote from any other work, with a view to covering some of the unoccupied ground in this great city of 350,000 people.

We are now using some of the newer popular gospel songs and the children are singing out the gospel in that neighborhood. One of the most popular new songs is "Fun-ne-Yama wa Takaku," an almost literal translation of which is:

Fujiyama high; Reaching to the sky! Like Biwa broad, Field o'er-spreading flood! But the heart of God compared to Lake and mountain-side; Countless thousand times exceeds it, High and wide!

Our triple sign and notice board is, we think, the best preacher that we have.

On the central sign there is, in large characters, Kei-shin-Anjin,—Reverence to God—Love to Man. Below these, a cross, and under this, "Christian Preaching Place," in Japanese characters. On one side is noted the time of the various services, and on the other the text, "For God so loved the world," etc. On each side of this sign is another, set at such an angle as to be readily seen by those approaching. On each of these signs are the words, Kitarite Miyo—"Come and See," and the names and addresses of our church and other preaching places, and the dates and times of meetings. Beside this, on the right-hand board is the text "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve," and on the left, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

The population of the Kyoto field is 350,000. In addition to 2 out-stations, there are in the city 1 church, 5 Sunday-schools, 3 street chapels, 3 Bible classes and 90 children in the kindergarten. There have been 17 baptisms during the year.

Miss Haworth speaks of her work as "social, evangelistic, and pedagogic." An incident of the evangelistic work is the following: "Literature, kept at the entrance of our home, has led to requests to read it, and has been lent, or given opportunely. It has gone into mountain homes, into workshops, to servants' quarters, to homes of culture, and to some homes of leisure. Very satisfactory incidents have occurred in this connection. One of the most happy was the conversion of a man and his wife, apparently from simply reading of that collection. They continue to borrow, read, and promptly return the books, which last fact adds to our faith in the thoroughness of the change."

KANAZAWA STATION.

The population of the Kanazawa field is 1,500,000. There are 2 city churches, 4 out-stations, 2 street chapels in the city, 1 girls' school with 70 pupils, and a kindergarten with 52 pupils, 15 Bible classes and 7 Sabbath-schools. Thirty-six adults have been baptized during the year. Mr. Fulton reports:

I have spent much time during the past year in conversing with individuals. In this way one is permitted to see the truth literally taking hold of people, grasping them as with an iron hand, arousing them from indifference, awakening serious inquiry, holding their interest and attention despite themselves, and gradually changing them and reforming them into new men in Christ Jesus.

To give an instance that has taken place recently: a young man just past thirty began calling on me about a year ago. He had no special interest in Christianity, but he wanted his niece to learn fancy work. I made use of every opportunity, and offered to lend him some books. He had heard somewhat of our religion at various times, and was free to state his opinions and objections to his taking it up at present.

This state continued through several visits back and forth, but I could see he was warming up gradually. Finally, a talk I had with him about the relation of Christianity to respect for his ancestors seemed to clear up things for him a good deal, and thereafter he began to make serious inquiry and to ask for books to read on the subject. This has continued for some months, and recently, in relating his experience, he said he did not know how to account for it, but everything was changed in his life nowadays. Formerly, he used to get back from his office work, and began to grumble and complain and worry about things past, present, and future, and the time passed in this way until time came to sleep. Now he could scarcely wait till he got home to read, and re-read, the books I had lent him. The whole subject had a fascination for him which he could not resist. He wanted to be thinking or studying about it all the time. And, furthermore, all his old worries and complainings had left him. As soon as one would show itself, there seemed a power, which he never had before, to resist and conquer so that they troubled him no more. He felt a new life within him that was moving and urging him forward to something better and higher. He has not been baptized yet, but he has begun the study of the Bible, and is attending church. No doubt he will soon take his stand as a member of the visible church.

Mr. Dunlop writes:

I have had through most of the year six other Bible classes in Kanazawa. Only one of these is taught in Japanese alone, the others being either in English or in English helped out with Japanese. The Japanese class was one of students in our Christian boarding house. The house has been full through the whole school year. It accommodates II. Seven of those now in the house are Christians.

One of the men was a higher school student from Toyama. He graduated in July, and is now in the University of Kyoto. He was formerly an ardent Buddhist, and for some time at the head of the Young Men's Buddhist Association in the higher school. He turned from the hollowness and corruption of Buddhism in deep disappointment, and he says that when he came to Christianity as a possible light for his dark soul, he would have been ready to follow the example of the young man who threw himself over the Kegon waterfall. Happily he sought not amiss, but found, and is now a joyous Christian. Another student belonging to my class has just been baptized after many months of keen mental distress.

A beautiful chapel has been built at Toyama, the money having been given by the Bryn Mawr Church. As a consequence of this and the work of Mr. and Mrs. Nakamura, Mr. Dunlop writes:

At the regular services where we had half-dozens two years ago, we now have scores. Where we had no Sabbath-school worthy of the name, we now have a well-organized one of eighty pupils, including the children of the governor of the prefecture, the chief inspector of police of Toyama City and other leading citizens. Altogether, the place is bettenchi (a different heaven and earth) from the dead Toyama of four or five years ago.

The correspondence Bible study described in previous reports has been maintained, and the little paper "Yako" sent to inquirers who wish for information about Christianity, but who either cannot or do not desire to find out about it, in a way that would bring them to public notice, has attained the circulation of 800. The work is already yielding results. Among them one young man from the same quarter came down to Kanazawa in the spring, and was baptized. He had never met a Christian, and of course had never been in a church, or heard any preaching; but he passed one of the finest examinations to which I ever listened. He was taught directly by the Spirit, through the means we were able to provide him in our correspondence system.

Of the Kanazawa Girls' School, Miss Luther reports:

Though thirty new pupils were enrolled last year, through the vicissitudes of school life, when our graduates left us in March, we had only thirty names left on our rolls. During the winter, we issued a new catalogue, secured the services of two of our graduates who were taking post-graduate work in the Joshi Gakuin, changed a good many text-books, advertised extensively in both city and rural papers, had our head-teacher visit the city children's schools to circulate catalogues, raised our tuition, and prepared in general for the incoming class. We felt an unusual event was about to take place, for requests for catalogues came daily.

By the time school opened for the new year in April, we had nearly forty new names on the roll, and in less than two weeks after opening, fifteen more were added. There were nearly ninety enrolled during the term. Never before had the chapel been full; new benches had to be put in class rooms; hymn books would not go around; geta (clog) boxes were overflowing; new girls had no place to put their books; the first reader class had to be divided, for it contained half of the school. The event seemed to stir up the pupils as much as the teachers, and they did most enthusiastic work during the term. * * * Mr. Nakazawa, the head-teacher, has continued in efficiency. He seems full of new ideas, and is quite noted for promptness. He refuses to wait, even at commencement, for so great a person as the governor himself.

After school opened this fall, we had a little experience meeting, and persuaded the girls to tell of a few ways in which they had been able to carry out this request. One said, "I plead earnestly with a cousin to become a temperance man." Another replied, "I led a former schoolmate to the evangelist's home for regular Christian training." A third found an old woman sick and with no one to care for her. She visited her daily, and tried to relieve her sufferings. When she was questioned regarding her kindness, she explained she was trying to follow Christ's example. The one who has waited so long for permission to be baptized said, "I had the privilege of standing for Christ when both my grandmother and aunt tried to persuade me to give up believing in God." This same girl wrote to me during the summer, saying, "My Bible is the only one shining in this region." Others gave equally interesting accounts of efforts made to show they were trying to live a life of service.

Of her kindergarten Sabbath-school work, Miss Mayo writes:

I have been startled several times lately to find persons who knew of Christ, but had never heard of God. And this among the older students! In a new class in the children's Sabbath-school, one of the teachers asked who God was, and could find no one who could respond.

She then asked them if they knew of Christ. They had heard the name, but thought it must be a teacher at the girls' school. I can not come yet to the realization that these people have been living and dying without even hearing the name of God.

FUKUI STATION.

The departure of one evangelist and the death of another left Mr. and Mrs. Jones the only workers in the field of this Station, with 900,000 people. There have been 11 baptisms during the year.

Mr. Jones mentions the case of the old caretaker at Maruoka, who had been investigating Christianity for the past fifteen years. This year he asked for baptism and his examination later seemed to show knowledge and purpose sufficient to warrant his receiving the rite except, however, that he was not willing that the matter should be published at present in the town. For years he has been a teacher of military tactics and the three R's. So that now his whole number of students, according to his own figures, aggregates about one thousand. Next year, they plan to celebrate their teacher's fame and erect a monument or something, and the old man felt that the knowledge that he had become a Christian would spoil these plans.

Fukui province has withstood all efforts longer than any place in the Mission, with the exception of Toyama. Mr. Jones has, however, baptized eleven during the year, this being the largest harvest in any year in the history of the Station.

YAMAGUCHI STATION.

The field of this Station embraces the Yamaguchi and Fukouka Ken, with a population of 1,900,000. There are 12 out-stations, with 8 Stations, the girls' school at Yamaguchi with 35 pupils and a kindergarten, with 30 or 40 baptisms during the year. Mr. Ayres writes:

The work of Yamaguchi Station is distinctively itinerating in the towns, and, when we can get our full complement of missionaries, the villages of the region. My ideal would be to spend not more than four or five Sabbaths in Yamaguchi during the year. I have not yet reached that ideal, nor anything like it, but my attempts to reach it interfere very much with any class of work that I undertake in Yamaguchi.

The first out-station work undertaken during the year was at Tokuvama. I wish to accustom the native workers and the Christians to the method of house-to-house visitation. In order to obtain this object I conceived the plan of having a series of meetings with the stereopticon, and issuing printed invitations, which should be distributed from house to house by the resident evangelist and the Christians. I planned to rent a suitable place, a theater or other large hall, and having districted the city, to issue invitations.

large hall, and having districted the city, to issue invitations.

The room proved too small to hold the audience every night.

Many could not get in who wished to see and hear, and the children of the street came from far and near, and came early, and were not any too quiet.

The results were one inquirer, a deal of interest aroused, the training of the Christians to go to the houses of the town with some sort of an invitation to hear the Gospel, at any rate. I think it was well worth while.

Our work in Tokuyama is better than ever before.

The next place was Yanai, twenty miles farther up the railroad and on the sea, opposite a large island. It is a lively little town of some five thousand people; a town of tradesmen and bargainers.

From the district many emigrants go to Hawaii, and in Wanai are some who have returned after having professed Christianity in Ha-

The work at Moji is possibly the most promising in our district. The attendance at the services is very large, and the pastor has more inquirers than he can instruct. The Christians are earnest and active.

This fall the Mission sent a special committee to visit this city and surrounding territory. There are six out-stations in this region, and, owing to the nearby coal fields, this part of Japan has sprung into unusual life and activity. Cities have doubled and trebled in size. The Mission agrees with the committee that the situation demands a new Mission Station at Moji, or in the immediate vicinity, and the Board of Foreign Missions has been requested to open this new Station. Men and money will be necessary, and there is a fine opportunity to build up God's Kingdom here in northern Kyushu.

In Miss Bigelow's absence, Miss Palmer has been principal of the girls' school. Of the death of one of her girls she reports:

Her trust in Christ was beautiful. She was unhesitating in replying to all questions in regard to her spiritual condition. She voluntarily said that her sufferings were as nothing compared to what Christ had borne for her. So she never complained. She was only fifteen years of age and very timid, and no one had realized what true faith the girl had. During the last few days of her life she was fairly radiant in the joyful thought of going home to be with Christ. Her father, who is an elder in our church, says that nothing has ever come into his life to so strengthen his faith, and we feel that this death is the means God will use in bringing that mother and many of our girls nearer to himself.

Our dormitory is full, and more are in the recitation rooms each day than there should be. Three of our girls are ready and waiting to be baptized, and we felt lately that the Spirit of God is working in the hearts of many of our girls.

We still supply helpers for three Sunday-schools, and the Christian girls take their turns in leading the prayer meeting held weekly in connection with the King's Daughters' Society.

Of the kindergarten, Mrs. Ayres reports:

The number enrolled this year has been forty-three, with an average attendance of twenty-three. In March a class of eleven was graduated, but the number was filled up again, now numbering twenty-nine.

Dr. Murray has organized and carried on a very useful class for the training of evangelistic workers. He writes:

At present I have four, and one more promised, and two or three partly promised in case the class shall be removed to some more central location this fall. Their ages range from about nineteen to thirty-five. They have had rather interesting histories, at least two of them having been abroad as far as Europe and America. Only one of them is married. They have just fair education, and although one or two of them know a little English, yet it never obtrudes itself into the work, and everything is carried on in Japanese only.

My plan is to give them two hours a day of instruction, chiefly in the Bible, and with hints about preaching, and to put into their hands suitable Japanese books to read. Then three, and at present four, times a week, we have preaching in the kogisho (street chapel). This is of a semi-street-preaching character. All take part in turn for an hour and a half or two hours, and then there usually are some hearers that stop for a more private, personal talk about Christianity.

It is my plan, after the men have had a little training, to have those of the men who have been in the school six months or more go out into the field for six months to take charge of a Station under the direction of some other missionary or some pastor.

Dr. Murray has since been transferred to Osaka and will carry on this same work there.

MATSUYAMA STATION.

The population of the field is 895,000, with 2 out-stations, 2 classes for inquirers, 4 Sunday-schools; 41 baptisms during the year. The death of a little child of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan's was the means of opening the way to some Japanese hearts. Mrs. Bryan writes:

The Governor's wife, after listening to me tell of some of my experience with baby, said, "I like to hear you talk that way, and truly it is as you say. If you are a Christian, you don't need to be afraid of death" (She is not a Christian, but is becoming more and more interested.)

Mrs. Hino, a woman who had formerly scoffed at Christianity, told me recently, "It was your baby that opened the way of heaven to me." She has her husband's consent to become a Christian, and to train her five children as such. . . At a large Buddhist funeral, recently, in answer to my question, the lady next to me replied, "No, we don't understand anything the priests say or do, but I understood every word at your baby's funeral. I heard that there were seven people baptized at your church last Sunday. Is it too late for me to be baptized?" . . . Another case is that of a man, very sceptical, who told Mr. Bryan that he was much impressed by the positiveness in Dorothea's tone when, in reply to his question, she said, "Little sister is in heaven."

Shortly after we moved to Matsuyama, three years ago, I was asked to join the ladies' branch of the Japanese Red Cross Society. From a social point of view, this was an honor, and very desirable, but since I am not here for the purpose of moving in society, I questioned whether I could take time from my work to attend their meet-

I now consider the Red Cross meetings as my chief opening to work among the women. Instead of feeling as a stranger in a crowd,

I am pushed for time to speak to all who crowd around me. "You don't know me yet, but I want you to come to my house and become my friend, too," is only a sample of some of their greetings.

Once each month I went to the government hospital to preach to the Nurses' Association. A talk was also given by a Buddhist priest. As I listened to these priests I was more than ever impressed with the lack of power there is in Buddhism. But in order to have my preaching it seemed necessary to invite them also, and to call our talks "Lectures on Morals," though I always preached as I would at a regular preaching place.

At Kamibun a good work has been developed, a member of the Provincial Assembly having shown chief interest.

During the year twenty-one adults and six children have received baptism. The meetings at Kamibun have been held from house to house, but as the number of Christians is increasing, there are only two houses in the village large enough to hold the people. The leading men there are now considering ways and means of putting up a church building, and have already raised about fifty yen for the purpose. I think they will not ask the Mission for financial help, and are talking of a building that will cost from three to six hundred yen.

The introduction of Christianity into the village seems to have been the means of giving the women a position they did not have before. I have never seen a place in Japan more conservative, nor one where the women are so shut in. I visited the place three times before I even saw the wife of the man who entertained me, and when I was there in the latter part of September, the wife not only came in, but also sat down on one of the chairs and talked to me a long time. There is a separate meeting for the women at which no men appear. But the women attend the Sunday services, and there is a mixed audience—a thing never possible before there was preaching.

HIROSHIMA STATION.

Correspondence work similar to the plan of work of the Kanazawa Station has been prosecuted at Hiroshima. Four hundred and seventy-two names are included in the correspondence evangelism plan. Mr. Brokaw reports:

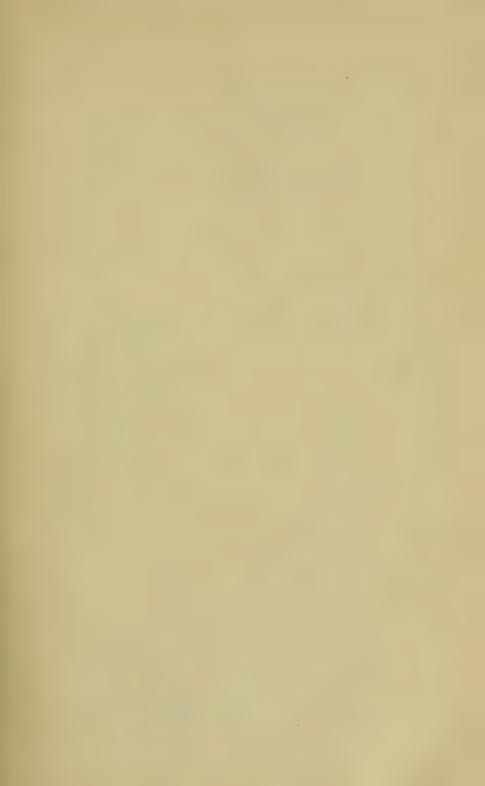

Three years ago a plan was adopted at Hiroshima to reach the Nicodemuses, whom circumstances or timidity prevented from openly investigating Christianity. Briefly, the plan was to advertise in the local newspapers that anyone desiring to investigate Christianity could receive literature by sending their address. At that time our plan was not well formulated, but since then experience has taught us to record each name and address, to follow up the request by a visit, if possible, and if not, by a letter, and to loan suitable Christian books to meet any doubts and difficulties. When a request came, a package consisting of five or six tracts, which clearly explain the essential doctrines of Christianity, was sent out. To keep in touch with these correspondents, a small paper, "The Gospel Message," was begun. The present issue of The Gospel Message, however, is eight hundred and twenty-five.

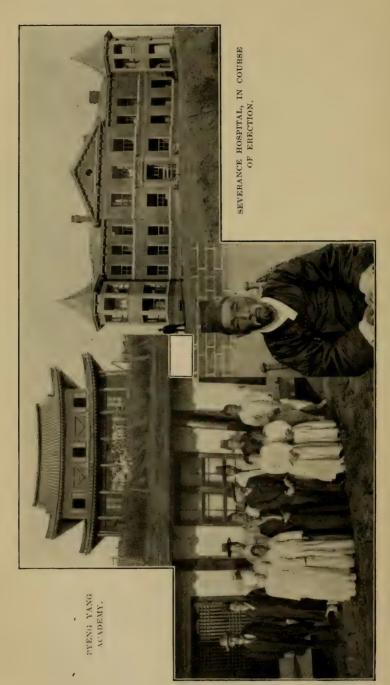

Last year I reported that from the beginning only six had been baptized. During this year alone six more have been baptized. We believe that a large number are gradually being prepared to make the stand for Christ.

One of the correspondence evangelism cases is very interesting. One Asaichi Doshi, of Akashi, Hyogo Ken, was sentenced for one year in the Hiroshima penitentiary for selling counterfeit Korean coin at Kure. In March of this year, through a fellow-prisoner, he heard that he could get Christian books by writing to me. In answer to his request, we sent rather more than the usual package. Shortly afterwards he sent word that it was against penitentiary regulations to receive papers of any sort. Hence The Gospel Message must be stopped. And consequently we cut off his name from our list. On the last Sunday of September he appeared at our home, and we learned that he had come several times before, while I was absent. After some conversation, first with Mrs. Brokaw, and later with me, it was ascertained that he had read all the tracts, committed to memory the Apostles' Creed and the Lord's Prayer, and that he had read consecutively from Matthew to the sixteenth chapter of Acts. He had also read other portions of the New Testament. To our amazement, after telling his history and confessing his sins, he asked for baptism. Thinking this a most extraordinary request, the real meaning of which the man did not understand, I carefully examined him on the essential truths. I was amazed to find not only a clear knowledge but marks of a wonderful experience and faith. And this was all the more amazing in that he had never known anything of Christianity before entering the prison except that it was an evil sect, and that he should yell out, "Iya! iya!" (Disagreeable! disagreeable!) whenever he passed a preaching place. But in that short time the Spirit had enlightened the pages we had sent him, and he could point to the exact time when he believed Christ had forgiven his sins. In his own words, he said, "When in prison I received much suffering, but when I read about Jesus' suffering on the cross, all my misery vanished." After consultation with all the Station, a short service was held and he was baptized. As we sung "I am now among Thy saints." the sentiment was more than he could endure, and we witnessed the unusual sight of a Japanese broken and sobbing. He went back to his family, soy manufacturers, who welcomed him joyously. To them he is telling the old, old story of forgiveness, especially emphasizing God's power to make man a new creature—for, says he, "I am a new man in Christ Jesus." He has written letters to us all, sending remembrances according to Japanese custom, and, in humbleness, thinking himself too great a sinner to join a particular church, has become a member of the Salvation Army. We trust that he will do valiant service for the new Captain of his salvation.

The outbreak of war between Russia and Japan brings heavy cares upon our beloved missionaries in Korea, as that unhappy land is the prize for which both nations are contending, and is therefore the battle-ground of the land forces. The Board foresaw the conflict, and before hostilities began, all practicable steps were taken for the guidance and protection of the missionaries. In an annual report like this it would be useless to attempt to describe a situation which may undergo kaleidoscopic changes before these pages can be read. It is, however, a relief to know that, with the exception of Syen Chun, which is within the zone of greatest present disturbance, all our Stations are occupied as usual, that all the missionaries are safe, and that while their freedom of movement outside of their Stations is hampered by the restraints of military operations, they are steadily and effectively pushing their work in the cities. Their heroic fidelity in remaining on the field in this time of tumult is worthy of all praise. They justly feel that if the Christian missionary was ever needed in Korea, he is needed now to guide and encourage the poor Korean Christians who, without the missionary, would be scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd; to protect the Mission property from the lawless men who are ever ready, even in the United States, to loot abandoned buildings; and, in general, to show to the distressed Koreans in this time of sore need that the Protestant missionary is a friend upon whom they can rely. Still, we have sent word that any missionary who feels that he ought to leave is at liberty

Our missionaries in Korea are an exceptionally able and intelligent body of men and women. They are on the ground, thoroughly familiar with the local situation, experienced in dealing with Asiatics, and with ample power from the Board to deal with any situation that may arise. The United States Minister is a strong man and an accomplished diplomat, keenly alive to the situation and ably supported by the American warships at Chemulpo.

And yet we cannot be indifferent to the fact that in such a time of turmoil, disturbances may occur. Turbulent men are apt to find an opportunity to rob and pillage, while even the best-disciplined army includes some soldiers who are dissolute and brutal in their dealings with defenseless people. Apart, too, from any question of personal danger, the missionaries standing heroically and devotedly at their posts will be under extraordinary strain by reason of the excitement of the populace, the interference with their work and the passing and repassing of armed forces. War is at best an awful scourge, especially to the region in which it is fought. We should also bear in mind that the Koreans themselves will suffer the sorest consequences of this war, that it may mean not only personal danger to many of them, but the destruction of their fields. the ruin of their homes and all the horrors that usually attend the progress of war.

KOREA. 199

We therefore bespeak the sympathetic interest and the earnest prayer of the whole Church for our beloved and devoted missionaries and for the Korean Christians and people, that they may be protected from harm, and that they may be given in abundant measure the wisdom and the fortitude that will be so sorely needed in this time of extraordinary emergency.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry C. Whiting, Rev. Ernest F. Hall, Rev. E. Wade Koons, Dr. and Mrs. Marion Michael Null, Miss Helen B. Kirkwood and Miss Mary E. Brown have gone out as welcome reinforcements, while Rev. and Mrs. S. F. Moore returned in good health after a prolonged furlough.

It will be remembered that the Rev. and Mrs. W. V. Johnson were assigned to this field last year, and that Mrs. Johnson was not permitted to see her chosen field of labor, but passed away at Kobe, Japan, while on their way to the field. Mr. Johnson continued to the field, but had been but a few weeks in Seoul when he was stricken with smallpox and died. The death of these two, who seemed so fitted by a rare blending of gentleness and firmness to labor effectively among this people, remains one of the mysteries of God's providence.

During the year two of our older members have finished their work and entered into rest. Mrs. S. F. Miller died June 18. She had a good knowledge of the language, and her tact and cheerfulness and sympathy made her a very effective worker among the Koreans. For twelve years Mrs. C. C. Vinton had made a happy, hospitable home in Seoul, wide in its influence, and her loss, following so closely upon that of her neighbor, is keenly felt. Her death occurred December 5.

The Romanist usurpation of authority, which had been growing worse for some years, this year seems to have become unbearable, and secured an Imperial investigation. Speaking of this in Whang Hai Province, the report says:

The evidence given at the trial seemed to substantiate the following facts: 'That Protestant Christians had been forced to work in the building of Roman Catholic churches; that money had been demanded from them for the same purposes; that they had been arrested for refusal to make such payments, taken before Catholic leaders and there beaten; that the local magistrates could do nothing from fear; that the Governor of the province ordered arrests in order to investigate the charges, and that the Governor's police had not been allowed to take the arrested prisoners to the Governor; that at the order of the French priests armed men had released the prisoners and arraigned the Governor's policemen before the priests, who after seeing them beaten had sent them away empty-handed. It developed that it was not a persecution of Protestants merely, but a systematic attempt to levy upon all the people. About five per cent. of the cases that came before the Imperial delegate concerned Protestants.' Two results of great importance have come out of these troubles. In the first place people high and low have learned that there is a radical difference between Romanism and Protestantism. In the second place our missionaries and the Korean Christians have gained the respect and confidence of the people of all classes.

The year, on the whole, has been the most prosperous, as marked by the actual number of converts, of any in the history of the Mission. There have been added by baptism 1436. The great spiritual movement in the northern part of the field has continued and grown. Southern Korea also is awakening and seems to be in the initial stages of a similar movement. The great need of the work is the more thorough establishment and solidification of the Korean Church in the faith, while at the same time not neglecting the constantly incoming and increasing tide of new converts. The demands are so great that the force on the field feels itself entirely inadequate to meet them, and the appeal for reinforcements is urgent and insistent.

SEOUL STATION.

Seoul is the capital of the country—a city of about 300,000 population, and the district tributary to the Station contains a population of probably 2,000,000. The number of out-stations, or places of regular meeting in connection with our work, is 94. There are 1512 communicant members, of whom 117 were added this last year. The catechumens number 345, and there is a total of 3820 adherents. During the year the church has given $623.07 to the Lord's work.

At the time of last year's report, the work of this Station had passed through a hard year. There had been many discouragements, much falling away and consequent church discipline. Numerous false professors made themselves manifest within the fold and for a time succeeded in leading others astray also, and the faith of many waxed cold. Those in charge, however, dealt faithfully with the situation, and the past year has been showing the good fruit of their faithful work.

If we were to sum up in a few words the work of the past year, what one missionary says of his own particular work may appropriately be said of the whole field, "Everything has not gone as we planned or could have desired. Many questions have arisen too hard for us, so that 'we have been perplexed but not in despair, cast down but not destroyed.' Still, notwithstanding all that has been against us, we feel that the work as a whole has made a decided advance. As we look over the field therefore we cannot but thank God and take courage.

In the city, at Chong Dong, since Dr. Underwood's return from furlough, a thorough reorganizing of the church has been going on. The people are again becoming more energetic and evangelistic. At Yun Mot Kol, under Mr. Miller's care, there has been a good growth both in numbers and activity. Owing to increased congregations, the seating capacity on the men's side was doubled, and on the women's side considerably increased, by alterations in the building. Out of the Sunday afternoon union services of the three churches in the city has grown an organization for carrying on evangelistic work. Besides stimulating the preaching of the Gospel by the Christians themselves, it has furnished the full support of two colporteurs working in the city. This is one very encouraging sign in the spiritual life of the Seoul Christians.

In the country, Mr. Miller's field more especially seems to have carried over the trials of last year into this. Proselyting sectaries have made some trouble, and for this and other causes many have been dropped from the rolls. Mr. Sharp has spent much time in the country, and testifies that as compared with last year no retrograde step has been taken, but that most of the groups have experienced a quiet, steady working of the Spirit. In Mr. Welbon's district the work has improved steadily through the year, and especially in the Kang Wun province it has advanced rapidly. Both Dr. Field and Mrs. Welbon in their personal reports speak of something over two months spent among the country groups, preaching the Gospel and teaching the Christian women.

The new work under the care of Mr. S. F. Miller around Chung Ju, in the province of Chung Cheng, is most prosperous and shows great promise. At this point the establishment of a new Station is under contemplation. It is an unoccupied district, lying midway between our Stations of Seoul and Taiku, and with its establishment we will be given a direct chain of Stations through the country. Mr. Miller writes:

On our first visit last December we found that the catechumens had made more progress in those eleven months than those in South Kyeng Koui had in five years. This was in part due to the fact that the people in Chung Cheng province are better educated, more sincere and quiet than those around the capital, and those who seek us are of the better class of the population—the well-to-do farmers. Sixteen catechumens have been enrolled by the helper at Cheng Ju, Sin Tai; they had bought their church building and were meeting almost every evening for prayer, and to study or read the Christian News. In the Spring we baptized thirteen of these and received several more catechumens. While as yet we see only beginnings in three or four places around Cheng Ju, the outlook for a large work in Chung Cheng province is very favorable.

The building operations—or rather the delays unavoidable to them—which have so hindered the work of the Station for the last three years, now, happily, seem to be almost past. The new Severance Hospital is nearing completion. It will be an institution worthy of the work, our church, and the donor; and we trust will stand as a permanent and potent factor for the healing of both the souls and the bodies of the Koreans. The Chong Dong property has been sold to the King, a new site obtained, the contracts let, and most of the houses are under construction. The residence at Yun Mot Kol for Mr. F. S. Miller has also been finished.

MEDICAL.—During the year Mrs. Underwood and Dr. Field have undertaken no systematic medical work, but have rather devoted their time to evangelistic work among the women. Asiatic cholera, smallpox and measles have been epidemic at various times during the year. Dr. Avison reports:

The amount of medical work accomplished was much more than that of the year before, the dispensary showing an increase in the number of patients treated of 33 I-3 per cent. The total number of dispensary patients was 8800, a little less than one-fourth being female patients. In addition to these there accompanied the patients to the dispensary some two thousand persons, making a total of nearly eleven thousand who came within the hearing of the Gospel through the dispensary. The number of ward patients was 235, a little more than two-thirds being male.

Dr. Avison speaks highly of the Japanese nurses employed last year. They are much liked by the patients on account of their gentleness and obliging ways. One of them, Miss Sato, during the past year was called to the position of woman superintendent of the Tokio Red Cross Hospital, where she would have had two or three hundred nurses under her charge, but preferred to remain in her present position. The evangelist attached to the hospital has proved a valuable assistant, and the work has progressed in a satisfactory way.

The regular methods have been pursued in the way of teaching the dispensary patients in the waiting room, and the in-patients in the wards, both by preaching to them, talking to them individually and supplying them with reading matter. A considerable number have professed faith in Christ. Three have been received as catechumens.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Intermediate School for Boys, started last year, has made good progress. Last year the attendance was six, this year it was thirteen. The instruction has been given by several of the members of the Station. The site for the proposed buildings has been purchased, and the school has been moved into temporary quarters on the new location. Seoul Station looks to this school for the training of a native ministry for the Korean church, and it is purposed to develop it as rapidly as the conditions will permit.

Corresponding to this school for boys, and just over a small hill from it, is the Girls' Boarding School. It has been one of the principal features of the work at Yun Mot Kol for a number of years. Here Miss Doty has put in many faithful years of service, and is now beginning to find her reward in the character of the girls who are going back into the life of the church. She writes:

It was my privilege to visit in the home of one of the girls who last year married. The evident happiness in the home, the mutual helpfulness of the husband and wife, their acceptable activity in the church and among the outside Koreans are a cause for gratitude to God and should stimulate us to prayerful activity in behalf of those who will so soon be going out from us.

The scholars number twenty-seven. The unwillingness of parents to deny themselves that their daughters may be educated has been one of the obstacles in the development of the school. Often it is a laborious work to change their minds in this matter. This change, however, is being effected. The report continues:

After a father had visited his daughter in the school, he said, "I have committed a great sin—arrangements were made for my daughter to enter the school three years ago, and I did not allow her to go. Now she is three years older and only just beginning. I did very badly." The father of one pupil is a day laborer with a family dependent on his earnings. This girl was the oldest in the family; their mainstay in the housework and in the care of the younger children. How could they spare her? How could they pay anything toward her support if they should let her come? On a recent visit in this home the mother told me of this anxiety which they had had, and added (with tears in her eyes) that the younger sister had helped her so well, and that the money had come all in good time. Everything has been better than they could have hoped."

LITERARY.—The most important literary work of the year has been on the translation of the Scriptures. A Bible translation committee of five members, chosen from four of the Missions laboring in Korea, work with this end in view. Dr. Underwood and Dr. Gale are the Mission's representatives on this committee. In the assignment of work to these members, Bible translation was given first place. Daily sessions of the committee have been held during the year, and work on the New Testament completed up to Second Thessalonians. In addition, a great deal of tentative work on other books of the Bible has been accomplished. Besides Bible translation, Mr. Gale and Mr. S. F. Miller have had the care of the Christian News, and various forms of literary work have been done by other members of the Station. Dr. Field, in addition to her very excellent Arithmetic, which is now used in the schools, has almost completed a second volume of an advanced Arithmetic; Dr. Avison has completed an Anatomy and an Inorganic Materia Medica, and almost completed an Inorganic Chemistry for his medical students.

FUSAN STATION.

This Station is situated at the southeastern corner of the country, at the port of Fusan, the southern terminus of the Seoul-Fusan railway. It has a Japanese settlement of some ten thousand souls, and is rapidly growing in importance. Besides our own Station, a Mission of the Australian Presbyterian Church is located here. This Station is our center of work for the South Kyung Sang province. While there is not a large local Korean population, the country districts are densely populated, and the work of the Station is largely that of itineration. The population of the province is estimated at about 1,500,000. The number of out-stations or places of regular meeting is given as 20, six of these having been added this year. There are 159 communicants, of whom 59 were added during the year. The catechumens number 215, and there is a total of 600 adherents. Including both Missions, organized work has been developed in eleven counties. Our own is in eight counties out of the thirty of the province.

The personnel of the Station has been considerably changed during the year. At the beginning, Mr. Ross, the senior clerical member, was transferred to Syen Chun. Later, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Smith and Rev. Ernest F. Hall came out as recruits from America, and Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Irvin returned from their furlough. They have been working with the inspiration which comes from an enlarging force.

The care of the evangelistic work has fallen upon the shoulders of Mr. Sidebotham alone, as the only clergyman with a knowledge of the language. To the care of all the churches has been added the further difficulty that it has been a year of famine in the district. The report says:

We regret to report that a famine has settled upon us. Last year's rice crop was very small; prices of this staple commodity went up rapidly and wages did not follow. The result was a winter and spring of increasing famine. Then the Koreans laid store by the June barley crop, but May was one succession of rains and the barley turned out to be one-fifth of a crop. In some places it was not worth thrashing, in others not worth cutting. Barley became five times as expensive as two years ago. The country people suffer terribly. Then this year's rice crop threatens badly. Insects are many, devouring what the drought and floods have left. Famine is staring many people in the face, Christian and non-Christian suffering alike. Perhaps fifteen Christians have fallen under the trials of the famine. Sunday labor has seemed to them a necessity.

In March the church in the port—the largest group in the Station's work—suffered a severe loss through the death of its leader, Mr. Kang, a faithful student of the Word, instant in preaching and always to be depended on. He was universally beloved, and left a good testimony behind him.

In the field at large there has been a most promising growth. New groups have been developed; the older groups have had large increase. There have been more additions to the communicant membership and to the catechumenate than in any previous year. Three new church buildings have appeared and a contribution of $16 to the helpers' salaries has been made—the first attempt at self-support in that line. In Fusan, as also in Taiku, the spiritual tide seems to be rapidly rising, and there is every promise that southern Korea is to see something of a similar movement to that which has prevailed for some years in the northern part of the country.

The Station in its general report pleads for the reinforcement of a single woman worker from America. Two years ago Miss Chase was transferred to the needler work of Syen Chun, and no one has been sent since to fill her place. Some of the country groups are composed almost entirely of women, and they can be properly reached and taught only by women workers.

Bible classes have been one feature of the year's work, although their efficiency has been considerably curtailed by the fact that Mr. Sidebotham has, for the most part, been compelled to carry them alone. Four have been held, ranging from eleven to four days in length, and with attendances of from 43 to 25. In one he received the assistance of Mr. Bruen of Taiku. One was a women's Bible class with an attendance of 25, running through eight days, with women gathered from a wide section of territory, which, with his helpers, he was compelled to teach himself, owing to the lack of a single woman missionary.

The shadows have been many, the sunshine has been more. The powers of evil have struggled for souls, the powers of righteousness have struggled yet more; where one has fallen many have been lifted up. Thank God for a conquering Christ and a conquering salvation.

During the year a house has been erected for the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sidebotham, in accordance with the plans of Mr. Gordon, the Board's architect. The women's part of the Whiting Dispensary has also been reconstructed and enlarged by an additional gift of the original donor, and the Junkin Memorial Hospital, provided by the Presbyterian church of Montclair, New Jersey, has been enlarged, and two more wards, a diet kitchen, and bath rooms added.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Irvin returned from his furlough in January, when the medical work was again opened. Four thousand one hundred and fifty-six patients have been treated, and the receipts from the Koreans have amounted to $168.24. The evangelistic work in the dispensary has been under Dr. Irvin's own supervision, in conjunction with a helper to preach to the men and a Bible woman in the women's waiting room. The completion of the long-desired hospital has been a great joy.

The medical work has taken on a new form. Whereas, before, the surgical cases were obliged to make their way as best they could after an operation, to some dirty inn, reeking with germs and microbes, with no privacy, no rest, no anything that sick men ought to have, they are now gently deposited in a white-sheeted bed, and cared for day and night in a way which will give every chance of recovery. The building is ready; when the furnishings are complete there will be no delay.

PYENG YANG STATION.

Nothing like a full record of the work here is possible in a report the size of this. Out of the mass of material at our disposal we have sought to cull out and present only that which, in the briefest form possible, will most adequately present the needs as well as the causes of rejoicing. The greatest need is more missionary help, and the greatest discouragement the slowness with which that need is met. Every member of the Station is burdened with an impossible amount of work, which burden has this year all but caused serious breaks in the health of several otherwise robust members of our community. With 154 out-stations scattered over a wide expanse of territory in eight circuits, each of which ought to have a missionary; with a great local church which might well employ the time of one man; with an educational institution which is imperatively demanding twice or three times as much time as has been possible to give it; with a class of theological students to be trained; with loud calls for the establishment of a girls' boarding school; with all this work and responsibility we have but seven ordained men and two single women. If this need is real this year, it will be more real next year, for the work is expanding along all lines, this year bringing in the largest returns ever reported from this Station, there being a total of 865 adult baptisms during the year.

The city church, under the direction of Dr. Moffett, has a membership of 727, with 442 catechumens; 113 have been baptized this year. The growth of the church has been attended with the difficulty of providing for the ever-increasing congregation. Five suburban chapels have been set off as separate groups, and still, although a gallery providing for 200 more has been put in the church, it is filled every Sunday, and at times many are turned away. The attendance varies from 1200 to 1700. The attendance at midweek prayer meeting rarely falls below 1000. Three assistant pastors are supported by the church. During the year $153 was given to Missions, $15 to the Bible Societies, $272 to congregational expenses, $242 to educational work, or a total of $1003. The present building, complete, cost $3092, of which the Korean church paid $2092.

A legacy of $22 from an old woman is the first gift of that kind received. Alone in the world, she was so grateful for refuge and friends she had found in the church, and for the peace and joy she found when she believed on Christ, that long before her last sickness she asked that her house and field might be sold for the church after her death.

The city church is excellently organized for the handling of its large constituency. There is a regular session "leaders of tens," and all baptized children over eight years of age are under oversight and instruction. Eleven committees of the board of officers have the oversight of the various phases of the work, and to them, and the assistant pastors, must be given a portion of the praise for the efficiency of the work.

It is impossible to go into detail in speaking of the seven country circuits reported in the Station's General Report. A short synopsis will have to suffice for each. In the Northern circuit, of which Dr. Moffett has charge, having Mr. Blair associated with him, there are 26 out-stations, with a baptized membership of 723, and catechumens numbering 988. During the year 165 were baptized and 313 catechumens received. In this section there are three churches, each with a baptized membership of over a hundred and as many more catechumens, well organized, vigorous and aggressive. The work has spread and made an excellent growth during the year.

The Kang Dong circuit is under the charge of Mr. Bernheisel. There are 24 out-stations; a membership of 225, and 333 catechumens; 143 have been baptized during the year, and 221 catechumens received. This is a large district, embracing ten counties. The work is very encouraging and the Word has penetrated into the farthest recesses of the mountains. The circuit is now supporting two helpers, and fifteen of the groups have their own church buildings, five of them having been built this last year. Two of the six schools of the circuit were organized this year, and steps taken to organize a girls' school in the largest group. At one place, after a discussion on family prayer, 40 men arose and promised thenceforth to conduct daily family prayers. In another place, after a similar discussion, 30 more made the same promise.

The Western Circuit is under the charge of Mr. Baird and

Mr. Hunt. There are 16 out-stations; a membership of 363, and 640 catechumens; 146 have been baptized during the year, and 195 catechumens received. The church in this circuit has made rapid progress through the year. It has for the most part been self-propagation, and the year has shown a doubling in almost every department. Owing to unforeseen hindrances for Mr. Hunt, and Mr. Baird's taxing work in the Academy, but a limited amount of time could be given among the churches. This lack of oversight has put more upon the Korean helpers, and the solid development of the work under their care has been one of the distinguishing characteristics of the year.

In the Choong Wha Circuit, Mr. Lee has charge. There are 22 out-stations; a baptized membership of 310; 432 catechumens; 93 have been baptized this year and 164 catechumens enrolled. In this circuit there have been some things not so encouraging. In the church at the county seat there has been considerable internal dissension, owing to personal ambitions, and in another group a former church keeper fell through drink. Yet the year has had encouragements. Another helper has been added, making two, supported entirely by the Koreans; twenty Bible study classes have been held, only two of which were by the missionaries, and in every group the growth has been substantial and a cause for rejoicing.

In the Whang Chu-Kok San Circuit, also, Mr. Lee has charge. Here there are 23 out-stations; a membership of 406, and 430 catechumens; 66 were baptized this last year, and 93 catechumens received. The Kok San portion of this field has been visited twice during the year, but the Whang Chu portion but once, owing to other demands upon Mr. Lee's time. Many were left waiting who would otherwise have been baptized. As a whole, the district has shown excellent growth. Several of the weaker groups have been united into larger ones. There are several schools in this district, all supported by the local churches. A girls' school, the first of its kind in the circuit, has been started this year. The district supports two male and one woman helper. An evangelist in Whang Chu is supported by money left by a young man who was a student at the Pyeng Yang Academy last year, and, dving of pneumonia, left enough property to pay the salary of an evangelist one year. Another evangelist in Kok San is supported by money left by another Christian, who as he was dying gave what he had to the church. Twenty-six Bible study classes were held in this circuit, all but three being held by the Koreans.

Hunt. It has 22 out-stations, a membership of 429, and 345 catechumens: 65 were baptized during the year, and 82 catechumens were received. This district has suffered severely during the past year through Roman Catholic outrages. From year to year similar reports have come from this circuit, but during the past year they seem to have come to a head. More particular mention has been made of this under the report of the Seoul Station. Suffice it to say here that the Christians have had to bear their share of the outrages, persecutions and tortures inflicted upon the people of the district. It has been largely through their resistance and persistent appeal to the civil authorities that finally the Imperial investigation was secured, and the real state of affairs brought to light. The local commotion involved, however, has been such that the numerical growth of the churches has been small. But it has also resulted in the opening of a wide door for the preaching of a pure Gospel throughout the province.

The An Ak circuit is in the charge of Mr. Swallen. It has 21 out-stations, a membership of 509, and 285 catechumens. Seventy-four were baptized this year and 214 were received as catechumens. The work in this district shows a decided advance over any previous year. At times this district has been considered one of the more difficult ones, but during the past year most of the groups have grown in numbers and strength. The churches have contributed enough this year for another helper, and are now supporting two. Last fall seven new centers were selected for special evangelistic effort, and made a subject of prayer by the church. There are now believers in five of them, and in one a group of twelve meet regularly for worship. Fifteen Bible classes were held by the helpers, with a total attendance of 680. Mr. Swallen, assisted by Dr. Moffett, held one special class of representative men from the entire district for ten days of study and conference.

The outlook was never better than to-day. The past year's oppression at the hands of the Romanists has but opened the eyes of all, both heathen and Christian, to the real character of the Roman church. No doubt the present opportunity has arisen chiefly from the fact that heretofore the whole Whang Hai territory was cringing with servile fear under the Romanists usurping authority, which power was used most mercilessly during the last year or two. Now that it has been somewhat checked the heathen generally listen gladly to the Gospel message, and many believing in Jesus are calling for some one to come and teach them.

TRAINING CLASSES.—The training classes, both for men and women, the theological classes of the Station, are deserving of especial mention, as they are one of the most important factors, and perhaps the best-organized department of the Station's work.

The increased knowledge of those who repeatedly come to us in these classes to be taught necessitates added facilities for teaching, that we may continue such instruction with profit. The instruction given at these classes is making a strong impression upon the whole church. The general interest in Bible study and the better understanding of Scriptural truth everywhere testify to the far-reaching and spiritual influence of this feature of our work.

The central winter Bible class at Pyeng Yang lasted two weeks and enrolled 713 members. The class was divided into five graded sections. The course of instruction: First section -Jewish History, The Work of the Holy Spirit, Leviticus. Second section—Theology, Ephesians, Apostolic History. Third section—1st and 2d Thessalonians, Topical Studies, Acts. Fourth section-John's Gospel, 1st Corinthians, Topical Studies. Fifth section—Gospel of Mark, Epistle of James, Topical Studies, Hygiene.

The Summer Training Class was a picked class to which men were especially invited, and 95 were present. Besides the central winter and summer Bible classes, 132 study classes have been held throughout the country districts, with an aggregate enrollment of 4000 men. Fourteen of these classes were conducted by the missionaries themselves, and 118 by the Korean elders, helpers and leaders. Through these classes practically the whole body of believers receives annually some definitely prescribed Scriptural instruction.

Bible classes have also been held among the women. Three have been held in Pyeng Yang city, averaging twelve days in duration, and with an average enrollment of 243. Besides these, numerous classes have been held out in the country districts. A number of the married women of the Station have given valuable assistance in these country classes, but especial mention should be made of the work of Miss Best and Miss Snook. These two have held 15 classes in 14 different places, besides making visits in other places.

A theological class of six men, also, has been formed and is completing its first year of instruction. The course runs through five years. These are all experienced men, elders, leaders and helpers. In the "Course of Study for Helpers" 30 men have been advanced to the second year and 22 more are pursuing the first year's course.

EDUCATIONAL.—The educational work of the field is gradually becoming graded and systematized, with its center and head in the academical work at Pyeng Yang city. In the country districts, as fast as the churches become well organized and sufficiently strong, the people are encouraged to establish primary parochial schools. As far as possible the course of instruction in these is definitely fixed, and is preparatory to the Academy. There are now 40 such boys' schools scattered through the district, with an enrollment of 659 pupils. With one exception they are entirely self-supporting, and in many instances have also paid the expenses of their teacher while in attendance on the Normal Class.

The Normal Class is held in the summer for two weeks at Pyeng Yang and includes the teachers of both the Pyeng Yang and Syen Chun Stations. This year 62 teachers were in attendance. Teachers and school trustees from 40 schools were present and represented 784 pupils. The teachers were instructed in the common school branches and in subjects relating to schools and educational methods. In this way the church school system throughout the circuits is gradually being built up and perfected.

The Academy this year had an enrollment of 72, drawn from all sections of the Pyeng Yang and Syen Chun fields. Five years of the classes are now full and there lacks but one to have the full quota of the prescribed course. There has, however, been no reinforcement of the teaching force. Mr. Baird, the principal, is the only missionary to give constant attention to this work. While other members of the Station have assisted from time to time, as their other urgent duties permitted, it is to be lamented that another missionary could not have been set aside to this supremely important and strategic work. Of all departments it bears most directly upon the permanent establishment of a strong indigenous church, yet it is manifestly impossible for one man, with one native assistant, to provide for an average of twenty-five recitations a day. The appointment of another teacher seems to have become almost essential to the life of the institution.

The encouragements in the work of the Academy have been very great. This has been especially in the zeal of the students for study, and in their spiritual earnestness.

The students are eager to study. The average academic work is good and their speaking shows ability. All are professing Christians and their participation in religious work shows that many of them are heartily in earnest for Christ's sake. Their school prayer meeting is usually full of life. They take part in five country Sabbath-schools, besides two in the city. They go into the street on Sabbath and invite strangers to church. They visit the aged and sick, reading and praying with them, and teaching them to read, and in various unostentatious ways show their love for Christ. They have printed at their own expense, five thousand copies of a sheet tract, written by one of their own number, which they distribute on the streets.

The manual labor department has helped to furnish support to about half the pupils. This is carried on without expense to the Mission, and this last year a building was provided for it through the generosity of Mr. S. S. Davis, of Rock Island, Ill.

Female education, also, is claiming the attention of the Korean church, and is making increasing demands upon the time of the missionary force. There are five girls' primary schools in the city and country, and steps taken toward the establishment of another, while in a number of places girls are also attending boys' schools. In the city there is a young woman's school under the charge of Mrs. Wells, assisted by others, in session four days a week, with an enrollment of 45. The question of a boarding school for girls, giving a somewhat higher course of instruction, is becoming an urgent one. Altogether 197 women and girls are under regular instruction in the various schools throughout the bounds of the Station. In all the special educational work of the Station the various members give assistance.

MEDICAL.—The hospital was in charge of Dr. Wells until he left on furlough. The statistics of the year are as follows: New patients, 7237; in-patients, 295; total attendance, including friends of patients, etc., 14,507; total receipts on the field, $918.59; total receipts from the Board, $363.90. Dr. Wells performed 167 important surgical operations, and 407, mostly minor, were performed by his student assistants. As a result of the work with his class of students, Dr. Wells reports also several medical works either completed or under process of translation. Three of his students are now beginning to practice independently, and bring the benefits of Western medicine to the people. One has been with him seven years and the other two five.

Mrs. Moffett's dispensary practice has been chiefly among the women and children of Christian families. The cases treated during nine months have numbered 682. The mothers are becoming anxious how better to care for their children, and often ask for advice as well as medicine. The instruction given does not now always fall upon unheeding ears, and some mothers look back to the time when they fed babies less than a year old upon raw turnips and kernels of ripe corn, and wonder that they did not know better.

LITERARY.—Considerable has been done during the year by various members of the Station. Progress is reported in such textbooks as physics, physical geography, history, zoology, Biblical geography, and Christian books from the Chinese. A "Book of Bible Readings," a "Book of Topical Scripture Studies," a textbook on Hygiene, outlines on Matthew and Judges, notes on 2d Corinthians, a portion of a work on theology, and the revision of several tracts are reported as completed.

The following is the summary of the work of the Pyeng Yang Station. There are 155 groups, with 3765 members and 4012 catechumens. Eight hundred and seventy-two adults and 64 children were baptized. The total number of adherents is 13,225. The Pveng Yang city church contribution amounted to $1003. All the churches gave $3369. The two general Bible and training classes were attended by 808 men, and 4000 men were enrolled in 132 country Bible classes. The women's Bible classes in the city were attended by 729 women, and at least 900 were enrolled in country classes. The total enrollment of all Bible classes was 6437. There are now three elders, and steps are being taken to ordain five more. The Academy enrolled 72 men, all professing Christians. In the 45 lower schools there are 841 pupils, 635 boys, 206 girls, practically all from Christian families. The number of new church buildings provided during the year is 38, and no foreign funds were used this year to build or support Korean churches.

TAIKU STATION.

Taiku city is the capital of the province of Kyen Sang. It has a population of about 65,000 and the province 1,750,000. The greater part of the province is thickly populated. The Station reports 23 out-stations, 33 communicants, 79 catechumens, and the total number of adherents as 471; 21 were baptized during the year, and 60 received as catechumens. Their gifts to the Lord's work amounted to $103.20.

The city church was under the care of Mr. Adams until his departure on furlough, and since then it has been cared for by Mr. Bruen.

It is with joy that we find that we have just trebled our baptismal roll of adults, besides reporting the baptism of three children. Last year we were able to report in the whole province but 12 baptized Christians, while this year exactly that number has been received into the Taiku city church alone. The roll of catechumens this year has not kept pace with that of the communicants, but that too has shown a growth. Last year we reported 12 received and this year 15. At the Sunday morning service there are usually 80 or 90 present and at the afternoon service about 50.

The afternoon Bible classes have been turned into a Sunday-school with excellent effect, and the life of Christ is being studied. The classes are for the most part taught by Koreans, and a teachers' class is held for their benefit the preceding evening. One effort of the year has been directed toward the development of the helpers into more effective leaders. A start has been made toward establishing them in a course of systematic study with occasional examinations.

Mrs. Adams, after a spring and summer of invalidism, was able to again take up work among the women in the fall. In the winter her health again failed, and she returned to America on furlough. The work among the women in the city church has been one of the most promising features of the year. Especially is the old Bible woman spoken of in high terms. Though palsied and infirm, yet she is so earnest and so tactful that the women gather around her in love and respect, and she has added greatly to the success of the year's work.

Among our Christian women is a young woman with a disease which is slowly killing her. She is a candidate for baptism. The other day she slowly and painfully made her way to Mrs. Johnson's house, in order, as she said, to see her once again before she died. Mrs. Johnson read her the description of the New Jerusalem, a chapter which she had probably never heard before. She repeated each word after Mrs. Johnson as she read them slowly so that not a word might escape her. When she came to the words "and there shall be no more pain" she wanted to hear that again, and again she repeated the comforting words. She looks forward to death with perfect calmness, even with hope, for she suffers much, and she likes to talk of the life beyond, as the hopes of this life fade.

Through the gift of friends in America, a guest house for women and for Bible class work has been erected at the Station compound. Work among the girls has been carried on by Mrs. Bruen, and the very promising work among the boys has continued. Their separate meetings are now largely conducted by themselves, and some of the most intelligent and zealous candidates for baptism of the year have been drawn from their ranks.

The primary school in connection with the city church has continued through the year, half of its expense being borne by the Koreans. Two central Bible study classes have been held at Taiku, one for the country men and one for the country women. Both have shown a decided increase in enrollment over that of last year. The men's class was divided into two sections, with two sessions a day and evangelistic meetings at night. The enrollment was 30. The enrollment in the woman's class was 14, double that of the year before. Besides these, two other classes were held in country districts.

Considering the work as a whole, the country districts have shown by far the larger growth and greater promise. The last two years have seen a very marked increase of interest in all the three circuits. As has been mentioned in the report on the Fusan Station, there seems to be the first movings through the South of a movement similar to that of the North. In the Taiku Station, this has been especially noticeable in the Western and Eastern circuits. These are the ones which have received the most cultivation heretofore, the Northern circuit being practically unworked territory. Of the Western circuit Mr. Bruen writes:

Last November when I made this circuit, I met only four Christians. This time in the counties of Kun Wi, In Dong, Syun San and Kai Ryung I met nearly one hundred. As yet they are very ignorant, but it constitutes a wide-open door and demands close cultivation. At In Dong on the Sabbath 25 Christians were gathered, some coming as far as 30 miles to observe the Sabbath. During the days, I met many small groups of three or four or seven or eight. The following Sunday 35 gathered at Kai Ryung and I received seven as catechumens. Here a rich man's sarang has become the church and his son the leading Christian. There are now in these four counties six places of meeting on Sabbath, at two of which some 20 or 30 people meet weekly.

One of the urgent needs of the Station is a single woman to work among the women of these country groups. Many are coming into the light. They are densely ignorant; they can be reached only by women, and the efforts of the married women are necessarily confined to the local work.

The growth of the year is shown by the facts that this year there are 23 meeting places, where last year there were 12; 33 communicants, where there were 12; 20 added this year, while 6 were last year; 81 catechumens this year, with 40 last year, and 471 adherents, where last year there were 177.

MEDICAL.—The dispensary has been open but six months of the year. During the last six months Dr. Johnson was in such poor health that he could not do medical work to any extent, and at the Annual Meeting he was ordered to America on health leave. The report shows that 1500 cases have been treated, 36 surgical operations performed, and $50 received for drugs from the Koreans.

During the year the new hospital building has been completed. It is the gift of a member of the Second Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia. It is the handsomest building yet erected at Taiku, and its location, on one of the main traveled roads into the city, could not be better.

It offers wonderful advantages over the old, small, crowded quarters inside the city gates, and we look forward to work in its commodious and convenient wards with a pleasure which can be understood only by those of the profession who have labored to practice medicine and surgery in crowded, unsanitary Korean buildings.

SYEN CHUN STATION.

Syen Chun, while the youngest of our Stations, is one of the most vigorous. The organization of it as a separate Station, three years ago, was necessitated by the spread of the movement which had centered about Pyeng Yang. This movement has continued to spread northward, and the organization of another station, still further north, is under consideration. The Station reports 61 out-stations or places of regular meeting, 1027 communicants, 1646 catechumens, 4537 adherents, and 367 baptized and 740 catechumens received during the year. There has been given by the Koreans to the Lord's work $758.76.

In the city church there is a baptized membership of 130; catechumens 147, and a total of 500 adherents. It has been a year of steady growth. Probably ten per cent. of the people of the town are now Christian. The evident increase of efficiency of the officers and other leaders of the church is spoken of with pleasure, and the organization of the church and oversight of the congregation is being maintained, and through it capable workers developed.

During the year the delegation work of preaching in the outlying villages has been continued; also the street preaching on market days and preaching to the patients in the dispensary. Plans have been made for the regular visitation of the county jail as soon as permission can be secured from the official. The Christmas offering was invested in tracts and inexpensive books, which were distributed by about twenty of the Christians. They went out, two and two, to all the homes outside of the town within a radius of five miles. This was their own idea of sharing Christmas joys.

The attendance at the Sunday morning Bible school has grown to 459. The congregation has outgrown the church building. It has become necessary to divide, and the women now gather in a separate building. A new church has become imperative, and for a year or more the people have been taking subscriptions for it.

There are seven country circuits in connection with the Station work. Special mention of the Syen Chun circuit need not be made, as the bulk of it is in the central city church.

The Nyong Tyul circuit embraces two counties with nine centers, 216 communicants and 305 catechumens. It has had a prosperous year and one of considerable growth, 74 having been baptized. The people have paid the salary of one helper working among them, and have also supported two home missionaries for a large part of the year. These two men have spent a large part of their time among the people of the islands off the coast.

The Western Eui Ju circuit is the largest of the seven.

It, too, has had a prosperous and encouraging year. It reports eight meeting places, 222 communicants, 380 catechumens; 104 were baptized during the year, and the total adher-ents are 1135.

Of the six organized groups all but one are large, three numbering about 250 each and two numbering over 100 each. The smallest group, on an island in the Yalu, has profited by a change of meeting places, moving away from a bad element that called itself Christian, and taking on fresh life in the new location. The people raised the helper's salary to $3.33, besides contributing to a common fund for the salary of the helper on the Eastern Eui Ju circuit. Three local workers are supported, two for the entire year, and money has been subscribed for enlarging four of the church buildings.

The Eastern Eui Ju circuit is a smaller one. It has 204 baptized, 279 catechumens, and a total of 701 adherents. Although the numerical increase has not been large, the spiritual advance has been good. The salary of the helper is paid by the people, and in addition they are supporting two local evangelists, the last one appointed being supported by four small groups with a total membership of about one hundred and all very poor.

The Tyung Ju circuit includes eight counties, the whole southern end of the province. There are nine meeting places, 149 communicants, 271 catechumens and 605 adherents. There are three groups, each numbering over a hundred. Two have planned to enlarge their buildings, and one has begun on the work.

The Sak Ju circuit includes three counties, and though one of the Station's oldest fields, this year gives the least encouraging report. Two groups have almost entirely fallen away, though in one case this is partially due to removals to other groups. There has been a good deal of friction among the officers, very little numerical growth, and the improvement in spiritual condition has not been great. The country is very mountainous, and one of the counties was visited last fall for the first time. There are 8 meeting places, 44 communicants, 87 catechumens, and 184 adherents. This year 18 were baptized.

The Kang Kai circuit is one of the remote North and extending over into Manchuria. Before this year it had been visited only by the one ill-fated journey of Mr. Leck. During the past year both Mr. Whittemore and Mr. Ross have made extended tours throughout the district, visiting all the groups, even those across the Manchurian border. Mr. Whittemore writes:

I found the work in a surprisingly good condition considering the limited attention which the scattered believers have enjoyed. The main group in Manchuria I found to be a very vigorous and interesting one, and the reception they gave me, sending a delegation of eight 27 miles across the river to urge me to go to their group, was worth going all the way to enjoy. The population of the northern counties I found to be greater than I had expected from reports I had heard, and although much of the country is very rough, there is a large and needy field which calls loudly for help.

This section is so remote from Syen Chun that it is impossible to work it properly from that center, yet it is very promising, and the question of the establishment of a new Station here is being considered.

The sale of all kinds of books has increased enormously during the year, and this indicates the arousing interest of the people of the province. Often the colporteur's sales were so rapid that those in charge were obliged to send extra horse-loads to follow them up a few days after they left, or else have them spend a large portion of their time coming back for new stock. One attempt to reach Kang Kai failed because the stock was all sold out before reaching there, although the man had started with two horse-loads.

In the regular winter Bible class for men, Mr. Swallen of Pyeng Yang gave much-needed help. The attendance was 514, and the class was the most satisfactory yet held. The men paid their own expenses, three of them coming from Kang Kai, 270 miles, eleven days' journey. In the corresponding class for women, 273 were enrolled. Miss Best and her Bible woman from Pyeng Yang made it possible to handle so large a number. It was a crowded and enthusiastic gathering, running through nine days. In addition to these two, conferences were held twice, for the helpers, colporteurs, native missionaries, and as many of the leaders of groups as could come. Four other country classes were held for men by the missionaries, besides numerous smaller ones conducted by the helpers.

Mention should be made of the work of Miss Chase, assisted as her strength permitted by Miss Shields, in the country Bible classes. She has been in travelings oft. Ten classes were held during the year in the country, with an aggregate of 436 in attendance. The class at Eui Ju was the largest. This is a place on the Yalu river, and one of the first places where the Gospel was preached in Korea, outside of Seoul. The attendance was 147. Women were unanimous in their wish to give their daughters better opportunities than they themselves had had, and at one important noon meeting it was decided that a girls' school should be established in Eui Ju city, and the money was subscribed for its support for two

At one of the evening conferences when the duty of telling others was considered, it was decided that no Christian was excusable for not passing on the message of salvation. "Old women have been saying that they did not know enough; as for the young women, it would not be in good taste for them to speak; and who would listen to a little girl? What is woman in Korea?" "After the dogs and pigs were made, there was nothing left to be done, so woman was created. Lowest of the low!" Do we wonder that the mother feels sorrow, the father disgust, at the birth of a daughter, in such a land? Are we surprised that, burning with indignation at the place allotted her in heathenism, the Christian speaks with deepest gratitude of the gift Christ has brought even to women? Must she not tell her heathen sisters? One said, "Almost two hundred of us are here to-night; if we each decide to bring one woman to Christ during the year, there will be four hundred of us next year."

EDUCATION.—The attendance at the Boys' School in Syen Chun has been about 60. Several of the boys, both local and from the country, support themselves by working in the afternoon. This number could be greatly increased if such work be provided and properly supervised. The girls' school has an enrollment of 37. The woman teacher is giving excellent satisfaction. In both these schools the different members of the Station give instruction as they are able.

The reason for the Eui Ju girls' school, as given by one of the deacons, was the Pyeng Yang Academy. His son is a student there and wrote to his father that he desired the girl to whom he was engaged to be sent to school, for "if they did not love the same things how could they love each other?" As there was then no school in Eui Ju the girl had to be sent to Pyeng Yang.

The need for a school similar to that started in Pyeng Yang for young women is insistent. The calls for it are contant and urgent, and as it is from this class that the future girls' school teachers and Bible women must be drawn, the establishment of it is of importance.

Throughout the territory of the Station there are twenty other boys' schools. The total attendance for all is 339. Nine students from the Syen Chun district are in attendance at the Pyeng Yang Academy, some supported by their families and some earning their way.

MEDICAL.—The medical work is carried on by Dr. Sharrocks under very adverse circumstances. It is in a small native house; the women's ward is a room eight feet square; the men's waiting room is the only ward for the male patients, and operations on a dimly lighted floor of a Korean room do not inspire hopes of success. During the year, Dr. Sharrocks and his assistant have both been brought low by serious fevers, probably due to the unsanitary conditions under which they have been compelled to work. Yet with all this, the work has been faithfully pushed, and in many ways the results have been encouraging. Funds for a new hospital are now being raised by the Young People's Societies of San Francisco, so that better facilities will soon be provided.

One of the most interesting features is the class of six student assistants. They are all Christians and the sons of Christian parents, with sufficient means to give all their time to study and dispensary work without financial return.

The statistics of the year show that 3544 patients have been treated, and while the total expenses have been $457.55, there have been received from the Koreans $165.14.

A word should be said in closing with regard to the general situation in the Korea Mission. While for some years there seems to have been a rising spiritual tide in the majority of our Missions, it has been especially marked in the Korea Mission. The situation is critical, and demands not only the insistent prayers of the Church, but her strong financial support and the lives of her young men and women. The question is no longer one of merely making known the Gospel to the unevangelized, but of receiving, organizing, instructing and establishing in the Faith the numbers who are coming to us—of following up the march of God. The following is an extract from an appeal sent out from our Korea Mission to the Church of this country:

"Korea has but one claim, but that is imperative and unanswerable. Korea's argument is her present opportunity. The delicate political situation; the beginning of civilization with its drawbacks, always a bar to Christ; the throngs of new believers half taught as yet and apt to make dangerous mistakes; the multitudes beyond yielding to the least persuasion; the utterly inadequate force of workers to fill the need; these are facts that stand out. One man now is worth a dozen ten years from now. The hour of Korea's opportunity is peculiarly now. We can take Korea now for Christ. Perhaps we cannot ten years from now."

Then follows by Stations a recitation of the truly inspiring record of victories gained, the opening opportunities, the needs, and it closes with these words, which should continue to ring in the ears of every true-hearted disciple of the Lord Christ:

"These are facts, and facts that cry aloud to Him and to you His disciple. Now is the time of our need. So many are hungry for the Bread of Life, so many are dying without it; if we do not feed the hungry, speak life to the dying, a few days hence all our speaking may be in vain. Come now. Help us now. Save Korea now for the sake of Him who loved us and died that we might live."

MISSIONS IN MEXICO.

ZITACUARO: occupied in 1893. In charge of Rev. W. E. Vanderbilt.

CHILPANCINGO: occupied in 1894. In charge of Rev. W. H. Semple.

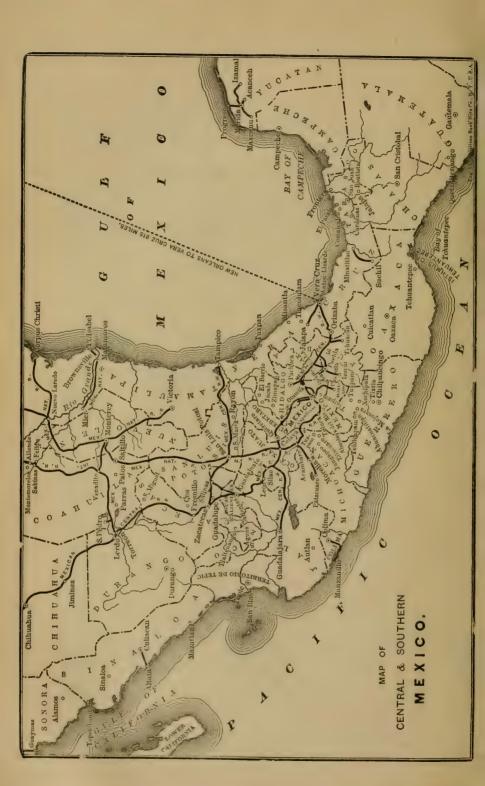

JALAPA: occupied in 1897. Missionaries—Rev. Isaac Boyce and Mrs. Boyce.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. T. F. Wallace.

The Mission was reinforced during the year by the coming of Mr. R. A. Brown and his mother, Mr. Brown having been appointed with special reference to the work of the Theological Seminary and Training School. The Rev. H. W. Brown, who had had to leave the field early in the year, on account of ill-health, was enabled to return to Mexico City, with the understanding that if the conditions there should prove impracticable, in view of the heart trouble which he has had, he should remove to some lower altitude.

The country, as a whole, has continued to progress steadily. The number of English-speaking people in it has greatly increased, and the Mission is deeply impressed with the importance of developing work in behalf of Americans in Mexico. The English Presbyterian church in Mexico City, which was organized under Dr. Chalfant's leadership, but of which he was unable, on account of illness, to remain in charge, called the Rev. Duncan Brown, D.D., of Phænix, Arızona, who began his work in October.

Since Dr. Brown's coming the audiences have been gradually but steadily increasing, over 55 being present in the morning and over 20 in the evening. Thirty-six persons have been received on profession of faith or by letter. Two elders and three deacons have been elected and installed, and on Sunday, January 24, Rev. Duncan Brown was formally installed as pastor.

The missionaries are anxious for a work of the same sort developed in the north, with Torreon as a center, the American population of that thriving region steadily increasing.

SALTILLO.

During part of the year Mr. Wallace was away from the field on furlough, the work falling upon his father. Mr. Garza has been called and settled as the first pastor of the Saltillo church, the church faithfully providing one-third of his salary. At the communion in October, 22 were received into the church.

The church at Patos has continued under the same arrangement as last year, viz., carrying on their services without a paid pastor. The Rev. Manuel Garza continues to prosper as a farmer, employing quite a number of the poorer church members. In connection with Judge Candelano de la Penu, formerly an employe of the Mission, now an elder in the church, and the very efficient help of Gualalupe de la Penu, a normal graduate in the Sabbath-school, all the regular services are conducted without any aid from the Mission.

In May a substantial, commodious new church was dedicated at Concepcion del Oro. Mr. Wallace further reports:

In May I also spent two weeks, by permission of the Board, in most delightful fellowship with the Mexican pastors and evangelists at the Conference held at Albuquerque, under the direction of Rev.

Henry C. Thomson.

In July I attended the Ninth Annual Convention of Sabbath School and Young People's Societies, held in Mexico City. Through correspondence with Messrs. Hartshorn and Lawrence of the International Sunday-school Association, as well as through the generosity of the Sunday-school Times, I secured the presence of Mrs. Bryner. The Convention was also signalized by the appointment of four secretaries for the Home, Normal, Primary and Temperance Departments respectively. This, of course, will directly benefit all our Presbyterian Sabbath-school work. The visit of Mrs. Bryner has also resulted in the determination to appoint a native Field Secretary to be supported by a special fund, which is being collected by the Sunday-school Times.

Girls' School .-

There were enrolled 57 boarders. The first week on May 1 the number was increased to 63—15 day pupils in the higher department and 45 in the primary, making 60 day pupils; total of 123; average daily attendance, 63 boarders, 50 day pupils.

Number of pupils uniting with the church during the year, 231; number of pupils members of the church, 55; 60 have graduated since 1880, as follows:

NORTHERN ZACATECAS AND LAGUNA.

Dr. Wallace has continued in charge of this large field, of which Torreon is the most important center.

This town of over 15,000 is only three miles by electric car lines from Gomez Palacio. Our church there is the only self-supporting one in the Presbytery of Zacatecas. It has had for some years the services of the Rev. Gumercindo Balderas, who was regularly installed pastor during the past year. The people are well satisfied with him and he is doing a good work.

At Mapimi, a town of four or five thousand population, where three or four hundred men are employed at a smelter, a young man has offered the Mission a lot of ground and adobe to put up a chapel and other buildings, and also aid in building.

Mrs. Campbell has continued her work at Sombrerete, extending her influence, also, to some other points. Of a night spent on one trip she writes:

We drove up to one of the many similar doors in the dark wall of adobe, and asked permission to stop over night. One man standing listlessly against the wall remarked, "I guess so. The women folks are away. They will be back directly; have gone to misa." I had sick headache, which needs no description, and was glad to get anywhere. I stepped through the doorway and found that it opened into a corral, full of calves, pigs and chickens. We were ushered into a dark room, with a big loom looming up in one corner, truck all over the walls and floor, a bedstead in another corner covered with the usual mass of rags and skins. Two straight-back chairs were brought in, and Dorothy and I took the seats of honor in the middle of the room. The back of the chair served for a pillow, for I could not hold up my head. The people said they could not offer us the parlor because it was full of corn and the corn was full of "gorgojos." But pretty soon the women came home-blessed be the women!-and they hustled around, swept as much of the floor as they could get at, cleaned off the rags from the bed, brought in the softest kind of a mattress, clean sheets and pillows, and I would not ask for anything better. Poor Esteban went out to the kitchen, made himself some coffee, and, squatted down on the floor, ate his supper. The odor of wool in the room did not have a soothing effect on an agitated stomach, and made me long for rest and sleep in that bed. I would have gotten it, too, had it not been a moonlight night and the three roosters tied in one corner of the room vied with each other to make night hideous. Esteban, who slept on the swept portion of the floor, said that music was not all the roosters furnished him, for he was nearly eaten up. After our breakfast of coffee and dry bread, with a chair and the floor as table, I went out to the kitchen to get acquainted with the family. Sitting on a low chair to avoid the stratum of smoke above, I talked to the three women, who were making tortillas, and the men and children who happened in. The conversation turned on religious topics, and I got out the Testament and read them several portions. They were greatly interested, and wanted to have the book, which I gave to them. One of the men afterwards came to Sombrerete and said that the other man had carried off the book and that he wanted to buy another one. The whole family seemed quite intelligent and showed that they had been thinking of some of the questions before, but had never had a chance to read the Bible.

ZACATECAS AND TLALTENANGO.

The regular work has been carried forward. The following incidents from Mr. Petran's report may be quoted:

The school at Teul not only draws its children from Teul proper, but from families that live at outlying ranches. Some of these from the ranches move to Teul during the dry season, so that the children can go to the school. For this year some are planning to send in their children with an allowance of beans to stay with the teacher tor the year. When I left Teul, on my recent trip, a number as a parting word said to be sure to bring the teacher back. In fact, they were afraid to have her go on her vacation for fear that she would not return. Teul is in some respects a fanatical place, for they have a priest who gets half crazy when he thinks of the Protestants. He even preaches that the Protestants should be exterminated. Happily, a change has been made in the president of the town, and so, instead of a rank mocho, there is a friend of our work in that office.

Visiting Ojocaliente for the first time, I found a new interest among several men in a place that we had thought quite dead. I had the student locate there and also make visits to Refugio. Strange to say, the meeting consisted of six or seven men, but no women or children. Ojocaliente has the reputation of having a heretic priest. He refuses to bless their saints, and even commended the Bible that a colporteur was selling on the street.

The negro that I mentioned in last year's report has been loyal to his bond and has the promise of such a reduction of his sentence that he will get off in two months.

SAN LUIS POTOSI.

Mr. Williams summarizes his work:

Three day-schools, only one organized church, San Luis Potosi. Congregation pays half salary. Nine out-stations where regular weekly services are held. Eight other preaching places; services held on visit of evangelist. Several other places where occasional services are held in houses of believers. No new places opened, none abandoned. Twenty-one received into the church during the year; 42 catechumens.

In San Luis Potosi we have had a good year. We began the year with the congregation rent in twain, but really with no wounded hearts. We have won back all but two families, and the congregation is quietly doing good work. Mr. Garcia came as pastor in June, and in spite of his broken health has done splendid spiritual work. The people all love him, and his sermons are good and strong.

Encarnacion.—This is a mining town on the side of a high mountain where there is a reduction plant and rolling mills for iron. The people generally are suffering from cold and are great consumers of gin, which they say prevents any bad effects from the drinking of so much cold water while working at the puddling ovens or handling the hot iron in the rollers. Most of the gin is "bad spirits," and as a result the people are given to brawls and murders.

ZITACUARO.

For part of the year Mr. Vanderbilt has been on the field of the Zitacuaro Station, and part of the year has been in Mexico City, in charge of the Treasury. From his excellent report on the work in the interesting field of his Station the following extracts are made:

The Michoacan or Zitacuaro Station, as far as developed, is not geographically large, but it presents an almost unlimited variety of climate, which is due to the great diversity of altitude. The city of Zitacuaro is ideally situated on the border between the hot and the cold country. Its climate is even, varying from the crispness suggested by a day in late autumn, during January, to the warmth of "a day in June" during May. The rainy season, from May to October, is suggestive of the life-giving April showers, and the dry season, during the rest of the year, is a long Indian summer. To the south the country falls away in a succession of terraces until, at an altitude of about 2000 feet, are found our congregations of Tuzantla, Zapote, Salitre, Los Pintos and Cascalote, varying from a day to two days' horseback ride from Zitacuaro, where the heat is constant and of such a degree that the people are seriously affected by the cold of Zitacuaro when their business forces them to visit this county seat. To the west of Zitacuaro somewhat the same conditions are found in the congregations of Jungapeo and Los Tepehuages, due to their location in the deep valleys between the mountain ranges. To the east and north the land rises steadily and rapidly until it culminates in two lofty peaks, one of which forces its head above the timber line; to the west, also, are found parallel mountain ranges of considerable height. In these regions to the east, north and west, we have the congregations of Silva Santa Maria, Tejocote, Aporo, Las Joyitas, and El Agostadero, which latter place must be at an elevation of over 9000 feet. The cold there at times is intense. The white hoarfrost on many a morning is so thick that it has the appearance of a light fall of snow.

This diversity of climate is not more strongly marked than the differences in the development of the congregations and the characteristics and conditions of our members. There are congregations of the same age that are self-supporting and that, humanly speaking, are nearly dead; there are members of prominence and influence in the community, owners of several thousands of acres of land, and there are some in destitution who can barely keep soul and body together on the pittance of 12 cents (Mex.) received for their day's work; there are some who nearly approach the white type, and there are others who are full-blooded Indians.

Financially their interest has been shown by paying their assessment for Home Missions, by buying a $100 organ and by starting a day school and paying about half of the teacher's salary.

Mines are being opened at Agostadero which we hope may yield a good quality of coal. It is as yet too early to predict their success. If the work should be profitable, we believe that our church would be greatly strengthened in numbers, in wealth and in general efficiency. Now, the peon, who a year ago was receiving 18 cents (Mex.) for a day's work, is being paid 50 cents for six hours' work. The mines are being worked day and night, so that many a laborer puts in double time and receives his dollar a day. Naturally, the public has gone wild and is predicting extravagant things for that neighborhood.

The survivors of the early Protestants in the semi-organized churches of Tejocote and Tuxpan have united themselves with the Spiritualists and have been a greater hindrance than the Roman Catholics themselves. The Roman Church has been very active this year both here and in Agostadero. In Tuxpan, a small town of not over 1000 inhabitants, there have been four priests for a large part of the year. A very large society of the Sacred Heart of Jesus has been started by them in which is enrolled a large part of the active membership of their church, old and young, rich and poor. The distinctive badge is a medal about the size, shape and appearance of a silver dollar, suspended by a red ribbon. The priests sell them at a dollar apiece. They have been especially blessed by the Pope and are highly prized by their owners.

As soon as persecution ceased in Loma Larga, the Protestants began to be indifferent.

Los Tepehuages has for years had the unique distinction of being a ranch inhabited solely by Protestants of the contagious variety. No Roman Catholic family has ever arrived at this ranch but that all the members have been converted within a year of their arrival. With a view of increasing the efficiency of these workers I opened a school this year. The teacher is a very earnest Christian man, who is sure to leave the impress of his sincere character. The people paid more than half of his salary.

We are glad to state that the work of this district is in better condition than before for many years. The total collected for all purposes is more than double what it was last year or for any year since I have been in charge (since 1897). We have maintained ten schools at a cost to the Mission of only about $60 per month. The attendance has more than doubled in these schools, and the parents are perfectly willing to assume the burden of the education of their children as far as their financial strength will permit. We hope thus to prepare the coming generation so that the work of the future in this part of Mexico will be self-supporting and self-propagating. Up to the present year I have not been able to find any young men for the Seminary, but now there are offering at least six who wish to enter the coming year. We believe that this district can again take the first place among the work of our Church in Mexico, if the present plans are steadily and consistently adhered to.

MEXICO CITY AND STATE AND FEDERAL DISTRICT.

The Rev. H. W. Brown reports:

It seems best for me to give the report as usual for my field and as far as possible in a translation of the reports put into my hands by the Mexican workers who have looked after these varied interests personally during the year. Their consecration and success have served to deepen my belief that as a Mission we must more and more rely upon Mexican workers. The missionary may come and go, but if the work is in the hands of consecrated Mexicans it continues.

CHURCH OF DIVINO SALVADOR.—Mr. Morales has continued his splendid work. He is pastor of the leading Presbyterian church in the country. He reports:

Four of the five schools which our church has in the city are under my care. In the four we had an enrollment of 308 pupils, the greater part of whom were from Roman Catholic families. In some instances the parents had taken their children from the schools taught by the nuns and placed them in our schools.

In the prisons where for a long time we have been working for the conversion of the prisoners by means of our publications and by letters, it seemed as though a new difficulty would destroy the work of years, namely, the fact that the new ordinances forbade the prisoners to receive publications for their instruction, but after the proper agitation of the question we gained a great advantage instead, for it was decided that publications of the nature of ours could be circulated among the prisoners. As a result, our publications are now read more than ever by those who have long hours with nothing else to do. In one of the prisons it is the rule that a government employe must read all of the correspondence received by the prisoners and sent out by them. At the end of a year that has happened which we hoped for, namely, that we now have the pleasure of seeing that employe intensely interested in his own personal instruction in the Gospel and in the instruction of the prisoners under his care. Another immediate result of this work is that the prisoners sent the papers home to their families, and thus these are interested also.

This year the London Bible Society made me a generous grant of copies of the Gospel according to John, and I determined to distribute them among the policemen of the City of Mexico. As a result I have had the pleasure of placing this portion of the Word of God in the hands of more than four hundred guardians of public order.

All have received them with every evidence of good will.

At present I have a large number of co-laborers who have helped me during the year in one way or another in the different forms of work under my care. One of these brethren during the last months of the year has held evangelical services with a group of about twonty Chinamen anxious to know the Word of God. They meet on Sunday night. Others have started work in an Indian village near the capital. Still others in hospitals, from house to house, in the streets and public squares scatter the seed of truth.

MEXICAN HOME MISSION BOARD.—

The Synodical Mission Board has taken charge of the work in Chiapas. The Rev. E. A. McDonald and wife continued the work in Tuxtla Gutierrez, the capital of the State, and he visited a number of surrounding places, in all of which he found an opening for Gospel work. The Board decided to ask the four Presbyteries to raise a total of one thousand dollars for this work, in order to send a Mexican co-laborer to Mr. McDonald. At the end of the year $589.80 of this amount had been raised. Gross idolatry prevails among the people, who even give a kind of worship to the cat, the dog and the cock sacred to certain saints, and, strangest of all, to a pig, the image of which is placed upon their household altars, and if the pigs have gone astray this image will bring them back again, so the worshipers firmly believe. Alongside of this superstitious form of Romanism there is much indifference to religion; but the very difficulties point to this as a field needing the Gospel. Members have been received in Tuxtla Gutierrez, and thus the first step toward church organization has been taken.

The Board has continued its work in its previous field also.

A Bible Convention was held and the expenses paid, and those of Mr. Carrero, who was invited to attend, going from Mexico City. The church in Zacualpam has been finished and dedicated with large attendance and great enthusiasm. Mr. Falcon held special services; over 500 attended. The total receipts for this work from individuals and churches was $1512.14 during 1903, including balance brought forward of $200.91.

THE SEMINARY.—Mr. Millar reports:

Twenty-seven students were enrolled, and of these twenty-five were present in their classes nearly all the term.

The students of the most advanced class were impressed into service for the teaching of some of the classes of the beginners, where they were well enough prepared.

Besides their class room work the students have carried on regular services in Coyaocan and six other places, thus reaching in small groups a large number of persons, every Sunday preaching to more than one hundred. The same number of persons and the same places could not be regularly attended as now by less than three paid workers were we to be left without the aid of the students.

For the year 1904 the prospects are very good indeed. The term is to open April 8, and already, nearly three months before that date, we have 24 old students who have signified their purpose to attend, and 19 new ones have been recommended.

It is safe to say that at least 40 students are sure to be here, and the prospect is for more than 45.

Some persons ask what we are going to do with so many students when they do finish the course, where we can use them all, and where we can secure the money to support them as teachers and preachers. One who observes the growth of the Presbyterian Church in Mexico and appreciates the number of opportunities, and who sees the many open doors, can easily answer the question. Seven of our students who were with us in 1903 will have to be absent from Seminary during 1904 to fill pulpits in order that the other seven now preaching may return to be graduated.

A few weeks ago I received a request from an entirely new field for a teacher, with the offer to pay all the salary. Another congregation only last week offered to pay $80 for a properly prepared minister, and that in a comparatively new field. In Yucatan the people are asking for more workers and offering to pay half or more than half of the salary from the very start. In Tabasco, a State with eight congregations and over 700 communicants, we have only one minister and one student, who without having finished the Seminary course, had to be sent there a month ago.

We do not have to look for open doors, but, as at the fall of Jericho, every man can go up straight before him to do for the Lord. The Mexican Presbyterian Church will rally round and support ministers who are worthy of support.

This brings us to the subject of buildings. The part of the dormitory now used for class room is 14 feet by 40 feet, and it serves for chapels and for classes. From 8 A. M. till 5 P. M., with the noon hour as intermission, this room is occupied by a class, and much of the time by two, and for a portion of the day by even three classes at once. We express it mildly when we say that we wish for more class rooms.

The dormitories already erected accommodate 17 students comfortably, and by crowding can be made to shelter 34, but those who may come beyond this number will have to be kept in rented buildings. We need more dormitories. One residence for the missionary in charge is being erected. The beautiful Memorial Chapel is nearly completed, and we hope to dedicate it when the students return in April. It is built of stone and trimmed with brick, and makes such a fine appearance that it attracts the attention of all in the town. The Secretary of the German Legation likes it so much that he has secured a photograph and plans from the architect, in order to send them to Germany to secure funds there to build a similar church in Mexico City for the German colony.

GIRLS' NORMAL SCHOOL.—The last year has been the best year the Mexico City Girls' School has known for some years. Miss Browning reports:

With the forty girls the capacity of the house has been taxed to the utmost, every corner on the second floor being filled with bed or trunk, and the dining room being so crowded that six girls were forced to eat in the kitchen.

The States represented in the school have the following numbers: Michoacan, 11; Guerrero, 10: Vera Cruz, 5: Morelos, 4; State of Mexico, 3; Federal District, 3; Yucatan, 3; Tabasco, 1.

The primary school has been in a very flourishing condition, 45 children being enrolled.

At the beginning of the year we expected to have twelve young women in our graduating class, but two were prevented from returning to the city by ill-health.

In August a third member of the graduating class left to take up her studies in the Urited States, perfecting herself in English preparatory to a medical course which she hopes to pursue. Nine of the class remained, and they were graduated in the evening of November 20.

This last year I have required the pupils to bring sheets and pillow-cases as well as the necessary clothing, and in another year or two shall add blankets to the list, so that in time no bedding will be furnished by the school.

The work in Yucatan has been under the supervision of Mr. Millar; the strong church in Merida under the Rev. Alfonso Herrera, who has gone to the Sunday-school Convention in Jerusalem.

Sixteen members were received during the year; $2860 were collected; 189 preaching services were held, besides Sunday-school every week in all the year. New work was begun by Sr. Herrera in Progreso. Property worth $400 was secured and paid for without aid from the Board in the neighboring town of Ticul for a church site, and services have been held regularly there also. One of the Seminary students has gone there to help carry on the work.

JALAPA.

In addition to the work in the State, Vera Cruz has charge of the Tabasco field, including the Isthmus of Tehuantepec.

The work in the State of Tabasco presents some peculiar phases. It is looked upon by both missionaries and native workers as unhealthful in the extreme, yet official statistics prove it to be one of the most healthful States in the Republic. We have not had the death of a single worker in the State during the twenty years since the work was begun. Again, Tabasco is one of the most liberal States in the Republic. The State is open to the preacher wherever he goes. We have some of the most wealthy members in this State. We have some of our largest congregations in Tabasco, and can count on as large a proportion at attendance as in any field I have visited.

The work in Tortuguas goes on very nicely indeed. Our people have built their own chapel, and quite a commodious building it is. It is by far better than the houses of our members, and there are very few buildings in the whole section so well constructed. It is 60 by 30 feet, with a good tile roof, mahogany roof timbers and mahogany posts. The sides are closed in with boards split from the royal palm. Our people meet regularly every Sabbath for Bible study. Mr. Coffin was not much in favor of our work when first it was begun; but last March, when I asked him if he had noticed any difference in the neighborhood since the congregation had been formed, he answered, "Why, it is not like the same neighborhood. Now we have no drinking or fighting, and everybody attends to his work."

The influence exercised by our Santana people in the neighborhood is quite remarkable. A little over a year ago the Provost Marshal in Cordinas asked Mr. Granadas what we had been doing down on Santana river. He said nothing that he knew of. "Oh, yes, you have," answered the Provost, "for formerly I had to send down there every few weeks to arrest parties for fighting and cutting affrays; but now we never have any trouble with that neighborhood."

In all the section of country lying to the north and northeast of Rio Sico and extending to the coast there is no opposition to us. We only need workers in order to be able to occupy the entire region. As indicating the readiness of the people to hear the Gospel, let me say that last June Mr. Coffin went on a month's visit to Tabasco. He went down the coast, stopping in Coatzucoalco, Fonala and other points, and wherever he went he sold Bibles, until his stock ran out, talked with the people and preached every night. In Fonala they begged him to go into the Roman Catholic church and preach, and wanted him to baptize 35 children. The Roman Catholic church is doing practically nothing, and we ought to go in and possess the land.

The Vera Cruz Field.—In the State of Vera Cruz we have four native workers, none of them ordained to the ministry, one French teacher, and Mr. Virgora working as a free lance. We have in the State three organized churches, the congregation of Jalapa, and some twelve preaching places where services are held with some regularity.

In some of the farming communities we have some members who have moved out from Tlocolulon. They are hardy, simple mountaineers of pure Indian stock. Services are held in the houses of these Christians, and they bring in their friends and neighbors to hear the Gospel. I visited all these points during the past year and found a good degree of interest. I remember one old patriarch whose greatgrandchildren were present at one of our services. As I was leaving the ranch, he said, "I thank God that if I cannot leave my children and children's children wealth, I leave them in possession of the religion of Christianity." There is no opportunity for preaching to large audiences; but there is the opportunity of opening the Gospel to humble, sincere souls who hunger for it.

Of the Tehuantepec field, Mr. Boyce writes:

I have not in all my experience visited a field of more promise, and we must hold it.

In Salina and Coatzucoalco there is a good opportunity for work among the English-speaking employes of the Pearson Company. There are about 250 persons in the two colonies, mostly single men. The majority are Scotchmen. The others are about equally divided between Englishmen and Americans. There are probably nearly a hundred English-speaking residents in the two towns, outside the Pearson employes, and on the plantations along the Tehuantepec Railroad there are perhaps 75 Americans. A few of these English-speaking settlers are Christian; by far the greater number have been absent from home so long that they have almost forgotten what the word religion means; but when you get close to them they are goodhearted, big-souled, generous, able men.

In his personal report Mr. Boyce adds:

Sir Wetman Pearson is now in Mexico. I am satisfied that if we, as missionaries, address a letter to him, the company will support a man among their men in these two posts. We need for the work a man who will go down alone to work, a man who can get to the hearts of these men, and not have all hope frightened out of him if he hears not infrequently an oath from the men at their work, a man full of love and sympathy for men, and with an abiding faith in the promises of God. For such a man there is just such a splendid work as Ralph Connor describes in his Black Rock, and that man ought to be found in the graduating class of our seminaries this year of 1904.

During the year I have traveled on horseback a little over 300 leagues, by railroad about 3500 miles, and by ocean and river steamer about 800 miles. I was absent from home 175 days on itinerating.

PERSIA AND KURDISTAN.

MISSIONS IN PERSIA.

EASTERN PERSIA MISSION.

Teheran: capital of Persia; population 300,000; work begun in 1872. Missionaries—Rev. J. L. Potter, D. D., and Mrs. Potter, Rev. Lewis F. Esselstyn and Mrs. Esselstyn, Dr. J. G. Wishard and Mrs. Wishard, Rev. S. M. Jordan and Mrs. Jordan, Rev. Chas. A. Douglas and Mrs. Douglas, Miss Cora C. Bartlett, Miss Mary J. Smith, M. D., and Miss Rosa Shoenhair.

Kazvin: Dr. E. T. Lawrence and Mrs. Lawrence.

Resht: Rev. H. C. Schuler and Mrs. Schuler.

HAMADAN: 200 miles southwest of Teheran; population 40,000; occupied in 1880. Missionaries—Rev. James W. Hawkes and Mrs. Hawkes, Rev. N. L. Euwer, Rev. F. M. Stead and Mrs. Stead, Dr. J. A. Funk, Miss Annie Montgomery, Miss Charlotte G. Montgomery, and Miss Sue S. Lienbach.

In this country: Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Esselstyn and Miss Charlotte G. Montgomery.

The Mission has rejoiced in the return of Dr. J. G. Wishard, who left the lucrative practice which he had built up in Indianapolis to return to take up again the work in Teheran. In consequence of his return Dr. Funk removed to Hamadan. The only other reinforcement was Miss Rosa Shoenhair, added to the Teheran Station for the work in the Girls' School. During the year, Dr. Lawrence and Dr. Jessie Wilson were married and have taken up their work together in Kazvin. Miss Jewett, who had been transferred from the West Persia Mission, returned again to Tabriz.

Politically, the conditions have remained the same in northern Persia. In the south the activity of the British on the Arabian Coast and the visit of Lord Curzon strengthened somewhat the prestige and influence of Great Britain, but in the north the influence of Russia has continued, if not to increase, yet to hold its own.

There have been great disturbances in Western Persia, to which reference will be made in the report of the West Persia Mission.

The influence of the missionaries has not only been unabated, but has increased. Something of the esteem in which they are held is indicated in the opinion of Sir H. Mortimer Durand, the new British Minister in Washington, who formerly represented Great Britain in Teheran.

As to the American missionaries in Persia, I feel that I owe them a debt of gratitude which I can never discharge. They did more for me and my English people than I can possibly explain to the Board. They gave us our Sunday services, and comforted our sick and dying, and buried our dead. We went to them for every kind of help, and with the certainty of receiving from them at all times the most warm-hearted, self-sacrificing kindness. Only those who have lived in such far-away countries know what that means.

Your Board may and should be proud of their missionaries, for a more devoted and at the same time a more broad-minded, tolerant set of men it would be hard to find.

The East Persia Mission has been freshly impressed with the importance of raising up a well-qualified body of native workers. A special committee made a valuable report on the subject, at the last meeting of the Mission, of which the following is an extract:

While our first care and duty is to do our best to lead souls to prepare for eternity, we consider it no less our duty to perpetuate our labors by preparing native helpers for doing the same work, with reference to their own people. We thereby multiply our influence and power. East Persia Mission has no greater need to-day than that of a corps of spiritually minded native helpers, and it may be that we are not doing our best to meet this want. It is comparatively easy to represent the great needs of our field and issue "trumpet calls" for more men and women from America, but it is by no means so easy to raise up faithful and efficient native helpers.

We would emphasize the importance of raising up native helpers right on the field in which they are to work. Foreign missionaries and native helpers, who have received at other points a better education than we have yet succeeded in giving ours, are not more efficient workers. A few of them are needed, but the bulk of our laborers ought to be raised up here. Then those we desire to reach will see the process going on before their eyes, and appreciating the change will confess that it has been wrought of God. Man's work will not touch the heart of men, but when they see the hand of God in it, they are convinced and converted.

Let us each make it our definite business to seek out, instruct, encourage and push forward men and women to seek and save the lost. Thus gradually we will get together a soul-saving corps in each Station and out-station. Let no one be satisfied until he has found one or more persons whom he can help into the business of saving souls. At first let us do this among our teachers and colporteurs, then among our church members. Encourage them to undertake this work without giving up their present employment. Give them such an insight into certain passages of Scripture as will enable them to bring them home to the hearts of others. When they gain experience and wisdom in this private work the best of them will doubtless, on their own account, volunteer for the larger field. For all that, many of them must spend almost all of their energies in keeping up with the demands of their business and can give little time to such work and the preparation for it, yet they have some spare time in the evenings and on Sundays which they could well afford to spend in laying up heavenly treasures. It is possible for many of them to be "not slothful in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." By meeting their difficulties one by one we can instruct them in the Bible so that after a while they will feel strong enough to help others, and when they find difficulties in meeting the objections of others, they will bring them to their teachers and receive further help, thus in time obtaining a valuable outfit and efficiency in using it.

TEHERAN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK .- Persian Church Work .-

The work which naturally comes under this department may be specified under several heads.

I. The regular public proclamation of the Gospel in the Persian language. With the exception of a few weeks in the cholera years, when the epidemic was at its worst, the Gospel has been preached in the Mission chapel at the capital of Persia for nearly thirty years. Visitors from the provinces frequently attend the service, and it is not uncommon for a missionary to meet at distant points those who tell him that they once attended a service at the "Prayer House" in Teheran. The attendance has not been as large as in former years, when the schools had boarding departments and the pupils regularly attended. Moreover, some of our Moslem friends have told us that they would be glad to attend, but are afraid to do so, as there is a watch kept of the Mussulmans who come to the church, and they would be reported. For ten weeks during the stay at the summer retreat a service was held every Sunday, with an average attendance of about forty.

2. The Persian prayer meeting for believers.

3. The Persian Bible class in the Sunday-school at the Mission chapel. This Sunday-school has been kept up through the summer, and the attendance at the Bible class has varied during the year; sometimes only a few, and again two or three long pews filled, a class too large to be reached by the teacher's voice without disturbing other classes.

Conversation with inquirers or professed inquirers.
 Systematic instruction of inquirers and converts.

The Mission's report enumerates the following difficulties in the work of this department.

I. The absence of religious liberty for Moslems. Christian truth has been presented to the thought and attention of many followers of the Arabian prophet, and they have been more or less impressed with the truth of the Christian religion. Quite a number have expressed to the missionaries in private their belief in Christianity; but they cannot make up their minds to confess their faith openly, because of the consequences which they foresee will follow such a step.

2. Christianity's prohibition of prevaricating as to one's faith, or dissembling as to one's religion. Quite a number would be glad to be Christians secretly, if they were allowed to deny their faith when challenged by those who would make them trouble because of it. This dissembling of one's faith seems to be characteristic of the Behais, who frequently deny being of that religion, and even curse the Behais, when later on we find out that the individual was himself a Behai. The Persian schoolboy, in one of the first text-books put into his hands, learns the policy of deceiving, when he reads:

> "To tell a lie from policy, forsooth, Is better than the strife-provoking truth."

So the politic profession of Christianity, or an interest in it, for the sake of some material advantage, comes natural to the grown Persian. It is not strange, therefore, that the motive of those who come professing an interest in our holy religion should be suspected by the missionary, when time after time he has found that the pretended inquirer after truth was merely an applicant for work, or soliciting aid without the work.

The results of the work done in this department are not to be gauged by additions to the church roll. It is, indeed, a source of joy and satisfaction when a convert takes the decided step of contessing Christ and uniting with the church, and after examination is admitted to its fellowship; there are, however, other results of value. The spread of more correct views as to what Christianity really is, and what it teaches, the removal of prejudice against our holy religion, and the awakening of an interest in it are important preliminaries at least for the coming of the kingdom in this land. We are quietly at work, by the power of divine truth, undermining the foundations of the dominant faith in this land, and we may hope that when the proper time arrives the results of these years of labor will become manifest; let us then not be weary in well doing, even though we do not see the immediate results from effort which we could desire, being assured that faithful labor will not be in vain.

Armenian Church Work.—

The Armenian Church is still without a pastor. There seems little likelihood that they will obtain one as no suitable man can be found for the place. The elders of the church have been willing in recent years to have preaching in Persian, but last year Mr. Jordan was invited to preach for them in that language.

Itinerating Work.—The amount of touring done by the Mission has been less this year than last. Mr. Esselstyn made a visit of a month to Kazvin and Dr. Potter one of two months. Dr. Potter found conditions during his visit rather unfavorable.

Almost immediately after my arrival at Kazvin the weather became stormy, and the muddy condition of the streets so bad that the attendance immediately fell off largely, and it was noticeable that for several weeks the weather, both on Fridays and Sundays, was very discouraging for the attendance. Then came the Persian New Year, at the vernal equinox, lasting thirteen days, and before these days of the New Year's festivities were quite finished, the Persian month of Moharrem began, when the Sheah Moslems have their "Passion Plays," exhibiting in theatrical fashion the tragic sufferings of their early martyrs, reaching the climax on the tenth of the month, when bands of men go about the streets cutting and slashing themselves with swords and daggers till the blood flows freely over their persons. The self-inflicted torture this year is said to have been worse than usual for Kazvin, and one man is reported as having died as the result, and a number to have been carried off in an insensible condition.

In his conversation, Mr. Esselstyn felt that he found a larger measure of interest in Christianity even than in previous visits, and a greater readiness on the part of even ecclesiastics to discuss religion. Throughout the field the conditions are very favorable to large itinerating work. As the report states:

In Teheran city and the thoroughfare to the Caspian Sea, the Russians seem to have come to stay. Behaism is gaining ground. True Islam does not seem to be gaining ground, though it may not be easy to mark definitely its progressive disintegration from month. While in Yezd and Ispahan there have been riots, practically amounting to massacres of Behais by Moslems, in the Teheran field we enjoy a degree of liberty to be greatly thankful for.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Iran Bethel.— Miss Bartlett writes:

Any teacher, especially a missionary teacher, can most fully understand how John the Beloved felt when he wrote, "I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in truth."

Twice since my return, under very different circumstances, was it granted me to hear the testimony that the girls from our school differed from others "by loving everybody."

If the daughters of Persia at Iran Bethel are so learning the best lesson of love that they are able to overcome prejudice and early training and live it each in her own place, then truly our joy is full. God grant love may be the special "sign" by which "our girls are known throughout this land."

We enrolled 83 throughout the year, 12 Moslems, 1 Jewess, 1 of mixed parentage, and 69 Armenians.

The long talked of Armenian School was finally opened just a short distance above us. We lost eight or ten children, only two of which number were regretted.

This school is endowed by a wealthy Armenian lady, and so has come to stay, and I expect it to draw off a good many of our scholars. I cannot speak from personal observation as to the kind of work it is doing, but it has a great many entertainments and theatricals.

As the little Persian-speaking children began to come in, we wondered if they were awakening from their dead indifference and were getting ready to demand a chance. Hardly had they started before an order, said to be irom the Shah, was brought to our notice (in an unofficial way), in which Persian, i. e., Moslem girls, were forbidden to attend our school. We were accused of corrupting them by compelling them to wear foreign dresses and high shoes, etc.

What are we to do for those who become interested in Christianity and then disappear in this great wicked city? Not one of us could live without human help. They are heavily on my mind and heart.

In a village the other day I was so delighted to find that "our girls" can still be picked out by their neater appearance and happier faces.

Boys' School .-

A gratifying advance was noted in the teaching ability of the younger teachers, who have been trained in our school, and now constitute a corps of instructors superior to that of any other school in the city.

The enrollment reached the highest point yet attained, 146, of whom 74 were Moslems, 60 Armenians, 8 Christian Jews, 2 Zoroastrians, and 2 Americans. Not only in numbers but in the character of the boys has there been an improvement.

Their good spirit was manifest in many ways, especially in the lack of opposition to their daily Bible lessons. The attempt was successfully made to render these lessons so attractive that the pupils should take a real pleasure in them.

The annual tuition has now been raised from 50 to 100 krans, and it is not thought that the increased fee will injure our school; although the Shah's College, in addition to being free, gives food and clothing.

What this progress means can be judged from a report of conditions sixteen years ago, when the present building was first occupied, in which occurs the statement: "So little was the desire for education that the food and clothing furnished were the main attractions the first year." Then, the full time of two teachers was not needed; now the equivalent of the full time of ten is required. Then the Moslems were strictly forbidden to attend our school; now more than half of the total enrollment is from the dominant faith, and among these are a number of kinsmen of the Shah.

The Persians have begun to wake up to an appreciation of the value and necessity of a common-sense education.

A number of schools somewhat similar to ours have been established in Teheran, and many young Persians of means yearly seek their education abroad. A short time ago a son-in-law of the Shah inquired of a member of our Mission, "Why do you not found in Teheran a college such as you have in Beirut, that our sons may be educated here in their homeland?" The fact that the need of an institution of higher learning is being recognized would seem to indicate that the time is at hand for a forward step.

MEDICAL WORK.—Medical work was carried on by Dr. Funk and Dr. Smith until Dr. Wishard's arrival.

Altogether there have been in the Hospital 78 patients as follows: Surgical, 58; medical, 20. There was one private surgical patient,—a Belgian. The number of operations, exclusive of the few minor ones in the dispensary, was 61, as follows: Eye operations, 26; bone cases, 11; lithotomy, 2; hernia, 3; tubercular glands, 5; miscellaneous, 24. The number of deaths in the Hospital was 7, all medical cases except one. The one woman who died was a patient found in a hovel where she had lain for a number of weeks suffering from a fractured leg caused by being pushed from a roof by her husband, who then left her to die. She was in a terrible condition when brought in, nothing but skin and bones, and with foul-smelling sores all over her body. We were obliged to keep her in a room apart from the Hospital, where she stayed for nearly a week till relieved by death.

The total attendance at the dispensaries during the year was 5000.

RESHT.

Mr. and Mrs. Schuler have continued their residence in this immense field. Mr. Schuler estimates that in the Province of Ghilan and in the adjoining one of Mazanderan there is a population of two millions, with himself and Mrs. Schuler the only missionaries among them. They have carried on regular work for the Armenians in Resht, trying to gather in the nominal Christians. Others than the nominal Christians, who fear to attend a regular service, have come privately. Two evangelistic trips have been made.

Mr. Schuler writes:

Shortly before our arrival in Resht there came here a Persian physician whose wife is a missionary of a Swedish society, herself a Scandinavian. This gentleman informed us that he became a Christian in Tabriz and was sent as a missionary to Chinese Turkestan. There he was married, and afterward with his wife went to Stockholm. In returning to Persia he resigned, severing his connection with the society, but his wife is still in the employ of the same. He is practicing medicine in Resht, having studied previously in the Persian Hospital and Shah's College in Teheran. The wife is at present a regular attendant at our services; the husband has attended once during the year.

Not long ago when Mr. Schuler was calling upon the new governor, formerly the Hakim-ul-Molk of Teheran, the governor mentioned Drs. Wishard, Holmes, Alexander. Vanneman and Cochran as personal friends of himself and spoke of each in highest terms. He wished to know if we expected a physician for Resht and inquired more particularly, "Have you made request that a physician be sent here?" Upon being assured that such request had been made he said, "Please make the request again as from me, that they send a physician. It is necessary." In the same conversation the governor stated that the population of Resht is about a hundred thousand. Some surprise being manifested, he said that the city had grown rapidly during the last few years. There was present at the time one of the chief business and political men of the city who insisted that the estimate was none too large. We believe the opportunities open to a physician are peculiarly great, not only in Resht, but in this entire field, Regarding educational work, Mr. Schuler writes:

Upon our arrival in November one of the first inquiries instituted was in regard to schools. We found that the Armenians had two,—one for boys and one for girls, the Boys' School in charge of a Constantinople Armenian, and the Girls' School in that of a Turkish Armenian—who is an American citizen, having been some years in Providence, a professed Socialist—and his wife. There are also, beside the old-style Persian schools, two modeled after European schools, one of which has had the special care and support of the governor. We were not long in perceiving that the opportunity, which may have existed some years ago, of using a school as an evangelizing agency, had to a large extent passed away.

KAZVIN.

Of the work in this out-station, Mrs. Lawrence reports:

Commencing with my return from Teheran on September 13, 1902, after a few days' much-needed rest from the four days' rough travel in a "garee" (a covered wagon without springs), accompanied by Lavah, the Nestorian Bible woman, we started on a tour toward Resht, but a little off the main Russian road. This was designated as the Ku-een tour, that village being the farthest away (twenty-five miles from Kazvin) of any we reached. During the six days we were absent we visited fourteen villages and several camps of Kurdish Black Tenters. These villages are close together, well supplied with water, and in the centre of rich farming country. Consequently the people are well-to-do and seem contented and generally happy and industrious. They received us most cordially in every place except one, but later, when I had treated their sick, this one became quite friendly also. But, what was best of all, our message was received most kindly and listened to with respect almost always. Our welcome was made more substantial by gifts of fruit, eggs, bread, etc., and by urgent invitations to remain longer, and in several places our hosts accompanied us to the outskirts of the villages, leading my horse and expressing unwillingness that we should so soon leave their roofs. All these acts of kindness combined to make it the most pleasant of all my tours in Persia. Layah seemed never tired of talking to the women, sitting up late at night when she really needed the Many a time I have seen her place her hand on the arm of an old village woman, saving, "Sister, you and I are old, and we will soon be leaving this world." Then she would most carnestly tell her of the way of salvation in Christ. Surely Layah's labors in this field have not been in vain. In the fields, gardens or homes, wherever we met them, the women were always ready to listen, but there is one scene that stands out most vividly before me as I write, and that was one night when the Gospel was literally proclaimed on the housetop, the women coming over the roofs and gathering around us. The subject presented was the suffering and death of Jesus Christ, and by the light of our candle lantern I could see the tears coursing down the cheeks of those nearest me, while by their sobs I could tell all had been affected by the sad story. One day, as we hurried along to reach a village where we were to spend the night, we passed a camp of Kurds. Meeting two men a little farther on, after the usual salutations, one said, "You have passed us by: why didn't you stop at our tents?" Indeed, many have been passed by with regret and sorrow; none of the villages of the previous two years, except a very few, having been revisited, although in my itinerating this year more than thirty new villages besides the tents have claimed my attention. Does this not give some idea of this immense field, and yet its borders only have been touched.

HAMADAN STATION.

While the work of Hamadan Station has not been marked by any sudden spurt of growth or large manifestation of Holy Spirit power, there has been progress in many lines, and at the end of the year hopeful signs are seen of the ultimate triumph of the cause of Christ in the Hamadan field. Difficulties and opposition have arisen, notably those caused by the advent of a new Armenian leader and teacher who has sought to revive the national spirit of the Armenians and has fought Protestantism both in Hamadan and the out-stations of Sheverin and Lilahan. But in these things also we believe the good hand of our God is seen and that an increased work for Moslems more than offsets a decrease in work for Armenians or Jews.

One of the incidents of the strengthening of the old Gregorian organization was the securing by the new Armenian leader through deception of the old firman of the Shah, establishing the right of the Hamadan-Armenian community, obtained years ago by the missionaries and kept in the custody of Mr. Hawker in the custody of Mr. Hawkes.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Four new names were added to St. Stephen's Church, made up of evangelical Armenians, but three whose lives were unworthy were dropped. The morning service at St. Stephen's is in the Armenian. A number of Mohammedans have attended some of the services.

From a numerical and material viewpoint the members of St. Stephen's will stand favorable comparison with many churches in America or England. It is also only too true to state that they will stand the same comparison with respect to spirituality. But that does not lessen the weight of the charge which Christ himself lays upon this church along with that of Laodicea for much the same sins.

Penicl Church.—The Peniel Church is made up of converted Moslems and Jews and has now twenty-five names on the roll.

As to the condition or spirit of the church, it is quiet. Two of the Elders are ever ready for discussion on religion. The work done by the members as they meet men in the Bazaar, in their homes, in the sick rooms will never all be known, but that a zeal for making disciples of Christ is marked cannot be said.

The company of members in intelligence and ability is a goodly one, and in morality the numbers are commendable. That they are capable of a much larger influence is sure, but an inspiration is needed, which was given to the immediate followers of Christ to make disciples of all men.

Out Stations.—There are four Out-stations: Sheverine, Kermanshah, Lilahan and Nehavend.

The Vartabed or Armenian Bishop brought a young man and his sister from Ispahan with the idea of opening a school in Hamadan, but not being able to complete the arrangements, he opened his school in Sheverine, and as far as possible compelled parents to send their children there. The church and Sunday-school have, however, continued to hold their ground, and at the January communion service two were, on confession of their faith, admitted to the church.

The Kermanshah work, under the able direction of Kasha Mooshi, has been enthusiastically carried on in all its departments. The school opened with ten Moslem pupils, eight Chaldeans and five Jews, and the full enrollment has reached twenty-nine. Numerous Christians of various creeds have this year settled in Kermanshah, and Baron Vadel of the Customs and Post has urged the attendance of all at the church services. The staff of Custom House, bank and post office are nominal Christians or liberal Mohammedans. These with other factors have tended to increase the attendance at the church services and have greatly furthered the proclamation of the

The Prince Governor has opened a hospital primarily for indigent sick pilgrims. English and French are taught in at least two schools besides ours and the staff of the Custom House, post office and bank are either Christians in name or liberal-minded Moslems. All this furnishes freer scope for the proclamation of the religion of the Cross. A stronger missionary force would find abundant opportunity for work. The Prince Governor marveled that we had made no greater use of the open field especially for medical and educational work.

At Nehavend some opposition on the part of the Moslem Myhateed was soon overcome by the assistance of the Governor, who seemed to be an enlightened man, well pleased that the Mission had opened the school in his city.

Tours.—

The members of Hamadan Station have made numerous tours during the year and have preached the Word in various villages along the routes from Hamadan to Teheran, Kermanshah, Nehavend, Zenjan and other points. Mr. Euwer made a particularly interesting tour to Zenjan in July. He spent seven days in that city with Mr. Pittman, of the West Persia Mission, and both there and in the villages along the road had interesting conversations with priests, sayids, schoolmasters and others. Though not as yet having acquired much facility in the use of the Turkish language, and hampered by the fact that most of the villages between Hamadan and Zenjan are Turkish, he diligently sought opportunities to speak the Word, reading and talking to men at bathhouses, teahouses and on the street. He was often encouraged by the help of men who voluntarily translated for him. Mr. and Mrs. Hawkes in a visit to Kermanshah and Nehavend in the spring spoke the Word in a number of villages where little or no work had previously been done. They were particularly impressed with the attitude of the Firman Firma, now Governor of Kermanshah, toward Christianity. At a dinner he gave them he told them that if he should change his religion it would be for Protestant Christianity. Mr. Hawkes and Mirza Tatevos visited a number of villages in the vicinity of Hamadan during the winter months. Some difficulty was experienced in getting into the homes, but the triumphs more than compensated for the defeats. Tatevos made a tour to Nehavend, Borojaird and Dolatabad during the month of August, and his report gives many useful hints regarding true methods of evangelistic work and shows that he worked in the Spirit. He writes, "At Dehnon the people called on us twelve in number. We had a long conversation, about four hours. I read for them the first twenty verses of the third and fourth chapters of John, fifteenth of Luke, and second and third of Romans. They asked many questions, so many that we were busy nearly all the day. I was very much satisfied and they were very much interested. At Borojaird our host came to bid us goodbye. After I had read some of the chapters of the Gospel for him I said, "I have nothing to present you as a remembrance of me, but I have something, if you will accept it, which to me is worth all the world." He said, "What is it?" I said, "The Gospel." He said, "Yes, I will be much obliged to you." Then I gave it to him and he accepted it with great joy, read some before us and said, "You could not have given me anything else that could make me so happy as this book." Then kissing it, he placed it on both his eyes and went away. Down in the inn he showed it to the people, saying, "See what this doctor, my guest, has presented to me: a book that is worth all the world." Then reading some for them, he said, "This is one of God's books that I have not seen at all.'

Woman's Work.—Miss Annie Montgomery writes:—

Viewed from our standpoint, there is no work in Persia more seemingly hopeless than work for women. This, among other causes, is largely due to the religiousness and devoutness inherent in woman's nature, which makes the women of each race cling to the false faiths in which they have been nurtured, the Moslems clinging to Patimas and the False Prophet, and those called Christians trusting to Mary and the long roll of saints in the calendar. As I rode home from Station meeting last evening I passed a mosque, on whose roof numbers of worshipers were gathered for evening prayer, and how large a proportion of women one can see always in those gatherings. As the day was dawning this morning I heard the call which summons the Moslem to prayer, and looking from my window a short time after I saw on the roof of the mosque three women, the first to assemble.

There is hopefulness in our efforts in behalf of Moslems. All of them writhe under their suffering, most of them feel their misery, many of them understand the degradation and shame of their lives, when they hear of the pure lives and homes demanded by the religion of the Lord Jesus, and after that any of them will confess the inferiority of their polygamous system, which permits such license in regard to the number of women a man may appropriate for himself, which sanctions divorce, with or without just cause, and allows the marriage of little girls, who should be sheltered from the world's cares beneath their mother's wings.

We have set ourselves as resolutely and as wisely as we could to chip off every unholy or even unwise practice that might cause deformity in the lives of the women and girls who come under our influence, but the effect of that influence has been more apparent in hindering the marriage of little girls than in other directions. The quiet disapproval or outspoken condemnation of this practice by all the missionaries, one refusing to receive girls into the school without a written promise that they would be allowed to remain till they were fifteen or sixteen, have all had their effect, which has been greatly increased by the influence of our beautiful missionary homes.

This has been specially brought to our notice these weeks when we were invited to two weddings, and one bride was twenty-two and the other at least twenty-five years of age, and another teacher who has just been betrothed who is twenty-three. I believe there are few Armenian parents here now who would not be ashamed to give a daughter in marriage before she was fourteen or fifteen, though when we came here, twenty-one years ago, most of the women we met had been married when mere children.

The meetings for women have been small since the opposition of the Armenian ecclesiastics has been so decided and so active, but in the homes, in weddings, at funerals, in visits of condolence and congratulation, and beside the sick and dying, the opportunities have only been limited by our bodily strength or by lack of time to embrace them.

There is not time to tell of all the visitors we receive in our homes, or what we try to do for them, as on one Saturday, in the rush of house-cleaning, preparing to open school, mason and carpenter to look after, bread baking and washing going on, and wheat coming in, a band of thirteen Jewesses came in, and after they had been entertained for a couple of hours, they said, "Now you must read and pray with us before we go."

There has never been a year in which we had more to discourage us, and the last weeks brought a special share, when we saw one of our sweetest Christian girls betrothed into the family of the old priest, where she will be shut out from all spiritual privileges and will have to help her wine-seller husband to make his wine; and two others of our girl church members married to men engaged in the same evil trade, and these husbands cannot even read. For some days the only words that rang in my ears were, "I have labored in vain and spent my strength for naught"; but at last we remembered that there is another part to that verse, that surely our judgment is with the Lord and our work is with our God.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Faith Hubbard School.—

The whole numbers enrolled during the year were one hundred and eight, and of this number fourteen were boys. There were forty-five in the boarding department, of whom twenty were Persians, three were Jews. There were also quite a number of Persian girls who came as day pupils, and who had their dinners at the school.

We had rather a sad surprise one day after school closed, when two of our teachers came for their possessions and informed us they had concluded to teach for the "Vartabed," who had offered them a little more salary than we could afford to pay. They seemed to have forgotten all that had been done for them and the debt they owed our school.

Boys' School .-

The highest monthly enrollment was fifty-nine. The largest number present in one day was fifty-five; the smallest, thirty-four. The average attendance was about forty-five. Of the pupils enrolled forty were Armenians, thirteen were Moslems and six were Jews.

Not alone is the Vartabed putting up a school for the Armenian children to draw them away from the Mission schools and are doing it in such haste as to have the workmen work seven days a week, but the Paris Jewish Alliance continues to maintain also the school which it established to draw away the girls from Mrs. Hawkes' Jewish Girls' School, the attendance at which has dropped now between eighteen and twenty-five.

MEDICAL WORK .-

Though the Hamadan medical work has been crippled by the non-arrival of a male physician to take charge of the men's department, Mirza Meyer and Mirza Tatevos have done good work in caring for men patients. Mirza Meyer has been responsible for this part and for the surgery. From the first of December to the middle of June 2,575 patients were treated in the dispensary, and the number of attending friends reached 2,766. In surgery Mirza Meyer has done fourteen major operations, including one amputation, five for necrosed bone, two for cataract, and one for the removal of a large tumor. Good success has attended the work. Mrs. Hawkes has visited the waiting-room two or three days in the week and has faithfully presented the Gospel. Many questions have been asked her showing deep interest, and women have often, though deploring their incapacity, shown a desire to learn the truth.

Again and again there have been large gatherings of women and girls from all classes, who listened quietly with evident interest, asked questions, and more than once I have seen tears in some eyes as the love of Jesus or his sufferings have been the theme on which we dwelt. Once I was asked, "If I come to Jesus will he accept me?" Another said in substance, "It is time I accept, but Satan hinders. When I go home there are temptations. I cannot do as the Book says." It is pitiful to hear constantly, "We are blind, we cannot read. What do we know? We are donkeys."

Some of the money given by Mr. Whipple's friends in his memory was used for fitting up some rooms in connection with the dispensary for women patients.

A gypsy girl from Kurdistan who knew only Kurdish was six weeks in the hospital attended by her aunt. In the autumn, when they came, the long cotton gown which was their only clothing was sufficient, but when they went out snow covered the mountains they must cross to reach home, and their bare feet and thin attire looked pitiful, so we fitted them out in good warm clothing.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. F. G. Coan and Mrs. Coan.

After the close of the Mission year and near the end of the Board's fiscal year, the Mission met with a great sorrow and loss in the death of the Rev. B. W. Labaree. The sad facts are set forth in the following minute of the Board, adopted at its meeting March 21, 1904:

The Board heard with deep regret of the cablegram from Persia announcing the death of the Rev. B. W. Labaree, of Urumia, who was killed, probably by robbers, on March 9, while returning to Urumia from Khoy, whither he had escorted Miss Margaret Dean, who had been teaching the children of the missionaries in Urumia, and who was leaving for Europe and America.

Mr. Labaree was born in Urumia on June 5, 1865. He received his education at Marietta College, Ohio, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary, from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from Which he was graduated in 1888, and from Hartford Seminary from uated in 1893.

He rendered valuable assistance for some months in the Treasurer's office, and was appointed a missionary of the Board in March, 1893, sailing for Persia on September 23 of the same year.

His ten years of service as a missionary have been filled with the most faithful and untiring service. A man of most gentle disposition, and of truly lamb-like heart, he was yet fearless in his devotion to duty, unhesitating in self-sacrifice, and strong to meet every difficulty of missionary life. The Board would place on record its appreciation of his noble spirit and faithful service, and would express to Mrs. Labaree and the two children, to his father and other relatives, and to the West Persia Mission, its deep and loving sympathy in their great loss and sorrow.

This violent crime closed a year that had been full of troubles and it brought home to the very heart of the little missionary body the sorrows of the Christian people around about, who had been during the year the especial victims of violence and fear. Part of the story of the year in this regard is set forth in Dr. Cochran's report:

The last summer has been full of anxiety and trouble, due largely to the lawless condition of the country. The weakness of the government, always very evident, becomes painfully so whenever there is any unusual uprising among the Kurds or the rougher elements in the towns and cities. For some time back there has been a great deal of grumbling against the government for giving away in concessions so much to foreigners. The customs and postal systems are in the hands of the Belgians. There is talk of giving over the internal revenues to the care of the foreigners, and, in consequence, much hard feeling is stirred up among two classes of people in the The Mohammedan ecclesiastics, who have such power and influence in the criminal and judiciary courts, and who, when unable to make the civil authorities submit to their wishes, will proclaim the bazaars closed, and stir up all the people of the baser sort to make a demonstration against the man or men or action which they oppose, see in the coming of the foreigners into power here an element of danger to their position and to their religious influence. The second class that is affected by having the administration of these departments committed to the foreigner is the vast number of munshis or secretaries or clerks who will be thrown out of employment. Much of the revenue of the country never passes out of the hands of these men, and they will always be an army ready to do what they can to prevent the change that means such a loss to them. In many cities of the land there have been open demonstrations against the King and his administration, demanding that the Europeans who have charge of this work be expelled, and that the country live along in the good old way of their fathers. In Tabriz there was a demonstration which compelled the Crown Prince to remove to a neighboring town, the European chief of the customs and his family, and keep careful watch over him. In this case, however, the government was equal to the occasion, and by making the opposers believe that Russian Cossacks were ready to enter Persia all along the frontier, if they did not desist, the disturbances were quelled and the ringleaders banished.

Urumia city and country were dwelling in fear and actual danger of a general uprising, against the Christians first, and secondly against the government. A comparatively small affair had been exaggerated, and had become the starting point for a most serious affray against the Christians of Tergawer, a little district lying just over the foothills twenty miles away. The Kurds of this place united to crush or drive out the Christians who resided in different villages of the same district. These Christians are brave and warlike, and not very unlike their Kurdish neighbors in dress, manner or morals, but as the government did not come to their aid, they were badly beaten and took refuge together in the largest village of the place, where they have been huddled together since June. Three villages were burned, twenty-one men and four women have been killed. Others have been wounded, 1,500 sheep have been taken, their haystacks have been burned, and they have been watched day and night to prevent their moving about freely. They have been unable to feed their flocks and herds at any distance from their village, and have had to go armed and in large numbers to harvest their grain. The Kurds at the head of this trouble were making every effort to excite Moslem ecclesiastics of this city against these Christians by reporting that they had desecrated their mosques and burned their holy books, and their dead, etc. These stories were disseminated and aroused not a little bitter feeling and talk, and some action against Christians generally. The Mohammedans of the city were preparing to do something serious when the failure of the mullahs in Tabriz to accomplish their purpose, together with their arrest and expulsion, made the revolutionists here desist from their purpose. At the same time, the Kurds and thieves and robbers generally vied with each other in doing all the harm they could. Everywhere the roads were dangerous. Large and small bodies of men and caravans would be robbed. Flocks and herds were carried away daily, and nightly thieves broke through and stole. The Kurds all along the border, emboldened, threatened to overrun the country in a general raid, and now both Christian and Moslem, thoroughly frightened, began to desert their villages and move their goods within the city walls. It was only after a new governor had been appointed and an army sent to the border that comparative quiet was restored. It is very difficult to look upon the condition of the people about us and be able to do so little to relieve their distress. When it is not the attacks of outlaws, it is the injustice of government officials, or the wickedness of each other, that bring down upon them the losses and suffering which they are bearing so constantly.

Recently I was waited on by a large delegation of Christians from Degala. Their plea was that they be protected, in the first place from the ravages of officers who had been sent to the village to arrest a large number of them in order to fine them for the loss of 150 sheep, and for the murder of two men that had occurred some time ago; and secondly, that they be helped to clear themselves of this charge of murder and plunder. Last spring some Kurds from the South, who had brought sheep for sale, came for the night to Degala. They were attacked in the night by enemies who had tracked and followed them, and two of their men who were watching the sheep in the streets of the place were killed, and their sheep were carried off. The next day the affair was reported to the man who was the governor at that time, and he had sent horsemen with the surviving owners of the sheep, who overtook the robbers, but were not strong enough to recover their sheep. I wrote our present governor, telling him the facts in the matter, and he replied that although he had orders from the Crown Prince to take the blood money and the price of the sheep from Degala village, he would for my sake bring his policemen away from the village. He enclosed an order to his chief officer in that village, commanding him to come away with his men. While the village was thus relieved of the burden and anxiety of caring for and feeding these wolf-like officers of the government, and were even spared paying this heavy fine, they had to pay a good deal to the officials who had been charged with the duty of exacting this fine from them.

It is not an exaggeration to say that the chief end of most of the officials here is to make all the money they can out of each case, irrespective of the merits of the case. Here was a good excuse. An order from the Crown Prince to take the blood money for two men and the price of 150 sheep from a well-to-do Christian village. The price of a Christian killed by a Moslem is $32; that of a Moslem killed by a Christian, $1,000. In such a case, the natural course pursued by the government would be to take this fine from the village, together with a good deal more for the trouble of the officers, and then they would reserve at least a tenth of this price of the blood and the sheep for themselves. So that it will be seen it is no easy matter to call off these vultures when there is such easy prey within their reach.

The past week has witnessed the murder, in cold blood, of one of the best educated and respected of the Syrians of the country, Rabi Mushi, Rev. M. G. Daniel, of Karasanlu. After graduating from the Mission school, this young man had been our High School teacher, and later College teacher, and then spent eleven years in the United States and Canada, chiefly in the study of theology. He returned to his family this summer. On the day of this tragedy he was overseeing fourteen men and women working in his vineyard, when a notorious sayid stepped up to him and demanded money. Rabi Mushi had no money with him, but promised to give him what he demanded. He then asked for his watch, and when refused, the sayid stepped back and shot him dead with his rifle. This sayid has been terrorizing the inhabitants of two villages, seven miles from the city, for the past three years, committing all kinds of outrages on these Christians, whose cries to the local authorities and the powers in Tabriz have been in vain. This man was blameless in character and of a most peaceable disposition.

Other general features of the work are both encouraging and discouraging, represented by Dr. Labaree in the annual survey of the Urumia Station work for the year.

The population had become used to the presence of the Mission of the Russian monks in the town as of not so very much significance, but the arrival of a Russian Consul in the summer has created a profound impression upon the whole people, be it Moslem or be it Christian. It marks a new era for the country, as to the future of which there are many misgivings in Moslem minds. Nor have such misgivings been allayed by some public utterances of the Consul since he came. The Christians, too, are keenly alive to the signs of a new era for them, though as yet they cannot point to any of their hopes as nearing accomplishment. On the contrary, they are at present faring worse than formerly at the hands of Persian landlords and Kurdish depredators. The hereditary rule of the land grows more and more cut of joint; men in position of power are fattening on oppression and corruption, while reflecting Persians scarce restrain themselves in their tirades upon the nation's decay; all of which stamp the times as a transition period in the history of this hitherto immobile state. But the ambassador of Jesus Christ views the situation with entire serenity, confident in the supreme statesmanship of his Divine Lord.

We must note further along the same line of change and turmoil in the field, the disturbed conditions of the mountain Nestorians, following the death of the late Patriarch, Mar Shimoon, and the installation of his successor. The defiant espousal of Roman Catholic associations and support by an influential member of the Patriarchal house, and the summons by the young Patriarch of armed men from all the independent Nestorian clans, for the defence of his rights against the intriguer, gave the situation at one time in the summer a very stormy outlook. The darker clouds have dispersed, but the sky is not yet clear. We are glad to give our testimony to the promising character of the youthful Mar Shimoon, successor to this ancient episcopal see, as he has been tested by the trying experiences of this inauguration period, and also are pleased to mention his friendliness to the representatives of our evangelical churches work-

The disturbances, arising from the aggressive Kurds in the border district of Tergawer, marked by rapine, fire and bloodshed, and the general lawlessness of the government soldiery hereabouts, have necessitated urgent representations to the Persian authorities from the several Christian Missions in the town. Dr. Cochran has had charge of our Mission interests in the case, and has never had higher consideration at the hands of the Persian authorities. The present Governor, in many ways much superior to most of his predecessors, seems always pleased to accede to representations Dr. Cochran may make regarding the general welfare of the Christian communities, and his influence has not been restricted to securing redress for members of our own congregations, for all parties have shared in his assistance as occasion required.

We are glad to mention also that our relations with the Anglican, Roman Catholic and Russian Missions remain most friendly, and we may add, also, with the Russian Consul. In return for medical services rendered to the Russian monks they made a donation of one hundred roubles ($60) to the medical department. Our Press is still engaged in casting a large font of Syriac type for the Russian Mission, and our sales of books to them are considerable.

We come now to another fact, not exactly constituting a new condition in our work, but one which stands out with increasing prominence in the progress of the years. It is the isolation of our evangelical Church, of simple faith and unpretending worship, in the midst of the strong forces of ritualism and sacerdotalism as represented by the Roman Catholic, Russian and Anglican High Church Missions. Every year deepens in our minds the significance of the battle which our little church founded on Presbyterian principles is waging in behalf of simple Scriptural truths against the heavy phalanxes upholding priestly doctrines. If there is destructive error in the doctrine of a special priesthood, exercising government over the Church of Christ, and in the allied teachings of the sacramentarians, then is there demand that this protesting Church be most efficiently and wisely fostered. As long as the providence of God allows, it should be maintained, and well buttressed, as a bulwark against unscriptural Christianity in generations following. Some of the leaders in our evangelical Church have felt that the times demanded a drawing of Presbyterian lines more firmly around our Protestant organization to exclude some who are weak in their ecclesiastical beliefs. It has been thought that it would increase the resisting force of the organization if a little more Presbyterian steel were welded into it, at least they would have the Presbyterian name more distinctly displayed upon its doorway. But wiser, broader counsels prevailed, the conviction increasing that in the conflict with the prelatical churches so strongly setting in, we should endeavor, so far as possible, to attach together the various evangelical forces. Would that certain of the evangelical churches at home could appreciate the soundness of this position taken by our native Protestant Church.

Again we find evidence of broader views on the part of the Church leaders on another question of importance. We refer to the evangelization of their fellow-countrymen, the Moslems. As a result of an earnest discussion in the Synod this fall, there is a desire to place a strong evangelist in the field for this special line of effort. Open doors for a worker of this sort, discreet and yet warm-hearted to win souls, are abundant. Experience goes to show that some of our Syrian evangelists are particularly well qualified for such service. Not less than fourteen or fifteen representatives of this Church have been thus engaged during the whole or some part of the year past, and a good report has come from nearly all of them. They are not profoundly learned in subjects of Mohammedan controversy, nor does it seem so important that they should be in meeting the common people, and even the ordinary mollahs. In general, they are bold as well as prudent, avoiding controversy so far as possible, and profitless debates on subtle questions, sticking closely to their calling as witnesses for a risen Christ and His power to save from sin. As natives on a level with natives, they are able to approach the Moslems by more familiar methods than can the foreign missionary, and moving more freely than he, they can reach a larger number of hearers.

We would mention also the more harmonious and profitable temper of the late Synod meeting, as in contrast with that of last year, the encouraging tone of some recent spiritual conferences with leading helpers and laymen; the evident quickening of some in their earnestness for soul-saving work; the apparent leaning of many outside our Church toward the evangelical cause with its more consistent principles and record; the encouraging outlook for our village schools; our crowded city congregation; the rising tide of interest in Christian Endeavor organizations; and the growing attention to the claims of the Moslems to a knowledge of the Gospel; all these, we believe, bespeak a fresh energy of the Holy Spirit in our midst, and are an incitment to greater faith and more persistent prayer.

These reports deal specially with the conditions in the Urumia field, but they give some idea of the general conditions in the province.

URUMIA STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—In his last report of this department of the work, Mr. Labaree writes:

It has been a year of great losses to our poorly organized Tergawer churches. Two villages have been entirely scattered, our preachers losing nearly everything, and one of them losing his saintly mother, Selby.

We have been encouraged that there has not been a greater falling away of Church members. It shows genuine conviction of the truth and real conversion of the heart where members are steadfast when there is public avowal that special official help and protection will be given to those of the Orthodox Greek faith. In the village of Armudaghaj there has been a marked breaking away from the Russian Church. Our meeting room there was crowded almost to suffocation last winter, and this summer and fall there has been a continued faithful attendance of all those interested. Of the sixteen new church members a number are of those who were bitterly opposed for many years.

Of the work of one of the native evangelists, Kasha Eshaiya, Mr. Labaree says:

He has the spirit of self-sacrifice. Last winter he spent five months in the semi-Kurdish district of Tergawer. Unable to secure a room for his personal use, he lived with a large family in the common room, and was obliged to observe the fast with them. In his old age he endured this and other hardships that he might have the opportunity of presenting the Gospel to a very dark and superstitious people. He taught a small class of boys and girls who made commendable progress. Once in six weeks he came home to bathe and get his clothes washed, for the only facilities for this in Tergawer were kettles of water heated by a retired stream, which, however, was a rather airy place in winter weather. In spite of all these trials, he is ready to return there this winter.

The problem arising from the numerous independent missions has continued its perplexities.

Some of our churches have been much troubled by the divisive work of irresponsible representatives of other denominations. A free school is always a drawing card, and soon draws off parents from the church as well as scholars from the parish school. The Plymouth Brethren have caused special trouble by their method of pushing themselves in where there is some disaffection and by their efforts to draw off the offended members and to prevent reconciliation.

To guard against these and other insidious attacks there has been a desire on the part of some to make our Church pronouncedly Presbyterian in name and in form by changing somewhat the Church Book of Government. The discussion has been a warm one, but the feeling has been strong on the part of many that the Church must be broad enough to take in all who are not opposed to us in doctrine or divisive in their work, and that for the native Church to take the name Presbyterian would narrow its scope and influence. So the Synod this fall voted to keep the old name of The Syrian Evangelical Church, and to make no change in the Book of Government, but to simply draw up a short form or statement of belief.

There are other problems which confront us, and one is in relation to the future supply of our pulpits. In our Persia field we have 33 preaching Stations. These are supplied by 21 ordained men and 12 licensed preachers. We have also four ordained men as evangelists and teachers and two others out of employ. Of the ordained men just about one-half are sixty years old and over. Several of them already have little efficiency left for their work. Besides these, five other preachers, some may say more, are cumberers of the ground so far as progressive work is concerned. They are merely keeping open out-stations. Of new workers we have had but five recruits in the past five years. Were we to retire some of the inefficient workers, there are none to take their places and none in course of preparation. The Syrians in Tiflis have earnestly asked for an ordained man for their peculiar and trying field. They agree to support him entirely and liberally, but no one has as yet been found for the place. It seems as though we must do the best possible with the present force of workers and to wait for a change in present conditions, praying that a new spirit may take hold of the young men, leading them to a thorough consecration of themselves for Christian work, rather than devoting themselves to mercenary pursuits in western lands.

Of the work among the Nestorian women, Miss Dean writes:

It is now over twenty years since these women's meetings first began, and I remember with what fear and trembling I invited about forty women to come to our schoolroom for such a meeting, not knowing if I should have the least help from them, and the most of our preachers took a dark view of such a gathering of women. I also remember how relieved I was after a few years to find one woman who took the entire charge of one of these meetings, without my sitting close beside her to prompt at each step. Surely there has been great progress. In the village of Geograpa they have had these two years a Woman's Aid Society. They work for the poor of their own church and have done for some others. The Woman's Club, organized by Miss McConaughy here in the city, has met quite regularly this last winter. In nearly all our larger villages the women are not only feeling the responsibility, but a strong desire to do more for the people about them.

In addition to her work in the Fiske Seminary, Miss Mc-Conaughy has been greatly interested and very successful in developing the Christian Endeavor work. writés:

Beside the running of the school, the maintenance of the five Christian Endeavor Societies we now have in the city absorbs time.

We have a society for young women, young men, intermediate girls, and junior boys and girls, comprising about 150 members in all. They made a fine sight and crowded our schoolroom at the Christmas service last Sunday.

These societies each have from four to eight committees, which have to be looked after to get the members in the way of being active workers.

They also hold socials quite frequently, at which they give reports of work done, and then play games and drink tea.

These societies are finding duplicates in the villages, not only among the girls but also among the young men and boys. At the last count there were thirty villages having them.

Once a year I try to gather the leaders together, however, in a convention and there try to inspire them to new and better work. We had a very good gathering of this kind in the spring, the presidents all giving encouraging reports of the progress the past year had witnessed, greater interest, greater numbers, greater giving.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.

Urumia College.—The college until Mr. Shedd's return from his furlough was under Mr. Coan's care. Mr. Coan writes:

Our enrollment for the past year has been as follows: Theological Class, 3: Medical, 4; Collegiate Department-first class, 9; second class, 8; third class, 11; irregular, 2; total for the Collegiate Department, 37. Preparatory Department-first class, now forming the College fourth, 15; second class, 17; irregular, 11; total for Preparatory, 43, and for all departments, 80, or 9 more than last year. During the year only two boys dropped out, leaving at the close fourteen more than last year.

With reference to location, 25 are from the mountains and 49 from the plain, 2 from Sulduz, 2 from Salmas, 1 from Kohi, and 1 from Soaibulak.

With reference to rivers, 25 are from the city river, 15 from the Nazloo River, and one from Barandoos.

The course of study has been the same as last year, with the addition of psychology and commercial arithmetic,

The educational problem of the college is no simple one, as is indicated in the following statement with which Mr. Shedd closes his report:

The following statistics as to our College graduates and students since 1803 may be of interest:

Those noted as being in the work are those in regular and permanent Mission employ. Others are school teachers.

These figures are given, not for present discussion, but for reflection. The following points may be noted:

I. The large number in America, etc., about 44% of those living. The American fever is unhealthily strong, but it is not confined to College students. About two-thirds of those who have gone to America have studied with us a comparatively short time. The amount of preparatory preparation necessary is very small.

2. The very small number of theological students from our College graduates. A number who were graduates of classes previous to 1893 are included in the theological graduates, but we have failed to raise up preachers from the boys who have grown up in our school the past ten years. A few have studied theology in America. The proportion of theological graduates who have stayed in the work is good, and the quality of their work is, I think, not deficient.

Fiske Seminary.—The appointment of Miss Lewis, to take up especially the educational side of the Fiske Seminary work, has given the Seminary again an adequate missionary force. Miss McConaughy, who acted as principal, writes:

With the full appropriations from the Board and three ladies in charge of affairs, a prosperous year seemed opening before us.

The attendance this year was seventy-four,—fifty-one boarding pupils and twenty-three day pupils. Seven of the latter were Armenian children, both girls and boys, though no other boys were received.

^{*}Not including two graduates who afterwards studied theology

[†]Including only those who did not enter the college classes; practically all of the College students were preparatory graduates,

It has been our aim to raise the standard of our school a little, as we felt the last classes had been falling below the mark. For this reason we have kept back the senior class one year to give them additional training.

Village Day-schools.—Fifty village schools were conducted during the year, with a total attendance of 1161, of whom 367 were girls. Mr. John Mooshie, a graduate of Hamilton College, has undertaken the general supervision of these schools, and has done his work very effectively.

Miss Van Duzee has continued her most efficient work for Moslem and Jewish women and girls. She writes:

Our school for Moslem girls this year has read eight months without molestation, for which we are very grateful. The number of pupils has varied, never exceeding thirteen.

One very bright little girl, who came into school this year, had been taught to read the Koran. She is an orphan and lives with her grandparents, who are very proud of her attainments. In the fall her grandfather went on a pilgrimage to Kirbala, and the uncle, to whom he committed the care of his house and family, sent the child to our school. She made rapid progress, and in three months, when her grandfather returned, was already beginning the Testament. As he is a strong Mussulman, we feared she would be taken from the school, and for a few days this was the case; but when he found that she could read the Koran better than before, he permitted her to return, and every night when she prepared her lesson in the Testament he listened with interest to her reading.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Cochran reports:

It is an unceasing source of pleasure and gratitude to God to be able to relieve as much distress as we are, and yet we are also often pained beyond measure by being obliged to turn away hopeless cases that have come to us in the strongest confidence that they could be relieved. One night, nine Nestorians, most forlorn and ragged creatures, lame, blind and leprous, turned up at our gates, footsore and weary after a perilous journey for them of fifteen days. There was but one of the nine that could be helped, and the duty of explaining to the rest their absolutely hopeless condition was nearly as hard a task for me as it was for them to hear it. They had come from the neighborhood of Van, by a circuitous route, for greater safety, often hiding among rocks in the mountains by day, and traveling by night. They had come in the full expectation of finding relief for their maladies. They pleaded most earnestly and persistently, declaring that God would surely make me the means of curing them if I would but try. They pledged their very lives, as slaves for life, if I would but restore them to health.

The reading of the Scriptures by the patients is encouraged, and those who cannot read are read to. This is done alike for the Christians and non-Christians. We have had a good many Moslems the past year who have shown deep interest in religious conversation and in the Bible, and some have written to me after returning to their distant cities. We endeavor to impress upon the minds of our patients, the Mohammedans especially, that whatever we do is done in the name and for the sake of Christ.

The third year of the present medical class of four, one Mohammedan and three Syrians, closed the last of June, and during the vacation one of them was employed as our druggist and the other three practiced in a small way in the country about. Another year's study will make them well prepared to begin the regular practice of medicine.

The pleasant relations which have always existed between our missionary circle and these highest Moslem families in the place are fostered by these frequent visits to their homes, and by their calls on us. This part of my professional work is often very pleasant and satisfactory. These people are for the most part so hospitable and kind and appreciative of pains taken for them, and especially of the good results of treatment, that it makes it a light work and at the same time a profitable one. There are but few cases that I assume the entire care of. It does not seem best to do so, but rather to go as one to consult and to share the work with one of our many native practicing physicians here. I refer here to the young men who have studied medicine with us or in America and England.

Statistics of the Hospital and Medical Department for the same period:

Of the 4,350 sick seen outside, 1,145 were visited in their homes. The hospital patients are recorded as single attendances, whereas all have been seen more than once, and many have been visited several times daily for days or weeks.

The receipts for the past twelve months have been, tomans: 1612.3.c8. We have also received three small rugs, and some chickens, eggs and butter.

THE PRESS.—The issues of the Press for the year under Dr. Labaree's care were as follows:

This total is 60,700 more pages than were printed in the previous year.

Dr. Labaree adds:

The volume of missionary sketches, entitled "Three Missionary Heroes," is completed and in the hands of the binder. It includes sketches from Dr. Chamberlain's thrilling volumes, "The Tiger Jungle" and "The Cobra's Den"; a condensed life of Dr. John Paton, and the autobiography of our Nestorian missionary in Russia, Kasha Yacob Dilakoff, expurgated of some portions which might be offensive to readers of the Orthodox Greek Church. It is to be illustrated beyond any volume we have yet published, and numbers 280 pages.

Several of our standard school books are wholly or nearly out of print, and new editions must be issued soon. We hope to begin on the large arithmetic one of the first things, as Rabi Pera has the copy about ready. New editions of Dr. Schaff's Catechism, the Mental Arithmetic, "The Sweet Story," in Turkish, are in demand. We have printed for Miss Holliday, in Turkish, a part of the Appeal for Prayer issued by the Evangelistic Committee of our General Assembly. And now we are asked to print a tract in Persian for the Hamadan Station, and are in correspondence with Dr. Potter in regard to the printing of his treatise in Persian on The Doctrines and Practices of the Christian Church. It is very desirable that we have a fresh supply of Persian and Turkish type.

It may be necessary to develop somewhere in Persia an adequate press for printing in Persian, inasmuch as the prohibition of the importation of Scriptures in Persian and Turkish still continues.

The following statistical comparisons will be of interest:

WORK IN TURKEY.—Mr. McDowell and Mr. Sterrett have continued their heroic work in the Kurdish mountains, going from plain to plain and valley to valley, and preaching the Gospel everywhere. Mr. Sterrett was robbed on one of his trips and narrowly escaped with his life. Mr. McDowell's report indicates alike, the difficulty and the fruitfulness of the work.

There are eighteen villages on Gawar plain, wholly or in part Christian. We spent from one to eight days in each village, holding from two to five meetings each day.

Preparation had been made for these meetings in prayer and plan, and we worked with a view to immediate and definite results in decisions for Christ. The results surpassed our expectation.

It soon became evident that the people had been prepared beforehand. In every village, without exception, even in villages against which we had been warned as likely to be hostile to us, we were received with the utmost cordiality, and the people gave an attentive ear to the Gospel.

The explanation of this was found in the gratitude of the people for the relief afforded them in Urumia during the Van massacres. This gratitude seemed to be deep and sincere. The people seemed to have been especially impressed by the fact that in accepting the relief given by the American missionaries they were not asked to change their religion.

In addition to this, however, we felt that the Holy Spirit was at work. There was evident some conviction of sin, with a desire to be saved.

During a sermon an old man turned to a bishop who was sitting by his side, and said very earnestly, "Bishop, we are lost, we are lost." "Speak for yourself," said the bishop. "I have an advocate." "No, you haven't," retorted the other. "You will go before us to hell."

At the close of another meeting, a man remarked to us, "It had been better for us if you preachers had not come." "Why?" "Because, before you came we had our ignorance to offer as an excuse on the Day of Judgment. Now you have taken away our excuse."

And old man came to me, saying, "I have been a sinner all my life. Do you think God will forgive me if I repent?"

My Kurdish servant, a Moslem, who was present at many of the meetings, and who understands Syriac, said, at the close of the meetings: "By the help of our Lord Jesus Christ, I will never lie again."

We tried to declare the whole counsel of God, preaching the ex-

We tried to declare the whole counsel of God, preaching the exceeding sinfulness of sin, and its sure ill desert, Christ in the sinner's stead that the sinner might stand in Christ's stead; Christ as a living, present Saviour, who must be taken into the life and service as well as worshiped.

At the close of the meetings in each place the people were urged to make a full and immediate surrender to Christ. It was explained that we were not asking them to become Protestant, but to enter into covenant with Christ. The nature of this covenant was explained and they were warned against insincere action. They were then asked to give expression to their desire for such a personal surrender to Christ by raising the hand and kneeling in prayer. The result was surprising to us. In almost every village by far the greater part of those present raised their hands and knelt in prayer. At the close of the prayer the response of "amen" was so general and so hearty that we could not but believe that they were sincere. How deep and permanent the work was only time will reveal.

As to results of the campaign in Gawar. In each village, so far as possible, we secured the names of those who seemed to give most evidence of a work of the Spirit in their hearts. We have written the names of III such persons. Besides these, twenty-nine were received into church membership, twenty-six of them being on probation. The III are in villages in which we have no Church organization and no worker.

These are, perhaps, not more than one-third of those who by kneeling or raising the hand signified a desire to live a Christian life.

It is a sad feature of the work that most of those who have thus manifested an interest in the salvation of their souls will be left for a year or more with but very few opportunities of hearing the Gospel. This is due to lack of workers. A good man has been found, however, who will spend the coming winter in Gawar as evangelist and pastor to this little flock.

In addition to the work in Gawar, Mr. McDowell has visited eleven Nestorian villages near Van, the villages between Van and Gawar and the regions of Jelu and Baz.

I visited and preached in over thirty villages and summer camps, some of them being visited more than once. I found the summer a good time to reach those mountain districts. During the year I have preached some 322 times, in 74 different villages, to which I have made 105 visits. Sixty-eight days or parts of days have been spent in travel, apart from the village visitation of Gawar.

I have been endeavoring to make a census of the mountain field. I have written the names of 250 Nestorian villages. There may be 25 more, making 275. Of these, by preacher or school teacher we have touched a bare hundred, leaving 175 as yet untouched. The difficulties in the way of our reaching those villages are a hostile government, opposition from the Nestorian hierarchy, the general law-lessness of both Kurds and Nestorians, and the bigotry of Papist communities.

We have two problems to solve: How to secure greater freedom in traveling and preaching, and how to bring our preaching force into more effective contact with those villages.

It is our desire, as speedily as possible and as effectively as possible, to preach the Gospel in every one of those 275 villages.

TABRIZ STATION.

The Station has been strongly reinforced during the year by the appointment of the Rev. F. N. Jessup, son of the Rev. H. H. Jessup, D.D., of Syria. Miss Jewett has also returned to Tabriz from the East Persia Mission. There has been sickness and sorrow in the Station during the year, but God has continued to bless the work of the Station, both in its schools and in the itinerating work.

EVANGELISTIC.—Miss Holliday and Mr. Pittman have given a large part of their time to the itinerating work. Miss Holliday says in her report:

At the beginning of the year I was in Khoi, in our own house, where I spent the winter. I had a class of young Moslems in English, and visited and received visits, besides having meetings on Sunday, and an attendance of neighbors at evening prayers every night. Those who came were almost all Armenians, among them our own church members and their children and the larger girls of the German orphanage. I returned to Tabriz, March 12, via Salmas, and found the Moslem women who come to Dr. Bradford's dispensary very friendly and accessible. We have more invitations to visit homes than we have time to accept and the Wednesday afternoon prayer meeting has had a fine attendance. I had four Moslem pupils n English.

This year we have had the great joy of knowing of conversions and meeting with genuine inquirers among the Moslems. The young men, however, have the idea of going to other lands, where they can become Christians openly without the fear of death. One was lamenting to a much older man, who has been a Christian for many years, his disappointment in not securing his father's consent to go abroad for an education, where he could be free in matters of religion. The other said, "If you and I and everyone who finds Christ leaves Persia, who is going to tell our own people about Him and win them to His side?" The younger man was much struck by the view, and has labored in his own family with great success, comforting himself for his failure to obtain the education for which he longed by the thought that he may one day be able to give his baby son the advantages of thorough study. It is pitiful to see the young men and women beating their wings against the bars. A young prince says, "I am of the royal house. I have honor, character. How can I profess Christ here? Only give me a work, only help me to get away from the country, and I will take my wife and we will both be Christians." He is like the young ruler whom Jesus loved, but I don't think he has met with a change of heart, though he says he has given himself entirely to Jesus. Two boys of seventeen or eighteen years of age seem to have accepted Christ with a sweet, childlike faith. One has been taught by the young Nestorian doctor, whose pupil in medicine he is, and one wrote, "This is the fast: but, as of course you know, I am not fasting." It is very hard for Christians, for the Moslem religion enters into everything in their daily life, and the petty tyranny and persecution and fear the people have of each other are things not to be understood without actually seeing them. How we Christians need to "remember these in bonds as bound with them."

Mr. Pittman notes with reference to the out-station work:

There has been a noticeable increase of friendliness on the part of Moslems, and desire to hear the teachings of the Gospel, and through these preachers many have had the way of life presented to them.

Four village schools (three Armenian and one Moslem) were maintained for six months with an attendance of about eighty.

We visited thirty towns and villages in the Salmas plain and the district of Garabagh. Some of these villages we visited several times. We worked chiefly among Moslems, but Armenians and Jews were also reached.

Dr. Wright was absent on furlough for most of the year, and during the balance was engaged in the work in Tabriz.

In addition to her work among the women in Tabriz, Mrs. Van Hook worked for six weeks during hot weather in the district around about Muzhumbar. Miss Jewett's work since returning has been among the Moslem women and girls.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Of the Memorial School for boys, Mr. Wilson reports:

The present year shows a larger attendance, a larger corps of teachers, and a larger income than any previous one. Since our establishment in the Thaw Memorial buildings, the school has progressed steadily. Ten years ago there were in all 70 pupils, of whom 26 were boarders who paid 240 krans, while the 44 day-scholars paid next to nothing. Of these, 30 were in the kindergarten and 40 in all the grades above it. We had no regular Moslem pupils, their attendance being prohibited. Now there are in all 211 pupils, of whom the same number are in the boarding department and the kindergarten, while the day scholars above the kindergarten have increased from 14 to 150. Of these, 35 are Moslems. The boarders pay 100 krans each, and the day scholars from 10 to 50 krans each. Twenty-three day pupils are free.

The school has now grown beyond the capacity of the building. It is especially gratifying that we are able to continue the Persian department. The somewhat irregular attendance of 15 or 20 last year has given place to the regular attendance of about 35. They are paying more regularly, though most of them are in moderate circumstances. As many as half of them inherit the title of "Khan." The families of the Kalabegi, Mustashar-o-Doulah and Kalantar are represented, and those of a number of Mollahs and Sayids. There is every reason to hope that the Persian department will be permanent, as it has been in Teheran. This seems specially probable, since during the anti-foreign agitation of last June, when the pupils of all the Persian schools which teach foreign languages were dispersed, our school was not interfered with.

A pleasant feature of commencement time was an alumni meeting of the graduates of the Boys' and Girls' Schools, who were present in the city. The oldest graduate of the Boys' School, after twenty years as a teacher and preacher, returned to see his son and daughter graduated, and presided on the occasion.

Girls' School.—The School has been under Miss Beaber's charge, assisted by Miss Drake, who has been steadily working on the language. Miss Beaber reports:

Sometimes letters come to me full of the hurry and bustle of America, longing for "the slow quiet of the Orient," but I fear that if the writers were established in the Girls' School of Tabriz they would long again for the orderly hurry and rush of the Occident. It seems to me that I never had so hurried, so rushed, so busy a year as last year was, too, constantly burdened as I was by the daily duties I was forced to leave undone.

The experience of the year shows that it is far better to have no boarding department at all than to have one with a hindering matron, although this one was supposably a desirable one, being a member of our church and a former graduate of the school. We consider that if the home life of our school is not a happy, Christian influence, it is better not to have any, for our business is not feeding, clothing, educating, advancing the pupils in culture only, but our most earnest endeavor must be. by the grace of God, to make earnest, working, sincere Christians of our girls, and when we fail in this one thing, we must consider the school a total failure.

The total enrollment of the day pupils was 102, boarders 15.

The cost of the school, as nearly as can be divided from the cost of the boarding department, averaged about 70 grans ($7) a pupil. Because of the necessity of buying new furnishings, we took in only a few boarders, which is the reason, too, for the high average (about $30) per boarder, although there would naturally have been an increase per boarder, as the price of most of the food stuffs and fuel are still on the increase, in the case of bread being 400% more than the price fifteen years ago.

Of some visits to village and evangelistic work, Miss Beaber writes:

The spiritual condition of the Moslem woman who grasps the thought of a Saviour without accepting Him as her Saviour is pitiable in the extreme. I shall not soon forget one woman who seemed to hang on my words day after day, her face lighting up with hope and joy as she listened to the wonderful story, only to be clouded over the next moment with doubt and despair as she insisted, "It is not for us, not for us; we have no hope." The lifelong teaching that she was inferior to the beasts around her was rooted so deeply that all I could say was not enough to make her really believe she had only to accept salvation. She said it was too good to be true. My heart ached as I had to leave her.

MEDICAL WORK.—Through the generosity of friends at home and by the use of the receipts on the field, Dr. Vanneman has been able to construct some new buildings for the medical work, and a physician's residence with a dispensary building. It is hoped soon to add two wards and an operating room. During the year, 7410 patients were treated in the men's medical work.

Of the Whipple Hospital and medical work for women, Dr. Bradford writes:

The attendance at the dispensary during the year has been 6893. For four weeks during May and June and two during August it was closed, but otherwise has been open every week day. After Miss Holliday's return in March, until she went away in October, some part of each morning was spent in the waiting room with the women.

Since she left, Miss Jewett has come over for several days in the week. With someone always ready to read to them, some new picture on the wall, besides the Sunday-school lesson picture roll, a new carpet and new covers on the divans, the waiting room was very attractive. That woman still comes who would always be first and absorb more than her share of attention, but so many have learned our way that now she is apt to get an exhortation from a fellow-patient to quietly await her turn. Some have become so interested in the reading they would give their turn to others or stay after they had been seen.

The number of in-patients has been ten. Of these, five were Moslem, three Armenian and two French. One of these afflicted, as the woman who touched the hem of Christ's garment, was very weak when she came in. She always said if she had not spent all she had for a donkey hire that morning and come to us she would have been dead by evening. She went home and told her neighbors it was Jesus who had healed her. They said, "You must say Abbas or Ali did it," but she said, "No, it was Jesus," and then they said, "You are unclean after being in that house and eating their food. We cannot have you in our houses or give you work." So she sold her clothes to get bread for herself and little girl, and one day came to ask us to pray that their hearts might be softened. She did find something to do. About a month later her sister, who lived in a distant village, having heard of her distress, came to take her home with her.

The number of outside medical visits has been 699. But of these thirty-four were operations and twenty-three others required many an hour to be spent in their homes.

The greatest difficulty in the homes of the rich and poor alike is to secure anything clean with which to work. It will become unclean, so why should anything good be given and as to myself, as the great source of pollution, they will often risk losing a life rather than in willingly helping me, have my touch defile them or their clothing.

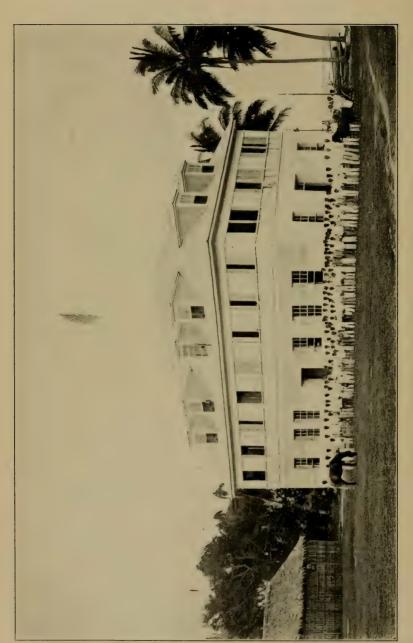

During May and June four weeks were spent on a medical and evangelistic tour. I visited our out-stations of Maragha and Mianduab and thirteen other cities and villages. At one place I found a little group of women reading the Bible. They said they were ostracized for it, but that they would rather do without neighbors than give up the Book.

I have often had a little service with the women before beginning the medical work for the day. In this way some of those who could read have been found and portions of Scripture sold or taken home. At present four are reading in this way. One has completed two Gospels, another three, and two are more slowly learning to read. One of these in returning the Gospel of Matthew breathed forth curses on the Jews who caused the death of Christ. In returning Mark she said, "This is the same story, but different in some ways. It tells again how the Jews shamefully treated Christ and may God curse them for it." I told her she should not say such things, because Christ died to atone for sin and prayed for his enemies. A look of surprise came over her face, and she said, "Do you mean to say He was willing to forgive those who put Him to death?" When I answered, "Yes," she said in a low tone, "Is it possible? Is it possible?"

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. and Mrs. D. S. Hibbard, Mrs. W. H. Langheim.

The Philippine Mission reports that the past year has been one of steady advance. There has been no such hindrance as in past years from the cholera or from the disturbed state of the country, but, on the contrary, the opportunities of the missionaries have been limited only by their strength. From all Stations comes the same report of openings that can not be filled, of opportunities that have to be neglected because of the press of regular service. Given freedom of travel, larger force of both American and Filipino workers, increased ability that comes with the acquisition of the language, and there seems to be no limit to the possibilities of the future.

With the responsibility accepted from the Evangelical Union of a large share of Luzon and the Visayan Group, the Mission has been confronted with the problem of how to meet the needs of this great field. With the arrival of the new missionaries in August and November the Mission was able to open Stations in the province of Albay and in Tacloban on the island of Leyte, Steps have also been taken

Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard, the second family to arrive on the field, were compelled to return to America on account of Mr. Hibbard's illness. But prayer has been answered, and they expect to resume their work next summer. The Mission has been reinforced during the year by the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Francis J. Pursell, Mrs. J. Eugene Snook, the Rev. George William Wright, the Rev. and Mrs. Roy H. Brown and the Rev. Charles E. Rath. The Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Jansen, who have labored so successfully with the missionaries during the past two years as associate missionaries, are now full members of the Mission.

In order to occupy at once and effectively the field for which we are now responsible, the Mission has issued a call for at least twelve new men. The Mission writes:

We can conceive of no more attractive field to the servant of God. The islands are America's responsibility in a peculiar sense. One finds a ready response, abundant fruitage, an unlimited opportunity to develop the very best there is in him, a chance not only to serve the Church, but also the fatherland.

The visits of the Rev. Dr. George F. Pentecost and of the Rev. Dr. John B. Devins, Editor of the New York Observer, the latter accompanied by his wife, brought great help and cheer. Dr. Pentecost preached with great power, plainly rebuking the American population for its godlessness. The careless and guilty were startled as they had never been before, and a noticeable improvement followed in the conduct of many. Dr. Devins has published an account of his visit in the Observer, which will be widely read.

Manila reports year of great prosperity.

THE FILIPINO WORK has been under the charge of Mr. Rodgers. He reports increased interest in all the congregations. In November the Tondo and Trozo congregations were consolidated and now worship in the new church. That part of the Trozo congregation which resides in the Trozo district continues its weekday services in the open air, while joining with the main church in the Sunday services. The united congregation now presents a strong front with its four elders, four deacons and four trustees. It has assumed all the expense of the services in the new building, which will be considerable.

The great event of the year has been the dedication of the Tondo church, November 7. It is a success in every way, unless we except size, as the Sunday-school rooms are already too small. The dedicatory services were attended by such a throng that it was necessary to station sentries at the door and allow the entrance of church members only. All the other churches joined in heartiest congratulations to our Mission on this occasion.

Services that crowded the church every pleasant night were held nightly for five weeks, and could have been continued had the strength of the workers permitted, for two months longer with an unfailing attendance. Most of these meetings were under the direction of the elders and evangelists, as the missionaries were absent at the annual meeting during three of the five weeks. The church is a handsome building, in the very best location in that section of the city, and stands as an evidence of the sincerity and permanence of the plans of the Presbyterian Church in the Philippine Islands.

A month earlier a neat chapel was dedicated. It was built by the people, of bamboo, and thatched with the nipa leaves. This furnishes a meeting place for the members who live in the barrio of Angustias, a section of Tondo about a mile from the church building.

The Ermita congregation divided into two at the beginning of the year because its members live in distant barrios. The members who lived in Penafrancia, a section of Paco, built themselves a little chapel and have their own provisional organization. Those who live in Ermita and Malate, the bay shore sections of the city, continue to worship in the Ermita chapel. Both these congregations (in fact, the large city congregation also) have C. E. Societies that are the mainstay of the church. These congregations have no elders.

In the provinces there has been even greater advance than in the city. The field was divided into three circuits, and evangelists were given the duty of visiting the churches and towns each month in regular routine. One circuit included the towns on the south shore of the Laguna. Great success was met in Louisiana and Calamba, and beginnings made in other places. In Binan the chapel was dedicated on the last Sunday of the year in the presence of an attentive crowd. The second circuit comprised the north shore of the lake and the towns in Rizal province on the Pasig river. Encouragement was met in Pateros and Tipas, while the church of Pasig has been greatly strengthened. On the north shore of the lake less success was obtained, the people being of a different type. The third district consisted of the towns and churches in Cavite province. In Baccor and Cavite Viejo the congregations have increased greatly and have been much strengthened by persecutions. In Baccor an evangelist and twenty of his congregation were arrested and kept in prison by the town presidente for holding services after 10 o'clock at night. It was so palpable a piece of injustice, however, that the presidente lost his position in consequence. The results were seen in large additions and a chapel which was built almost immediately. In San Francisco de Malabon and adjoining towns, large audiences have listened attentively to the preaching, and we hope to have congregations there within a few months. Much interest has been aroused there and we hope for definite results very soon.

Mr. Rodgers writes that he cannot speak too highly of the courage and earnestness of the Filipino evangelists. They have faced all sorts of dangers without shirking, even going out to face a band of what rumor said were ladrones when all the people had fled. In all of the congregations, leaders have appeared who conduct the services on the days when the evangelists are not present. Their development has been one of the most interesting features of the work during this year and gives great promise of usefulness in the future.

In Manila, Mr. Rodgers has a weekly class for evangelists only, which has been attended regularly by all who were in the city. In September, fourteen representatives of the country churches and an equal number from the city met for a fortnight's Bible study class. This proved to be of great interest and resulted in more activity in the towns. It is the purpose of the Station to repeat this experiment every six months. Since the class, an attempt has been made to continue the instruction then given by correspondence, and we hope that this will develop into a regular correspondence school that will prove the beginnings of a training school. All are men of from twenty-five to fifty years and with families to support.

Mr. Rodgers writes:

What we trust can be done is that within a short time one of our more experienced missionaries be placed in such a position as regards his work that he can devote his time almost exclusively to this subject of training the workers—first by correspondence classes and by visits to the men in different towns, then by gatherings or conventions of a month's time, and lastly by organizing such a school as experience may indicate as possible.

It is remarkable that while on the field Mr. Rodgers was thus feeling his way along in response to a plain Providential leading, doing the best he could to meet single-handed a great and growing need, the Rev. Dr. F. F. Ellinwood at home was independently moved to propose the raising of a fund of $10,000 for the establishment and equipment of a Training School for Christian Workers in Manila, heading the fund with a generous subscription from his own family in memory of a beloved daughter. Friends are adding other gifts, and the women's boards are giving substantial cooperation. It is earnestly hoped that the full amount needed, which will include land and buildings, will soon be completed.

CHINESE WORK.—Neither of the ministers was able to give especial attention to this little group that worshiped in our chapel. They had begged for a preacher to care for the congregation, but it seemed impossible to obtain one from Amoy. Mr. Rodgers endeavored to show them that under the guidance of Mr. Paklian they were doing well and to show Mr. Paklian that he was doing a good work, but they all felt that to do justice to the work there should be a preacher on the ground. This was true, but one could not be found. In September, the Rev. Mr. Studley, formerly of the Dutch Reformed Mission at Amoy, came to Manila to join the Episcopal Mission. Without any persuasion on his part and chiefly because there was at last a pastor who knew their language and who could take all the responsibility for the services, the congregation began to go to his services. So our Chinese work has come almost to a stop, though we trust that it will only be temporary. A pastor who can speak Chinese would at once revive and enlarge this work. Meantime we have no complaint to make, as Mr. Studley has acted in a most Christian and brotherly manner in the whole matter. Our work is not given up, but only suspended, and we are at perfect liberty to resume it when we have the means to do so.

THE AMERICAN CHURCH.—Sixty-seven members have been added during the year. The average attendance has steadily increased from about 50 to 140. Nearly one-half of this increase is the result of the evening service. The morning and evening congregations are almost entirely distinct. About 250 persons now attend the two services. Over one-half of the total annual expenses have been raised by the congregation. The C. E. Society, despite a great loss by removals from the city, has trebled its membership and increased the average attendance from less than twenty to about forty at each meeting. The work of the members and committees is gratifying. The Society has supported one native pastor during the year and is soliciting funds to provide for another. The Sunday-school, well organized and under the direction of Mr. Thaddeus H. Rhodes, now enrolls nearly all of the Protestant children in this vicinity. The average attendance is about forty. Nearly 200 pesos have been raised for mission work. The prayer-meeting was not successful, and a Bible class was substituted. Fifteen minutes a day were required for the study and one hour a week for the discussion in class. Notwithstanding that nearly 100 men and women have left the city since enrolling in the class, the great heat, the difficulty of transportation, and the number absent upon vacation leave, the average attendance was above twenty. To this class is largely due the increased interest throughout the church. Some of the most cultured men and women in the city have reserved this night for the class and have enjoyed discussions with men who had never been graduated from the common schools. In no other subject could such intense interest have been possible. Receptions and socials have been successful in increasing the acquaintance of the members and the interest and attendance of the congregation.

The great difficulties have been great distances, lack of transportation, a widespread impression that the government opposed Protestant work, Sabbath desecration, low salaries compared with the high cost of living, the luxurious habits of many influential men and women, habitual drinking among the most influential men, inordinate desire for money, lack of a church building, absence from home influences, the transient character of the population, and the smallness of the ministerial force. Mr. Hillis has worked hard and has accomplished much, but no one man is equal to the emergencies that constantly arise in such a great field.

But now these difficulties are being materially lessened. The tracks are being laid for the new street railway. The government has learned the power of American Protestantism. The Palace is closed to business on Sunday. The Governor does not choose that day for house parties, with grand balls and cock fights given in his honor by admiring friends. The Opium Bill, even when championed by the Commission, was defeated through the efforts of the Evangelical Union. The Governor has sought to dispel the impression of government opposition to all Protestant work in the Islands and has taken pains to maintain an attitude of impartiality toward religious work. Salaries and cost of living have continued the same, but small amounts contributed systematically by all interested in the work will soon, it is hoped, be sufficient for the necessary expenses. The merciless prosecution of embezzlers and defaulters is rapidly discouraging extravagant habits. The business demand for steady, sober men is gradually arousing a temperance sentiment. Provision is being made for the new church building, and the land has already been purchased in an excellent location. Men are bringing their families The women and children are exerting a from America. powerful influence for good, and many young men are building their own little homes. Adventurers and criminals are being deported. The new men are above the average of those who came earlier, and last, but not least, the arrival of the Rev. Dr. S. B. Rossiter with his wife and two daughters will greatly increase the efficiency and influence of the church. They did not reach the field until February, 1904, and therefore after the close of the year covered by this report, but Dr. Rossiter had been at work in the United States since September 6, speaking in the interests of the work and raising funds for the erection of the new building so urgently needed.

WORK FOR WOMEN.—The women of the Philippines. unlike their sisters in other Oriental countries, take a prominent part in matters political, social, financial, and religious. A large majority of the women carry on business ventures quite independent of their husbands, and in many cases they are the mainstay of their families. Women mingle freely with men in gatherings of all kinds, be it in church processions, at the markets or in the cock-pit. So it is easy to reach the women in Christian work, and from the first they have attended all the meetings with the men. and the development of the Christian life has been through the regular church services, prayer-meetings, Sundayschools, Bible classes, and C. E. meetings. During the past year there has been marked activity and development among the women in the Manila Station. A women's prayer meeting was begun in March, and the meetings have been conducted by the women themselves with great success ever since. Without the least embarrassment, the women take turns in leading the meetings and a large number take part with freedom, dignity and power, both in prayer and exhortation. The children also often take part in these meetings. The fame of the Manila women's meetings having gone abroad, the women in two or three of the outlying churches also organized themselves into "Women Societies," and have been conducting meetings among themselves. We believe that there is going to be a great work done by the women for their own people, and the great need just now in the Manila Station is for some one to give time to the instruction of these women.

ILOILO STATION.

Again we are glad to be able to report progress in all branches of our work at this Station. The missionaries write that they are not wholly satisfied with present achievements, for amid the great masses of unenlightened, groping hearts, with all the unrest caused by more or less freedom from papal domination, they feel that in some way they ought to have gathered in more of the apparently ripe fruit. Still there have been abundant signs of a widening influence and the workers labor on in the hope that the future may have far greater things in store.

One of the Filipino preachers was away for about four months, and this hindered some plans for extension. But he returned in April and has been doing faithful work ever since. Four elders were elected at the beginning of the year, and these have proved to be true helpers, taking upon themselves the responsibility of the office and aiding in uniting members into a stronger congregation.

The chapel services have been attended as never before. Especially has this been true of the week-night meetings at which there have been large audiences. In the Sunday-school there has been rapid increase, and this work, which to the Filipino is entirely new, is becoming better understood and more appreciated. Several of the women have been induced to start small classes in their houses during the week, gathering in whom they can. It is the intention to work these children into the main school, and we hope that their parents may follow them.

Seventeen street services are held weekly in and about Iloilo in eight different places, and in six of these the work is done almost wholly by the Filipinos themselves. New work has been opened in the district of Manduriao, where meetings were held in the barrios about the town during the dry season, and since that time in a camarine in town belonging to the presidente. These meetings have not always been large, but there have always been some new faces and the interest grows. The receipts from the local congregations have amounted to $247.95.

In the more remote districts there has been a fairly large ingathering. Chapels have been built in Leon and San Miguel by the people themselves without any financial aid from other than local members, and one of their number now preaches in each place without remuneration. At the opening of the chapel in Leon, thirty-one new members were baptized, while twelve were baptized in San Miguel at the opening of the chapel there. The people of Oton are building a chapel which will soon be opened.

In October a training class was held four days a week with four country preachers, the two paid men and several of the city members who preach from week to week. It was a month of great profit to the new men especially. Two of these men are now conducting regular services in Leon and San Miguel, a third preaches in Manduriao, while the fourth is expected to take up work in Oton. A weekly training class has been held through the year with the city preachers and several members, greatly increasing the general efficiency of these men.

A fair amount of itinerating has been done. Several trips were made to interior towns and villages and the upper part of the island of Guimaras has been pretty thoroughly covered. About twenty-four or twenty-five villages have been visited on this small island, which has many little fishing villages scattered all around the coast. It was very gratifying in some of these to have the people urge the missionary to remain longer and to return soon, showing that the villagers have been awakened to a hungering for the Word. We hope and pray that the coming year will find us in a position to reach all parts of our field, for we hear very promising reports of waiting crowds in some of the mountain districts, where in one place a devoted woman preaches weekly to many villagers and has repeatedly asked for a missionary to go there to baptize and preach the Gospel.

Some Bible translation has been done this year, tracts have been printed, Sunday-school lessons prepared, and we are soon to publish a new edition of Visayan Hymns that will include fifty new ones recently translated, as well as the fifty we have had for some time.

The Chinese work is slowly but steadily increasing. As fast as new men are induced to attend the services, some of the old ones leave for other parts, for they move about a good deal. The average Sunday audience has been about eighteen. These services have been conducted in Visayan by Dr. Hall with the assistance of the Chinese members, who take turns in preaching in their own language. Six new men have been baptized during the year. One member died and was given a Christian burial, which contrasted markedly with the noisy Chinese burials. In addition to the Sunday service there has been a weekly prayer meeting and Bible class, with an attendance of about ten, of whom five are seeking baptism.

The American congregation has kept about the same during the year. Four members have been received on examination, and three on certificate, but several have removed from the city. In addition to the Sunday service, there has been a weekly prayer meeting, with an average attendance of about twelve.

MEDICAL WORK.—The dispensary has been open every morning except Sundays for the treatment of outpatients. Two thousand three hundred and ten were treated. Medicines have been carried on all itinerating trips and treatment given as well as the Gospel preached. In the hospital there have been more in-patients than ever before, fifty-four people having been admitted, including several Americans and other foreigners. These patients aggregated 1198 days. The total number of treatments during the year has been 3418, representing over 160 villages and towns. Funds received on the field have been more than sufficient to maintain the work thus far and promise to do so in the future.

WORK FOR WOMEN .-- At the first religious service held in Iloilo there were present seventy men and women. Gradually the women came out in great numbers, and meetings for women alone were held as soon as the missionaries mastered the language sufficiently to make themselves partially understood. Diffident at first, the women soon learned to handle their Spanish Bibles with ease. But as only a few could understand the Bible, one woman was prepared to teach the others. Regular afternoon meetings were then begun in the houses of the native women, where the baby organ and singing proved a great attraction. Men, women and children, varying in numbers from fifteen to eighty, attended, some staying all the time and some but a few minutes. In this work five women have assisted without remuneration. Although many grasp but the simplest truths and advance slowly, yet there is such encouragement in hearing their testimonies and prayer. Many have learned to read in order to study the Bible.

In the Sunday-school, there is an attendance of about forty women in addition to the regular classes for children, while some outside work has been done for them. For over a year one faithful Filipino woman has daily gathered the native children into her home, teaching them in simple language the Gospel story and hymns. To hear four or five of these little ones pray to the Father in their childish words would be an inspiration to many a Sunday-school at home. Some of their parents have been reached in this way, and this Christian influence has a quieting effect upon the once noisy neighborhood. Two other women have also been having success in this line of work.

DUMAGUETE STATION.

The absence of Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard on account of ill-health so reduced the Station force that little evangelistic work could be done during the year, the Institute and the Hospital requiring the energies of those who remained on the field. The regular Bible classes and the religious exercises in connection with the school, however, were maintained.

The Mission Press, in addition to printing the "Silliman Truth," doing all work required for the Station and also the work sent from Manila, Iloilo and Cebu Stations, has had commercial work to the extent of about $350 Mex. More than 200,000 pages were printed during this period. A small building for the press has been erected on the Mission property and it is the intention to move from the present rented quarters as soon as possible.

The medical work has continued to make friends both for itself and for all our other work. Dr. Langheim's position as President of the Provincial Board of Health as well as his membership on the Board of Three, which is the governing body, has given our work a position and influence it could not otherwise have had. During the year, 2137 patients received treatment. Of this number 1376 came to the dispensary and 761 were visited in their homes. A hospital building 36 by 68 feet, with three wards, a capacity for twenty-five beds, an operating room, dispensary and laboratory, has been built at a cost of $2000 gold. The entire sum was supplied by friends in Dumaguete, Iloilo and The total mount of money received on the field, including fees, Dr. Langheim's salary as President of the Board of Health, etc., is $5589.70 Mex. Dr. Langheim deserves credit for thus developing the principle of selfsupport in so brief a period.

The Silliman Institute had to be closed during the first months of the year on account of cholera. But in January (1903) it was reopened with a larger attendance than we expected. The attendance, however, for the remainder of the school year did not equal that before the cholera. At the beginning of the new school year, in June, the new building was occupied, Mr. and Mrs. Pieters arrived from Cebu, and Mr. Stein was secured from the Educational Department. The attendance ran up rapidly until it reached 130 and our building proved too small. The reappearance of the cholera again diminished the number of students, though the Institute was not closed as before. After the departure of the cholera the attendance increased again, but not to its former figure. The attendance at present is about eighty-five. But the work is still heavy, for even after the reduction in classes Mr. Stein taught on an average eight or nine classes a day and Mr. McIntire five.

About half of the students are boarding pupils. Of these about seventeen are free students. The only work for them has been the care of the building, work in the dining-room and campus, and a little work on the printing press. Further development of industrial training was impossible with so small a teaching force. A superintendent of the industrial department has now been secured, and that important phase of the work of the Institute will at once be pressed.

Many of the students have come from the better families. The development of the students has been very noticeable. Many of them are growing up into intelligent and promising manhood. Nine students were baptized this year. Two are training for the ministry and are almost ready to begin in a small way. There are three or four others who will probably be available for such work a little later.

A prayer meeting was started for the baptized boys and some others who were interested, and several have learned to take part in a very encouraging way. Mr. Pieters also has a Bible class of six members two evenings a week, with a special view to training them as preachers. Mrs. Pieters has a Bible class of young women. Sundays Mr. McIntire has preached in Visayan, and the boarding pupils are required to attend this service.

English preaching services have been held by Mr. Pieters on alternate Sundays, attended by the missionaries and a few other Americans.

All the exercises have been helped by the publication of a Visayan hymn book containing thirty hymns, translated by Mr. Pieters and Domingo Villamil, one of the students. The many services held in connection with the annual mission meeting were also a great help. The visit of thirty-five of the Cebu Christians with Ricardo, who held a street meeting, made a strong impression on the city and school.

Nearly 600 people attended the dedication exercises of the hospital and the college building, which was prettily decorated by the students. Mr. Stein has given efficient aid in all branches of the work.

CEBU STATION.

The year has been, on the whole, one of victory for our work in Cebu. At the beginning the first interested people were scattered through the influence of the priests, and with only three or four left of those whom the missionaries had fondly hoped would prove the first fruits of their labor, it looked for a time very dark. Mr. and Mrs. Jansen held meetings in the basement of their house, but got only small congregations, and whenever they tried to rent a hall in a more public street they were checkmated by the same hostile influence.

In answer to an appeal, the Manila Station lent an evangelist to assist for a month, and another from Iloilo stopped at the same time for several weeks on his way to Samar. Both helped much, but the ice was not quite broken, and for some time work continued against heavy odds. Persecutions of various kinds abounded.

Two families, who lived on the outskirts of the city, had to seek refuge with Mr. Jansen nights until they could secure homes in a safer locality. Mr. and Mrs. Jansen were constantly stoned during open air services. Some of the converts could not buy provisions in the stores where they. were known, etc. But at last the ice did break and many who had been interested for months came boldly out for Christ. In April, a hall in the main street was secured. A few days afterward the owner offered a bonus for the surrender of the lease, but it was declined and the place was Among the converts were several who showed marked ability for preaching, and they have received daily Bible instruction. Their practical training they received at the same time. Each had a district assigned him in which to visit and interest the people, and they had to take their part in the open air services. All showed great faithfulness and aptitude. Neither bribes, threats nor violence, all of which have at times been offered, discourage them, and they have grown in grace and knowledge day by day. The converts have been of a rather better class than we usually get, and all are to-day respected in the community, some to a remarkable degree. One hundred and forty-seven indoor services were held. The attendance increased on moving to the chapel, and there were many seekers. The open air services, of which 134 were held in ten months, are largely attended, and we expect greater things from them. Thirtythree have been baptized in the past year, and many are prepared for baptism, a remarkable growth considering the newness of the work and the bitterness of Roman Catholic opposition in this stronghold of Philippine Romanism. Some evangelistic work has also been done in the neighboring towns of Talisay, Mabolo and Compostello, and in Dumanjug, on the opposite side of the island. In all these places there are already believers.

In connection with the work in Cebu there is an interesting Sunday-school with forty members and two C. E. Societies. The native congregation has, at its own cost, bought a suitable tract for a cemetery, at a cost of $120 Mex.

The services in English were discontinued after Mr. Pieters' transfer to Dumaguete, May 1. In August, the Station was reinforced by the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Pursell, who have taken up medical work and also given valuable aid in the evangelistic services. They have charge of the Sunday-school work.

The future looks very bright, and the many calls for help from the province of Cebu, and from Bohol, Leyte and other islands give us expectations of great things. The chapei is far too small to accommodate comfortably the congregations and the Sunday-school, and the importance of Cebu makes it imperative that a church should soon be built.

WORK FOR WOMEN.—Thus far the women converts have proved themselves as courageous and as active in Christian work as have the men. During persecution, which showed itself in stoning and in other ways, the women were as willing as the men to take their part in speaking or praying in the open air services. Their spiritual courage, shown by a naturally timid people before their countrymen who gathered to hear the Gospel, did much toward removing the fears of the partially interested hearers. When a large bribe was offered to the native evangelist, the women of his family were steadfast in rejecting it with him, and were stirred to greater activity in assisting him in the work he would have left had he yielded to the temptation of accepting the bribe. In the prayer meetings and open air services the women lend courage to the men and arouse them to right effort in the work. They have been active also in the Sunday-school.

SANTA CRUZ STATION.

April 3, 1903, the Board formally created a separate Station in the region bordering on Laguna de Bay, where Mr. Snook has been at work with zeal and success for some time. It is a great and populous district, with an area nearly equal to that of the State of Massachusetts and with hundreds of towns and villages. As the Bay and the rivers are the highways of travel, a launch is indispensable. With the approval of the Board, Mr. Snook is trying to raise the necessary money. Small congregations have already been gathered at Calamba, Santa Cruz and Pagsanhan. The acquaintance of the students of the Provincial High School has been secured and their friendship cultivated. A building suitable for a temporary chapel (seating 125) and also a residence was rented in Santa Cruz, and the chapel has been crowded whenever an evangelist could visit the field. The attendance and interest have been good wherever meetings have been held. A good work has been begun in Luciana, and Paete has often been visited. Thus far, Mr. Snook is the only missionary of the Station, and his year of work has been broken by illness and an absence from the field of four months. But the absence was for the purpose of getting married, and he is again at his post with the added help of a wife. Since September 30 they have taken up their residence in Santa Cruz, the strategic centre of the Laguna province. The work is moving forward with many encouragements and the whole region will be developed as rapidly as possible.

ALBAY STATION.

In April, 1901, the Evangelical Union asked the Presbyterian Church to become responsible for all the provinces on the island of Luzon south of Manila. Ever since, we have been planning the development of our work in that direction as soon as sufficient reinforcements could be secured. It soon became apparent that it would be impracticable to work the large and populous southeastern provinces from Manila. The distance, the mountainous character of some of the intervening country and the lack of railroads and even wagon roads made easy communication by land quite out of the question, while by water the irregularity as well as the character of the steamers rendered that mode of travel altogether too uncertain. So the Board early determined to open a separate Station in that important region.

May 7, 1903, the Board formally created the provinces in question into a Station. There is, however, little beyond this fact to report this year, as there was no available foreign missionary who could be located there till the arrival of the newly appointed missionaries. At the annual meeting of the Mission in November, the Rev. and Mrs. Roy H. Brown were assigned to Albay, and they are now on the ground. Governor Taft says that Albay is the richest province in all the archipelago, being famous for its plantations of hemp. The field is large, populous and very promising, and we hope for the same measure of success that has crowned missionary effort in other fields.

TACLOBAN STATION.

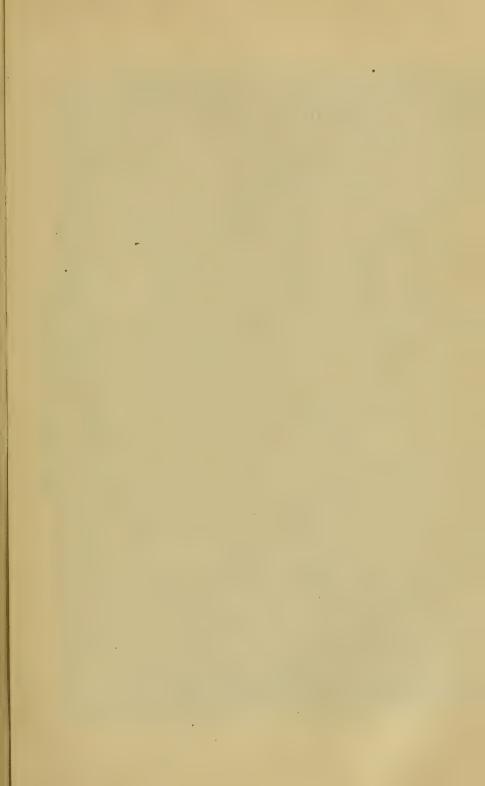

Shortly after the opening of a Station at Cebu, the work seemed to spread itself to the neighboring island of Leyte, which is about a third larger than the State of Delaware and with a numerous population of the same Visayan stock and the same language as the people of Cebu. Mr. Jansen writes:

Tacloban, the capital, is a beautiful city, the most beautifully situated, I think, of any I have up to this time seen in the islands. It is situated on a land-tongue stretching from the innermost part of a large bay, surrounded by mountains, and little islands are dotted all around. I should think there are nearly 24,000 inhabitants. I have had many talks and Bible readings, and I have no doubt that a splendid work will be done here. The people are so much less fanatical than in some other places. Two presidentes from towns on the opposite side of the island have been here daily to get some instruction, while they were in Tacloban and are begging also for help. To-day, six Chinamen presented themselves for baptism. They could not talk Spanish or English, only a broken Visayan, but they wanted to become Jesus men "right away," one said in English; that, and "All right" and "Goodby" was the extent of their vocabulary in English. They had to return to an inland town, and so I gave them a Bible reading, a few Chinese Bibles, and promised to look them up if I ever came to their town. They are traders, and will doubtless return now and again to Tacloban. The island is one of the richest in the archipelago, and the people among the brightest. As I have looked in some of the faces of their young men I have thought that much good material will certainly be gained here for the advancement of the Gospel in Leyte.

About the work: I hear most encouraging word all along the line. Street meetings are now being held, as well as the indoor gatherings. The attendance is splendid and some of the best people of the town are taking hold. The Americans here are all in sympathy with your work and are especially pleased that natives are in charge in the beginning.

At the suggestion of the Board, Mr. Jansen, of Cebu, visited Tacloban and established permanent work there under the care of two native evangelists who are doing excellent work. Thirteen adults have already been baptized and great interest has been aroused. There is every reason to anticipate the development of a promising Station at this point. The Rev. Charles E. Rath has now been assigned to the care of this Station.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. J. A. Eakin, D.D., and Mrs. Eakin, and Miss Edna A. Cole,

The crying need in Siam is more men, to supply the existing Stations, to open new Stations in large unoccupied centres, and to do general itinerating. The Mission has asked for six ordained men and two medical men to meet this need; but one of the latter can be sent. The need of increasing the evangelistic force of the Mission, urgent before, has become especially important because of the death of the Rev. B. T. Boon-Itt. As a beloved fellow-worker, as the leader of the Siamese Christians, prudent in counsel, zealous, devoted, indefatigable; as the interpreter between the missionaries and their Siamese brethren, always kind and conciliatory, judging motives leniently, while intolerant toward sin, he is missed alike both by the missionaries and by his native brethren. He had planned broad foundations and had laid them with wisdom, patience and tact. His position among the young people of Siam will not soon be filled.

We are gratified to report that no other break has occurred in the Mission ranks from death or for health reasons. The work of all the Stations has been maintained with a good degree of success. Various departments of the Mission have become largely self-supporting. The medical work, the larger schools and the Press have practically reached that point.

One important event of the year shows the wisdom of the Siamese Government and especially the appreciation of His Majesty the King of our American missionary. Americans have invaded Siam not for political conquest, nor for commercial gains, so much as for missionary endeavor. In their wake have come to Siam more than incidental benefits to the government in the Press and a fast, growing printed literature; in a modern system of hospitals and dispensaries and necessary equipments for caring for all manner of disease and sickness; and in a modern system of education and schools. The American missionary first demonstrated the usefulness of these things in Siam. The Siamese people and His Majesty in particular appreciate all these benefits, and to-day they form integral parts of His Majesty's Government under special Ministries, such as the Ministry of Education, Hospital and Sanitary Department, etc. The Siamese Government and people realize that their greatest progress and moral worth have come not from their commercial intercourse with other nations, nor from their political relations with France and England. but from the American missionary influence not only in their hospitals, their schools and their press, but specially in their Christian morality and teaching. The evidence of this appreciation is the appointment of an American citizen to occupy the position of "Foreign Adviser-in-Chief to His Majesty Chulalonghorn I."

The late adviser, like all his predecessors, was a European. All the legations at the court of Siam at the time of his death thought, of course, that the King would select a European for the place, and there was great rivalry among the Ministers of the different countries to name the new adviser. But the King said, "I want an American as my adviser." The man is Edward Henry Strobel, professor of international law in Harvard University, which has given him indefinite leave of absence. Every American missionary in Siam may be proud of this prestige added not only to the glory of his country, but more especially to his own influence, which is thus recognized and distinguished by this highest appointment in His Majesty's Government of a fellow-countryman qualified for the position.

Another important event of the year was the opening of the Petchaburee Railway, which connects both Petchaburee and Rajaburee with Bangkok, the capital. This line is ninety-four miles long and passes through populous districts. His Majesty gave expression to the government's policy in these words: "As the most rapid communication is the most sure means of progress in every country, we shall naturally think of extending railways over all our country, as far as it will be within our means to accomplish in due time; but, however, in view of economy, we shall not think of building any railway line that has no commercial value."

BANGKOK STATION.

The first part of the proposed plant for the Christian Boys' High School has been completed and the school has taken up its abode in the new quarters.

CHURCHES.—The First Church at Sumray has suffered somewhat from the removal of the High School, but there is an evident spirit of revival among the people. They are holding cottage prayer meetings from house to house to suit the convenience of their widely separated membership. The pastor is trying to make up for the lack of a theological school by training his elders and other promising young men to take charge of the Sunday services. The new church building on the east side of the river, which will stand as a monument of the late Rev. B. T. Boon-Itt, is a Mission of the First Church under care of the pastor, the Rev. Kroo Yuan. A strong committee, composed of the pastor and six influential members, propose to lease from the Mission the old school building and grounds at Sumray with a view to form a Christian community there to sustain the church and maintain a day-school Christian in character and purpose.

The Second Church, at Wang Lang, is composed almost entirely of the teachers and pupils of the Harriet House School for Girls. During the earlier part of the year it was under the pastoral care of Mr. Boon-Itt and the congregations profited greatly by his preaching. Since his death the church has been supplied by Dr. Eakin. The Sunday-school consists of nearly all the pupils of the boarding school. One member of the senior class united with the church on profession of her faith. The Band of King's Daughters has maintained regular monthly meetings.

The Third Church, at Rajawong, has had a prosperous year under the care of Mr. Snyder. Fifteen were added to its membership, six by letter and nine on profession of their faith. Kroo Choi, who preaches both in Siamese and Chinese, is Mr. Snyder's faithful assistant. He lives at the chapel and keeps the reading room open every week day. The liberality of this church still abounds. Mrs. Snyder has charge of the Ban Maw Chapel, also in the midst of a thronging population. The services are well attended and considerable interest is manifested. Miss Lucy Dunlap conducts a flourishing Sunday-school in connection with this chapel, composed largely of street children in the vicinity.

EVANGELISTIC.—This most important part of the work has been pushed vigorously by Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Dunlap and Mr. Snyder, aided by Rev. John Carrington, agent of the American Bible Society. Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap made a long tour down the east coast of the Gulf of Siam, stopping at all the principal harbors on the way. They sailed in the Mission schooner "Kalamazoo" about 400 miles. travelled by canoes up rivers about 100 miles, and made long tramps across plains to inland villages. Everywhere they were cordially welcomed and found the results of teaching on former tours very gratifying. They found one man who had been studying the New Testament for a year and had committed large portions of Scripture to memory. He had evidently been led by the Holy Spirit through the Word. He had taught quite a company of his friends, some of whom accepted the Christian faith. The missionaries spent a week among the people of this town, not expecting to return again for another year. In another large province of 150,000 people they worked three weeks. Soon after returning from this tour, Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap made another tour of four and a half months on the Bay of Bengal side of Siam, Mr. Carrington again accompanying them. Two noblemen confessed faith in Christ and were baptized. A nobleman baptized on a former tour had since passed away. He was strong in the faith and died triumphant. As the end drew near, he and his Christian wife prepared his shroud and coffin with their own hands. He made sure of a Christian burial by fastening up a flag on the verandah of his house bearing the announcement that he would take leave of all his friends and neighbors, as he was going home to God. The flag was still floating on the day of his funeral.

In July, Dr. Dunlap and Mr. Snyder made a trip to Korat, the railway terminus of the longest railway line in Siam. They sold a large number of books. The people were friendly and listened to the preaching gladly. The Commissioner urged them to open a Station and offered aid in building a school and hospital. The government officials received them hospitably and made them welcome. They were favorably impressed with Korat as a mission centre for regions far and wide on all sides.

Later, Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap made a tour of the Nakawn region. One incident on the return voyage shows the power of the Gospel in those parts. On an island, a Christian nobleman had faithfully studied and taught the Word to a considerable company. After careful examination Dr. Dunlap baptized the nobleman's wife, son, daughter and nephew; also three others, one being the "village elder." They maintain among themselves regular Sunday services. Mr. Snyder has made trips at stated times by railway to Ayuthia and Paknam.

EDUCATIONAL.—Harriet M. House School for Girls. -The work of this school has been uninterrupted and brightened by many blessings. Last year Miss Bissell went to Pitsanuloke to engage in school work, and this year Miss Cole, the principal of this school, is to be at home on furlough. Miss Gault was transferred in January from the High School for Boys to assist Miss Cooper, the only experienced missionary left in this school. Miss Ednah Bruner has just been sent out as a welcome reinforcement. This school has a very high reputation among the Siamese. The Oueen has endowed prizes for general excellence, and the missionaries can determine the form in which these prizes may be bestowed. The Queen sent five girls to Japan to learn Japanese embroidery, one of these being selected from this school. Out of a class of sixteen who took the government examination for the fourth standard, eleven passed, an extraordinarily high percentage as compared with the government school pupils.

One of the former pupils of the school was in great sorrow because of the death of two of her children. She came out of her grief by calling together all the little children within easy distance of her home, and by starting a school in which she gives them several hours daily teaching. This is a Gospel triumph.

The number of boarders last year was 106, day pupils 14. As there are comfortable accommodations for only 96, more room is urgently needed.

The Christian Boys' High School.—This school has moved across the river to its new location. Many of the former students entered the day-school maintained at the old site. But the school opened at the new site with 70, and the number has since increased to 138, of whom 51 are boarders, while new boys are coming in every week.

As there is no church at present near enough for the students to attend, the plan of having Sunday-school all fore-noon on Sundays, with devotional exercises and a short sermon at 10 o'clock, has been adopted. The English Bible is the text-book for all but the two lowest classes. They translate the lesson into Siamese and commit a portion to memory. The experiment seems to be a success. When the announcement was made that Bibles were on sale, forty-seven copies were sold in less than fifteen minutes.

A meeting for young men is held at the school on Sunday evenings with a view to reach the old students and their friends. There is much quiet preparation going on for an aggressive campaign when the new church is opened.

There are four excellent Siamese teachers in the school, all graduates and Christian men. One of them is an elder in the First Church.

Miss Gault, until her transfer to the Girls' School, had all the classes in the sixth standard and one in the fifth, taught the whole school in vocal music and penmanship, and had entire charge of the first-class boarders in dormitory and dining-room. Mrs. Eakin takes care of the sick, has charge of the boarding department, and teaches three English classes.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin have recently been sent out to the work in this school and will soon be able to give much help. Dr. Eakin, the principal, and Mrs. Eakin are now at home on furlough. Mr. and Mrs. McClure, who have recently returned from furlough, will take charge of the school this year.

The day-school at Sumray, the old site, has sixty pupils enrolled. It is taught by two graduates of the Christian High School, one of whom is an elder in the First Church. Their work covers four standards and their tuition receipts amount to 100 ticals a month. This, compared with the government free schools, demonstrates that their work is appreciated.

Mission Press.—Before the manager, Mr. J. B. Dunlap, left for his furlough, the press was worked to its utmost capacity for more than a year. During his absence the manufacturing department has been closed. Mr. Snyder has had charge of the books and tracts, which were left in a very full stock. The old press, which had done much work for over twelve years, has been sold for more than two-thirds of the original cost. A new modern machine will replace it.

Mission Godown.-All the work of receiving and forwarding goods for the Laos and Siam Missions, the purchasing of supplies, and the necessary correspondence and bookkeeping fall now upon Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, assisted by a Siamese clerk. It is no light burden and will be added to the regular work of the Mission Press when it reopens.

PETCHABUREE STATION.

This Station has not been as strongly manned as usual. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, who have been on the field but three years, were left with the heavy care of the whole work of the Station for some time. Later, Dr. and Mrs. E. B. McDaniels, new missionaries, arrived and commenced work on the language and in the hospital.

EVANGELISTIC.—Regular Sunday services have been maintained in the church and in the market Thursdays and Fridays; also prayer services Sunday afternoons and Wednesday evenings. The Sunday-school, too, has been an instrument of much good. Kroo Songi has returned to the work of preaching and is doing good service. He expects to serve Christ in this way to the end of his life. Several short tours have been made by Mr. and Mrs. Jones and other tours by the natives. More names have been entered on the roll of the catechumens. Six have been baptized on confession of their faith, and two children of Christian parents were baptized.

Some of the Chinese in the city have become interested in Christianity. Most of the new members received for the last two years are Chinese. Their imperfect knowledge of Siamese and the missionaries' lack of the Chinese language make communication difficult; but the Chinese element in Siam furnishes some of the most stanch Christians we have.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Swart, who had charge of this work, was transferred to the new Station at Nakawn. Later in the year Dr. McDaniels was placed in charge. Daily devotional services have been conducted in the hospital and have been well attended. Sometimes the interest has been very manifest. Many have taken portions of the Scripture with them on their discharge. The in-patients numbered 34, surgical cases 31, medical cases 1443, dispensary patients 1477. The revenues have more than covered the expenses.

BOYS' SCHOOL.—This school has been making solid progress. Two teachers have been employed instead of one, and the number of pupils has increased, notwithstanding the free government schools. The revenues from tuition have increased, but not quite sufficient for self-support. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have the oversight of this school as well as all the evangelistic work of the Station.

Dr. Wachter has had charge of all the evangelistic and medical work of the Station. Mrs. Wachter has had charge of the educational work, and Mr. and Mrs. Post, who arrived Dec. 3, 1902, have been studying the language and people.

The new railway which passes through this place connects both with Petchaburee and Bangkok and will be of service in future itineration, as it traverses the most densely populated districts.

The recently adopted custom of closing the district and provincial offices and courts on Sunday has had a good effect and again demonstrates that the power of Christianity in Siam is being felt and that the sentiment of the people is more and more favorable to it.

EVANGELISTIC.—Preaching services and Sunday-school were conducted every Sabbath. The attendance of the school boys at both services was very good. Sometimes passing strangers would remain for part of the service. A mother and daughter were baptized, so that now the whole family is Christian.

MEDICAL.—The statistics show a slight increase over last year. The sales and prescriptions for ten months numbered 1809, operations 45, patients in the hospital 30, visits made 114. The receipts amounted to ticals 1704. The hospital patients with but very few exceptions were surgical cases. The attempt which was made to induce medical cases to enter the hospital has thus far not been very successful. The small, cheap building is no special inducement, yet from a religious and missionary point of view, the hospital is the place to become acquainted with both the patients and their friends. The dispensary is less adapted to religious work, but tracts have been sold to over 600 persons.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Suriwongse Boys' School has undergone several changes during the year. Mr. Cooper had it under his care until he left for Pitsanuloke, when Mrs. Wachter took charge. The old teacher, Kroo Koo, left during the hot vacation, and an undergraduate of the Christian High School was secured in his stead. An assistant pupil teacher was also employed. The older boys at first were somewhat indignant at the idea of submitting to such young teachers, but the numbers have kept up pretty well notwithstanding. Good work is being done. Ninety-two have been enrolled during the year, four of whom have entered the High School in Bangkok.

ITINERATION.—There are many populous districts north and south of this Station on the river and east and west on the railway line, but the missionary force is so small that not much itinerating can be done. Mr. Eckles, who first helped to open this Station, came up from Nakawn on a visit and thus made possible the only tour of the year. He and Mr. Post made this tour north and south on the river where a temple marks almost every bend in the river and where Mr. Eckles had in former years studied ways and means of establishing Christianity.

PITSANULOKE STATION.

At the beginning of the year a solitary family, Dr. and Mrs. Toy, were still holding this Station alone. But in February. 1903, Miss Bissell and Mr. and Mrs. Cooper arrived to share in the work of the Station. Building operations have necessarily consumed a great deal of the time of both men. But now they have two habitable houses. Sufficient funds have also been contributed by the Siamese Christians to put up a neat roadside chapel on the front of the compound. This building, too, is well under way. Dr. Toy has raised on the field 1600 ticals for a hospital building and 600 more for furnishing it, with other subscriptions pledged, but not yet collected, for 1200 ticals more, a total to date of 2800 ticals. Work on this building has also begun. Rigid economy, with only farmer carpenters, has made close supervision necessary.

EVANGELISTIC.—The evangelistic work has been confined to the services held at the Station. A Sunday preaching service, a midweek prayer meeting and the Sunday-school were maintained. The attendance of the employees and pupils was fairly regular. The building operations necessarily prevented general touring. But itinerating will be undertaken as soon as possible, for this Station is now the centre of a wide circle of populous and important cities, and should be pre-eminently a touring centre.

SCHOOL WORK.—The removal to Bangkok of Mr. Boon-Itt, who had been identified with the school from the beginning, the subsequent uncertainty as to the future, and finally the closing of the school before the appointment of Mr. Cooper to take permanent charge, have caused the Padoorig Rartsadawn School to suffer serious loss of prestige and patronage. Pupils have been slow in coming back. But the school is gaining steadily, though not rapidly, and the only losses thus far are due to sickness. The enrollment is 18, of whom 11 are boarders. The patrons of this school are mostly of the official or wealthy class. The desire for English among the common people is not so great as at the southern Stations. A large Buddhist temple school across the river, in a most central location, with books and tuition both free, is crowded with the sons of the common people. Only Siamese is taught there. It is difficult to compete successfully for day pupils with the priest teachers of this Buddhist government school, and to secure as boarders any but the children of the well-to-do. Christian instruction and devotional exercises are always a feature of our schools.

MEDICAL.—The dispensary work continues to increase, both in the number of applicants and in the amount of receipts. For the year ending July 31, 1903, over 4000 prescriptions were dispensed, several hundred of visits made, and the revenues amounted to 3254 ticals. Dr. Toy also had charge of the provincial prison work during the cholera epidemic, and later, when cholera broke out at Uteradit, went, at the request of Prince Damrong, Minister of the Interior, to make an inspection of prison, police and soldiers there. The only cloud to dim the prospects of this work is the approaching necessity of a home furlough for Dr. and Mrs. Toy.

WOMEN'S WORK.—Mrs. Toy has supervised the medical work whenever her husband was away, and with Mrs. Cooper has had charge of the music for the religious services. Miss Bissell was prevented by serious illness during the greater part of the year from taking active part in the work of the Station. During the latter part of the year she superintended the boarding department of the school, conducted kindergarten lessons twice a week, and spent considerable time in Sunday-school work and visiting from house to house.

NAKAWN STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckles, who had heroically held this Station alone so much of the time, were cheered by the arrival of Dr. Swart, Jan. 1, 1903. Later, Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap visited the Station and helped in the work for more than a month.

BUILDINGS.—The physician's house has now been completed and both houses are as comfortable as it was possible to make them with the limited appropriation and a donation of 1000 ticals from Mr. and Mrs. Eckles. A third house and another family are urgently needed. Funds are being collected for the new memorial Hospital. The readiness of friends to join in this work has been a grateful surprise. Dr. E. P. Dunlap, whose wide acquaintance with influential Siamese is ever useful, rendered valuable aid in securing funds. Several wards will be made up of memorial beds.

His Majesty the King has kindly donated a plot of ground for a Christian cemetery.

EDUCATIONAL.—The school continued until the long vacation in March, but has not been opened since, because of the small number of pupils in sight, and the increasing medical work, which made it necessary for the physician to have extra help, and the only efficient helper available was Kroo Chang, the teacher of the school. It is not the purpose, however, to abandon educational work, and next year it is hoped to have a good school.

MEDICAL.—Shortly after Dr. Swart's arrival the dispensary was removed from the small room in the rear of the chapel to a more prominent place in the original cottage. There, small rooms were fitted up as wards for inpatients. This work has continued to grow steadily. During eight months 6115 patients have been treated, 35 inpatients have been received, 249 visits to homes have been made, and 7368 prescriptions have been filled. There have been 13 major and a large number of minor operations performed, and 308 persons have been vaccinated. Daily morning prayers have been conducted with all patients. More efficient work in this line can be done when the new hospital is completed.

The receipts have been over 500 ticals per month.

EVANGELISTIC.—The regular Sunday services have been fairly well attended and growth in the spiritual life of the believers is manifest. In April Mr. Eckles made a tour to Bandon and the Fa Chu regions, where a number of the Christians live, and spent six weeks among them. At Fa Chu he found a new chapel built through the efforts of a good elder there. In August, Dr. Swart spent a week at Singora, the capital of the Nakawn district, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap. They were very hospitably entertained by the High Commissioner, held daily services, disposed of a quantity of medicines and many portions of Scripture and Christian tracts, and were urged to come again. Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap also made a week's visit to Fa-wak, another of our Christian communities, and there baptized six adults. Colporteur Kroo Boon also disposed of a goodly number of Scriptures and Christian tracts. Four communion services have been held, two at Nakawn, one at Fa Chu, and one at Fa-mak; eighteen have been received into the church, two by letter; two infants have been baptized. Among those received at the home church at Nakawn are four wives of men who have been members of the church for several years.

THE LAOS MISSION.

CHIENG MAI: on the Me Ping River, about a month and a half by Laos boat, or 600 miles north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1867. Missionaries—Rev. Daniel McGilvary, D.D., and Mrs. McGilvary, Rev. D. G. Collins and Mrs. Collins, J. W. McKean, M.D., and Mrs. McKean, Rev. Howard Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Rev. C. H. Denman, M.D., and Mrs. Denman, Rev. J. H. Freeman and Mrs. Freeman, Rev. William Harris, Jr., and Mrs. Harris, Miss Margaret A. McGilvary and Miss E. M. Buck.

LAKAWN: on the Me Wang River, four days' land journey or 65 miles southeast of Lakawn; occupied as a Mission Station 1893. Mis-Missionaries—Rev. Jonathan Wilson, D.D., Rev. Hugh Taylor, D.D., and Mrs. Taylor, C. C. Hansen, M.D., and Mrs. Hansen, Rev. C. L. MacKay, Miss Kate N. Fleeson.

Pre: on the Me Yom River, four days' land journey or about 65 miles southeast of Lakawn; occupied as a Mission Station 1893. Missionaries—Rev. J. S. Thomas, M.D., and Mrs. Thomas, Rev. Robert Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, M.D., and Rev. Roderick Gillies.

NAN: on the Me Nan River, five days' land journey or about 80 miles northeast of Pre; occupied as a Mission Station 1894. Missionaries—Rev. S. C. Peoples, M.D., and Mrs. Peoples, Rev. David Park and Mrs. Park, Rev. Henry White and Mrs. White.

CHIENG RAI: on the Me Kok River, eight days' land journey or 110 miles, a little east of north Chieng Mai; occupied as a Mission Station 1897. Missionaries—Rev. W. A. Briggs, M.D., and Mrs. Briggs, and Rev. Howell S. Vincent and Mrs. Vincent.

CHIENG TUNG: in the Shan States (British), north of Chieng Rai; occupied as a Station 1903. Missionaries—The Rev. W. C. Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, the Rev. C. R. Callender and Mrs. Callender, Dr. H. C. Cornell and Mrs. Cornell.

IN THIS COUNTRY: The Rev. J. S. Thomas, M.D., and Mrs. Thomas, Rev. Hugh Taylor, D.D., and Mrs. Taylor, Rev. Wm. Harris and Mrs. Harris.

The missionaries write: "We give God praise for good health of most of our circle, for a happy home, for ten times as much work as we can do alone, for earnest, true-hearted Laos Christians who are growing in numbers and in Christian character, and for His continued presence with us at all times." And yet the year has been a trying one in many ways. Furlough absences seriously depleted the already scanty force. Chieng Mai had only two-thirds her usual force of workers. Pre and Chieng Rai had but one family each. The other two Stations, Lakawn and Nan, have had more nearly their usual number of missionaries, but in Lakawn the work has suffered from distractions caused by famine and from the loss of two of the best native workers, one by death, the other by removal, while in Nan the difficulties were multiplied by much extra work incident to the medical treatment of hundreds of sick and injured Siamese soldiers. All the Stations, too, have been more or less affected by the civil disturbances of the preceding year. While the missionaries have generally enjoyed good health, they were called upon to administer to the needs of Mrs. Thomas in her prolonged illness and to bury one of their number, Mrs. McKay, who is not, for God took her, so that altogether the year has been one of distraction and unusual hardship.

Nevertheless, visible results are not wanting, as will be seen in the reports of the various Stations. There were added on confession of faith 189. Four new chapels have been built, two are in course of construction, and others are in contemplation. Over 20,000 persons have been treated at the five hospitals and dispensaries; 6500 visits have been made; about 1000 hospital patients have been cared for; 250 major operations performed; 6000 persons successfully vaccinated, and 30,000 rupees ($0000) taken in as receipts at the medical department of the various Stations. The printing press has turned out over 424,000 pages of religious literature and 1,600,000 pages of job work, and the receipts amount to 17,000 rupees ($5100). In the boarding schools the missionaries have had direct oversight of over 300 pupils, not including village schools. There has been the usual amount of treasury and other clerical work, as well as considerable building. Touring-evangelistic work has been pushed with ardor wherever possible, although this phase of the work has especially suffered on account of the depletion of forces.

These visible results appear to be quite sufficient to tax to the utmost the strength of the missionaries, whose numbers were so comparatively small during the past year; but to get an adequate impression of the workers' position one must read between the lines the details of the work which cannot well be embraced in a report: caring for the sick, body and soul; translating and preparing Sunday-school lessons even while out touring or doing medicine work; settling disputes among native Christians; writing letters of advice to Christians and churches; attending to household duties (for women have to keep house there as well as in America), and attending to other things too numerous to catalogue. The apostle Paul, speaking from his experience, expressed it exactly: "Besides these things that are without, is that which presseth upon me daily, anxiety for all the churches."

In spite of the depletion of the forces the work has, on the whole, advanced appreciably, and in some phases of the work there is marked change for the better. As Dr. Briggs writes: "One thing has impressed itself upon our mind during this year, viz., the success resulting from the work done locally by the Laos Christians, with the power of the Holy Spirit. It humbles us to have it made so evident that God can use other service than ours to carry out His plans. And it encourages us, on the other hand, to believe that whether or not we have American comrades during another year, the work of the Lord will go on. To Him be the praise."

The degree of growth in Christian character is most encouraging, and this is what counts for most, after all. Whatever may be said of the visible results that appear in statistical tables in the developing of true manhood and womanhood, for which visible results are not a safe criterion, the Laos missionaries have been eminently successful. In the reports from the field there is abundant evidence that the mission has been heroically working out its highest destiny in molding lives for the Kingdom of God. That becoming a Christian in Laos does not mean simply a change in religious form—the same person under another name—but a new creation, there is ample testimony in these reports. Systematic giving to the support of the mission institutions, consecration of their time and substance to the Lord, benevolent gifts to the poorer and weaker brethren, voluntary sacrifice and suffering for His sake—these are some of the evidences of genuine Christian character.

For the most part we will let the reports speak for themselves. They tell something of the work and the aims of the Mission, and they bear unmistakable witness to the power that comes from touch with the living Christ who not only imparts happiness, but also gives capacity for sacrifice and suffering. All the reports are full of interest; some are freighted with news graphically told, full of pathos, yet hopeful. Through them all rings out a clarion note, "Come over into Laos and help us."

CHIENG MAI STATION.

For two years this Station has been very inadequately manned. The latter part of last year the forces were increased by the return of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman from their furlough, and by the arrival of Mr. Roderick Gillies, a new missionary. But Mr. and Mrs. Collins, Dr. and Mrs. McKean and Mr. and Mrs. Harris were absent on furlough, and in June Miss I. A. Griffin left, after twenty-one years of faithful service. Her resignation, on account of ill health, is deeply regretted by the Board and the Mission. The return of most of those on furlough makes a brigher outlook for the ensuing year.

The friendly attitude of the Siamese Government toward our Mission is indicated in the following words:

When the writer of this report was in Bangkok near the close of last year, he was told by His Royal Highness, Prince Damrong, Minister of the Interior, that he was very glad to have the missionaries here, believed us to be a great benefit to the country and only wished there were more of us. The attitude of the present High Commissioner and of the Siamese and Laos officials at Chieng Mai has been very similar to that of His Majesty the King and the Minister of the Interior. While we do not rely upon human power for the success of our work, we nevertheless must see reason for gratitude to God in the fact that He has inclined the hearts of the rulers so largely to us and to our work.

EVANGELISTIC.—Touring work has been carried on with vigor so far as the depleted force would allow. While all of the ten churches have been visited, few could receive very close oversight.

The Chieng Mai church has been under the joint supervision of Mr. Campbell and Dr. McGilvary; 49 have been added on confession. An important addition was made to the church lot at a cost of 930 rupees contributed by the missionaries and native Christians. Oversight of the other nine churches was divided between the missionaries; 37 were added to these churches, making 86 within the bounds of Chieng Mai Station.

None have been more active in the touring work than Dr. McGilvary. His personal report is so full of vim and enthusiasm in describing his evangelistic work as to give no suspicion that he is in his 75th year. He and Dr. Wilson are still as young in spirit as the youngest. Dr. McGilvary writes:

The most encouraging part of the work lies in the character of the native Christians. On one Friday evening we stopped at the house of a native Christian and were informed that a few days before he had sold some buffaloes and some grain and with the Lord's portion of the proceeds had hired a neighboring Christian to go out and tell the Gospel story in some villages where the name of Jesus was not yet known. On the following Monday we held a service in the home of a family who had been led to accept Christ through the efforts of the evangelist sent out by this same humble Christian.

Another example of faithful witness-bearing was that of a Christian located so remotely from other Christians that we had been anxious lest he be led off into heathenism. But early in this year we learned that he was endeavoring to lead some of his neighbors to Christ. A month later he came to invite the missionary to go and conduct a service in the house of a family who had decided to accept Christ. * * * Now we have a substantial Christian community of seven families there and a small contribution has already been made toward the erection of a chapel where a year ago we had only a single Christian. With such an evangelistic spirit as this even among a limited number of our Christians the Gospel is bound to spread.

Recently the members of the church invited all the poor people of the neighborhood to come and receive a contribution of rice. A large number came and a generous supply of rice was given away, as it was the time of year when rice is scarcest and dearest and poor people are apt to suffer most. As the recipients were almost all non-Christians the elders took advantage of the occasion to preach to the people, and seven sermons were delivered in close succession. The natives did all of this at their own suggestion and their own expense.

A new and profitable departure was a convention of Laos Christians in the mother Station. Hundreds of Christians, representing the ten churches, attended. Several days were spent in devotional services, Bible study and conference regarding vital questions affecting the progress of Christianity in this land. All favor having a similar convention during the coming year.

EDUCATIONAL.—Both the Boys' and Girls' Schools have had a very successful year's work. There have been substantial gains, both in the number of the pupils and in the degree of self-support.

Although Mr. Freeman has had charge of four churches, he has given his best efforts to the Boys' School. Not a little time has been spent in preparing material for the new school building. The receipts for the Boys' School are as large as during any previous year, and considering that the rice crop was short, this can be regarded as a real gain. It is the rule that each boy old enough to work, whose parents are unable to pay a rupee per month for board and tuition, shall work enough out of term time to pay that sum to the school, provided we can furnish him the work. A modest plan of industrial work was suggested whose purpose is to keep the boys under the direct influence of the missionary more consecutively and longer than is now possible, and to obviate the disadvantage of giving outright to boys that for which they should and can give some fair equivalent.

The opening of a satisfactory primary school in Chieng Mai at the church made it possible to refuse day pupils unable to read, so that more attention could be given to the higher grades. Two new primary village schools have been started as feeders for the boarding schools.

Owing to the return to America of Miss Griffin the entire burden of the Girls' School fell upon Miss McGilvary. In writing of Miss Griffin's departure, Miss McGilvary says:

We miss Miss Griffin very much. It would be interesting to know how many girls she taught in all those years, but we shall never know in this world the number of lives she touched and influenced. She had the privilege of teaching the second generation—daughters of her former pupils. We are waiting eagerly to welcome Miss Buck, who is now on her way to us.

Miss McGilvary speaks in the highest terms of the three native teachers. Ten girls won the Bible as prizes for committing to memory passages of Scripture. Perhaps the best thing that could be said of any school is contained in the following:

Our hearts were rejoiced by the fact that nineteen girls expressed a desire to make a public confession of their faith in Christ. Fifteen met with the Session for the first time but were not quite prepared, so are to receive further instruction before being received into the various churches from which they have come.

In the city a primary school has been opened with an attendance of 46, with two competent native teachers, supported and managed entirely by the natives themselves. Their plan is to keep on with the school at least eight months of the year, teaching only the first two grades, and thus acting as a feeder for the Boys' School and the Girls' School, not as a rival to them.

The Training School for Christian Workers was in session for four weeks. The total enrollment was 60, from 36 different villages.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Denman has had his hands more than full, not only of medical duties, but of other matters which rendered it impossible for him to answer calls farther out of the city than two miles. The nurses at the hospital have done faithful evangelistic work among the patients. During the year more than 1000 tracts have been given out through the medical work, hundreds often being distributed by vaccinators in out villages where a missionary seldom, if ever, has been. A special effort has been made to have these men teach as much as possible as they went from house to house. Of the 96 vaccinators, 30 attended the session of the Training School held in September.

While thousands are treated bodily every year, the aim of this department is for spiritual ends. Since the long-cherished hope of having two physicians in this Station seems about to be realized, more extensive plans are being made. Among other plans are regular visits to Lampun, closer oversight of those who act as dispensers in out villages, the beginning of a medical class, and a newer evangelism.

Our Chieng Mai friends have generously contributed to the enlargement of the hospital wards 8000 rupees in cash, besides timber whose market value is 12,900 rupees, or nearly $7000 gold altogether. This is striking proof of the popular appreciation of the hospital.

LITERARY.—The literary work done by various members of the Station comprises preparation of the Sunday-school lessons and the monthly "Christian News"; revision of Laos hymns and MSS. of Medieval History; and revision of Scripture translation, to which Mrs. McGilvary has devoted much of her time.

MISSION PRESS.—In the absence of the manager, Mr. Collins, the press has been under the joint management of Mr. Gillies and Mr. Denman. As Mr. Gillies was in his first year's experience and Mr. Denman had charge of the medical work—with which his hands were more than full—it can readily be seen that the press work was conducted at a great disadvantage. Still, on the whole, the printing has been quite well done, and the amount accomplished compares favorably with that in preceding years. Seventeen workmen were employed. The larger part of the output, as heretofore, has consisted of job work for the government and others. Among the publications for the Mission are a second edition of Philippians and of Bible stories, and another 5000 edition of Child's Catechism, also copies of the Laos News and S. S. Helps to the amount of 137,939 pages. The total number of pages of religious literature is 424,169. The job work amounted to 1,619,043 pages.

LAKAWN STATION.

At the beginning of the year Dr. Taylor and his family were alone. But in November Dr. Wilson and Miss Fleeson returned, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. MacKay, who were gladly welcomed to this their first mission home. In December Dr. and Mrs. Hansen arrived from furlough. The working force was then complete, and the various branches were taken up with renewed energy.

The new missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. MacKay, had before them not only anticipated pleasure in their new work, but also sorrow and bereavement, for in November (1903) Mrs. MacKay suddenly died. Brief as was her life upon the field, she had made a deep impression upon all who met her. Dr. Taylor writes that all who knew her regarded her as a sweet and noble Christian woman, who was making good progress in language study, who had already won the love of both natives and associates, and who gave large promise of missionary efficiency.

The rice crop for the past two years has been almost a failure, occasioning great hardship to the natives, especially to the lower classes, and making the work much more difficult for the missionaries. This condition, however, has given opportunity for benevolence among those Christians better favored. Besides a contribution from the foreign residents in Bangkok for the purpose of relieving the natives, when the Christians in Chieng Mai and Chieng Rai learned of the distress among their brethren in Lakawn they also made a generous contribution towards the help of the poor Christians here.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Lakawn church is thriving. Eleven were added on confession and 21 infants were baptized. The offerings for the year were over 622 rupees.

The church is self-supporting, the contributions, after paying the running expenses of the church amounted to one-fifth more than enough to pay all the evangelistic workers we could find for the season. The people fell very little behind their usual offering notwithstanding the difficulty they had in finding enough to eat. They seem to feel the obligation of the contribution basket and will divide a breakfast in order to have a penny for it when they would not think of doing so to pay a debt.

In January Dr. and Mrs. Taylor and children, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. MacKay, started on a tour through some of the villages to the south and west in the province. More than forty villages were reached and the work was encouraging in almost every place. In some of the larger towns several hundred persons were earnest listeners to the Gospel. In the absence of Dr. Taylor, Dr. Wilson conducted the usual services at the Station.

EDUCATIONAL.—The usual sessions were held by the Boys' and Girls' Schools. In the absence of Dr. Taylor the second term of the Boys' School was wholly in the hands of the native teachers, and the attendance was consequently much smaller than it otherwise would have been. This term was practically a day-school. The extreme high price of rice accounts for the heavy item of expense in the boarding department. The same reason also accounts for the great falling off in the receipts for board and tuition.

Miss Fleeson writes of the Girls' School:

Our long-delayed girls' school building is now being erected. This has been made possible by the generous gift of enough teak logs to furnish lumber for the building. The money granted by the Board is scarcely sufficient to pay for the sawing and constructing. We gratefully acknowledge our thanks to those companies which have come to our aid. Some new text-books in Siamese were introduced and the girls of the highest grade have finished all the Laos books used in any of our schools and can pass a most creditable examination in them.

The influence of Dr. Wilson has been felt in the Girls'

School as well as elsewhere. In his personal report Dr. Wilson writes:

During the terms of the girls' school I had the pleasant privilege of teaching the girls to sing the Laos hymns. They have learned to sing well many of the Laos tunes in the new tune book. I have often wished that the people of our churches in America could stand with me and look into the faces of these school girls, some of whom are mere tots, and take in the deeply interested expression of face and bright eyes as well as the full sweet voice of the singers. Often in passing along we hear the voices of these hymns in the homes of the village, some of these homes as yet pagan or Buddhist. I can see it more and more that a most important part of our Mission work is the training of the children to read, write and sing. I do not mean this as a secular training, but as a Gospel one.

Dr. Wilson has also reviewed his translation of the book of Isaiah, in which he has taken great delight, and he has been able to teach his Bible class in the Sunday-school as usual and to act as chorister in the Sunday services.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Hansen reports:

This is the only hospital and dispensary in a city with a surrounding district having a population of 200,000, hence it may be readily seen what great need it supplies in relieving pain and distress, and the influence it wields for the kingdom of Christ in this land cannot be estimated. Often we are told: if you had not been here my husband or wife or child would have died. Much has been said of the fatalism of the East, but there is the same clinging to life and desire for relief from pain and deformity as in more civilized lands. The aim of our hospital work has been to humbly follow the footsteps of the Master in healing the sick and speaking to them of the kingdom of God. To this end the hospital and dispensary are open, and access to the physician to be had at all hours. The physician is aided by willing native assistants, and every effort is made to make this department do its share in the evangelization of the Laos people. The number of hospital patients was 220, attendance at dispensary and clinics 7,150, out-patients 1,200, number of operations 74.

PRE STATION.

This Station has been manned by one family only—Dr. J. S. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas. Through many trials and difficulties they have bravely labored for the Kingdom. Effects of the civil disturbances of the previous year, famine among the natives and the severe and prolonged illness of Mrs. Thomas stand out in bold relief. Her condition became so alarming that all hope of recovery on the field had to be abandoned, and they were forced to return to America.

EVANGELISTIC.—"But with all this," writes Dr. Thomas, "we can still look back upon the year with grateful hearts for the bright things in our work, and thank God for all His mercies." There were added on confession of faith 30, and 22 children were baptized, making 160 on the church roll and over 100 living baptized children. One hundred and fifty-nine rupees have been contributed, which will be used in evangelistic work and repairs, 13 having been spent for the poor fund. It has been impossible to do any extended touring. Still, all the Christian villages have been visited, and many other villages have heard the Gospel through native helpers. This is the work that suffers most by the single family system.

EDUCATIONAL.—The school is encouraging. Thirty-five children have been enrolled, with an average attendance of 22, during more than five months. Mrs. Thomas had oversight of the school until her illness. Ten little children have learned to read, and have thus received each a complete Laos Bible, which they appreciate. They have already learned about 100 of the choicest Bible verses. During the famine the people gave 22 rupees and 10 buckets of rice.

MEDICAL.—The first of the year the medical work was very heavy, as Dr. Thomas had charge of the soldiers' hospital in the city. Besides this, more than 130 patients have been in the Mission hospital, 1800 visits have been made to the sick, and about 4000 people have received medical aid at the dispensary. The receipts for the year were 2115 rupees.

NAN STATION.

In November, 1902, the force of this Station was recruited by the coming of Mr. and Mrs. White. Both had severe attacks of fever during the early part of the year, but during the latter part they have had good health. In July serious illhealth forced Mr. and Mrs. Park to leave for a furlough in America, where she is now, gradually gaining in strength.

Dr. Peoples, at the earnest solicitation of the Siamese Government, spent considerable time away from the Station in the relief of a large number of sick soldiers and in making inspection of the army posts.

EVANGELISTIC.—The church was under the care of Mr. Park until he left, and then Dr. Peoples had charge during the rest of the year. Owing to the impossibility of much missionary pastoral work, the members were drawn into service of this kind. The members of the church were divided into sections, with an appointed member at the head of each section, who was furnished with a class book, with all the names of the persons in his section enrolled. It was his duty to record the name of any one absent from a public service. During that week he should call upon that person and learn the cause of absence. In case of sickness he should promptly report to one of the elders or the pastor. These leaders meet with the Session once a month and report on their sections. Any person absent on two successive Sundays without adequate excuse is subject to censure before the congregation. How would that plan work in America? It is a success in Laos.

Substantial growth is noted both in numbers and character. Twenty-five have been received into the communion, and 19 infants have been baptized during the year. In the adult membership there has been an increase of 32 per cent. on the whole enrollment of the church. Two hundred and fifty-six ticals (about $85) have been contributed by the congregation. Out of this sum was paid the salary of a native minister in the northern part of the province for six months. This congregation now proposes to raise 1000 rupees for a new church.

No itinerating, as such, has been done during the year, for the Station force has been so small that there has been no one free to undertake touring.

EDUCATIONAL.—A school has been begun in Nan on a broad foundation. Thirty-six boys were enrolled, under the management of Mr. Park. The teaching has been wholly in the Siamese. One of the attractive features was the military drill which was kindly given by one of the officers of the Gendarmes. This added much to the prestige of the school.

The government is beginning to establish schools in the city, to which all are admitted. Our school is not in any sense established in opposition to these schools; but rather to co-operate with them. The church dare not neglect the care of her children; neither can she afford to leave their education to outside agencies. If we establish a school at all, we must conduct such a one as will commend itself to the public, and compare favorably with similar institutions.

MEDICAL.—A new feature has developed in the medical work which has occupied much of the physician's time. Dr. Peoples writes:

In January the Commander-in-Chief of the Siamese army appealed to me, through the Nan Commissioner, to go to the relief of the soldiers in Chienk Kam, many of whom were ill with fever. I consented to go and remain for a month, taking a supply of medicines from the Mission dispensary. I found the condition pitiable in the extreme. As soon as an inspection of the camp could be made 378 cases were enrolled on the sick list; many of them very ill indeed. In some of the companies scarcely an able-bodied man was left for duty. It was a great pleasure to serve these poor fellows. They were tractable and appreciative of what was done for them, and the officers did all in their power to assist me. The work developed, and it became necessary to have different arrangements, and in the future I am to receive compensation for work done in the employ of the Siamese Government for the soldiers. I am in no sense under the control of the Government, except so far as the work involved may make demands upon my time. I am free to pursue my regular Mission work as I may have opportunity. This arrangement will require my closer confinement within easy call of the Station; but the advancement it will be to the medical work, and the valuable service rendered to the Government, are regarded as compensation for this limitation. The receipts for the current year, thus far, are about 1,200 ticals.

Nan Station will become the center of a very large work, owing to the vast extent of territory to the north, east and south still untouched by missionary effort. The control of the very encouraging work among the Kamu tribes in French territory will probably be looked after from this Station. Dr. Peoples pleads for another minister for this work.

"This equipment is not only for the many interests of the large province of Nan. We look to the North, to the East, and to the South, and there is no one there. We must go to them. Send us a man: a man who is ready 'to fill up on his part that which is lacking of the afflictions of Christ in his flesh for His Body's sake, which is the Church."

CHIENG RAI STATION.

For two years this Station has been limited to Dr. and Mrs. Briggs, as the other two families have been seeking renewal of health in America. The one family, sustained by the grace of God, has been enabled to accomplish many things in His name, although many golden opportunities have been unseized because of lack of workers.

EVANGELISTIC.—The out-stations have been without direct oversight, owing to the depleted condition of the Station force. At present there are twelve regular out-stations, and the work is constantly expanding. Dr. Briggs writes:

It is our aim to have, in time, a specially trained elder who can act as leader in each out-station. * * * * It is important also that a man in each out-station be trained in the use of remedies for the principal diseases found in this country; and that he be given charge of a supply of medicines for sale at specific prices. It is also our endeavor to have a chapel in each out-station where we have Christians. These must be built by the Christians themselves. Consecrated to God, they are a centripetal and centrifugal power of Christian influence in each community. These policies point to work done in the past, as well as to present working plans; and the past year has seen advance along these lines.

In the three churches 37 were received on confession, and a number of others could have been admitted had there been sufficient missionary force to look carefully after the spiritual interests of the people and answer the claims of inquirers. In Chieng Sen alone are 37 catechumens waiting for the missionary to examine. In all the out-stations healthy growth is seen both as to numbers and activity. Several new chapels have been built. Dr. Briggs writes:

"Bang Pong Prabat Christians built without missionary assistance, a chapel for themselves during the dry season. While the chapel was building, Mrs. Briggs took her children and lived at the village, right at the chapel lot. In the daytime she gathered the native children into school and met visitors from the neighboring villages. In the evening she taught the 'grown-ups' reading and singing. An elder vaccinating in that section gave help in evangelistic work and Sabbath services. A young man originally from Lakawn helped in teaching. Dr. Briggs came out to the dedication services. A large crowd of people were gathered to hear. In fact many of them had helped gratuitously to build the chapel. It was again proved that the presence of a temple goes a long way in attracting people to 'the true religion.' In Muang Pan one of the first disciples there, a young married man, is a veritable apostle. Through his agency nine adults have been received into full church communion.

The following illustrates the mettle of the native Christians:

One of the best Chieng Rai elders, blessed with a noble wife and a fine family of Christian children, left the home in Chieng Rai, for the specific purpose of preaching the Gospel by word and life in that district (Muang Tung). The elder's rice field and house belong to the church, but he receives no salary unless the church should hire him, as any other elder, to do itinerating work at some distance from his new home. No truer missionaries ever left their home for Christ's sake. When the neighboring population stampeded on account of the Shan raids, this elder and family STAYED and encouraged two or three other families to stay with them. The Siamese officer was so pleased that he showed the elder and those with him some special kindnesses, which were gratefully appreciated. The elder's example eventually brought back a number to their homes, and he has become a power for good in that community. At one time, after severe exposure in looking after others, he was taken seriously ill, and for days was unconscious; his wife and children expecting him to take leave of them. A messenger from the missionary arrived just after the elder had regained consciousness. He immediately dictated a letter for his son to write to the missionary: 'Do not be anxious about us. God has kept us. We are happy here. Ask the brethren to pray for the increase of God's kingdom here,' Not a grumble. Not a whine. Not a word about famine. When later a messenger happened along with numerous bundles of peppers and salt and other delicacies, sent by Chieng Rai city Christians, the elder sent back word: 'We thank you all truly, I cannot find words to tell you what my heart wants to say. Please read together next Sabbath morning Phil. 1: 1-20.'

On self-propagation let the following suffice:

On a recent Sabbath afternoon, thirty city Christians walked out in a body to a village, four miles distant, and held a service, inviting the neighbors to "come and listen." The neighbors came gladly and heard the Word. One old man said: "I have been to many temples, but I never heard religion explained until to-day. If this is religion I want to know more about it."

While there were no visits made to the Mountain People, many came to visit the missionary in his home, and there received many a Gospel message. Mrs. Briggs has given much attention to these visitors.

EDUCATIONAL.—The day-school in the city, under the oversight of Mrs. Briggs, has been carried on, as usual, and is self-supporting. The study of Siamese has been added this year. Educational ideals rise higher with each year, and it is important that day-schools be started in each out-station; but this and many other phases of work cannot properly be conducted without direct missionary oversight. The work of turning a temporary house into a permanent one has occupied many odd moments. Dr. Briggs has also spent a large amount of time on revising the Laos hymns, and he prepared the Sunday-school Lesson Helps for six months of the year.

MEDICAL.—The Siamese soldiers have given considerable work, in which two native assistants were a great help. The "department" has been almost self-supporting, notwithstanding all the receipts come from the natives; no Europeans, save the missionary family, living there.

THE REGIONS BEYOND.

With only one family at the Station, the encouraging work among the Ka Mu tribes in French territory has received no missionary oversight this year. Although these thirsty people have been crying for the living God for years, it is only since 1897 that our Mission has come in touch with them.

CHIENG TUNG STATION.

Another most interesting field lies to the north in British Laos territory. For ten years the Laos Mission has been engaged in work in the region of Chieng Tung, through missionary tours in that region and brief stays in the city of Chieng Tung, both by foreign and native workers, and we have long desired to establish at that point a strong Station. This long-cherished desire is now being realized. In April, 1903, the Board took action authorizing the opening of this field on a permanent basis, part of which is as follows:

We also recommend that the Rev. and Mrs. W. Clifton Dodd and the Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Callender be appointed to open a station at Chieng Tung, and that they be authorized to secure special funds and two new men to take their places in their former Stations, in order that a new Station may be opened at Chieng Tung, without crippling the present Stations of the Laos Mission or interfering with other work already established by the Board.

Funds have been raised sufficient to begin the new Station, and the substitute families have been found. Dr. and Mrs. Howard Cornell were appointed to this new field, and they and Mr. and Mrs. Dodd, accompanied by Mr. Dodd's substitute on the old field, Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Vincent, sailed from San Francisco October 31. The two families appointed to Chieng Tung will proceed to the new field as fast as possible, and Mr. and Mrs. Callender will follow as soon as Mrs. Callender's health will permit.

Chieng Tung is a very promising field, and it is to be hoped that the Kingdom of God will come speedily for those most interesting people who know not the Lord. The mission-aries under appointment to this new field ask the prayers of all God's people that the foundations may be laid broad and deep.

MISSIONS IN SOUTH AMERICA.

CENTRAL BRAZIL MISSION.

Bahla: founded 1871; 729 miles northeast of Rio de Janeiro. Missionaries—Rev. W. A. Waddell and Mrs. Waddell, Miss Williamson, Rev. W. E. Finley and Mrs. Finley.

CACHOEIRA: founded 1873; 45 miles west of Bahia. Missionaries: Rev. H. J. McCall, Mrs. G. W. Chamberlain and Miss M. B. Axtell.

SERGIPE: founded 1886; the State north of Bahia. Missionaries: At Aracaju—Miss A. B. McPherson. At Estancia—Rev. C. E. Bixler and Mrs. Bixler.

VILLA NOVA DA RAINHA: founded 1900; 250 miles north of Bahia. Missionaries—Rev. Pierce Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain.

AT HOME: Mrs. Finley.

The field of the Central Brazil Mission covers the two great States of Bahia and Sergipe and portions of Goyaz and Minas Geraes, with an area of approximately 400,000 square miles and a population of 3,000,000. The field of the Southern Brazil Mission covers in the south the three States of Sao Paulo, Parana and Santa Catharina.

During the year, the Rev. George Alexander, D.D., visited the Missions in Brazil in behalf of the Board and a few paragraphs from his report will describe the general condition of the country economically and religiously:

A few general observations concerning the land and the people may serve to give a better understanding of our Mission work. The Tropic of Capricorn divides the city of Sao Paulo. Nine-tenths of the territory of Brazil lies within the Torrid Zone, where the exuberance of nature discourages the exertions of man and at the same time diminishes the incentives to labor. The resources of the country, agricultural, pastoral and mineral, are almost unlimited, yet it is now passing through a period of great industrial depression and distress. In large sections of Bahia, Ceara and some other States, denudation of forests and thriftless husbandry have induced or aggravated desolating drought and famine, driving the wretched people back on the congested centres of population and destroying many. Mrs. Pierce Chamberlain told me that one time they had to bring their drinking water a distance of eight miles. In other sections the cost of transportation eats up the value of products. Pernambuco and adjoining States have been impoverished by the low price of sugar, while the States of Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, which a few years ago were rapidly enriched by the development of coffee culture, have glutted the markets of the world and are selling the crop below the cost of production. News of destructive frosts are now greeted with ringing of bells and blowing of trumpets. In many places the crop is left ungathered, and the laborers, who were brought from Europe at the expense of the government, are turned adrift. The majority of coffee planters, addicted to prodigal habits, contracted in their days of prosperity, are now hopelessly bankrupt and must be displaced by more thrifty and industrious owners before prosperity can return. The prevalent distress is made still more acute by grinding taxation and by regulations that would seem designed to discourage the introduction of foreign capital. Import duties and export duties are laid upon nearly every article of commerce. The poor man's loaf and sausage must bear a revenue stamp. The visitor from abroad must pay a tax of $7.50 for the privilege of leaving the country. Obstacles are thrown in the way of foreign enterprise because of the exaggerated fears that some stronger race will exploit the resources of the country and thus achieve first economic and then political domination. This fear is not wholly groundless. The present occupants of the soil have failed to possess and improve their heritage, and more virile races are seeking the opportunities which they have neglected. In Bahia, I landed at a wharf designated as the official landing-place for passengers in 1536, and passed through public buildings whose foundations were laid before the Dutch settled on Manhattan Island; yet there, in the midst of tropical profusion, I saw everywhere signs of retrogression and decay. It is true that in the south, especially in the State of Sao Paulo, the advance in population, in arts and in civilization has been steady and rapid, but the Republic as a whole is backward and undeveloped because the people lack the qualities essential to industrial and political progress.

Why are the people incompetent for the task that confronts them? They are a prolific race, they have many admirable and winning traits of character. They are courteous, kindly and generous; yet unless transformed by some new element or influence, they will inevitably go to the rear.

Several causes have combined to bring about this condition. The first is doubtless climatic. Laziness is endemic in the tropics. The second is social. The nation is still under the blighting effects of slavery. "The sins of the fathers are visited on the children." One inheritance from the era of slavery is a baleful intermingling of races. The hot blood of Latin Europe has been inflamed by the hotter blood of Central Africa, and with this has mingled a fiercer strain from the savage aborigines. In Brazil there is no color line, but there is an ominous cloud, black in the centre and shading off toward the north and south. Of the 250,000 people in the city of Bahia not 15% are of pure white blood. Slavery has also cursed the land by robbing labor of its dignity and by fostering the grossest forms of immorality. The physical results of vices which flow in the blood, and hereditary diseases that have a vicious origin, are only too painfully apparent. This condition may be modified by the tide of immigration. One-third of the population of Sao Paulo is Italian, and in the southern States there is a large German infusion. Immigration is, however, arrested. In business and industrial pursuits these recent comers are steadily crowding the Brazilians to the wall, but are themselves becoming Brazilianized. The prospect of any European country gaining a foothold by means of its colonies is very faint. The new people do not subdue the land, but the land They lose their mother-tongue and change their subdues them. habits of life almost as quickly as in the United States. The principal of a normal school whose name is Thompson informed me, with the aid of much sign language, that a little girl whom he pointed out was the "nephew" of a certain official. The same day I sat at dinner beside a German with a tawny beard, who had traveled seventy miles in the interior, barefoot. His father came from the banks of the Neckar, but he did not know the difference between sauerkraut and kimmelbrod.

The most important feature in the building, or rather in the undermining of the Brazilian character, remains to be mentioned. With every disposition to think as favorably as possible of the Roman Catholic Church, I am persuaded that the missionaries do not exaggerate the baleful influence of that type of religion which Rome has given Latin America. Her doctrine and discipline have sapped the foundation of virile character, fettered intellect and conscience and utterly failed to check immorality and vice. She may even be called the patron of vice. She shares with the State the responsibility for a lottery system pervasive, obtrusive and hideously demoralizing. The festas of the Church are in many cases wild orgies, and the clergy themselves are so generally depraved that they lead the weak of their flocks in the ways of sin and provoke the more intelligent and moral to disbelieve in the divine origin of Christianity and even in the existence of God.

The priesthood of Brazil is only to a very limited extent Brazilian. It is recruited almost exclusively from abroad and from the least desirable elements. At the present time there is a great influx of monks and friars who are taking possession of old ecclesiastical properties and in some cases spiriting the accumulated treasures of the monasteries off to Rome. In such tres as Sao Paulo there is a marked revival of church activity, indicated by the establishment of schools and the erection of new buildings. Most of these recent importations are friars from the Philippines or members of orders banished from France: an infusion which does not tend to raise the moral tone of the clergy, though some of them are men of great capacity. The Archbishop of Rio, for example, is acknowledged to be a man of tremendous force, whose influence upon the Federal administration is almost unbounded. At the same time, it is true that the immigration of ecclesiastics has touched the sensibilities of the people, who are morbidly apprehensive of foreign influence. Bills are now pending in Congress framed somewhat after the French model, which if enacted will not only check monastic immigration and take education out of the hands of the priesthood, but will also abridge, somewhat, the privileges which our own missionaries have hitherto enjoyed. The usual fruits of such a debased form of Christianity are painfully manifest. The intelligence of Brazil is in revolt against the Church. Educated men for the most part adopt the philosophy of positivism, and those whose spiritual cravings will not be satisfied with such a creed eagerly accept the teachings of spiritualism. The spiritualists are very active in disseminating their literature, and seriously hinder the progress of evangelical truth.

The most influential man in South America, in an interview which I had with him on the day of my sailing from Rio, said: "It is sad, sad to see my people so miserable when they might be so happy. Their ills, physical and moral, spring from a common source,—lack of religion. They call themselves Catholics, but the heathen are scarcely less Christian. The progress of the Anglo-Saxon race is due to their religion. Our people have left the firm foundation and are trying to build their fabric in the air. Two weeks ago I had a call in this office from Julio Maria, a Catholic priest of great learning and eloquence, who has been traversing Brazil from north to south, preaching and holding conferences. He said to me, 'The moral and religious condition of this people is unspeakable, almost remediless. I see but a single ray of hope, and as a Catholic priest I am ashamed to say where I see it.'" I expect him to tell me, added my informant, that he finds it in some Protestant Mission.

Of the Presbyterian Missions in Brazil Dr. Alexander writes:

Between the Missions of our Board and those of the Southern Committee there is absolute harmony. The differences which exist do not follow denominational lines. All are co-operating in the effort to develop one autonomous Church. It is the only Protestant Church that has national propo tions and aspirations. By the distribution of its forces it declares its purpose to possess the land. Presbyterian work is now prosecuted in seventeen out of twenty States, which constitute the Republic of Brazil. Our own meagre contingent of missionaries are almost without exception engaged in directing evangelistic work, several of them with headquarters in the saddle. It is a significant fact that in the two largest cities of Brazil, with an aggregate population of over a million, where our work first began, we have not a single missionary. When I reached Bahia, Dr. Waddell hadjust returned from a horseback trip of 818 miles, which occupied two months, and when I left Bahia, on my return, he was about to start on another journey, to gather into the Church thirty or forty persons who were awaiting baptism. The native ministers have caught the same spirit. One of the young men who but recently left the seminary, received more than a hundred into the fellowship of the church last year. In many places the spirit of evangelism pervades the entire Church membership. At Juquia, where there has never been an ordained pastor, thirty persons are waiting for the arrival of Senor Carvalhosa to make confession of their faith. Despite the hindrances arising from personal antagonisms, incompatible policies, and heated controversies, the Church is advancing rapidly, and is marching with the swing and sweep of assured conquest.

Dr. Alexander had gone chiefly to be present at the Triennial meeting of the Synod, of whose strength he formed a highly favorable judgment:

In creating the Synod of Brazil, our American Presbyterian churches adopted a bolder policy than any of the other churches at work there and incurred risks which they have hitherto avoided. Among a people sensitive, excitable and ready to fly asunder at the slightest provocation, they have planted a self-governing Church and left it to develop in accordance with the genius of the nation. It is now passing through perils and disorders which the other churches must face later. The organization is yet imperfect and must necessarily remain imperfect until the Synod becomes a representative body, with some provision for the traveling expenses of its members. The expenditure of time and money required for a journey from the remote parts of the field is prohibitive. The Synod lately convened numbered over seventy members, but they were all from four States: Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Minas and Santa Catharina.

The last Synod was officered wholly by Brazilians and conducted its business in as orderly, intelligent and forceful a way as one of our own Church courts at home. The Methodist Church in Brazil has a much more compact organization than the Presbyterian, and maintains a closer oversight of its work. It also makes a larger provision from the Mission funds for the support of its native preachers, but the opportunity which I had of comparing the two bodies of ministers leads me to conclude that they do not belong in the same class. The native preachers of the Presbyterian Church are vastly superior in education, intelligence and force of character. I am persuaded that the policy to which we are committed will prove to be a wise one, and, as the years go by, the friction and danger incident to the founding of a self-governing and self-propagating Church will diminish, and that what some are now inclined to consider its weakness will prove to be its strength.

The earnest hopes that had been formed for a happy and peaceful issue from questions which have agitated the Synod for some years, were disappointed. Several of the questions which have been foremost in discussion, were not entered seriously into, but were among the causes of the schism which resulted. The issue on which the division came was the question of Masonry. The Presbytery of Minas had sent an overture, asking the Synod to declare Masonry to be incompatible with Christianity:

The Committee on Bills and Overtures reported a recommendation to the effect that it is inexpedient to legislate on the subject, affirming the Protestant doctrine of liberty of conscience and exhorting both parties to observe the principle of mutual forbearance and consideration as laid down by St. Paul in the fourteenth chapter of Romans. The discussion continued with much earnestness for two days. On the evening of July 31 the vote was taken in the presence of a crowded and excited audience. The committee's report was adopted by a vote of 53 to 17, and after a short speech by Senor Eduardo, seven of the ministers and nine elders, with a considerable group of adherents, withdrew. It was an impressive and highly emotional scene. Some of the seceders embraced with tears the brethren whom they were leaving, and as they passed down the aisle the Synod and congregation that remained rose and sang with great fervor the Portuguese translation of the Christian Endeavor hymn, "God be with you till we meet again."

The Independent Presbytery which was formed subsequently presented to the Presbyterian Churches, North and South, at home a manifesto, in which it set forth its position. The Board replied to this manifesto and also sent a communication to the Synod in a spirit of deep sympathy with the Church in Brazil, and the earnest hope that in due time the entire body may be reunited with increased strength and preparedness for the great task of evangelizing Brazil. Meanwhile, some of the churches connected with the Synod have been divided and the needs of the Missoes Nacionaes, or Board of Home Missions of the Synod, have been increased by the same difficulties which have diminished its resources. On this account, the plan of co-operation proposed by Dr. Alexander, involving the administration of certain appropriations by the Missoes Nacionaes, with the approval of the Southern Brazil Mission, has been held in abeyance, the Missoes Nacionaes not feeling able to undertake the added responsibility at this time.

There have been some changes in the force in the Mission; Mrs. Finley returned to the States and Mr. Finley was removed to the Palmeiras field; Miss Williamson was removed to Bahia and Miss McPherson to Aracaju.

The Central Brazil Mission, as a whole, received during the year 110 communicants with a net gain of 102, making the actual membership 560.

BAHIA STATION.

The congregation in January worshipped for the first time in the new Church. It was an occasion of great joy and added zeal to their efforts. It was hoped that the Church would be done by the end of January, 1904.

It is especially gratifying to see the liberality of the people who out of their poverty have given wonderfully during the year. Twelve were received on profession of faith in this church during the year.

"The work in the centre has been a joy," says the missionary, "and the Holy Spirit is manifesting His power in a marvelous way." Over a territory as large as New York State there are signs of blessing; 32 were received in Palmeiras, 11 in Orobo, with 90 inquirers.

Two young men of the Bahia church have decided to study for the ministry and others may offer themselves. Mr. Waddell reports himself as evangelist in charge of Orobo and Palmeiras congregation and of Cachoeira and Bahia during a part of the year,—a heavy work. One hundred and sixty-five days were spent in evangelistic tours, and 50 adults were received by him.

The Bahia school has been divided into four sections. A central section moved into the new church building and the others were held in houses of the believers. It has been doing a splendid work among the children of believers.

The total enrollment of the schools in Bahia has been 63.

A school was opened at Orobo by Mrs. Cooper to which aid was given. Another school at Sao Joao de Paraguassu was very satisfactory. The house was built by a Brazilian and given for the school and dwelling of teacher. A promise of a future work of great utility is made in the offer of a Brazilian to support a school in Lencoes, guaranteeing three thousand milreis. There is need of parochial schools for the education of the children of believers, and the people seem to be willing to aid these.

SAO FELIX, CACHOEIRA, OROBO STATION.

The year has been one of constant growth in numbers and spirituality among the old members. Until the second week in March, the work was under the charge of Mr. Waddell, who made constant trips and preached. Mr. Mc-

Call says that he found open doors on every hand, due in great measure to the splendid work done by the school.

The tried evangelistic powers of Mr. McCall and the fervent preaching of heart-searching truths have brought out many. Audiences have increased, and range from 100 to 210 on Sabbath evenings, while the midweek services have from 40 to 80.

Two inquirers' classes have been held,—one in each place, with a joint roll of 28.

The school at Sao Felix has been a large factor in the development of this promising work in the two adjacent towns. Not only in the opening of the houses of the pupils to the teachers, but also by the earnest evangelistic work that has been done by those who have charge of the school.

A total enrollment of the school under Miss Axtell's care was 68. This school was closed in November, its fourth year, and has not lost one cent to the Board, except the salary of its missionary. In this it has no rival in Brazil. The report of the Director of the school says: Miss Axtell has given the Mission a work for which no praise can be too high.

SERGIPE STATION.

The work in Sergipe has seen quite a number of changes during the last year and the beginning of the new year will see all the workers of Aracaju removed and Mr. Bixler in Estancia. Larangeiras has made no growth during the year in numbers, although they have rallied to the support of a pastor. Lavandeiras has a good congregation and this year, has organized into a church and an elder elected. The school in Aracaju has continued during the year, having an enrollment of forty. Seven were received in this field during the year.

ESTANCIA STATION.

The work in Estanica was continued very satisfactorily up to March, when the Franciscan monks held a Mission there and so succeeded in frightening the people and inspiring in them hatred of the Protestants that for months thereafter practically no one came near our worship. Many however of the leading men of the place were but little influenced by the monks and continue to accept and read evangelical literature as before. Some months ago, however, the people began to forget the warnings of the monks, and are now beginning to listen to the preaching of the Word again.

The greatest difficulty that we meet to the progress of the Gospel is the spirit of worldliness, worldly gain and worldly pleasure, that completely fill the hearts and lives of the better classes, and superstition and ignorance that reign supreme among the lower classes.

VILLA NOVA DE RAINHA.

On the occasion of a Mission of the Roman Church in Villa Nova, a monk when preaching incited the people against the Protestants who were holding service in the same square. There were 5000 Catholics to fifteen Protestants. God worked a wonderful deliverance through the authorities and friends of liberty of conscience, and though stones of three or four pounds were thrown and the tiling and windows all smashed, no one of the Protestants received the slightest injury. During the year, fourteen new places were entered and twenty new members were received into the church. A new part of the field was opened to the west and much interest is manifested in it.

On account of the bigotry at Villa Nova, it was thought well to hold the Mission meeting there.

The city was hostile; the believers were few and scattered. Priest-craft had created a strong feeling against the missionaries. So strong did this become that the public hall secured for the meetings was closed against us on the eve of beginning. Mr. Chamberlain worked hard, invited fifty prominent families by letter, and all the people by newspaper notice and handbill, and by tearing the partitions out of a house arranged a hall. The meetings were a great success.

SOUTHERN BRAZIL MISSION.

RIO DE JANEIRO: capital of the republic; population 500,000; occupied as Mission Station 1860. Missionaries—Rev. M. A. Menezes, Rev. Jos. A. Granja.

EAST RIO STATION NOVO FRIBURGO: 60 miles east of Rio; occupied as a Mission Station in 1891. Missionaries—Rev. J. M. Kyle, D.D., and Mrs. Kyle.

Castro: opened as a Mission Station 1895. Missionaries—Rev. G. L. Bickerstaph and Mrs. Bickerstaph.

SAO PAULO: 300 miles west-southwest of Rio; capital of the State of the same name; population 125,000; occupied as a Mission Station in 1863. Missionaries—H. M. Lane, M.D., Miss M. K. Scott, Rev. M. P. B. Carvalhosa.

CURITYBA: about 300 miles southwest of Sao Paulo, the capital of the State of Parana. Missionaries—Rev. G. A. Landes and Mrs. Landes, Miss Ella Kuhl, Miss Mary P. Dascomb, Miss E. R. Lenington.

FLORIANAPOLIS: Missionaries—Rev. R. F. Lenington and Mrs. Lenington, Rev. J. B. Kolb and Mrs. Kolb.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. G. L. Bickerstaph and Mrs. Bickerstaph.

It is in this field that the effects of the schisms in the Synod are most keenly felt. The Curityba church has been divided, the property, however, remaining with the body which continued loyal to the Synod.

STATE OF PARANA.

Of the Guarapuava church Mr. Landes reports:

I found our church members and the people in general everywhere very much discouraged, both in temporal and spiritual things. The hard times touch everything.

This financial crisis seems to have become the normal state of the country. The hard times, in addition to the indolence and laziness of many of our church members, makes it very difficult to give a forward movement to our church work.

After returning from my trip to Guarapuava I visited an ex-priest at a place called Reboucas, a railroad station on the Sao Paulo and Rio Grande Railroad, about one hundred miles from Castro. In the month of May I received a letter from said priest, Senor Vicente Gaudineiri, an Italian, suggesting our employing him in the Gospel work. About four years ago he was suspended from orders by his bishop owing to his uniting with the Masonic Lodge, at least his being a Mason had something to do with his being suspended. For the last two years, more or less, he has been at Reboucas keeping store and running a small hotel. In his letter he offered his services

I wrote him expressing my satisfaction at his desire to work with us in the Gospel, and sent him a New Testament, our catechism and some tracts, asking him to read them, and that, if agreeable, I would make him a visit soon. He answered, thanking me for the New Testament and tracts, and invited me to visit him, which I did at the time above mentioned. I found that he knew scarcely anything about the Bible; he never possessed one in the language of the people. He knew a few passages, but had no knowledge of the Scriptures as a whole.

The results of the work, in figures, in the churches of Guarapuava and Castro are very discouraging this year. Four persons were received on profession of their faith in the Guarapuava church, and 13 children were baptized. The church contributed about 805, $240, or about $200, gold.

One person made profession of faith in the church of Castro, four were suspended, seven children were received by baptism.

The church contributed about fifty dollars to the cause of the Gospel.

THE ESCHOLA AMERICANA.—This school, in Curityba, under the charge of Miss Kuhl, Miss Dascomb and Miss Lenington, reaches a very polyglot constituency. At the opening of the eleventh year of the school, in January, there were present two Syrian boys, whose parents had received the New Testament in Arabic in Syria, a little girl who came from Iceland, and 10 Polish children.

One child was from the Argentine, and spoke Spanish. Germany, France, England, Italy and the United States of America were represented. After the religious exercises and songs in different languages by the primaries, the small children with their teachers marched with the school banner through the garden to the new house fronting on Santos Dumont Street. Before the opening the new school rooms had already been dedicated. Our pastor, the elders and teachers were present. The rooms are large and airy, well lighted and well ventilated. There is a large piazza, where the children have gymnastics, and where they eat and play when it rains or when the heat is too great to admit of their playing on the grass in our large playground. In spite of all opposition, the school was never more popular than now.

STATE OF SANTA CATHARINA.

The work in Santa Catharina has been more prosperous than the work at Parana. Mr. Lenington writes:

In February I made only one trip, as the rest of the time was put in working on our day-school. On this trip, however. I had the privilege of preaching the Gospel in a new place where there was much opposition, so much, in fact, that an Italian woman living there offered five dollars to a negro tough to go over and stone the gathering. Out of deference to one of the believers, who had gone with me, and who had done several favors to the negro's family, he refused. There was no disturbance, fortunately, though only six outsiders would come into the house, the others sitting outside under the coffee trees, where the pestilential contagion of Protestantism would not affect them. The service was held in the house of a blind Portuguese, and as a result of the work he and three others in the place have already made profession of faith.

In March three trips were made, two weddings performed and one received on profession. In the middle of April started on a trip through the central and southern part of the State, reaching home again in the middle of June. On this trip had the privilege of preaching the Gospel for the first time in four new places and in two where I had preached before. In the latter the attendance at the thousand people present. The average attendance at the fifteen services in these two places was over 300. The outlook is very promising. In the four new places varied and curious were the experiences. At the first, a young man, an ardent friend of the Franciscan friars, who preach there, took it upon himself to visit every house in town, warning the people against "the emissary of Satan." He said, "Especially the women must not go, as this man is a most immoral person. Just think of it! A married priest! What a scandal!" Poor fellow, he could not see the immorality of the priest of the place, who lives with a mistress.

The efforts of the young fellow were crowned with such success that the servants fled from the house where I was entertained "lest I should cast an evil eye upon them," and at the first service not a woman appeared. But I had the joy, before leaving the town, of seeing the servant and crowds of women at the services, listening with most eager attention to the pure, simple Gospel of Jesus Christ. Many said, "Come again, for we would hear more of the blessed truth."

In the next place I did not know a soul, and as I rode for four days through the mountain forest, I was ever praying that God would open the way for the preaching of the Gospel. Reached the town, found out the hotel, dismounted from my mule, and, on entering, the first person I met was the aide-de-camp of the Governor, who was making a visit there. The young man is a friend of mine and at once introduced me to a lot of his friends, and in half an hour after entering an unknown town, a hall was arranged and a service held that night. How God does rebuke our lack of faith! May we learn to trust Him more and let Him open the way in which we shall walk!

During the last week of December seven persons were received by Mr. Kolb at two of the out-stations across the bay, and on the first Sunday of the year 1904 we wept with joy on receiving to the Florianapolis church 24 persons on profession, 32 additions in one week!

I may, then, summarize the work of the year as follows: The Gospel has been preached in 17 places, 7 of them new points; 55 have been received on profession, 23 children baptized.

A Woman's Society was started, which has some 50 members, and, led by our wives, has contributed largely to all branches of the church work. The day-school has had an average attendance of 54, and has recommended itself to the public. The church paper has shown itself of value in awakening interest and in teaching outsiders about our work. The young men have a "Society for the Propagation of the Gospel," whose members have done good work in visiting prisons, hospitals and private homes with tracts and papers. The church has contributed during the year to all lines of church work more than $400, and $500 to the school.

Over 800 were present at the Christmas festival.

The work of the Catholic Church has been carried on more aggressively than ever. Mr. Kolb writes:

Rome is opening schools everywhere. She is most active. She lavishes her wealth in this direction; all to win the children to the Church. Rome has never been so well organized and so aggressive as now. It behooves us to be equally so if we would win the land for Christ.

Hundreds of friars are pouring into the country. At the same time it is wide open for earnest work. Side by side with his account of the aggressiveness of the Catholic Church, Mr. Kolb writes:

Mention may be made of the increased interest in the services; our present hall is not large enough. It seats 200 persons. The Sabbath-school is in good working trim and is becoming more and more interesting, with an average attendance of 70. The "Woman's Society" of the church, under the leadership of our wives, has grown in interest and effectiveness. There is also a company of young menmembers of the church—who visit the hospitals, prison and do other services. And within these last months a group of the brethren have begun the publishing of a bi-monthly paper, "A Vida," which is having general acceptance. It publishes 500 copies.

SAO PAULO.

In his report as President of MacKenzie College to the Board of Trustees of the college, Dr. Lane writes:

Unfortunately, not only am I unable to report encouraging advances in the social, political or commercial aspect of things Brazilian, but I am obliged to sound a note of alarm and report a discouraging reaction among the people and in the government in favor of the Roman Catholic hierarchy and a widespread corruption in public life.

It may be only a temporary reaction, but the almost complete elimination of the people from the government of the people, the farcical elections, where the only candidates are those selected by a self-constituted committee of bosses,—the rule of persons rather than of principles—fill with alarm the friends of Brazil who love free institutions and had hoped to see a real republic. The great republican leaders are all dead or have been corrupted. The old ultraconservatives and the old ultra-montanes are in authority, and Rome is the most potent factor in matters of higher administration. The judiciary is corrupt and the tool of the politician and priest. The petty demagogue rules in the interior, and the people are listless and apparently dead to all ambition for self-government, following blindly this or that leader.

The influx of foreign priests, monks, friars and nuns has taken such proportions as to alarm even the politicians, and considerable numbers have been smuggled in or come in disguised as immigrants. The Benedictines, driven out of France and refused admittance into poor little Portugal, have found a warm welcome here, and the valuable properties of the order have been turned over to them, in open defiance of law.

The gambling instincts of the race are given free range, and the government not only permits all sorts of lotteries, but derives a large revenue from the sale of the tickets.

Just in proportion to the ascendency of Rome seems to be the decline of the republic. These and other significant facts raise the question as to whether there be not a real incompatibility between the Roman Church and free institutions; or, at least, whether a Latin people, after generations of blind obedience to Rome, can ever become self-governing and remain in the Church.

The present state of affairs, while alarming and disheartening, is not hopeless. Rome, with such a free hand, has always overreached herself. A second reaction must come. The hope of the nation is in the better education of the people and in a return to the simpler teachings of the Gospel and a revival, through them, of the sense of personal responsibility.

The finances of the nation, as to foreign credit, seem to be good, exchange ruling at about 12d. against a par value of 27d. This steadiness is, however, due more to the policy dictated by the Rothschilds than to a wise direction on the part of government. In the State of Sao Paulo finances and trade are in a very bad way. The price of coffee still remains below the cost of production, though it would yield a living profit to the economical farmer. As most of the revenue of the state comes from an export duty of II per cent. of the selling price of coffee, this ruling of low prices cuts off the revenues. It is estimated that 75 per cent, of the coffee planters are insolvent, the plantations being mortgaged for more than their value. In the panic incident to the wholesale foreclosure of these mortgages the heretofore rich planter becomes a helpless, poor man, and society in the interior is turned topsy-turvy,—the Italian and Syrian stepping in as planters and merchants. This state of affairs will, in a measure, explain the financial straits of the College. The former rich planter, who sent his sons and daughters to us, cannot pay, and often seeks gratuitous education for his children, or a large reduction, on the strength of former patronage. While our enrollment continues large and our expenses correspondingly large, our free list grows rapidly and collections become increasingly difficult, so that we close, for the first time during my financial administration, with a small deficit.

The enrollment for the year was 626, of both sexes and all ages from 6 to 36, representing more than ten nationalities; 484 of this number were Brazilians, and 56 Italians. This is against an enrollment of 615 in 1902 and 539 in 1901. We have practically reached the numerical limit to receive resident students.

SANTIAGO STATION.

The work of the Station has not been without the difficulties that are common to Mission Stations, when churches are once organized with their own pastors. In general, writes Mr. Boomer:

It may be said now, as in former reports, our Church gains more in depth than in surface. That is to say that if the number of members does not increase sensibly, on the other hand there are those who are perfected in the knowledge and practice of the Christian life, according to the testimony of strangers, who in passing through Santiago take the opportunity of their stay to acquaint themselves with our work.

The attendance, order and interest in the Sunday-school have markedly improved in the course of the year.

The work of evangelization outside of the Church has been carried on in some seven points, though most of the time but four were open at once; some twenty-five persons have taken an active part in this work, of whom nearly twenty have given considerable time to it. The places of meeting are little chapels or halls, if such small places can be dignified by such a name, places rented by the Mission or provided by the members of the church. They are all small, except one which was taken a month before the year closed,the place rented on San Diego street, which can accommodate about a hundred persons; the rest will hold from thirty to fifty people. They are plainly, one might better say of some, shabbily furnished. with cheap benches, etc., and rather poorly lighted. A few texts adorn the walls, all have pulpits and some have been provided with organs, two belonging to the Mission, and two have been loaned for a longer or shorter time. The chapels are situated at some distance from the church; a line drawn from one to another would approach to the form of an ellipse around the church. In most of them meetings have been held twice a week; in some, three times, and in one once a week. The meetings are simple, being led ordinarily by a committee of three persons named for the purpose. Sometimes they are the only speakers, but this year a good many of the meetings have been thrown open, and the new converts have taken part by giving testimonies. The plan has been tried of having one of the meetings in each chapel placed in charge of a sub-committee, which has been permanent for one or two months. This gives a certain local interest and stability to the work, and by having the other meeting carried on in another way, either by a committee named for a single service or by one of the paid workers, variety has also been obtained. A number of persons have professed conversion, and confessed Christ.

The members of the Church who take part in this work are working people of but little education and most of them young Christians. Like most Chilians they have a certain facility of speech, and as many of them have experienced a great change in their lives since accepting Christ, it is easy for them to lead meetings, at least to take part in them, along the line of personal testimony. But as the months go on something more is wanted, and while some by attendance at church and Sunday-school have gathered a considerable amount of Biblical material, they have manifested the need of training. In April Mr. Boomer started a training class, open not only to the members of this evangelistic committee, but also to others who felt like attending.

This work of evangelization has made evident several things:

(1) There are now in Santiago many people accessible and willing to come to hear the Gospel. The general averages given above fail to make the case as apparent as it is, for the general rule has been not to count the people about the doors and windows, and that excludes hundreds from the reports, and again because oftentimes the rooms have proven too small for those who would attend.

(2) Our present accommodations are inadequate, poorly adapted for the development of the work, uneconomical and of uncertain tenure

It is indeed difficult to conduct a Sunday-school of several classes in a single room twenty feet square, and while we can poorly afford to hire large rooms, the worst is that they are often simply not to be had.

(3) In order to carry the work beyond the preliminary stage it is necessary to have some workers who can fulfill three requisites. Time to devote to the work, preparation for it, and Christian life and experience to sustain it.

Work has been carried on at the out-stations of San Bernardo, Rancagua and San Fernando. Of the latter, Mr. Boomer writes:

In November a church was organized with thirty members, three elders and about twenty on probation. In September the congregation was able to assume all the responsibility of the running expenses, exclusive of the evangelist's salary. A number of the members are from a better class of society than that usually found in our newer churches, and there have been signs of deep spiritual life in a few. In the month of September during the national holidays a successful convention was held in this church. Ten churches represented by seven delegates, together with a large attendance from San Fernando itself, brought together an enthusiastic crowd.

On a trip in the south of Chili, Mr. Boomer reports:

From Traiguen, in company with German friends, one of them being the German pastor, Mr. Sluyter, of Santiago, I took a trip south through the frontier and German colonies and the forest region of Chili as far as Port Montt and Ancud on the Island of Chiloe, returning by way of Concepcion and Chillan. This latter trip, which was one taken in vacation, nevertheless had its missionary value, and perhaps in no other way can I more appropriately introduce a few observations about that part of Chili as a missionary field. My companion, Mr. Sluyter, is well acquainted with the field, and through him I had letters of introduction to a number of Germans. Parts of the country are very beautiful and remind one now of the United States, now of Switzerland. In the region around Valdivia and as far south as Port Montt the colonists of German descent, though in a minority as respects numbers, seem to have a preponderating influence. Some of them are Roman Catholics, but a large number are at least nominal Protestants, but the impression I have received after making some investigations is that but few are converted Christians. There are a number of German pastors and a larger number of schools in the country, some ten churches and nearly twenty schools, the larger proportion of which are in the south, but there seems to be but little spiritual life, and practically no missionary work done by them among the Spanish-speaking population. Several persons manifested a strong desire that our Mission should commence work in Spanish in that part of the country. There is one worker, a Mennonite minister from the United States, sent out, I believe, by the Missionary and Christian Alliance, and associated with him are some Chilians and a few other workers from abroad. They have a house with a large chapel in it and a printing press in Valdivia, and seem to have an active missionary spirit, but they make a good deal of ritual baptism by immersion. Besides this work and occasional visits by colporteurs, practically nothing is done to evangelize this part of Chili. The country is sparsely inhabited, and yet, judging from the rapid changes that have taken place in the past fifteen or twenty years in what is still called the frontier, we may expect to see marked changes in a part, at least, of that region in the near future. It is expected that the main trunk line will be connected with the southern line in 1904, so that we shall be able to reach Osorno from Valparaiso or Santiago by rail. And I think it would be well for our Mission to look toward the occupation of that part of the country as soon as we are able to.

lough, some one had to take care of the Institute, and the duty fell to Dr. Lester, who would have much preferred other forms of work. In his report on the school, Dr. Browning recognizes Dr. Lester's sense of the difficulty of the work.

Dr. Lester came into the Instituto, an unknown field of labor, with no time for special preparation, and fulfilled the duties of the position with tact and skill, although it is a work for which he had no liking and which he took only as one of the exigencies of our common labor in Chili.

The meetings which are usually held in January, in the interest of the Catholic schools and against the Protestants and their schools, were postponed until March, the month in which the schools open, in order that the matter might be fresh in the minds of the families who might patronize us. In addition to the work of the priests in the public services, a house-to-house canvass was made of the families who had boys with us, or who might send such, and mothers' meetings were organized to the same end of preventing the matriculation of new students and the taking out of as many of the old as possible. This work had a very perceptible effect upon the attendance of day scholars, the loss of forty in the entire enrollment having been entirely from this class.

The entire enrollment of the year was 220, as compared with 260 in 1902. Of this number, 120 were boarders, or over half. The majority of these boarders come from the provinces, which are much more liberal than this exceedingly Catholic capital city.

The Catholic Church has made tremendous gains in the past year in every department of the national life. The liberal element has been weakened by quarrels among themselves, many have gone over to the Conservatives, and the power of these—the Catholics or Conservatives—is more widely felt than for many years, and it is feared that many of the government schools will be closed, especially the "Lyceums for girls," which the priests hate in particular, since they keep the higher class of girls out of the convents. No government aid is being given to private schools, as has been done in former years, and in every turn is felt the power of the priesthood, which has been enormously augmented during the past year. The President, elected as a Liberal, has played into the hands of the Church, has been weak and vacillating, his party has been divided, and the Church party, ever awake and well organized, has taken advantage of the confusion and strengthened itself as it has not been strengthened for many years.

The influence and need of such a school as the Instituto are more strongly felt than ever before. It is the only school in the capital where the young men of the upper class have the Bible before them daily and hear it read and explained in chapel services and in the classes. Let me repeat that the Instituto is the only school and the only evangelical influence among the young men of the higher class Chilians, outside of the clergy of the Roman Church. It is so recognized by the priests themselves, and I have had occasion to read letters written by them to parents who have boys with us in which they refer to it as "the gate to Hell and Perdition," and other like complimentary phrases.

By a majority of the leading educators of the capital the Instituto is considered the best private school in Chili. They regret that we do not follow the German or concentric system adopted by the government many years ago, and which we followed during the time of Mr. Christen. But they acknowledge that we give a more practical education than they, and the Rector of the University of Chili and others associated with him have often recommended the Instituto as the only good private school in Chili.

The two things that prevent our having as many students from Santiago as we could accommodate are: the fact that we are Protestant, and, second, the fact that our examinations are not valid for receiving degrees in the University.

Not long since, a prominent educator of Santiago paid us what seemed, at the moment, a doubtful compliment. In referring to young men who had been in several institutions in the capital and had been compelled to leave on account of bad behavior, he remarked that the Instituto Ingles had more of these boys and kept them longer than any other institution in the city. This seemed to imply that either our discipline was lax or that our student body was inferior to that of other schools, neither of which statements would be accepted as true. But the gentlemen went on to say that a change seemed to come over boys as soon as they entered this school, and that he had been amazed to see young men whom he had considered as incapable of submitting to our strict rules, make a new start upon coming to us, and, after a short time, "come to be manly, earnest fellows such as can be found in no other school in Chili."

VALPARAISO STATION.

Valparaiso is the commercial centre of Chili, population 125,000. One other mission has work here—the Methodist.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The Gospel has been preached in this district in fifteen different places, though the regular centres outside of Valparaiso were three, viz., Vina del Mar, Nogales and Anallota.

The work in Valparaiso is regularly conducted in four centres.

The first and most important is that of the oldest church in Chili, the San Augustine.

The attendance at the church services averaged 100, at the Sundayschool 155, at the prayer meetings 50, at the Christian Endeavor 50.

A new work was opened in one of the populous hills, Cirro de Toro, in a house on the plaza there. The services have always been well attended and for thirty to fifty have been converted. A Sunday-school has met there every Sabbath morning, and Gospel services have been held there every Tuesday and Thursday nights. The success of this centre only shows the necessity of having the chapels accessible.

It is proposed to open two or three more next year in other parts.

Mr. Schmalhorst has carried on, in addition to this work, an evangelistic class.

There are some twelve members in the class, mostly young men who meet one hour each week for conference for reports for Bible study and for prayer. Under the auspices of this class more than 1,000 tracts per month have been distributed and more than twentyfive visits per month have been made.

Sheltering Home.—Eighteen boys and twenty girls were in the Home during the year reported upon.

Heraldo Evangelico.-

An attempt has been made at brightening up the paper a little and making it more contemporaneous in its news, also in making it more hopeful in tone.

The paper has a paid subscription list of 1400. Work has been conducted from Valparaiso, at Vina del Mar and Nogales.

Miss Fulton has had charge of the Escuela Popular as before. The difficulty in the work of the Station has been the scattered character of its various departments.

The church is in one part of the town, hidden away up in a deep ravine, almost lost to sight; the Escuela Popular is away up in another, about one and one-fourth miles from the centre, and even more distant is the Sheltering Home, more or less between the two, upon a hill a mile from each of the others and handy to neither.

Mr. Schmalhorst in the report of the Station sketches the extent of the field.

From Huasco in the south to Tocopilla in the north, and from the Andes to the ocean, 300 miles by 150, interrupted at Antofagasta by a M. E. Station; accessible by steamers along the coast and by railroad leading from the principal ports to the interior towns, mines and oficinas. Agriculture, mines and saltpetre are the industries.

The population remains practically the same, 79,000, though in the mining districts there has been a great falling off. Some mines, viz., manganese, have shut down, and others have reduced the number of their hands, e. g., Dulcinea. Thus thousands of men have been compelled to seek work elsewhere. Fortunately new oficinas have been opened and the loss in the mines has been gain in the oficinas.

As a result, some centres of work have been closed and others opened; the latter exceeds the former. Strong centres of other years have been dispersed and new groups have been formed and the Gospel has had a more extended hearing.

The Gospel has been preached in twenty-seven different places, in twenty-two of which it is preached weekly. A very conservative estimate puts the number of new converts at 125. There are eleven Sunday-schools in as many different places, or groups of people united in the study of the Bible. The amount raised on the field as reported for self-support was 3152.60 pesos, which does not include small sums given to meet local exigencies.

The attendance at the preaching service has been over ninety. Mr. Elphick writes:

A short service has been held at the door of the church to attract the attention of passers-by and neighbors. Several have always been compelled to come in. Lately we have found a more effectual way of doing this. A family of our congregation lives near the market, where all the canteens and coffee shops are. This is a very populated part of the city. Just before the meeting we go to this house, sing a hearty hymn, and then the pastor speaks a few words from the door and invites the people to follow us to the church. In this way, loafers and drunkards, among them artillery soldiers, have been taken to hear the Word of God. During the year over thirty persons have decided for Christ, and have received instruction in Christian doctrine.

Of the work at Tocopilla, Mr. Schmalhorst reports:

Sr. Krauss has been the actual head of the church and evangelistic work of the district for one year and more, and practically for two. He has shown himself wise in counsel, efficient in preaching, and untiring in propaganda. He has done a work which reveals him to be a superior man. As conductor of the passenger train which runs to the oficinas of the interior he is enabled to preach two nights a week in different oficinas there. In the port he directs the services on Sundays and Wednesdays, visiting the prison, the hospital and the mines near by. He distributes tracts on the train and looks after his eighty or more subscribers to the Heraldo along the line, in the port and in the interior. I have helped him with sermon plans and sermon material as in other years and he has been blessed in his work. He has the confidence of his superiors and the admiration of the enemies of the Gospel cause.

TALCA STATION.

On the return on furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Spining, Mr. and Mrs. Smith took charge of the Talca Station, devoting themselves at the same time to the study of the language.

COLOMBIA MISSION.

BOGOTA: the capital of the country; situated on a plateau about 8600 feet above sea level and four degrees north latitude; climate cool; population estimated at 120,000; occupied as a Mission Station 1856. Missionaries—Rev. T. H. Candor and Mrs. Candor, Rev. M. W. Graham and Mrs. Graham, Miss Jessie Scott.

Barranquilla (Bar-ran-keel-ya): near the sea on the Magdalena river; 12 degrees north latitude; climate warm; population 50,000; occupied as a Mission Station 1888. Missionaries—Rev. W. S. Lee and Mrs. Lee, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, and Miss Martha B. Hunter.

MEDELLIN: capital of the Department of Antioquia; situated in a river valley about 4000 feet above sea level; climate temperate; population estimated at 50,000; occupied as a Mission Station in 1889. Missionaries—Rev. J. G. Touzeau and Mrs. Touzeau.

Caracas, Venezuela: capital; population 75,000; occupied tentatively 1897. Missionaries—Rev. T. S. Pond and Mrs. Pond.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. M. W. Graham and Mrs. Graham, and Miss Jessie Scott.

The work of this Mission has naturally been seriously affected by the political conditions which have prevailed during the past year. The secession of Panama and its recognition by the United States as an independent Republic created the most intense excitement in Colombia, and the anti-American feeling was very strong. For a time we were anxious for the safety of our missionaries, particularly those in the interior Stations. All who were on the field remained faithfully and heroically at their posts, although rumors of attack were numerous and insistent. However, none of them were molested. They were missionaries of experience who knew the people, and who had by many years of loving and disinterested Christian service won the respect of the Colombians, so that they did not regard themselves as in danger. feeling that they could trust the people to whom they were sacrificing their lives.

Of course, however, it was not practicable to press the missionary work as vigorously as usual, particularly outside of the Stations, so that the work of the year has been more largely confined than usual to the conduct of the schools and to the preaching in the regular chapels at the Stations. The missionary force, moreover, was so small that little itinerating could have been done, anyway.

The Colombia Mission deserves to an especial degree the sympathies and prayers of the churches in the home land. The difficulties, always serious, have been greatly intensified during the past year, owing to the inflamed condition of the public mind. Owing to the delicate position of the missionaries, it was not deemed expedient by the Board to print many facts which, if they had been generally known, would have drawn to that little company of missionaries in Colombia a large share of the attention and the sympathies of the churches.

BOGOTA STATION.

Miss Scott has spent the greater part of the year in the United States on regular furlough, and, to the deep regret of both the Mission and the Board, Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Miles felt obliged to resign on account of the ill-health of Mr. Miles and family conditions in the United States. Mr. Miles was exceptionally popular among the Colombians, and was a successful missionary, while Mrs. Miles was a worthy helpmeet in all good work. Their loss is deeply felt.

For reasons already stated, itinerating was practically impossible; but the regular work of the Station was prosecuted as well as the excited condition of the public mind and the small Station force permitted.

Boys' Schools.—At the beginning of the year the Minister of Public Instruction tried to prevent the opening of the school by withholding his permission. But the American Minister ably sustained our rights, and the school was opened on time. The enrollment for the year was 209, of whom 201 were actually in attendance. Of this number 31 were boarders and 170 were day pupils! 162, or 80.26 per cent., paid full tuition; 29, or 14.09 per cent., paid part tuition, and 12, or 5.6 per cent., were received free. The net receipts from tuitions were 45.5 per cent. of the running expenses.

The dormitory space was taxed to the utmost to accommodate the numbers who applied. The discipline of the school has been good. The teaching in all the departments was satisfactory. The work of Senor Garcia and that of Dr. Ramos was of a high order of excellence, and attracted very favorable notice.

In view of Mr. Graham's return to the States on furlough in March, the Station decided to place the school in the hands of Dr. Marulanda for the present year. Dr. Marulanda is an experienced educator and has been vice-principal for eight years. He is to assume the financial responsibility. The name of the school remains the same, and the religious instruction will be given by members of the Station.

Girls' School.—Miss Scott had charge of the Girls' School until last June, when she left on furlough. Mrs. Candor then took charge. There were 65 pupils in attendance at that time; 10 of these afterward left the school, and 15 new pupils were admitted; 119 were matriculated during the year.

We labored at a disadvantage from the first. Two of the most efficient teachers were gone, Miss Scott and a native who was transferred to Barranquilla. The teachers in each department were new, and I was unacquainted with most of the pupils and parents. Fortunately for the work, our teachers were all Christian girls educated in this school. They made a special effort to influence the pupils in the right direction. Miss Rizo was very thorough in her instruction of a Scriptural catechism committed to memory by the older pupils, and the little ones learned many a precious Bible verse through her patient training. Owing to the special efforts of two of our native helpers there was a marked improvement in the attendance at Sunday-school. They wrote polite notes to the parents, asking them to allow their children to attend the Sunday-school, with the result that forty-five marched in a body to the church the next Sunday.

Two of the boarders applied for admission to the church, and publicly professed their faith in Christ. As they are members of influential families in different departments of the Republic, we may hope they will become centers for spreading the Gospel in the future.

The school is indebted to Mrs. Graham for valuable assistance in teaching. The parents who attended examinations expressed themselves as well pleased with the exercises. Financially, the school has been far from self-supporting, but the people are passing through a painful crisis, their money being almost worthless. There is actual suffering among them. Many are unable to pay the amounts required, and unless reductions are made we lose the pupils.

EVANGELISTIC.—The church work was in charge of Mr. Miles until the first of May; then in charge of Mr. Graham until about the middle of June, and for the rest of the year in charge of Mr. Candor. Regular services have been continued throughout the year, with a few interruptions of the evening services. In addition, a meeting for men has been held weekly for the greater part of the year, and the women of the congregation have sustained their weekly meeting of the C. E. Society.

The attendance at the public services has varied greatly. Several families have removed from the city; others are so poor that they feel ashamed to attend in the only way in which they can dress; and some make political or personal considerations an excuse. Sometimes there have not been 25 persons present, and at other times there have been 200. There have been 15 additions to the church on profession of faith, and others have indicated their desire to unite in the same way; but the wisest course has seemed to prove them further before accepting them as full members.

There has been raised on the field 7202.75 pesos, and there was a balance of 1912.55 pesos on hand at the opening of the year, making a total of 9115.30 pesos. Of this, 4210 was expended on the cemetery belonging to the church, 4242 for lighting, care of the building and police service at the church building, and 663.30 for the poor.

Itinerating.—One trip has been made to each of the following outlying regions: the villages on the road to Honda; the city of Honda and the villages in the Tolima near that city; the city of Facatativa; the city of Zipaquira, and the coffee region of Las Mesitas. Services were held in all cases where practical, and in other cases conversations were held and books and tracts were sold or distributed. Expenses were paid in part by contributions on the part of the persons visited, the rest by the Station.

Bible Women.—This is the first time in the ten years that the work of Bible women has been given a thorough trial. The results are more than satisfactory. Senorita Arcelia Sayer, who has been for many years a member of the Bogota church, undertook the work of house-to-house visitation and of distributing evangelical literature, displaying zeal and aptitude. Almost without exception, she has been welcomed and invited to return. She has not confined herself to reading the Bible and offering prayer, but has taught the catechism and explained our doctrines so as to remove the prejudices and false ideas of the people. In several cases she has taught the people to read, in order that they might read the Bible for themselves. She has left papers and tracts in the trains, street cars, stores and houses, and has sent many packages to numerous adjoining towns. She has especially remembered the lepers, both in Bogota and in the government asylum in Agua de Dios. In all, she made 311 visits, and distributed 5837 papers and tracts.

From the middle of December the Senorita Abdona Heredia was employed in the same work. She visited 30 families, teaching the catechism and Bible verses to the children, and having prayers with the adults. Among the results of this labor we count two cases of special interest. One was that of a Jamaican negro, who was addicted to drinking, gambling and fighting, and was living with a woman to whom he was not married. He has experienced a complete change, is now sober and industrious, and has been lawfully married to the woman. Both have since been received as members of the church, and are notable for their faithfulness and their happy life. The other case is that of a murderer recently released from prison, who, through the reading of the Bible and other religious works, is coming to find a way of peace and pardon.

BARRANQUILLA STATION.

This Station also has suffered many interruptions. Mr. and Mrs. Lee were forced by ill-health to return to the United States early in the year; but, after six months of rest and medical treatment, their health was fully restored, and they gladly returned to their work. Miss Johanna Blinka, who joined the Station as a new missionary in the fall, was taken ill almost immediately, and was finally forced to resign and return to America, to the keen disappointment of her associates and of the Board.

Rev. Joseph Story, who had for several years been an efficient Spanish preacher, also resigned and took up work under other auspices in Cuba; so that the only missionaries who have been continuously on the field during the year were Miss Hunter and Mrs. Ladd. Of course, the burden fell particularly on Miss Hunter, on account of her connection with the school work.

The annual report of the Station has not been received by the Board, doubtless because of the interrupted mail service; but we know that the little company of missionaries has worked hard against heavy odds. As the year closes, they feel that the outlook is brighter, and we hope that the coming year will be one of uninterrupted peace and prosperity.

MEDELLIN STATION.

Early in the year Miss Riley returned to the United States on her regular furlough, so that Mr. and Mrs. Touzeau were again alone at the Station. Their furlough was considerably overdue, and their health was suffering so much from the long strain that it was imperative that they should return to the United States. They had faithfully and self-sacrificingly stayed at their post, in the hope that reinforcements might be sent; but the situation, all things considered, was such that the Board did not deem it possible to send new missionaries to this Station. Accordingly, Mr. and Mrs. Touzeau had no alternative, as the year ended, but to close the Station, as it was not possible for them to defer their furlough longer.

As it was not deemed prudent for a single woman to go to the Station alone, especially in the excited condition of the country, Miss Riley resigned. The annual report of Mr. and Mrs. Touzeau had not arrived when this report went to press. Doubtless it was sent, but the mail service has been greatly interrupted during recent months. We know, however, that Mr. and Mrs. Touzeau carried on all of their usual work, as far as circumstances permitted, until leaving for home in April.

CARACAS STATION.

One evil which has weighed heavily upon the life of the nation with the monotony and all the terror of a nightmare for five years has recently been lifted. Civil war has ceased to be the principal industry of this country. The people seem to give a most hearty welcome to peace. But it is a peace without plenty, at least for the most numerous class, the agricultural, and especially for the wage-earners and small merchants of the cities, it is but a barren peace. It is the tranquillity of exhaustion,

But, all things considered, there is better cause for hope in the immediate future of this country than we have had for the past seven years.

Our work has been more than usually affected by the agitated and wholly exceptional state of the country during the past year. Again, some of our church members have been compelled to emigrate to more hopeful countries, and we have to report a slightly diminished number on our church list. Meantime some losses in this regard have been made good, and the C. E. Society has made some gains; but removals and a few defections have kept the number of members as that of last year. The spirit of our new converts has been encouraging, and growth in grace has been evident. The poverty of the people has made itself felt in the smaller amount contributed for purely spiritual purposes. Yet the sum given in charity by private persons has been in excess of former years. Aid to poor relatives and brethren has decreased the amount given to the Church.

The attendance at the meetings has fluctuated, yet the average has been as high as in less agitated years. The Bible classes for young men and those for women have not fallen off in numbers nor interest. Some conversions can be reported among the young men and through them some members of their families are deeply interested for their own salvation. This latter experience is one of the rarest among this indifferent and irreligious people.

The Sunday-school has suffered at times as to attendance, but latterly this has been better, especially from the pupils of our day-school for boys and girls. Older pupils have attended with much regularity, and with evident interest, particularly on the part of three from the Greek Church. These are Syrians by birth. Friends of these, a goodly number, attend our services. One, a physician, graduated from our Syrian Protestant College Medical School, is much respected among all classes. The school for girls and boys has held its own as to numbers and general excellence, in spite of secret attacks and open opposition from the Roman clergy. But the general state of poverty has reduced the income from the pupils very considerably. Numbers have left from inability to pay even reduced rates, yet others have taken their places so that the number is as high as at any time, and there is promise of 15 additional to the 40 now on the list. This school has just held its annual examinations, and has shown the uniformly conscientious work of the instructors. The Gospel has been set before the whole school every day of the week. Roman Catholics, with a few Greeks, constitute the majority of the pupils. Such a school is also a necessity in the education of the Protestant children, who otherwise would of necessity attend the priest-ridden schools of the country. Our school, being practically under native management, reflects all the more credit on all concerned.

The new helper, Senor J. Loris Mejia, with us now little more than a month, was originally from Spain, where for 20 years he has been engaged in evangelistic work, in large part at his own charges. The chapel in the Street San Juan, which we had closed for several months, has now been reopened, and already "first fruits" can be reported. Mrs. Pond took a needed furlough of four months in the United States. During her absence Miss Grace Tarbox (a missionary resident in a neighboring town) kindly came to Caracas and took up part of Mrs. Pond's work.

Workers.—The year in Syria has been an anxious and troubled one. Disease invaded several families. Mrs. William W. Eddy had the grievous misfortune to fall and fracture her thigh. Dr. Henry Jessup was stricken with serious illness while in America on furlough. Cholera made sad havoc in some of the Stations, notably Tripoli and Zahleh, while, to add to the distress, there was a fierce outbreak of race and religious hatred at Beirut. We are thankful to be able to report, however, that the close of the year saw some improvement both in the health of the members of the Mission and m the general situation. But as this report goes to press, a cablegram brings the sorrowful news that April 14 the beloved Mrs. Eddy passed away after weeks of grievous suf-For fifty-three years she had been a missionary, years filled with extraordinarily rich fruitage. She was a woman of rare gifts, and the history of Christian Missions in Syria can never be written without assigning large space to her life and the lives of her husband and children. Memorial resolutions will be spread upon the records of the Board, expressing the Board's sense of bereavement and its recognition of her great work for Christ.

BEIRUT STATION.

The history of evangelical Christianity in Beirut dates back to 1823, when Isaac Bird and W. Goodell and their families began to assemble regularly for divine worship, joined now and then by Pliny Fisk and Jonas King and merchants and travelers sojourning in Beirut. In 1826 they formally organized as the Beirut Branch of the "Church of the American Mission in the Mediterranean," the other branches being at Constantinople, Brusa and Trebizond. This church of the American Mission in the Mediterranean adopted, with some variations, the Articles of Faith and the Form of Covenant used by the First Church of Hartford, Conn., the substance of which was translated into Arabic. The church continued its existence for over twenty years, until the number of the Syrian members exceeded those of the missionaries, and gave place to the Native Evangelical Church, which was born in 1847, and which for a period of forty-five years continued to choose a pastor from among the American missionaries without troubling itself about self-support. It was not until 1890 that it was induced, under pressure, to seek for and accept a native pastor. The record of these thirteen years is a fair index to the history of most such enterprises in Turkey. Its progress towards real self-support was greatly retarded in the beginning of this period by the split which carried away a large part of the well-to-do people, who have with great difficulty sustained themselves as the Second Church. It has suffered greatly from emigration. At the end of the thirteen vears it shares with the city the depression and demoralization that resulted from the troubles of last September. It has had two pastors and one stated supply, with more or less lengthy intervals. The church has had no financial help from the Board for a decade.

During the decade beginning with 1880 the annual admissions averaged 181/2, but during these thirteen years the average has fallen to 16, and the present year the admissions were only 13. Of 253 living members only 101 are within or about the city. Of the 615 who have entered since the founding of the church, many were removed from the rolls and transferred to the new churches in Hasbeva, Sidon, Lebanon and Tripoli. The contributions have increased faster than the membership. The church gave for all purposes during the year 7641.30 piasters, the Sunday-school 546 piasters, the C. E. Society 572 piasters, a total of 8659.30 ($310).

The baptisms were 14, of whom 3 were infants. The average congregation was 350 and the average Sunday-school attendance 175. Ous Assad Abdullah still continues as pastor, and with the aid of other workers has kept up a series of services unbroken even during the time of the riot. The C. E.

meetings have been particularly good.

Mrs. Eddy reports that ill health and the disturbed condition of the city have caused a temporary cessation of the meetings for women in the eastern quarter. A paralyzed woman in an adjoining house begged frequently to have the gatherings at her bedside. Large Scripture pictures were usually taken to aid in impressing the lesson. The number present varied from 10 to 20.

Mrs. Freyer reports that the Helping Hand Society held 25 meetings during the past year, made and gave away 148 garments and sent fifty francs ($10) for the support of a blind girl in Canton, China. In March a Mothers' Club was organized with 18 members from among the women of the native church. Mothers' meetings were started for the religious and moral instruction of the poor untaught women of the neighborhood. The average attendance was 12. Only 1 of those attending was a Protestant, all the others being Greeks or Maronites.

Mrs. Hoskins reports that the Christian Temperance Reading Rooms have been open daily with the exception of three days during the troubles. Over 25,000 people visited the rooms and made use of the privileges. The average daily attendance for nine months was 69, but this has been largely increased since October.

EDUCATIONAL.—Mrs. Dale reports for the Beirut Female Seminary that progress has been made in the substitution of text-books in English, which in turn have greatly improved the speaking of that language in the school.

The pupils were singularly free from illness, with one sad exception -the death of the only senior, a girl of fine Christian character. The troubles in Beirut reduced the number of boarders in the fall-43 as compared with 58 last year-because pupils from Egypt and Cyprus failed to return. One of the boarders came all the way from Brazil to enter the school in which her aunt was educated. Besides Mohammedans in the Primary Department there are 34 Greeks, 27 Protestants, 6 Catholics, 4 Maronites, and 1 Druse. The day pupils numbered 99. The Ras Beirut Day-school, cared for by the ladies of the Seminary, had a very successful year in spite of the growing opposition from the Russian schools.

On account of the depleted force and the pressure of other departments there was no theological class gathered during the year. The Mission is disposed to face prayerfully this vital question, as the constantly growing demands upon missionary strength and finances are in danger of crowding out this superlative need of the future.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Mary P. Eddy reports a successful year in the Junieh out-station. The clinics are well attended, and Dr. Bertram Post continues to assist her in this growing department of the work.

The opportunities for becoming acquainted with people from the benighted Kesruan region have been well improved and a Bible colporteur has been employed by the A. A. Society to attack the outposts of that Maronite stronghold. He has sold some Bibles, read to many, been ejected from some villages, stoned in others and on the whole has made an honorable record. The glacier of Maronite indifference and coldness towards the Protestant world is showing signs of melting under the warmer influence of the woman's hospital.

THE PRESS.—The Report of Mr. Freyer tells the story of a record-breaking year.

During the whole twelve months our facilities have been taxed to their utmost. Though every machine has been kept running at full pressure, we find ourselves far behind in meeting the demands made upon us. There are over 100,000 books ordered at this moment which are yet to be printed and other orders are still rolling in. We have increased the staff of binders and other helpers but still have room for more good workmen. The output exceeds that of last year by nearly five and a half million pages, marking an increase in every department except that of the Religious Tract Society. The greatest increase, 3,400,000 pages is that of Bibles, and tracts and small books come next with a gain of 1,598,850 pages. The larger works in hand are new editions of the two Abcarius' English-Arabic Dictionaries; editions of the hymn-books with and without notes; and a 5000 edition of the large First Font Reference Bible which will require the best part of two years to carry through the press.

Sixty-five per cent. of all the printing done was on account of the American Bible Society. Forty-five thousand seven hundred and forty-eight volumes have been bound and we have still to send out 14,000 volumes before existing orders are filled.

A 2000 edition of the Pocket Edition of the Psalms was called for before it came off the presses and another edition of 6000 is under way. The list of new books, revised books and reprints is a long one. A new 20 H. P. gas engine, given by a friend in Pennsylvania, is a great help.

While the First Font Plain Bible was going through the Press, not less than 1000 hours were given by Mr. Hoskins and Mr. Hourani to a careful re-reading and comparison of every one of the 1632 pages with the pages of the First Font Voweled and the First Font Reference Bibles.

It should be made a matter of record at this time that the First Font Plain Bible dated 1903 is by far the most correct issue we possess of the whole Bible. It contains the minimum of all vowel and other marks and is now the standard for all purposes in the Press.

The First Font Reference Bible is being set up and printed. This second edition is to be an edition of 5000 copies. This is the most difficult and laborious item of editing and proof-reading that has been undertaken by the Press for at least seventeen years, when Dr. Van Dyck gave almost his whole time and strength to the task of carrying the first and only edition through the Press. The page headings, the headings to chapters, the marginal notes and the references triple the ordinary task.

Dr. Hoskins truly writes:

In the matter of the Arabic Bible, which we hold as a trust for the whole Arabic-speaking world, we are in honor bound to give it the most intelligent and conscientious care that we as a Mission and as individuals are capable of. We owe this as a tribute to the mighty men who won this as an heritage for us and linked the name of the Syria Mission with the everlasting welfare of one-cighth of the human race; we owe it as a duty to the American Bible Society without whose generous and unfailing support the work could never have been accomplished; and we owe it finally to God in faithfulness to our calling and devotion to our church.

The Neshera has continued its excellent work, though the rigid censorship of the press in Turkey often makes an editor's task extremely difficult. But the missionaries have been careful to respect the law and have shown no small tact. The history of the suppressions, a list of the articles, phrases and words objected to by the censor would be—to use a saying of Horace Greeley's—"mighty interesting reading" to a European or American accustomed to a free press, but it would hardly be expedient to publish them in this report.

We again thankfully acknowledge the co-operation and financial aid to the whole missionary enterprise in Syria extended to us and through us to other workers by the Religious Tract Society, the Bible Lands' Missions Aid Society, the Children's Special Service Mission, and by individuals.

With the outbreak of violence in Beirut during August and September the world has become familiar. There were many incidents in connection with that time of tumult of an exceedingly trying character, and we can readily understand the strain that the missionaries and the Syrian Protestant Christians had to undergo. It is not easy to present this report without going quite fully into the causes of these disturbances; but it does not appear to be expedient to do so in this connection. Suffice that the ministers and members of the Syrian churches suffered not a little. It is not the least trying feature of missionary work in Syria that some of its most formidable obstacles cannot be wisely published in the United States, so that the missionaries are unable to receive that full measure of sympathetic co-operation from the Christian public at home that they deserve and that the missionaries of some other lands receive; as anything that is published by the Board that reflects upon the situation in Turkey is promptly sent to officials in the Turkish Empire, who are act to hold the missionaries responsible. We are glad to emphasize, however, the fact that during all those trying days our missionaries conducted themselves with marked discretion. They have always been careful to respect the lawfully constituted authorities of the land in which they live, and they have not laid themselves liable to any just complaint, although provocation has often been severe.

TRIPOLI STATION.

The sad event of the year was the visitation of cholera. It appeared first at Damascus, and reached Tripoli in July by way of Hamath and Hums. The number of deaths in the Tripoli field during the summer was not less than 10,000, of which about 4000 were in Hums, 1000 in Hamath, 2500 in Tripoli, 1000 in Akkar, and the remainder in the villages of Hums and Safita. It prevailed chiefly among the Moslems of the lower class. The Christians suffered less, and the Protestants least of all, only nine dving in the whole field. Connected with cholera and its numberless quarantines has been a general suspension of business and ordinary intercourse, causing great poverty and distress and an anxiety even harder to bear than actual physical need. Many have sold clothing and cooking utensils to buy provisions. Many have gone in debt for food and rent, and many have succumbed to the disease against which proper food would have fortified them. It is hardly necessary to add that the Protestant pastors showed at heart an equal courage and devotion. Each one remained at his post and did all in his power to relieve bodily wants and to administer the comforts of the Gospel. No words can be so affecting as some extracts from their letters:

The Tripoli pastor wrote: "I spent the day, after church service, in visiting the sick and needy, helping them and praying with them. God is very near to us and His promises have become real and true, I could wish for every friend of mine that he might receive what I have received in these days of the joy of service. When I help the needy, counsel the simple, strengthen feeble souls and sympathize with all, I have a sense of grace and peace so that I can go forward with firm

The Hums pastor wrote: "I ask you to pray for me; pray, pray, and not merely for the removal of the pestilence but especially for a spiritual awakening. Now is the time for it."

Sunday morning he left his father's bedside and went to the church and preached as usual, then returned to his father in time to see him die. The shops were closed and the streets deserted, save an occasional priest and those carrying the dead to burial. Every day the pastor heard of the death of friends and neighbors. So quickly did the disease work that frequently there was no report of sickness until the word came of death. The pastor adds: "As I write I know not whether I shall live to finish the letter, but I am not afraid to die. I prav that God would deepen in me and in all the lessons of this pestilence."

During the last six months of the year all plans for ordinary work were broken up. There was no meeting of the Presbytery. The missionaries could do little touring on account of the quarantines, almost every village having a cordon against every other. It was exceedingly difficult to direct the work in the out-stations, as there could be no personal communication. It was found necessary to postpone the opening of the two boarding schools in Tripoli. At the time appointed for opening, of the 130 girls not more than ten could have been assembled, and up to the present date these conditions are substantially unchanged.

Paul and his companions when the Spirit suffered them not to go into Bithynia went over into Macedonia. The Tripoli teachers went into Kura where three new schools were opened, one at Kusba and two at Bishmizzin. Mr. Judjus Khuri made his residence at Beterram and devotes himself to general evangelistic work in the Kura. Miss Hunting went to Fia, primarily for general evangelistic work and giving her attention also to these schools.

The Kura has always been regarded as an important and needy field; its doors wide open, and especially at the present time, as so many Tripolitans and patrons of our schools are residing there. We believe that the work thus Providentially given us will prove no less fruitful than the other work which we had planned.

To many of the Syrian brethren this has been not only the cholera year, but also a year of persecutions, notably those of Yazdiyeh and Fahaileh.

At Yazdiyeh Mr. Elias Makhul has been working with his usual diligence and fidelity. He preaches to large audiences, has women's meetings and evening gatherings, visits from house to house, talks with individuals and allows no one to escape. At the missionary's last visit 16 presented themselves as candidates for admission to the Church, of whom 6 were received at that time,

The village priest attempted to terrify the Protestants, entering their houses and taking away their goods; but, the matter having been brought to the notice of the Tripoli government by our consular agent, the priest was compelled to restore with shame what he had taken by violence. Then the Mukhtar of the village went to Safita and paid five Rmejidies to a lawless youth, a member of the leading family, who accordingly came to Yazdiyeh to settle the matter. On arriving, he ordered the people out and arranged them in a line before him; beginning with the first man, he ordered each in turn to curse the Protestants. If any one refused, he beat him. Some Protestants held out, and some yielded after being severely beaten. He ordered one to write him a note for 1500 piasters and said, "Go to the priest and bring a paper testifying that you have gone back to the Greek Church and I will give you back your note." The Protestant, however, remained firm. The Safita man met the pastor on the road between Yazdiyeh and Safita, and beat him severely and took away his watch. Shortly after, he did the same thing to the teacher. The Protestants generally were afraid to go to Safita or even to their own fields, lest they should meet this man and be beaten. By this time things had gone so far, and the outrages had become so conspicuous, that the Safita family became ashamed of their young man, and restrained him from further violence. At Fahaileh there has never been a paid teacher or preacher. The light came from other villages. Nine have been received to the Church, and one of their number, a farmer like the rest, is teacher and preacher. The Syriac bishop stirred up the matter and the Hums Governor sent for four of the Protestants, and asked them if they would return to the Syriac church. They refused and were put in prison. After a time they were released on bail, but not allowed to leave Hums, and at last they were allowed to return to their village.

Before closing the chapter on persecutions, we should mention Keram Saddeh, the Station in Lebanon among the Maronites, which was opened a year ago.

During the summer it became evident that the people had no proper appreciation of the teacher or the school, and the teacher and his wife on their part were unwilling to remain longer. It was therefore decided to close the school; but, before this decision was carried out, a notorious outlaw rode into the village, saying he had been sent by the Patriarch. He drove the children out of the school and ordered the teacher to leave the village at once. He put a cartridge in his gun and said to the teacher, "I have killed a good many men and I do not mind adding to the number." The teacher's wife was in ill-health, and was so greatly disturbed by this incident that it seemed necessary for them to leave at once. They went to the Kura and thence to Munjara, where she died of cholera. The Keram Saddeh people have sent a petition asking that the teacher be sent back, and it is hoped that the work has not come to an end, but may be hereafter renewed under better conditions.

The two missionary families summoned to Hadeth suffered less from persecution than ever before. Daily opportunities were found in social intercourse for presenting the Truth to the large and rapidly increasing number who are tired of priesteraft and superstition and want something better.

The Russians continue to advance their school work, and their competition encourages a mercenary spirit and stands in the way of self-support. In places occupied by them for some time, however, people have come to discriminate between their methods and ours, and are willing to pay for their children in our schools rather than have them educated by the Russians for nothing.

Emigration continues, and this year we have lost some of our best men among them, including several greatly needed elders.

Fourteen members of the Hums church have been dismissed to the Presbyterian Church at West Hoboken, N. J. At South Bethlehem, Penna., connected with the Presbyterian Church are 55 natives of Amar in the Tripoli field. Many of them have left their families in Amar, but they write to them regularly and send them money, and charge their wives to put the children in the school; and the result is a decided advance in intelligence and in comfort of living. There are now 72 children in the school, as against 15 to 20 in the old days, and all the 72 are anxious to learn English. In fact all over our field English is in demand, even in the simplest schools, and it is becoming more and more necessary that all of our teachers should know something at least of this language.

During the year 31 have been received to the churches on confession, of whom 9 were at Hums, 7 at Munjara, and 6 at Yazdiyeh and other places. It has not been a discouraging year, notwithstanding pestilence and persecution, and frustrated plans, and losses by emigration. Troubles have turned men's attention to the Gospel, and there is on the part of the church members a special desire and expectation of spiritual blessing.

Each church pays a part of the salary of its pastor, the amount varying according to the ability of the church. The Tripoli church pays 200 piasters a month, the Hums church 225, the Mahardeh church, 125, and other churches smaller amounts. Besides this, the churches pay part of the teachers' salaries, the largest amount being that paid at Hums, which is over 500 piasters a month. These payments are made direct to the pastors and teachers, and the Mission is in no way responsible should there be any deficiency. The churches appoint the teachers in their own schools, and fix salaries and tuition fees, and do all involved in the conduct of the school; for self-support includes the bearing of responsibility as well as the payment of money. The churches may help one another in case of deficiency on the part of any church—this has happened but twice in 13 years—but such help does not come from the mission or missionaries, and is wholly voluntary on the part of the churches.

There have been wholly self-supporting schools at Kefer Hazer, Beterram, Beiner, Safita and three at Hums. The Keram Saddeh school during a part of the year was supported wholly by the Tripoli church. One-half of the expenses of the Ferriofi school, and about one-half of the expenses of one of the Safita schools were borne by members of the Hums church.

The eight churches working together as a Presbytery have established a Home Mission work; a committee composed wholly of Syrians having been appointed to receive and disburse funds and direct the work. They have raised 9000 piasters and have had three Stations during the year—Jadaideh, near Hums, and Birshur and Keferram, lying to the west of Hums. Birshur is a center of evangelistic work, but the school was closed by the Government more than a year ago, and the school at Keferram was closed before the end of the year on account of the sickness of the teacher. In all this region, the Dahr and Sharki, there is only one church member at present, but it is truly a field white to harvest.

In the month of May one of the missionaries with a Syrian preacher visited distant villages. As soon as our arrival was known, a Mohammedan from a neighboring village came to see us. He had heard something of Christianity before, and was anxious to hear more. It was an ideal picture of missionary work. The native preacher sat on the floor, his Testament in his hand, and read and explained with glowing face. Before him this Moslem was kneeling and drinking in every word, and interrupting only for further explanation. "Mohammedans claim," he said, "that Christians have corrupted the Scriptures. Whether that be so or not, I know one thing—these words reach my heart."

We then walked to another village nearby, and finding that the men were away at work we went to a hilltop above the village and sat down. Presently the plowmen came from the hills, and throwing down the plows and turning their oxen loose, sat down with us on the ground. One of them said, "The thirsty ox goes straight to the water, and we want to hear God's word." So we read and talked and prayed with them there on the hilltop, and in the evening they came to the meeting in the village. There was also present a young man who walked two hours each way, expressly to attend this meeting.

A diligent, faithful man, willing to live among the people and devote himself to the simple preaching of the Gospel, is all that is wanted. In the endeavor to meet this want, the Hums church has organized a training class of five young men, selected from neighboring villages, who are to spend the winter in Hums in study, chiefly of the Bible. This is purely a native movement, and all the expenses and all the instructions are provided for by the Hums church.

The dispensary has been closed since April 1, when Dr. Harris sailed for the United States. His assistant, Mr. Fakhuri, has given cheerful service wherever needed in teaching and as pastor of the church in Tripoli. The Bible woman, Miss Zarnurrand Faris, is teaching and doing evangelistic work in Gharzuz, her native village.

Women's meetings have been conducted by Mrs. Nelson and by the Misses LaGrange and Hunting in the city, and by Mrs. March at the Mina. An interesting feature this year is the attendance of some of the better class, who do not come in the hope of receiving pecuniary aid.

LEBANON STATION.

Mr. Hardin has been engaged as usual with the work at Suk el Gharb, which comprises superintending and teaching in the Boys' Boarding School and the oversight of the dayschools and churches in that vicinity. Mrs. Hardin assists with the teaching and holds meetings for women. Mrs. Bird and Miss Bird work together in Abeih and vicinity among the women and girls, organizing some of them into a sewing circle and freely teaching them the Bible. Together they were responsible for the oversight of the preaching and teaching at Abeih until the latter part of August Miss Bird was disabled and compelled to go to the hospital in Beirut for treatment. Mrs. Bird has since that time continued the work alone. Mrs. Dale has been engaged in work in Beirut Station at the Female Seminary. Mr. Jessup has been occupied with work centering about Zahleh, which comprises preaching in pulpits in many districts, the supervision and examination of day-schools, the oversight of several church parishes, and the work of Station in general. Mr. Doolittle apon his arrival at his post in Zahleh has been engaged in supervising and examining schools, in preaching in many towns throughout the field, and in overseeing the repairs of Mission property.

Mrs. Doolittle and Mrs. Jessup have been engaged in work for the women and girls of Zahleh, holding meetings and visiting the people in their homes, keeping open house for all who come, and striving together in prayer for the hearts of the people. Dr. Carslaw, who superintends the Shweir Boys' Boarding School, is intimately connected with the members of the Station in the work of that district. He is supported by friends in Scotland. He teaches daily in the school, superintends the adjacent schools, and is the ordained pastor of Shweir Church and parish.

There are 249 boys in attendance at the two boarding schools. There are day schools in 27 towns, and recently work has been resumed in eight new places. We now have a total of 46 day-schools, with an enrollment of 2490 pupils. There are seven organized churches to be cared for. In order to meet with all the 690 communicants, the Lord's Supper must be administered in 33 places. Through our evangelistic and educational forces work is conducted in at least 43 different towns in our territory.

The average Sunday-school congregation throughout the Station is about 1800. There are 34 Sunday-schools, with an attendance of over 2200. In the day-schools and two boarding schools we employ 64 school teachers. There are 17 licensed preachers on the roll, and at present but one ordained pastor. Thirty-one were added to the membership of the churches upon confession of faith and one by letter. Baptisms number 33 in all the churches.

The new Syrian pastor of the Zahleh church has won his way to the hearts of the people. He is of the last theological class and his grandfather was a Greek priest. A graduate of Abeih Seminary, with his wife, who was trained at the British Syrian Institution, is now entrusted with the work at this important outpost of Ras Baalbeek, where with God's blessing, we trust the work will now prosper and hearts be won to Christ.

In the city of Zahleh the religious exercises have been well attended. The Sunday morning service has improved considerably in attendance. The Women's C. E. Society has an average attendance of 30. The Sunday-school is attended by from 175 to 200 children. The Men's C. E. service has already improved in attendance since the arrival of the new preacher, and we expect a revival of its spirit and Christian endeavor. Each week prayer-meetings are held in three different parts of the city. The Women's Sewing Society meets to work for the poor and averages 45 members. It meets at a different house each time and has thus become widely known. Over 80 women attended during the year either as visitors or members. These contributed over 700 piasters. The materials bought with this sum were sewed into 101 garments. Each meeting was closed with a Bible lesson, a hymn and prayer.

Every fortnight the Sunshine League of children of the church meets at the manse. The 21 members commit a list of Scripture verses for each meeting. They also support a child in the boarding school, making her clothes for her, raising at least one pound by their own effort and receiving help on the scholarship from another children's band in America.

We are again greatly indebted to the American Bible Society for help in the distribution of Bibles. People are demanding the Bible more and more. Examinations showed that faithful work had been done in most of the schools. On the day that the missionary from Zahleh examined the school in Qobb Elias there were 75 cases of smallpox in town. The boys were well taught.

In Qoroun during the winter the schools were injured by the rival Russian school. Our native preacher who teaches there persevered, however, and now he has a good school, while his wife, who has been trained for teaching by the British Syrian Mission, is succeeding with the girls' school work.

Persecution .--

On the same Sunday that witnessed the riots in Beirut, a Greek Catholic priest entered our school in Suyhbeen, where the people were gathered for morning service. A few of the school children were present among the adults. The priest attacked them with a heavy cane, and drove them from the place. At the same time he abused those who were present and cursed the religion that we teach in our schools. A second attack has since then been made by a man named Sulayman Salim of Sughbeen on our school there. He repeated the proceedings of the priest and drove the children from the school. In Zahleh one of our Protestants has had 100 of the vines in his vineyard cut down. In Jeditha one Protestant has had his vineyard cut down, and another has had his mulberry trees spoiled by enemies. In not one case has justice been meted out to the offenders. In Rishmaya a determined attempt was made recently to break up the school and preaching in the village. Men invaded the school premises and threatened violence to the preacher. The ringleader was the abbot of the neighboring convent. No one was found who dared to testify against this violent representative of the Maronite Church Militant. "The benefit of the clergy" means much in this land, which in this respect marches with the Middle Ages. At Deir el Komar the preaching and teaching have been more than usually successful.

In Baakleen we are teaching nearly 200 Douze children in our schools. In Abeih, Muallim Amin Fahd, whom Mr. William Bird befriended years ago when a poor orphan and helped through his education and theological course, has shown commendable zeal in keeping up the services as well as in visiting the people, especially the sick, and has increased the attendance on church services. The Sundayschool attendance has at times reached 160. The 17 day-schools have been well attended. At the communion service in the spring a girl from a Papal Greek family in Abeih united with the church. The Abeih women and girls belonging to the Sewing Society, with an attendance varying from 30 to 40, made 45 garments, 14 of them dresses, and gave them away to poor children and aged women. They felt amply repaid by the pleasure they were thus able to give, and by the smiles they brought to the sad and wizened faces of the poor. A class of 10 or more older girls from the day-school sewed patchwork sent from America, putting the proceeds into the church mite box. On alternate weeks Bible readings were held by invitation at different homes. The women who could join in the reading did so and all joined in repeating memory verses of Scripture at the close.

In the spring Miss Bird went to six villages, where she visited the people and conducted Bible readings. Mrs. Bird reports having spent a most gratifying day in Deir el Komar, visiting the schools and in meeting friends. Through neighborhood meetings in Abeih on week nights some heard the truth who would not come to church. Forty of such meetings were held during the past winter. Rev. Sueed Jereiding spent three weeks in Abeih and gave the people some stirring preaching at their evening meetings.

At Suk el Gharb church the services were well attended. The summer congregations were large and included many summer visitors. Many of these are not Protestants, but at this mountain resort get their first idea of evangelical religion. The preacher is an able man, well fitted for such a responsible position. Suk School boys with the people of the village crowd the building to its fullest capacity during term time, forming a most interesting audience. The women's meeting has been kept up as usual. Ten united with the church during the year.

At Shemlan there is always an attentive audience, made up largely by the pupils of the Girls' Boarding School, which is ably conducted by Miss Harrison of the British Syrian Mission. Shweifat has large boarding and day schools for boys and girls, the pupils of which form the largest part of the attendance on the various religious services in town. Deir Kubil shows renewed interest in school matters. They pay 2000 piasters towards the teacher's salary and provide rooms for the school and for the teacher.

The people of Upper Wady Shehroon have also shown considerable interest in the same direction. They paid down ten Napoleons and provide good rooms for our school and teacher at a further expense of five Napoleons. We have never had anything like this from a Maronite village in the past. It indicates a new spirit of progress.

At Shweir Dr. and Mrs. Carslaw have had both joy and sorrow mixed in their cup for the past year, their beloved son being taken away by death. The Shweir Boys' Boarding School has had a year of faithful work. The number of boarders in the school after Easter holidays was 25, the number of lodgers 21, the number of day scholars 22, making a total of 68 students. Dr. Carslaw's account for the session of 1902-03 for the Boarding Department, exclusive of salaries is: receipts from boarders, 22,457; from lodgers, 2735; from day scholars, 1741; making a total receipt of 26,933. The total expenses for Boarding Department were 23,868, leaving a surplus of 3065 piasters.

The session of 1903-04 promises to be one of the best in the history of the school. This, the Doctor modestly says, is due to the tact and firmness of the headmasters, Mr. Murad Saleeby, B.A., and Mr. Raschid Raad, B.A. The present attendance is 82 boys. The Shweir church in the past year has lost 10 by deaths and removals, leaving 33 on the roll. The collections from January 4 to November 22 were 1319 ps. Of this 520 ps. were spent on church porch, 616 on repairs and charity, leaving 182 ps. cash balance.

One result of the riots at Beirut was the spreading of wild rumors of a second uprising of Moslems in the near future. The fear of sending children to Beirut caused a falling off in the demand for schools in that city. Some boys were partly through their term of quarantine at Meraijalt and were compelled by their frightened parents to come home again. Some of the girls going to the Sidon Seminary and others going to the British Syrian Mission Institution were sent to quarantine in charge of a woman chaperon, who saw them safely through the five days' term at Meraijalt.

There were four periods of cholera during the year and Lebanon Station was cut in two by a line of soldiers making a cordon against the infected district of Damascus. There were 8 months and 6 days of quarantine cordon in the region in the last 12 months. It can easily be seen that the movements of the missionaries stationed at Zahleh have been greatly hampered and that but little touring has been possible. At the times when the cordon was removed it was unsafe to leave home over night lest on returning the missionary should find a new cordon shutting him out. It was from Hums that Baalbec received it. There it became a veritable scourge and hundreds died in a town of only a few thousand inhabitants. At first the news of cholera frightened people far and near. Now they have become accustomed to it. The people of Zahleh were brought to such actual suffering and want by that cordon that kept them from their gardens that they could endure it no longer. In a few hours of exciting activity, they broke up the cordon that kept them from their gardens by beating the soldiers, stamping on their flags and tearing their tents to tatters.

SIDON STATION.

As the year 1902 was closing, the life of beloved Mrs. Ford was ebbing away. In two days more she would have completed fifty-five years from the day she sailed from Boston with her honored husband, the Rev. J. Edwards Ford. There is but one other missionary now living, Mrs. C. V. A. Van Dyck, who was in Syria when Mrs. Ford arrived, March 8, 1848. Her life was full of active work for the Master, and she won in a remarkable degree the loving confidence of all who knew her.

Rev. William K. Eddy returned in June, accompanied by Mrs. Eddy, who had been absent about two years. In December, Dr. Samuel Jessup returned, after a six months' trip. He was accompanied by Miss Ottora M. Horne, who came to Syria to begin her foreign missionary life. Miss C. M. Brown left in June on furlough. Dr. Ford was compelled by ill-health to be absent in Europe during the summer. Mrs. Wood also was absent during the summer for the same reason. She found much benefit in the change and rest. She has not only been doing excellent work in the class room of the Institute, but has looked after the pupils as if they were her own children. Her influence over them for good is great and lasting.

During the spring Dr. Mary P. Eddy made valuable tours in Belad, Beshara and Bussa, and also the Lebanon region. The poor people welcome these visits with great enthusiasm, and they are an invaluable adjunct to the work of the missionaries.

All the out-station work has been much hampered by quarantines. In the majority of cases these cordons have been chiefly money-grabbing affairs. Those who could pay were clean. Those who could not or would not were "dangerous characters." Dirty coins were the usual disinfectants. For nearly a year the missionaries have been kept from visiting Mejdel and Ain Kunyeh, but the pastor at Nasbeeyah, being in the same district, has been able to visit them quite regularly. All other places have been visited by missionaries, and the ordinances of the churches have been regularly administered. The cholera visited but one of our outposts, 1bl, where our Protestant community escaped, with one exception. It prevailed in several villages a few hours distant from Sidon. We have special cause for gratitude that the pestilence did not actually visit the city.

The religious services in Sidon continue to be held in Assembly Hall instead of the church, which is far too small, and have been usually well attended. The large and prosperous Sunday-school is conducted by Mr. Erdman. Since Mrs. Eddy's return she has taken the women's meetings that Mrs. Ford had so long kept up, and she is encouraged by the good thus done to go on with them. A Home Missionary Society has been formed that has undertaken the expense of the school at Sanleheyeh, where the negro graduate of the Institute is teaching most acceptably. The society not only supplies the salary of the teacher, but sends its members three miles on Sunday to conduct religious services, taking with them two or three of the older pupils. The women are also going out Sundays to the neighboring towns to hold meetings for women, and are thus doing great good.

A Bible Society was formed as the result of Presbytery's suggestion. Offerings were sent by the churches to the Sidon treasurer. Scriptures were purchased and distributed in many parts of the country to the needy people who long for the book they cannot afford to buy. Both these societies are purely native and are supported and managed by Syrians. Work of this kind is an indication of the way the Gospel has taken hold of the people.

We are in straits for lack of teachers. Several places are vacant, and there are many new applications for schools with an offer of one or two dollars on each pupil if we will supply the teacher and manage the school. In the early spring a group of Maronite villagers in Belad Beshara, east of Tyre, sent us urgent petitions to open evangelistic schools for their boys and their girls also. They have long been at variance with their bishop, who lives far away at the seat of the Lebanon Government. At length the Bishop visited them with great pomp, followed by a large retinue, and promised them all their demands if they would unite with him in driving Protestantism out of the district, and especially out of Dibl. His visit to this town was made the same day that the missionary arrived. The object was to force the "headman," a Protestant, back to their sect when, they said, "All the rest would be easy prey." The missionary, Dr. Jessup, stayed at the headman's house as usual when in Dibl. The chief people of all that district poured into town, notwithstanding there was small-pox in almost every house. The most influential man of them all was quartered on our headman. He was in consternation when he found the missionary there ahead of him in full possession, where he had to sit through the Protestant service after having eaten dinner and taken tea with the missionary. The whole effort was an ignominous failure, for the Protestants stood firm in spite of bribes and threats alternately made. Now they are moving again for Protestants schools, By another year we hope the Institute will be able to supply these needs.

Gerard Institute.—On account of the ill-health of Dr. Ford, Gerard Institute has been largely under the care of Dr. Samuel Jessup, ably assisted by his son.

The spirit of earnestness among the teachers and scholars, and especially a growing spirit of inquiry and interest in religious matters among the pupils so early in the school year, lead us to hope that this spiritual awakening may be the beginning of a rich harvest for the Master. We were fortunate in having no cases of serious illness this past year. Nor were there any cases of discipline requiring severe measures. The year has been an even and smooth one, with a spirit of hard work among the boys.

The completion of the new west wing to "Beula Home" (the orphanage) has given a large storeroom underneath, besides two class rooms and two teachers' bedrooms, all of which were much needed. The cost of the addition was $1300, taken from the special fund so generously donated by Mrs. Wood for the purpose. A new method of normal training was tried with the graduating class, which contains six students. Each student is required to teach a certain amount of time in the day-school, and besides to attend regularly the lower classes of the Institute. The plan seems to be working well at present, the stimulus to the teachers themselves being the most noticeable feature up to date.

The trades have been and still are one of our chief causes of anxiety. The difficulty of securing suitable foremen has so far proved almost insurmountable. An effort has been made to keep a closer watch on the work done. In each department there is one man set apart to teach the boys, whose salary, paid by the Institute, does not enter into the profit and loss account of the department. All the shops are now run on the same plan, by which the net profits left, after a certain fixed monthly guarantee has been paid to the foreman, are divided between him and the Institute. In the tailoring and shoemaking department there has been a small profit.

The carpenter shop shows a loss of 4429 piasters ($158). Having thoroughly overhauled the department and placed an active and efficient man in charge of the workmen, there are strong grounds for expecting the department to show a profit at the close of the fiscal year. The total cost of the three departments has been: carpentering 8029 ps., shoemaking 1777 and tailoring 1320, a total of 11,126 ps. ($397). This is more than covered by the special fund for "Instruction in Trades."

Sales have been—carpentering 92,437 ps., tailoring 52,768, shoemaking 49,173, a total of 194,378, or $6942. The total fees paid by students this year are 82,126 ps. as against 80,729 received last year. There are boarders in Sidon 89, in Dares Salaam 24, in the Orphans 24, half boarders and lodgers 16, day pupils in boarding department 38, total 191, in the Institute proper; besides 50 in the primary day-schools. A grand total of 241. Of the 153 full boarders, the sects are represented as follows: Protestants 86, Orthodox Greeks 27, Papal 21, Maronites 11, Druses 5, Moslems 2, Musaerceych 1, a total of 153.

As Gerard Institute is primarily meant for the training of native helpers and teachers, it will be interesting to note how it has been doing its part since it was founded twenty-one years ago.

Of the 1019 students who have attended the Institute up to the year 1902, incomplete returns show 164 men have taught in mission schools for periods ranging from 1 to 14 years, an average of nearly 8 teachers a year. Of the 130 male native helpers now employed by the Mission, 47 received their training in whole or part at Gerard (Sidon), 28 at Sukel Gharbe, 16 at Old Abeih Academy, 6 at Shweir, 23 at the college, and 14 at other mission schools and 10 had no academic training. Of the 35 native preachers in Syria Mission, there are 6 who received no academic training. Of the remaining 29, 10 were from Old Abeih Academy, 10 from Gerard Institute, 4 from Sukel Gharbe, 3 from the college and 2 at other mission schools.

This is the record of one of the youngest of our mission schools, and when this record is considered, the confidence does not seem unreasonable that Gerard Institute may be able to continue to do good work for the cause of the Master in this land which we so dearly love.

Sidon Seminary for Girls.—In May a class of four girls received their diplomas. A few days before the commencement the priests announced that any of their members accepting the invitation to be present at the exercises would be excommunicated. Nevertheless, the Assembly Hall was crowded, not a few risking the fulfillment of the edict of the priests rather than miss the commencement. The class was above the average in ability. All of them are true Christans and Protestant church members. One is at her home near Abeih, soon to be the wife of one of our preachers; one is employed in teaching at Neadeth; another is teaching near Sidon. The fourth has come to Sidon Seminary to take the place of a teacher who has gone to Egypt to teach.

There are 16 new girls, in addition to the 32 that returned, making 48 boarders. The necessity of turning away many Protestant girls from our own field, some of them well prepared and ready to pay part or full fees, are very grievous to those in charge. We note an increased regularity in the attendance of day pupils, and no decrease in the total enrollment since the increased fees for tuition are collected.

In the common day-schools, good work is done among the little ones. Now and then there are brought to our notice little incidents that show that the seed sown in the hearts of the children is not without fruit. One bowed her head before a meal, and being asked why she did it replied that she was asking that there might be food enough for all, and then said, "Why don't we all pray to God before eating as the Protestants do?" On hearing this, the Moslem friends of her parents urged her removal from the school lest she become a Protestant. Who can measure the increase even from so small a deed save He who giveth it? A mother came to call on us, bringing two little girls, both pupils in the day-school. With evident pride she had them recite various hymns and Bible-texts which they had been taught in the school. This woman comes in to prayers occasionally and seems to be interested.

The assistance rendered by Mrs. Eddy in the Sunday evening meetings with the girls in the work of the missionary society, and in various other ways, is very valuable to the Seminary. Of the money now in the treasury of the missionary society it has been voted to donate 100 piasters ($35.71) toward the support of a Bible woman in this field. A contribution is also sent to a poor invalid at Judeideh, and the balance is given to Mrs. Eddy's Dorcas Society.

Of seven who applied for church membership three were received. Number of boarders, 48; day pupils in Boarding Department, 25; day pupils in Primary Department, 63; total, 136. Number of church members among the boarders, 10; number of towns represented, 18; number of sects represented, 6—Protestants 41, Orthodox Greeks 24, Papal Greeks 33, Maronites 16, Moslems 16, Metwales 6, total 136

Tuition fees received, 16,388 piasters ($585).

The meeting of the Presbytery was an unusually pleasant and harmonious occasion, with a delightful spiritual atmosphere.

One day the entire Presbytery held its sessions at Jamalecyeh, a mile and a half distant. There being neither tables nor chairs in the town, we all sat down on the floor. The hospitality tendered was most refreshing, but a whole day of squatting on the floor was trying to stiff rheumatic backs and knees. Even our stated clerk, a tall native pastor, complained at the lack of a table, ever so low, for his books and papers.

At Mughdushy there has been a steady growth against continued opposition. The Sheikh of the town has resorted to extreme measures. Various snares and stratagems have been laid and much damage done to individuals. At the same time the church membership has been increased, 6 more having joined the church at the late communions. The school has been well attended, having from 40 to 70 pupils. The room used as church is filled full of attentive hearers at every service. The governor has finally appointed a Protestant Mukhteer (select man) so that the Protestants have at least a standing in the courts, when necessary, and their man has a voice in the assessment of the taxes.

At Bussa, affairs are never at peace. In the spring, when one missionary was there, two people were shot, said to be "accidentally."

A graduate of the last class, Mr. D. Ashkar, has now gone there. He has just written entreating that we make special prayer for him and for the persecuted flock, that they may walk humbly before God and win souls to Christ. In the regions near Bussa, and round about Safed and towards Dibl, Miss M. T. M. Ford has been, as heretofore, an indefatigable worker, traveling much, and suffering many things in trials by muleteers and villagers and vermin and thieves. She had made a rude camp, and was winning her way among the people, but one night a thief stole her entire wardrobe. She has sent four boys to Gerard Institute at her own charges, and assists in the support of some of our workers

The number of churches and schools in the Station continues the same—12 and 24 respectively. The number of pupils in the schools is 1532; 9 were added to the church during 9 months.

MISSION TO THE CHINESE AND JAPAN-ESE IN THE UNITED STATES.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.: Mission began 1852. Missionaries—Rev. I. M. Condit, D.D., and Mrs. Condit, Rev. J. H. Laughlin and Mrs. Laughlin.

JAPANESE: Missionaries-E. A. Sturge, M.D., and Mrs. Sturge.

PORTLAND, OREGON:

Los Angeles, Cal.: Missionaries—Chinese minister to be supplied.

Woman's Occidental Board, San Francisco: Miss D. M. Cameron, Superintendent.

NEW YORK CITY: Rev. Huie Kin, Superintendent.

ON FURLOUGH: In Japan—Dr. E. A. Sturge and Mrs. Sturge. In China--Miss D. M. Cameron.

The celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of Missions to Chinese on the Pacific Coast was the event of the year. In 1852 the inception of a plan for reaching the Chinese in California was undertaken by the Board in the sending out of Rev. Dr. William Speer. But it was not until the following year, 1853, that definite steps were taken by the erection of a mission building. The story of the early beginning, and of the workers "who built better than they knew," has been told in an attractive pamphlet.

But we desire to magnify the enthusiasm and harmony of spirit with which Christian men and women carried out the details of the beautiful and substantial improvements on the church property, renovating it from basement to roof. No repairs of great expense had been made upon the building for more than twenty years, although it had been occupied as a church for more than twenty years before it was purchased by the Board. Seven hundred and fifty dollars was contributed by the Chinese, and spent in cleaning, frescoing and painting the auditorium, renovating the roof, and painting the exterior of the church. The address of Dr. Halsey, the review of the years by the missionaries, the fraternal greetings from delegates of sister Missions, of the Occidental Board, and of representatives from the Japanese and American Churches, were all testimonials to the success of the halfcentury of effort.

The year closed has been a most successful one in the number of conversions. Twenty-six men and women have been enrolled in San Francisco and in the various Stations where our native preachers have held regular services. Five of these had been baptized in the San Francisco church in infancy, and had grown up in the Sunday-school. Two women with families, received by letter, were refined, cultured women, who had received their Chinese education in schools in China. Seven infants had been baptized. The family character of the Mission is noticeable, and is a growing factor in the work.

The ten years of faithful work in the Circle of King's Daughters has borne encouraging fruit. Forty women are now enrolled as members. Through them we reach a large number of individuals in the Chinese quarter, who are sympathetic because of the social entertainment which always follows the religious program. The officers of the Circle are all Chinese women, with Mrs. Condit as Directress.

The men's meetings are well attended. The C. E. Societies, the missionary and Y. M. C. A. meetings are always helpful. In the Y. M. C. A. meetings pupils from the Sunday-school often astonish us by their carefully prepared and earnest talks when leading the meeting.

There have been difficulties and dark days; but not more than were necessary to strengthen the faith of the missionaries and develop strong character in the native Christians. The foundations are strong, and we believe the years to come will more and more ripen into a harvest of saved souls.

After a missionary service exceptional not only in length but in usefulness and honor, Dr. and Mrs. Condit have felt obliged by the pressure of advancing years to turn over the superintendence of the Mission to the Rev. J. H. Laughlin, so well known in connection with the West Shantung Mission, China. Dr. and Mrs. Condit will continue to reside in Oakland and will render such service as their health will permit to the cause they so much love. They have not ended their work, but merely lightened it by transferring the burden of leadership to young hands. Mr. Laughlin has been selected by the Board for this responsible task in the conviction that he has high qualifications for it.

OUT-STATIONS.—The work among the Chinese in several other cities of California has been cared for by local churches and friends without expense to the Board. Much taithful and self-sacrificing labor has been done. The work at these out-stations has generally been successful throughout the year.

LOS ANGELES.—Since the return of the Rev. William P. Chalfant to China, the mission work here has been under the care of the Rev. J. H. Stewart, D.D., pending the selection of a competent Chinese preacher. Dr. Stewart has been faithful in his oversight, and his sympathetic labors have been greatly appreciated by the Chinese.

WOMAN'S OCCIDENTAL BOARD.

Many Chinese girls are snatched from evil surroundings by Miss Cameron, the intrepid young superintendent in the Mission Home. Eighty of these shipwrecked lives have been sheltered in the Mission the last twelve months. Many more known to the workers have gone far out of sight of the life-saving station at 920 Sacramento Street, but believing that "the Lord reigneth," the workers know that in good time all will be brought back. Many have been helped to return to China, and restored to friends and family in their native land.

Ten marriages have taken place in the Mission this year, and there is every reason to believe that ten good Christian homes have been founded to mould future lives of nativeborn Chinese in America. Several hundred such homes dot the Coast from north to south, and shine out like stars in the Chinese work. The health of the large family in the Mission has been extremely good, only two deaths having occurred since our last report, one of an operation, the other of an abandoned baby that Miss Cameron found in the Chinese dispensary.

After long years of service, Miss Cameron is to take a furlough. How she can be spared is a problem, but a rest is imperative. Characteristically, however, she will spend her furlough in a visit to China.

EDUCATIONAL.—Home School.—A temporary change in the Home School has put Miss Maude Pratt in charge. Six years of teaching has prepared this normal school graduate to do most exceilent work. In addition to graded classes in English, eight hours each week are given to religious and secular study in Chinese, under native Christian teachers.

The Chinese Kindergarten is giving children outside the Home a thorough course in kindergarten work, with Christian training. Number enrolled, 30; daily attendance, 22; boys, 16: girls, 14. Miss Ames, teacher.

Occidental School.—This school is for children who cannot attend either of the other classes. It is full of pupils that come from families from the very heart of Chinatown, many from heathen homes, that get no Christian training beyond what is given them here. The influence for good that goes out from this little class is incomparable. Many of the finest young men in the Oriental quarter have begun their education and received their inspiration within these four walls. Number enrolled, 27; daily attendance, 20; boys, 19; girls, 8. Miss Jessie Carruthers, teacher.

EVANGELISTIC HOUSE-TO-HOUSE WORK IN CHINATOWN.—Visits by the Chinese Bible reader, Mrs. Wing, are made every day of the week except Saturday and Sunday. Almost all the Chinese women sew for their daily bread; a few have some leisure time, and are glad to be taught how to read, and where several such women are in one house Mrs. Wing gets them together and with her teaching reads them a story from the Bible. The visitor enters into their troubles in daily life, and is with them when they are sick and dying. Were it not for these visits many of these women would never know Jesus. Many have bound feet and seldom leave their dark rooms. Idol worship is growing less from year to year, and foot binding among the children is less each year, and the unbinding of feet is quite common.

Several of the women during the last year have expressed a wish to become Christians. The children are going gradually into the Sunday-school and to the Occidental primary school; and the more these strangers come in contact with Christian people the more their faces brighten, their homes become cleaner, and they show that the visits and teaching are not in vain. The Bible woman's report shows the following figures: Homes visited, 260; rooms, 395; women, 500;

PORTLAND STATION.

The past year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of the Mission. It has been difficult for us to find room for the men who have sought instruction. Not only has the night-school been full, but it has been compelled to keep the rooms open all day for the use of young men who wish to study English. Sixty students have been taught by 19 teachers. As usual, the teachers are paid by the students, except $1 a month paid by the Mission.

The Young Men's Society is doing well and proves a stepping-stone to the church. The church services, Sundayschool, midweek prayer meeting and two Bible classes have been continued without intermission, and good interest is shown. The dispensary work has been maintained. The dayschool for children has been discontinued, as the Baptist Church decided to open a school and employed a lady missionary expressly for it.

Nine have joined the church and others are thoughtful. Money was raised by the Mission as follows: For the Mission, $615; Foreign Board, $26.60; miscellaneous, $124.75, a total of $766.35. This is exclusive of subscriptions from American friends.

NEW YORK.

The Chinese work in New York, under the auspices of a committee of the Presbytery, has continued its work on the same lines as in former years and with many blessed results. Five services are held each Sunday. An evening school is held every Monday. Every afternoon, private instruction is given to students who are striving to educate themselves. The men are regularly visited in their laundries, and every effort is made to build them up in Christian faith. The total attendance of the Sunday-school has been 4320, with an average of 81. There are 226 members on the roll. Eight men have been baptized. Ten others have renounced their idolatry and placed themselves under special instruction of the Gospel. One man in the hospital expressed his faith in Christ and died a saved man. Students are continuing in schools and universities and preparing for work.

Our Christian boys continue to support three Christian dayschools in China, one of which is taught by one of our former students, Jung Fay. The school has contributed to various objects at home and abroad $479.17. This shows generosity on the part of the school, but it is hoped that this next year the amount contributed by the Chinese will be greatly increased through instruction in systematic giving.

We regard the work of the year as remarkably successful through the devotion of Rev. Kin Huie and his wife and the corps of able teachers.

THE JAPANESE WORK.

We have five Mission Stations for the Japanese in California: two in San Francisco, one in Los Angeles, and two in the farming district near Monterey Bay. Two different classes of Japanese are coming to the Pacific Coast. Those who remain in the large cities are mostly students who have come to this country for the purpose of getting an education. The Missions in San Francisco and Los Angeles reach only this educated class. About a hundred Japanese families and several hundred young men are engaged in agricultural pursuits in the neighborhood of Watsonville. A similar colony is to be found at Salinas, and, in order to reach this class, Missions have been established in both of these towns. The present membership of the five Missions is 350. These are not all professed Christians, but all are interested and are assisting in the work. The sum granted by the Board to these five Missions for the present fiscal year is $4385. About twice this sum is required to carry on the work, but the Japanese themselves are bearing fully one-half of the burden.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The largest and most successful work for the Japanese is in San Francisco. It was started eighteen years ago, and at the present time 378 young people, nearly all of the influential student class, have been received into the Japanese Presbyterian church connected with it. This is an average of 21 per year, but during the past year 29 were added to the church, and all, with a single exception, upon confession of faith. Five were women. This is very unusual, as few Japanese women have as yet found their way to the United States. Of those received into the church, 16 were from the Haight Street Mission and 13 from the Branch Mission Home. The chapel has on several occasions proved too small to accommodate those who would attend services, and an effort will be made during the coming year to enlarge the place of worship, the Japanese promising to bear one-half the expense.

LOS ANGELES.—The Los Angeles Mission is but a little over a year old, but in the work already accomplished and in the prospect of future usefulness it occupies a place next to that of San Francisco. This Mission, which began with 15, now has over 50 members, and the Mission House has not been large enough to accommodate those who desired to enter. The members are now seeking for a larger building. Eight members of this Mission Home have received baptism during the year. One is the only son of a Shinto priest, but the young man, after much earnest thought and prayer, has decided to devote his life to the preaching of the Gospel. The Los Angeles Mission is at present under the care of Rev. K. Hagiwara.

SALINAS AND WATSONVILLE.—The work in the country seems less encouraging than that in the cities. Two Japanese were recently baptized by Rev. J. K. Inazawa in Salinas, but none during the year in Watsonville, although there have been some conversions. Some of those deeply interested have removed to another part of the State, and one received baptism in Southern California. The members of the Watsonville Mission purchased last spring property for a new Mission home, costing $2400, pledging themselves to pay one-half of this sum during the present fiscal year, and the balance as soon as possible, without asking any help from the Board. Considerable street preaching has been done in the Chinese quarter connected with Salinas, Watsonville and Los Angeles.

NATURE OF THE WORK.—Each of the five Missions above mentioned has a comfortable Mission home where young men of good character may obtain lodging and board at very reasonable rates. No drinking or smoking is permitted in any of these homes. An effort is made to surround the inmates with pure and helpful influences. Day and evening educational classes are conducted in all the Missions, and frequent religious services are held to develop the spiritual nature. To help these strangers from Japan physically, mentally and spiritually, to build up character, and to send these young men back to their own land, there to strengthen the cause of the Master, has been the purpose of the work on the Pacific Coast. Earnest Christian women in Los Angeles and Watsonville have given much valuable time to the teaching of Japanese in the Missions, receiving little or no compensation for their services.

MISSION IN GUATEMALA.

GUATEMALA CITY: 60 miles from the seaport of San Jose; occupied 1882. Missionaries—Rev. Walker E. McBath and Rev. and Mrs. William B. Allison. Out-station: San Augustin.

QUEZALTENANGO: 125 miles northwest from Guatemala City; occupied 1898.

At the time of the publication of the last Annual Report, Guatemala Mission had been left without any missionaries whatever. In the fall of 1903, however, the Rev. Walker E. McBath, who had just been graduated from Princeton Seminary, and the Rev. and Mrs. William B. Allison, who had been working for some years in the Church at Bement, Ill., went out to take charge of the work. Mr. McBath and Mr. and Mrs. Allison have shown themselves admirably suited for the difficult task of carrying on the work of the Mission without the assistance of any older missionaries. Although having to give their time largely to language study, the new missionaries have diligently carried on the work in Guatemala City, and there have been some additions to the Church. The financial conditions are not satisfactory. Mr. Allison writes in reply to an inquiry as to the cost of various articles:

The peso here has no settled value. One week it may be thirteen to one, and a few weeks later seventeen to one, as has been the case only recently.

Perhaps the best way in which to give you an adequate idea of the cost of living is to quote you the cost of things in gold. Kerosene costs 50 cents per gallon. Flour. $2.25-$2.50 per fifty lbs. Potatoes. $2-$2.50 per bushel. Tea, $1.25 per pound. Cocoa, 75 cents (same size can as we get in the United States for 25 cents). The new coffee, such as we must buy here, does not make a good drink. We pay to cents for same size loaf of bread as we get in the United States for five. Lamps are more than twice as expensive. Wood or any kind of fuel costs about one-half more than in the United States. Oatmeal costs more than three times as much as in the home land. Butter now costs 45 cents per pound, and milk 8-10 cents a quart. Meat about same as city prices in the United States, but is of very inferior quality. Ham costs 50-60 cents per pound. Native salt is almost useless, and imported salt costs about four times as much as in the United States. The smaller vegetables which are purchased fresh in market each day are about same as at home.

Mr. McBath has taken up with special interest the work at Quezaltenango and writes of this and another out-station as follows:

Quezaltenango.—The mission work at this place was interrupted by the severe earthquake of April 18, 1902, which almost destroyed the city. This disaster was followed in October of that year by the eruption of the neighboring volcano, Santa Maria. Though the volcano is still active, the people began to return to the city last year, and it is now being rebuilt, and promises to hold its place as the second city of the Republic. No church had been organized there, but the adherents of our Mission, in the absence of any missionary, rented a large room in the central part of the city and began to hold prayer meetings and take advantage of the occasional visits of colporteurs of the Bible Societies. After several appeals from them for a regular pastor, we were able to send to that place one of our native pastors, who is now on the field with his family and reports a great deal of interest on the part of the congregation there.

Retalhuleu.—Forty miles south of Quezaltenango, population 15,-000. Accepted as out-station January 1, 1904. Last fall a colporteur of the British and Foreign Bible Society stopped for a few weeks in this town and began to preach and sell Bibles, and as he found a large number of the people ready to hear the Word he rented a room and began to hold regular services. The police—Catholics, of course at once tried to stop it, but he had his regular passports and they could not hold him on any charge. The work grew rapidly, and he wrote to us that the Gospel was taking a deep hold on those who heard, and that they had set a day for it and had burned their images and pictures. By some unfortunate oversight they had failed to comply with a police regulation, seldom enforced, requiring them to give notice in advance of any intended public meeting, and one night the police came to the house and put them all in jail. The women and children were kept in jail, and the men put to work on the street with the convicts, and in addition to this the colporteur and the woman in whose house the meeting was being held were given fifty lashes with a whip. Mr. Penzotti, the agent of the American Bible Society, who resides in Guatemala City, at once began to take measures for their release, and after eighteen days, having made two trips to Retalhuleu in their interest, he succeeded in having them set free by paying half their fines. The colporteur, Abelino Velasquez, who is a member of our church in Guatemala City, returned there and began to make preparations at once to go back with his family to Retalhuleu. On his return there he found the believers eager for a regular work, and as the Bible Society being entirely interdenominational goes not allow any of its representatives to appear as the head of a Mission, we were requested to accept it as a part of our work, though it is still ministered to by the colporteur, with the approval of his society.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER OF THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS.

The books of the Foreign Board were closed Saturday evening. April 30, with a deficiency of $40,690.39. For six years the Board had been free from debt. While a debt is to be regretted. be it large or small, it is to be hoped that in this instance it may prove to be a call to our great Church to meet the emergency and make a fresh start to a more loval and enthusiastic support of the work. The deficiency reported is not due to extravagance or unwise expenditure. The successes on the field have demanded every cent of the large appropriations, the largest in the history of the Board, and amounting to the magnificent sum of $1,161,893.89. Of this amount $59,961.72 was appropriated for the salaries, outfit and expenses of new missionaries. while $116,719.63 was appropriated for new buildings, including those for the Shantung College at Wei Hsien, the Severance Hospital at Seoul, and the completion of the restored compounds at Peking, Paotingfu and Wei Hsien. More new missionaries were sent out than during any other year in the history of the Board.

The receipts from living sources, an increase all along the line, give cause for encouragement and hope, the increase from churches alone being $17,327.64; from individual and miscellaneous sources, $12,066.21; from the Sabbath-schools, $3873.97. The only falling off has been from legacies, and that amounted to $45,310.64, a sum in excess of the deficiency. A substantial gain was reported from the Synods of Baltimore, California, Colorado, Minnesota, Missouri, New York and Ohio. A falling off was reported from the Synods of Illinois and Pennsylvania.

The number of individuals contributing direct to the Board was 858, an increase of 205 over the preceding year.

The per capita amount received through congregational offerings was THIRTY-FOUR AND ONE-THIRD CENTS.

The per capita amount received from all sources, excepting legacies, was Eighty-six and one-tenth cents.

A tabulated statement is herewith given; showing the number and amounts of individual contributions; the amounts received from churches, by Synods, with the amount given last year, the number of contributing and non-contributing churches, and the per capita gift; the amounts received from Sabbath-schools, by Synods, with the amount given last year, the number of contributing and non-contributing schools, and the per capita gift.

April	300,388 48

As the monthly expenditure was nearly $96,000, it is evident that the financing of the work for a very large part of the year was a difficult task.

THE SHANGHAI PRESS.

A picture of the new Shanghai Press, with dwellings for the employees and residence of the Superintendent, will be found facing page 55. The cost of this plant was approximately $30,000, and it is expected that the entire amount will ultimately be refunded to the Board from the annual earnings of the Press.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BUILDING.

The operating account of the Presbyterian Building will be found in Schedule 8, of this Report. The profit from operating the building (the share of this Board) was, for the year ending December 31, 1903, $14,325.62, and for the four months ending April 30, 1904, $5,153.89 The mortgage indebtedness on the one-half interest of the Board of Foreign Missions, which was originally $500,000, is now $70,000, and there is $7400.36 in hand, applicable to the further reduction of the mortgage.

The accumulated profits from operating this building are nearly sufficient to wipe out the total deficit of the operating account of the first years of occupancy, and taking this account, together with the surplus rentals of sundry other real estate (which have been held as a reserve against the Presbyterian Building Operating Deficit), there was sufficient to eliminate the deficit and carry into the current receipts for the year, as income from real estate, the sum of $853.12, as shown in Schedule 2.

In December, 1903, the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions were notified that the dwelling house, No. 5 West Twentieth street, immediately adjoining the west side of the Presbyterian Building, would be sold. It was evident to the two Boards that the purchase of the property was an imperative necessity, as a tall building erected on that side of the Mission House would shut out the light from the westerly wing, and reduce the income of the building about $10,000 per annum. Aside from preserving the westerly light, the purchase appealed to the Boards as a good investment of the Boards' funds. The property was purchased and transferred to the two Boards, January 15, 1904.

This purchase resulted in the permanent investment of $36,674.66 of the Board's Funds, and a corresponding amount has been transferred from the General Reserve Fund to the Board's Funds invested in the Presbyterian Building and the Twentieth Street property, as the former account represents the Board's reserve in the form of current assets and should naturally be reduced when any of these assets are converted into a permanent investment.

The transactions relating to the Board's General Reserve Fund during the past year are as follows:

Balance May 1st, 1903, per last year's report	$88,449	78
Reimbursement of deficit from operating Real Estate, formerly deducted from this account	. 13,002	43
	$101,452	21
Amounts transferred to permanent investment of Board's Reserve Funds as follows:
Cost of 5 West Twentieth Street$36,674 66
Improvements to Presbyterian Building 1,100 00
Total amount transferred	37,774	66
Balance of General Reserve Fund April 30th 1904 Sched 1	$63,677	55

This transfer does not affect or change the total amount of the Board's Reserve Fund, but it does change the amount applicable for current purposes as distinctive for that permanently invested. The account to which this amount was transferred is as follows:

DUARD'S FUNDS INVESTED IN FRESBITERIAN DUILD	ING, ETC	j.
Balance May 1st, 1903, as per last year's report '	$191,832	53
Amount transferred from General Reserve Fund as shown

Balance April 30th, 1904, as per present report, Sched. 1... $229,607 19

EXPENSES.

An analysis of the expenses of the year will be found in Schedule 5 of this Report. The percentages of disbursements in New York to the total sum received are as follows:

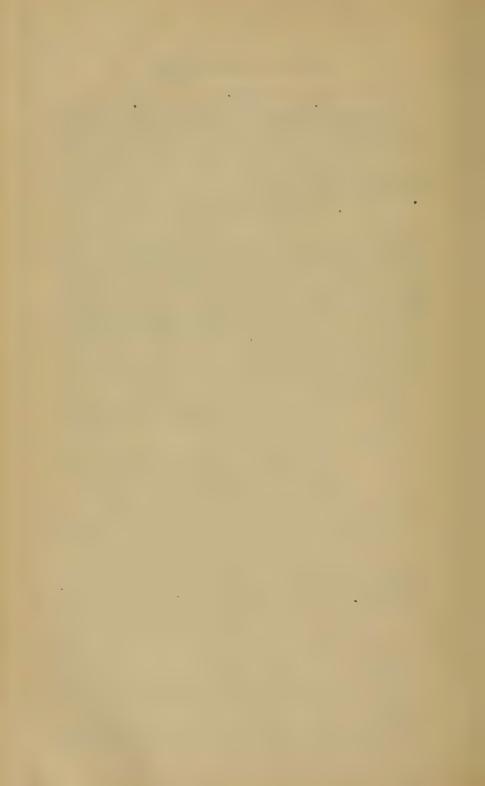

Administrative expense	4.56	per cent.
Disbursements not administrative	1.47	+ 6
Disbursements directed by General Assembly	.72	66
•	6.74	66

The increase in expenses has been due chiefly to the much larger demand for the literature of the Board. During the past year there have been issued, under the supervision of Dr. Halsey, five Bulletins. These have contained fresh information from the field and have been widely distributed. There has also been an increased demand for the Christmas and Easter Services prepared for the churches and Sabbath-schools. A total of 1,100,000 leaflets has been distributed.

The certificate of the Board's auditors, Messrs. Patterson, Teele & Dennis, will be found on the following page.

Hon. Darwin R. James, Chairman Finance Committee, The Board of Foreign Missions, New York.

SIR :-

We have examined the accounts and vouchers of the Treasurer of your Board for the year ending April 30, 1904, and have verified the Balance Sheet published herewith, which in our opinion presents the correct financial condition of the Board.

All moneys received have been properly accounted for. The statements of disbursements by Field Treasurers for the fiscal year just closed have not been received in New York at this date, and the deficit shown in the Balance Sheet is subject to change, according as the expenditures have been more or less than the appropriations for the past year.

Cash and securities have been verified either by actual count or evidences of deposit, and we believe the margin of safety between the book value and market value of securities is ample.

Respectfully submitted,

PATTERSON, TEELE & DENNIS,

Certified Public Accountants.
